California Tin Mines.

Discoveries of tin have from time to time been made in the Southern part of California, notably in the Temescal Range of mountains about thirty miles from Riverside, and close to the San Bernardino county lines. The first of any note was made in 1860 and caused considerable excitement. The tin found was pronounced of good quality and was said to exist in large quantities. It came principally from what is known as the Cajalca mine. A fuller examination of the lode was not satisfactory, the evidences being that it was not of any great extent. The increased demand for tin on this coast and the high prices maintained have been the means of again directing attention to the tin lodes of Southern California, with more satisfactory results. One reason of previous disappointment was due to the finding of a dark- colored glossular garnet, quite common in the Temescal region, the crystals of which resemble the tin ores of Cornwall. Cornish and Australian miners have been frequently deceived by this mineral. A party of them that had worked in the Australian tin mines and who were passing through San Francisco, visited the Temescal Range. On seeing a dark-colored stone in the river beds, they immediately said that stream tin existed there in large quantities. They were, however, mistaken. Although closely resembling in appearance the stream-tin of New South Wales, the Temescal specimens contained no tin at all. There is no stream tin in the Temescal mines as far as known, but it has been determined that there are considerable quantities of tin ore in lodes.

A peculiarity of the ore is that it does not look like tin ore. Clever assayers have been frequently deceived by it. That fact will be recognized by one of the most prominent mineralogists and assayers of this city. Some years ago some of the ore was forwarded East for assay. The person to whom it was sent, well competent to judge of tin ore, returned the specimens saying that the sender of them must have made some mistake, that those sent was not tin ore, and could not possibly contain tin. They were again sent to him with the request to assay them, and not to mind whether they had the appearance of tin or not. He did so, and changed his opinion. Following upon this a company was formed to work them. A sufficient amount of capital was subscribed by the shareholders to make further investigation. When prepared to go seriously to work the Company found that there was a difficulty in the way of obtaining a perfect title to the land. It formed part of one of the old original Spanish grants, with a floating title, and it was decided to abandon all further enterprise until the title to it was definitely obtained. In the opinion of some persons this fact has been determined, but not to the entire satisfaction of capitalists. It is still before Judge Sawyer of the United States Circuit Court in this city. A letter received at the State Mining Bureau of California states that when a clear and settled title to the land in which the mines are situated can be obtained, all the money necessary to work and develop them will be immediately forthcoming. The prospects of obtaining such a title are said to be promising.

The samples of tin ore obtained from the Temescal district gave thirty per cent of oxide of tin under assay. If ore assaying that percentage exists in large quantities the value of the mines could hardly be overestimated. The sole matter of doubt appears to be the extent of the deposits. Investigations have never been pushed sufficiently far to determine that point. Experience in respects to the deposits in other counties teaches that wherever tin has been found in one locality it has led to the discovery of other deposits in the neighborhood.

An important point is to know how to prospect for it. A simple and good way is to pulverize the ore in a mortar or any other vessel that will answer the purpose. Then wash it out in a pan or a horn spoon in the same way gold is prospected for. Dry the residue in the sun. Then again pulverize as finely as possible. Fuse it with cyanide of potassium or charcoal before a blow pipe, and if the ore contains any deposit a button of metallic tin will be obtained. The miner will in coure of time become familiar with the appearance of ore containing tin and will be able to pronounce upon it at sight in the same way as would an expert Cornish miner. A peculiarity in tin mines, as was shown in the celebrated Dolcoath mine, is that they may at first be worked as a tin and then as a copper mine, copper deposits underlying the tin ore and finally at greater depth as a tin mine again.

One cause why so little has been done to determine the extent and value of the tin ore deposits of Temescal is due to a prejudice arising from a misconception of the existing geological relations of the Pacific Coast. The ore has been judged at the Cornwall standard, and failing to correspond with the English ore in appearance, has been condemned. Tin ore yielding thirty per cent of oxide of tin under assay, will give ninety-five per cent under concentration, equal to about seventy-five per cent of pure tin. There are over five hundred tin claims located in the Temescal Range. Of this number thirty-three are known to contain tin, but only one, the Cajalca, has been opened.—S. F. Bulletin.

ALL arguments in favor of a dog law have failed to have perceptible effect upon the Legislature of Georgia, and until lately this fact has justly been a cause for wonderment, since it is admitted that were it not for the plethora of dogs, sheep-raising would become marvellously profitable in that State. The problem has just been solved, however, by the dog-show at Atlanta. The results of that exhibition convince the reader of the fact that an ordinary, bobtailed, brindle cur, whose pedigree can be traced down a lane and across a pasture, is worth more than twenty common sheep; while a pointer with the ability to forage around and bring home a chicken occasionally, is of inestimable value; and a setter that "sets" in the backyard and howls at the moon, is worth more than the Sunday breastpin of a hotel clerk. The dogs in that show were valued at more than all the sheep in Georgia. One canine family sold for enough to buy an improved farm of 500 acres and 1,250 sheep. A man with two liver-colored pointers and a bench-legged whiffett, is a millionaire, while even a colored citizen with a single barelled shot-gun and a bobtailed mongrel, has property with a market value of over $500. "And so," say the Georgia papers, "we are very proud of the dog show. It has opened our eyes to new possibilities of wealth. We want to see the day come when every man will be his own millionaire; and if the prices of dogs are kept up to the present standard, that day will soon arrive."

RECENTLY, says an exchange, a Nevada man invented a lying machine, and went around trying to sell 'em. The machine was warranted to trot out a first-class lie on any subject, at a moment's notice. But it didn't sell well. He took it to an editor. Said the editor: "Come, you get out of this. I tell the truth in my business." The inventor presented it to a lawyer, but he also looked horror-stricken and offended. A fishing party looked hankeringly at it, but their language was to the effect that they abhorred untruth. At last the disheartened inventor tried a mining superintendent, who flew mad in a minute. "You scoundrel," he cried, "do you mean to insult me?" "No," tremblingly answered the man. "Then what in blazes do you mean by offering me that thing?" "Why I—I thought you might occasionally want to use it in your business." "You wretch, what do you take me for?" "Oh, sir, I didn't mean to insinuate that you were a liar! I don't for a minute think, sir, you could tell a lie." "That's it!" cried the superintendent; "that's what I'm mad about. You conceited ass, you think you're able to invent a machine that I can't lie all around, and that without an effort. I never was so insulted in all my life! "Get!" And he immediately set to work writing his weekly reports.

AN incident illustrating the manner in which the Sultan pays his debts comes from Constantinople. A native artist who had studied in the best schools in Western Europe was ordered to execute two paintings for his Sovereign. They were delivered in due course, and graciously acknowledged—in words, not money. To refresh the Sultan's memory the artist, after a time, sent his master another picture, and subsequently still another, both of which were received with flattering expressions, but neither of which was paid for. Finally the unfortunate painter, through a friend at Court, conveyed a delicate hint to the Sultan that money was sometimes desirable as well as praise. Upon this the Sultan sent for him and conferred upon him the post of Director of the Museum of Antiquities at Stamboul. The salary was only 15 liras a month, but Abdul Hamid raised it to 50. The Sultan got the pictures he wanted, and bankrupt Turkey pays the bill.

A WIDOW who works in a shop at Bridgeport, Conn., recently received the insurance on her husband's life. Safe investments are not found in every corner, but the widow knew what she wanted and how to get it. She offerred an inducement of $50, cash down, and a gold watch and chain for a husband, whom she secured and married the same day. Before long she will be giving the rest of the money to some lawyer to procure her a divorce.

Treating Complex Auriferous Ores.

A new chemical process in use has for its object the extraction of gold and silver from ores of a refractory character, such as tellurides, pyrites, arsenical pyrites, etc., which can only be partially treated by the ordinary methods of extraction. In the new system the ore is first crushed and roasted, and these processes were shown in operation by means of the Beaumont steam stamp, which works direct, and is similar in action to a steam hammer, and an ordinary reverberatory furnace. The ore is then placed in a stone tank, and there subjected to a nitro-dydrochloric solvent. The liquid solution is drawn off into a settling tank, where the gold is precipitated as a fine powder. This powder is then placed in an ordinary crucible and melted down into gold bar. Should there be any silver present it is obtained by washing the residual ore, precipitating and melting down the product as in the case of the gold. The chief point is that about ninety per cent of the acid is recovered after use, otherwise the process would prove too expensive, as has been the case previously when tried in practice. It is claimed that by this process the whole of the gold and silver is extracted from the ore, however refractory it may be. This is, in fact, done by ordinary analysis by the wet process, which, however, involves the loss of the acid. By means of the new process the same acid is used over and over again. — London Times.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Boston Journal asserts that the first knowledge which this country had of the existence of such a thing as circular saws was obtained about the year 1817, when a Boston merchant received by mistake in his order a consignment from England of several dozen of them. No one knew what to do with the strange tools, and they were stored for some time in his warehouse. Finally a Worcester manufacturer saw them, comprehended their use, and introduced them into his own establishment.

THE Marquis of Bute published a daily paper in Wales a couple of years, and retired from the business poorer by some £80,000. But he had lots of fun and the dickens knows how many boxes of patent medicine and $30 orders for inferior melodians and worthless sewing machines, taken in exchange for advertising — the holder to pay the full value of the machines in cash.—Norristown Herald.

DR. SIEMENS has finished a second electric railway near Berlin. The new line, connecting Charlottenburg with Spandau, was recently subjected to a trial which established its success. The distance was accomplished in remarkably short time, and without the least interruption.

RIGHT or wrong, the opponents of compulsory vacinnation in England are in earnest. More than a quarter of a million of tracts and other publications have been issued and circulated by the London Society during the past twelve months.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 7.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

AN International Geographical Congress was recently held at Vienna to consider some plan by which the civilized world should be brought to the determination of a common prime meridian, and a systen of universal time reckoning. The Congress resolved that "the unification of initial meridians of reference for computing longitude, is of great importance in the interests of geography and navigation," and that "the selection of a zero meridian for the world would greatly promote the general cause of uniformity and exactness in time reckoning." To this end the Governments of different countries are invited to consider the proposition to hold another conference at some future period, the date of May, 1883, being suggested. It is suggested, also, that the Congress be held at Washington. The Italian Government was requested to communicate the resolution adopted at the Venetian Congress to the Governments of all other countries. The sixth resolution appoints an Executive Committee, composed of eminent American and Canadian scientists, to make arrangements for the proposed meeting.

A NEW YORK paper says: Here is the murderer of President Garfield—using his place while on trial as a pedestal for the gratification of his vanity and a forum for the proclamation of his blackguard malice—and there has been a terrible threat that he shall be put in the criminal dock! The loud-mouthed, leering, grinning, bloody ghastly scoundrel is stuffed with Christmas dinner, and has two breakfasts per day and a body guard, and each day the so called trial is protracted there are chances that the machinery of the imbecile court will fall in pieces through the sickness of a juryman. Is that the way to discourage vicious dead-beats from shooting the highest and best men of the nation in the back for celebrity?

THE Peruvian situation is practically this: The republic has a recognized debt of $250,000,000 and a paper currency circulation amounting to $35,000,000. It has a mixed population, composed very largely of Indians, numbering in all a little over 2,500,000, most of whom are poor and ignorant. And on the top of this recognized debt, of over $100 to every inhabitant, is now laid the heavy war indemnity of Chili. It is easy to calculate the chances which the Peruvian Company, with a constructed claim of $900,000,000, and the Landrau claimants, with a partially recognized but unadjusted suit for $125,000,000, have of securing a very large amount of whatever assets Peru may possess.

THE San Francisco Call favors us with a copy of their holiday work "California As It Is." It is a handsome 175-page book, with a beautifully illuminated cover. It contains exhaustive articles descriptive of every county in the State—the one concerning Inyo being from the pen of the Hon. S. P. Moffatt, which was reprinted in this paper some two years ago. The Call map of the State is attached — alone worth double the 50 cents asked for the book. So far as this section of the country is shown it is the nearest correct of any map published.

DOES education pay? can be asked by certain San Francisco people. The Board of Education of that right enterprising city has reduced the salary of school teachers to one dollar per day. Laborers on the wharf receive $1 50 per day. Education must be at a great discount at the Bay. Robbing educators of the young to enrich city hall and street contractors is poor political economy.

GOLD coin in use loses one five-hundredth of its value a year by handling. That makes a loss of over two thousand dollars in every million. The banks of the East keep the coin in sacks of $5,000 each, and are weighing and handling it constantly. Every time it is poured out on the counter or moved around it loses weight. That is quite an argument in favor of paper money.

JUDGE LYNCH has some work to perform in Kentucky and the sooner he gets at it the better. Three human beasts have made confessions of a crime committed that is too horrible to appear true. That such men are of woman born seems doubtful.

DIRECTOR BURCHARD of the United States Mint, estimates that at the close of the fiscal year there will be in circulation $440,000,000 in gold, and $171,000,000 in silver coin.

JOHN MACKAY, it is stated, contemplates a trip to Egypt. John is getting to be as great a traveler as Livingston.

A STRANGE DOCTRINE.

Some time ago the San Francisco Chronicle charged that the Bulletin and Call, of that city, had been sold to the Central Pacific Railroad Company. Mr. Fitch, one of the proprietors of the Bulletin and Call, brought a suit against Mr. De Young charging him with libel. Judge Allen, of the Supreme Court has sustained the demurrer of the defendant on the ground that "a newspaper has a right to sell its columns, and that it is no more libelous to charge a journalist with selling his newspaper than it is to accuse a merchant of selling his wares." If this be good law — which we very much doubt — it certainly is not good sense. A newspaper assumes to be an advocator of the people's interests, and a guardian of their rights. A newspaper asks the people to beleive that what it says is from honest conviction, and to accuse a newspaper of having sold its columns is to accuse it of being a bribed hypocrite. To falsely call a man a hypocrite and bribe taker is certainly libelous, and we see no reason why it should not be so in the case of a newspaper. It is as disgraceful and dishonest for a newspaper to sell its columns, as for a Judge to sell its decisions or a legislator to sell his vote. No doubt there are newspapers which take bribes—just as there are judges and legislators who take bribes—but that the taking of bribes is not dishonorable, is a doctrine that was left for Judge Allen to lay down.

THE discovery of a deserted city, cut out of the rocky face of a winding cliff, rewarded the efforts of the Stevenson-Smithsonian Institution exploring party during its researches in New Mexico and Arizona during the past season. This is by far the most important find yet made among the ancient haunts of the Cliff Dwellers. Some of the houses contain four or five dwellings, one on the top of the other, and on the plateau, above the cliff, were many ruins of temples of worship, built of well cut square stones. A comparison of the collections of pottery and implements gathered in the cliff houses by the exploring party, with those obtained in the Pueblo Valley villages strengthens the theory that the Pueblo Indians are the degenerate descendants of the once powerful race that built the ruined cities of the plains, and then, retreating before some more warlike foe, carved out these singular dwellings on the sheer walls of dizzy precipices, and found in them, it may be for centuries, both fortresses and homes. Perhaps the hieroglyphic inscriptions seen by Mr. Stevenson will one day be deciphered, and be found to contain the tragic history of the wasting away by wars and famines of this illfated people, who made the rocks their refuge.

AT a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held December 30th at San Francisco relative to the survey of the Alaskan coast, the meeting was advised by Prof. George Davidson of the United States Coast and Geological Survey, who has visited Alaska several times, that the survey of that region would be of great commercial importance to the Pacific Coast. The Chamber of Commerce unanimously adopted a resolution asking Congress to make a sufficient appropriation to continue and complete the survey of Alaska with reference to its varied resources.

THE wonder in the way of suspension bridges in America, of course, is the structure over East River, connecting New York and Brooklyn. It is 3,475 feet long between the anchorages, with a clear span of 1,595 feet, the bottom chord being 135 feet above the water. It was designed by Roebling and is now nearing completion, at a cost of about $15,000,000. The roadway, eighty-five feet wide, is sustained by four galvanized cast steel wire cables, sixteen inches in diameter, having a strength of 160,000 pounds per square inch of section.

THE Alexander mine at Grantsville, Nye County, Nevada, has been sold to Ferdinand Van Seandt for an Eastern company for $676,000. The money was paid down in one check. An assessment on the stock has been rescinded and a dividend of $2 per share declared, payable immediately at the office in San Francisco. The total of this dividend is $400,000 and is reserved in the treasury after the payment of the company's debts.

AT a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held in San Francisco, December 30, Light read from Senator Miller, in reply to a circular sent him by the Chamber, respecting the insufficiency of our border defense on the Pacific Coast. Senator Miller said in his letter that the matter of border defenses on this coast should receive his earliest attention and hearty support.

MARK TWAIN, at the dinner of the New England Society of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, advised the assembled members to put an end to the yearly gatherings and sell Plymouth Rock at auction, or let it out to the patent-medicine men. The Pilgrims he considered as a hard lot, as they took good care of themselves and abolished everybody else's ancestors. The choice bit of his speech, however, was this definition of himself: "I am a border ruffian from the banner State of Missouri; I am a Connecticut Yankee by adoption. In me you have Missouri morals, Connecticut culture; this, gentlemen, is the combination which makes the perfect man." He forgot to mention the influence of Virginia City. This, no doubt, gave him the hankering after coin, which has led to his making of so many books and selling them at subscription rates.

THE Los Angeles Times has recently devoted several articles to the wonderful machine of an Arizonian for working dry diggings. The machine is made on the principle that any metal, except gold, will find the surface when placed in quicksilver. The sand, containing fine gold, is shoveled into a hopper, and by means of a blower run by horse power is blown into a pot filled with quicksilver. The gold will remain in the pot, while the sand will pour out in a steady stream. It is estimated that the machine will run through from twenty to thirty tons of sand a day, and that each ton will yield from $5 to $14. This sounds well, but with the recollection of the disastrous dry washings near Yuma, it is not safe to put too much reliance upon the new machine for making a fortune.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE. — This work for 1882 is before us, and those who send 10 cents to James Vick, Rochester, N. Y., for it, will be disappointed. Instead of getting a cheap thing, as the price would seem to indicate, they will receive a very handsome work of 130 pages, and perhaps 1,000 illustrations—not cheap, but elegant illustrations, on the very best of calendered paper, and as a set off to the whole, two beautiful colored plates that are worth twice the price of the book.

JUDGE HORRIGAN, of the Criminal Court of Memphis, Tenn., thinks that entirely too free use of firearms is made in that city against human life, and has issued an order directing the Sheriff to visit the hotel keepers of the city, and demand of them all the pistols and unlawful weapons deposited with them by guests. The Judge says that the weapons so obtained will be held and impounded as evidences of crime.

THE expenses of the Guiteau trial are estimated at from $200,000 to $300,000. Porter and Davidge probably get $25,000 each, and the stenograher from $10,000 to $15,000. There will be about two hundred witnesses and two hundred and fifty experts. The witnesses' fees and mileage are estimated at from $30,000 to $50,000.

Through Air to the Pole.

Commander Cheyne, R. N., F. R. G. S., and Lieut. Schwatka, the former representing England and the latter America, propose, if $80,000 can be raised to pay expenses, to sail from New York in June next for the purpose of penetrating to a point in the extreme north, and from there reach the pole in balloons. The scheme is backed by a party of English scientists who are interested in Arctic explorations, and it is expected that the wealthy men of the New World will be induced to pay their share of the enterprise. Commander Cheyne has outlined the plans of the sea and air voyagers, and it will be best understood in his own language. Whether the scheme be practicable or not, an account of it will be found as entertaining as any Jules Verne has ever written. "We propose," said the Commander in speaking to a reporter from the New York Mail and Express, "to go by way of Davis' Strait, Baffin's Bay and Smith's Sound to St. Patrick's Bay, where there is a splendid bed of coal. This will be the destination of our ship, which, by-the-way, will be called the Grinnell. The Grinnell will be chartered to take a party of seventeen men and officers besides three Esquimau. On arriving at St. Patrick's Bay, which is distant only 495 miles from the Pole and easy of access, the Grinnell will land the complement of twenty persons, Esquimau dogs, a steam launch, small boats, sledges, three large and several small balloons, stores, etc., besides a portable house to be placed on the coals. Our Winter quarters will be situated in latitude 81-44 and longitude 64. The Grinnell after discharging her cargo will return to New York, leaving the explorers with the appliances before mentioned to reveal the mysteries of the realms beyond them, and, after the completion of that work, to return to the Danish settlements of either Upernavik or Disco, from which places whalers may frequently be found returning southward."

HOW THE BALLOONS WILL BE USED.

"How do you propose using your balloons?" asked the writer, to which question the Commander responded with alacrity. "Perfect safeguards for ballooning have been organized. A permanent wooden observatory will be erected at the permanent Winter's headquarters. Two snow observatories will be built at a distance of fifty feet from each other—north and south. At each of the three a party of three observers will be stationed. The three observatories will be connected by telegraph wires. Simultaneous meteorological hourly observations will be taken at these three points, commanding a range of 1,000 miles north and south. I shall be at the central observatory projecting the defections of the wind curves, as they occur hourly. This practice will continue two months at least before the intended time for starting the balloons, which will be June, 1883—the mean temperature being then 32 deg. fah. in the shade—the sun shining night and day, giving extra warmth. This warmth is increased at an elevation of 500 to 1,000 feet, which will be the normal elevation of the balloons during the passage."

"Will you kindly give a partial description of your balloons?"

"The balloons will be made of a double envelope of best silk interlined with gold-beaters' skin. Each of the three large air vessels will be capable of lifting two tons and will be provided with three persons, esquimau dogs, small sledges and boat with provisions for fifty-one days. Each balloon will have a trail rope to keep it at its organized elevation. The advantage of this trail rope is the great saving of gas, for when the gas is expended by a little extra heat from the sun the balloon tries to rise but is prevented by taking more weight of the rope from the ice; and, contra, a cloud passing before the sun and condensing the gas inclines the balloon to fall, but as a consequence it deposits more of the rope on the ice, thus lessening the weight and tending to keep the balloon in equilibrium. In case of accident to a trail rope the lower part may be immediately disconnected. A fine telegraph wire 520 miles in length, weighing about 300 pounds, will rapidly roll off as the balloon sails along, and we shall, by a mechanical appliance, the construction of which is a secret, keep up constant telegraphic communication with our Winter headquarters. Besides, the wire can be used as a log wire.

A SHORT TRIP.

"How will you depend upon the wind taking you to the Pole?"

"The continued simultaneous observations taken at the three observatories will enable me to estimate the diameters of the different wind circles, and I shall have calculated with accuracy the course of the wind curve upon which I start with my three balloons, and I confidently expect to arrive within ten miles of the Pole in from eight to twenty-four hours after leaving Winter headquarters."

"How do you expect to make the return trip?" "Allowing for the escape of gas beyond what ought to be expected, two baloons could be re-inflated from the third, leaving the empty one behind. The return will be made in the two baloons, or the ice may be such that we can return with our dog-sledges and boats. You will see that the dangers of Arctic explorations are greatly lessened by the balloon system. There are many things yet to be done. I am about to start for Canada, where I shall see Sir John McDonald, who is also interested in the undertaking."

JAMES COCHRAN was before the Superior Court on Wednesday morning, to receive sentence for murder in the second degree, in killing officer Mitchell, at Kernville. The sentence imposed by the Court was thirty-six years in the State Prison. Cochran is a man of about 40 years of age, and with all credits that he may obtain for good behaviour, etc., he can hardly expect to be released from his confinement in less than twenty-five years, at which time he will be an infirm old man. The lesson which he has learned is very severe on him, and we hope that others may profit by his experience. They may understand that it is no small matter to kill an officer in the discharge of his duties. Mob violence is to be regretted at all times, and when the life of an officer must be taken to accomplish the ends of the mob, such action can but be condemned by the better part of our people. We hope that this sentence may have good effect on those who would act hastily, and show that in the discharge of his duties an officer can expect and will receive protection. —Kern Co. Gazette.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 7.....1882

Inyo Consolidated — Superintendent's Official Report.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT,
Inyo Con. Mining & Milling Co.,
Surprise Cañon, Inyo Co., Cal.
PANAMINT, Jan. 2, 1882.

To the President of Inyo Con. M. & M. Co., Dr. J. H, Mott, 58 Broadway, N. Y.: DEAR SIR—The mill has continued to run steadily since my last, with good results, and the ores running fully as high as I estimated. Including what I have already shipped for month of January, 1882, I expect it to be very near $40,000 for the month. Am now running through my low grade ore, reserving the rich for last of run.

Our Eureka mine still continues to develop fine, with every prospect of making a large and extensive body of rich ore. At present I am milling ores from this mine which average $150 per ton.

All of the other mines continue to look well at all points. Yours, truly,

THOMAS B. PHEBY,
Supt.

Under date of Jan. 3 an old-time INDEPENDENT correspondent, who has turned up at Panamint, sends the following notes: "Bill Johnson, the old jokist of Cerro Gordo, is here and now at his old business behind the counter; he is handling a good $10,000-stock of goods, belonging to Messrs. Pheby & Pinney. The store looks now as it did in the good old days gone by, when the old Company were operating here. Martin Mee is here and has made arrangements to have 30 or 40 tons of ore worked by Mr. Pheby. It is high grade ore from the Magnet mine, which is owned by Mee & Russell, and which looks well. Martin contemplates putting a force of men on the Cliff mine, where he is also interested, and which shows a large body of high grade ore. There are plenty of miners and mill men here—those who want and get work by the day, but not enough of those who could find it to their advantage to work and mine out ore for themselves, men who could by being industrious make over their regular $4 per day. I have no doubt but that good men can make $5 per day chloriding, as there is an abundance of good producing mines laying idle. Hemlock and Wyoming are turning out good as usual, with a force of twenty men employed. The company has two wood trains running, with about 400 cords of wood at mill. Al. Robinson is the boss packer; he packed the freight from mouth of cañon to the store; also, 100 tons of salt for the mill. The weather is the finest you ever saw: don't expect any Winter here. There is not a woman in camp." H.

WAUCOBA. — Mr. W. L. Fuller, who has lately been doing considerable work for New York parties on some of the mines in Waucoba District which formerly belonged to Bierstadt, Major Egbert, Dr. White and others, was in town yesterday. Mr. F. is highly pleased with the properties, with the abundance of ore, wood and water, and says that the only convenience lacking is a road across the summit of the Inyos and from thence down to the mines. On the Summit mine a shaft has been sunk 25 feet, showing a ledge four feet wide and an ore vein of two feet, which assays $125, $300 and $400 per ton. This is silver ore, free milling, and the ledge crops out for 600 feet, in a lime and slate formation. Some ten tons of ore is on the dump. The Wyandotte is argentiferous galena, averaging 34 ounces per ton silver. It is opened by a tunnel 18 feet long, and shows 1½ feet of solid ore; there are 15 tons out on the dump. The Blanca, a silver ledge about the same as the Summit mine, has a shaft 22 feet in depth, showing ore which assays $66 and $124 per ton, with about 12 tons out. These locations are situate on the east side of the Inyo range, about 15 miles north of Beveridge and 20 miles southwest from Deep Spring Valley. Mr. Fuller is expecting orders to go on with work.

TO RETURN.—Supt. Holt, of the Rex Montis, has made arrangements with the company to run the mill himself all through next season, and will be here in a few days to get things ready for an early start. He says: "In the Spring work will be resumed in the big tunnel, with a strong hope of continuing it until the Rex Montis is reached—this is the intention at all events. The Company has awakened from its lethargy to the necessities of the case." Among other items Mr. Holt adds the following concerning the company's Secretary, Mr. D. H. Ward, who paid the mines here a visit some two years ago: "Ward is in China, having chartered eight ships before his departure to load back with goods and coolies — not, however, for Rex Montis, but for other purposes — a contractin which he is connected of $9,000,000, and an agent is now East to increase the contract to a much larger amount."

CERRO GORDO.—Mr. Crapo, with two shifts of miners, is engaged in crosscutting the ledge in his big mine on Buena Vista Hill, Cerro Gordo. The depth is 100 feet, and so far the developments are reported as extraordinary, as to good ore and a big ledge, though nothing more than expected by miners and others familiar with the property.

ORE.—Supt. Wingard yesterday sent to San Francisco some hundred and odd pounds of average ore taken from the new opening on the Green Monster mine, over in the Inyo foothills, from which is expected orders to further prosecute the work of development.

ASSESSMENT. — Shareholders in the Lone Pine Water Company are called on for twenty-five cents. See notice. The stock is all held by the Lone Pine citizens, mostly by Lubken, Seeley, Meysan, Begole and others. We hope that dividend notices will be next in order.

C. T. SEE SEE.—This mystical hieroghyphical heading means Chicken Thief See See. Mr. See See is an aged Mongolian, who was by Justice Sim Reed sent up to the County jail from Darwin for a period of 25 days, in default of a fine levied for stealing chickens. The alleged crime was committed December 12th last, and the commitment read: "Petit larceny; stealing chickens," without stating from whom the property was taken, the value thereof or the place. According to the Penal Code, and Judge Hannah's decision, rendered yerterday upon a habeas corpus writ brought by Judge Conklin, such essential facts are necessary to be shown by the committing magistrate. Having failed in these particulars, the Superior Court ordered the release of the heathen. The Chinaman says that he was taking only his own chickens—four in number—which had escaped him. There may have been "tricks that were vain" in this instance, but the evidence is that the commitment paper was not properly filled out. The county is out a boarder and Levy loses 70 cents per day, scrip.

RELOCATIONS.—Certificates of annual assessments have been recorded by G. K. Phillips, Recorder of Union District, of $100 value each, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1881: Chase mine, Eureka, Barrie, Litchfield and Oro Fino, at Chrysopolis. Notices of relocations have been recorded as follows: Colossas, formerly Silver Star, by Geo. K. Phillips; Compromise, formerly Drummer Boy, by A. Wingard and J. Wal. Phillips; the Delta by James McKane, the Capital by Spear Riddell; the Gambetta, by Henry Krebbs; King Boro, by James McDonald; the Golden Cross, by McKellips & Phillips, and the Lucky Now, by A. McKellips.

CARP.—Tom Jones, the carp sharp of Round Valley, makes an interesting announcement in our advertising columns this week. His enterprise has proved successful, and it is to be hoped that the hundreds of other opportunities of establishing fish ponds in the valley will not now be neglected. Considering that this is only the first season for carp in this country, it shows well for the industry, when Mr. Jones has fish for sale in only ten months, and eight inches or more long at that. We are satisfied that upon almost any ranch in the country fish ponds can be constructed which in the first two years would be worth ten times their cost.

THE "WITHERBY TROUPE." — Those who attended a performance at Mair's Hall, last Wednesday evening, advertised as above, were somewhat surprised (where the fact had not leaked out before) to find that the company was composed mainly of the Gill family, residing near Camp Independence. Had the fact been publicly stated there would doubtlessly have been a large audience present. As it was, several features of the exhibition were quite meritorious, especially in Tommy Gill's rendition of "Simple Simon," and the dancing and singing of little Charley and Effie Parker.

FREIGHT. — Agent A. E. Lott, of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Co., was in town yesterday, making about his last clean-up of coin — creating a general rustle and scaring the impecunious, that being the normal condition of newspaper men, especially, at this time of year. Mr. Lott states that but two more loads will be brought into Inyo by the company. The ten teams at Mojave are being transferred to Arizona, to join in the work of the twenty-seven now operating in that Territory.

TAXES.— On Tuesday, Tax Collector J. W. Smith paid over to County Treasurer Hardy the sum of $29,610 60, less commission, the amount of taxes collected up to date. The total amount due, as per assessment roll, amounts to $37,015 83, leaving a delinquency of only $7,105 23. We believe this is the smallest amount remaining delinquent for a number of years, and the officers consider that all of the remainder will be finally paid in.

BULLION SHIPMENT. — After a successful run of the Modock Co's. furnaces at Lookout, Mr. Frank Fitzgerald, the lessee, has shipped 28 tons of rich bullion. Average value of bullion per ton in silver, $685 50; gold, $23 60; total $709. Total value of shipment $21,000. Coal is being burned at the old Wild Rose coal camps, and eleven men are at work taking out ore from the mine in preparation for another run of the furnaces.

EXPERTS COMING. — We hear that J. B. Low and Alexander Badlam are about starting from San Francisco for this country, to inspect the Montezuma mine, which is under bond to and now being opened by Supt. A. H. Griswold. If they take the property—and such is our confidence in the immense mine that we have no doubt of it—these gentlemen will make things hum in that District.

DIED.—At the County Hospital, on Saturday night last, William Madison Stewart, an old pioneer of this county, crossed the black river. He was, we believe, a native of Tennessee, and had reached the age of 61 years. He has long been identified with the mining and stock interests of Fish Springs, and was well known throughout Inyo.

THANKS. — THE INDEPENDENT acknowledges a graceful compliment from Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wemple, of the Whitney House, Lone Pine, which came in the shape of a superb cake—as "a momento of the occasion" of the New Year ball. It was consumed amid the best wishes of all hands connected with the newspaper concern.

GOLD MOUNTAIN.—At the State Line mines the work of laying the water pipe is completed, and the water is running into the tanks at the mill. The works are said to be a perfect success. Early in the present month a full force of men will be put on the mines, and the mill will start up about the 15th.

BISHOP CREEK ITEMS.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

Word was sent in last evening by Mr. Ford, foreman of the Poleta mine, that connection had been made with the main incline, and that the work of extracting ore from the upper levels would commence so soon as a working station could be completed at the point where the tunnel made the connection. The company has enough ore on the dump and in sight in the mine to keep a mill running steadily for many months. The work of further developing the mine will be vigorously prosecuted, and it is thought by the time the mill is erected—which will be early in Spring—enough ore will have been taken out to run it two years, to say nothing of the bonanzas that are liable to be unearthed at any time.

The Times is called upon to chronicle the death of J. W. H., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mallory, who died of typhoid fever last Friday, Dec. 23, aged 12 years, 1 month and 8 days.

Considerable excitement was created in around Big Pine last week by the finding of a 21-ounce gold nugget. The fortunate man is a Mr. Cornell. He will give no particulars, further than to say that he picked it up in the hills near Fish Springs.

A great deal of sagebrush land is being surveyed and taken up for ranching purposes in the vicinity of Bishop Creek.

It is rumored that W. H. Russell, of Benton, has bonded the Piute mine, in Piute District, for $40,000.

Big Pine Business.

BIG PINE, Jan. 4.

Eighty-two has arrived and still we say "Big Pine against the world." The holidays with all their happy associations of wax dolls and gum drops have passed away. But still it seems that the Big Piners are not wearied with merry-making, as the following facts will testify: On the 16th of January, McDonald and W. A. Baker have decided to have a matched horse race. Distance 300 yards, for $100 per side. On the same day a shooting match will take place for a purse of $25. The entrance fee is $5. Free to all who wish to shoot. On the 17th instant there is to be a 400 yards race for untried saddle horses. Purse $25, entrance fee $5, to be added to the purse. "Last but not least," comes the 600 yard race for a purse of $50, entrance fee $10. Free for all. A grand ball on the night of the 16th. Good music will be furnished for all who want to skip. Everybody invited. Now look at this and burst out a-crying.

SPLINTERS.

James McCarty and family have favored Big Pine with a visit during the holidays.... Illuminated decorations attracted great attention Christmas eve ....Some one can confer a favor on Jack Moore by sending him a recipe for a very bad cold. He's destroying all the profits on handkerchiefs.... Still they want to know what P. P. P. stands for. WADE.

NEWS OF THE MILITARY.—We take the liberty of making the following extracts from a late private letter from Major H. C. Egbert, formerly Commandant of Camp Independence. He and all the parties mentioned have a host of old-time friends hereabout, who will read it with interest. The letter is dated at Whipple Barracks, Prescott, A. T., and goes on to say: "I have worked like the devil this fall officially on staff duty in the field. I came several times near having my scalp lifted by the Chiricshuas, but I am here safe and sound and very busy. As Judge Advocate of Arizona I have just made out a report on the causes of this Apache war. I will send you a copy as soon as it is printed. Not that it will be of any special interest, but to show you that I am not asleep. While South I visited Tombstone. I had a notion to send THE INDEPENDENT a few lines on the mines of the South, but really had no time for that or any other private matters. The country is very interesting and developing fast. I visited Capt. Dove at Camp Huahuen, a beautiful spot near the railroad to Guaymas, which will pass six miles from his post. I was also going into Mexico with Col. Sanford (whom you will remember at Independence last year) but the Mexican troops whom we were to see had moved away from our front and we did not get over there. * * We are all hearty, and Mrs. Egbert is going to visit Mrs. Matthews (you remember Dr. M.) at Fort Wingate as soon as the 35th parallel gets a little nearer. It is now crossing the Colorada Chiquito. Wortherspoon is Depot and Post Quertermaster here and we live together. EGBERT."

DEATH VALLEY. — T. F. A. Connelly writes from Gold Mountain that he has been on an exploring expedition into Death Valley. Some relics of the party who perished there 32 years ago were found, consisting of a pocket knife, a wagon spoke, some bolts and a wagon tire. Mr. Connelly's party visited the lowest place in the valley, and found the weather quite warm, so much so that coats and vests were discarded, and the perspiration started freely, especially in walking. Many natural and rare curiosities are to be found in Death valley which would prove very interesting to scientists and mineralogists, but the difficulties and dangers of the trip have deterred many from visiting this lonely region.

THE extraordinary circumstance of six embryo children at one birth is reported by Dr. Joseph Kurtz as having occurred in the case of Mrs. Cruz, who lives some four miles south of Los Angeles, on the 17th ultimo.

A PHILADELPHIA crank, claiming to be inspired by the Holy Ghost, has threatened the life of a priest in that city. The law should make this kind of "inspiration" a crime punishable with death.

From Gospel Swamp.

BISHOP CREEK, Jan. 4.

The holidays having passed, the residents of Bishop have gone back to their regular employment, and things now run as smooth as though Christmas and New Year were six months gone. The industrious farmer has once more turned his thoughts to raising alfalfa and corn; the village blacksmith has gone back to his anvil and forge, and each and every citizen have turned their thoughts to their respective labors.

The Mexican population celebrated New Year by a ball on Sunday night, the principal event of which was a shooting scrape, in which a young fellow named Baker received a flesh wound in that part of his person which goes through the door last. The shooting was done by a young Mexican, he having concluded that Baker was entirely too sweet on a pretty Senorita, which he (the Mexican) was paying attention to. As Mr. Baker was not hit in a vital part, and from the fact that he attended the ball the next night, the wound is not considered as any wise dangerous.

Herb Wells is wearing a huge plaster on his cranium, said plaster being used to soothe the aching pain of a large cut in his forehead. Herb, being a teamster and used to sleeping in the open air, spread his bed in a corral and laying down was soon fast asleep. Sometime in the night he was awakened by something which afterwards proved to be a yearling calf. The calf was pretty close to the bed when first discovered and as Herb made a move to scare it, the brute kicked with full force, striking him in the forehead and producing an ugly wound. The calf escaped uninjured.

The New Year ball on last Monday night was very largely attended, and everybody seemed to go home well pleased with the night's amusement. Conspicuous among the male participants was the senior of the Times, who waltzed with as much ease and went through the flashy changes of the lancers with as much grace as a professional Terpeschorean.

On last Tuesday, Mr. Cook, bookkeeper for John H. Stoutenborough, took it into his head to have a sociable buggy ride "all by himself." Accordingly a team was hitched to one of J. Clarke's best light buggies, and Mr. Cook started on his ride. When about four miles rrom town, feeling tired and sleepy from the effects of the ball the night previous, Cook accidentally let one of the reins drop, and as he got out on the tongue of the buggy to get it, the horses got frightened and started to run. After riding quite a way on the tongue and being kicked by one of the horses and otherwise considerably bruised, Cook managed to let himself fall under the buggy and let the wheels pass on each side of him. The horses continued to run until they made almost a complete wreck of the buggy and badly crippled themselves. Mr. Cook, although badly bruised, is not dangerously hurt.

Mrs. C. C. Wainwright presented the Doctor with a fine New Year gift in the shape of a "bouncing baby boy." This youthful member of the medical fraternity tipped Mr. Heller's meat scales at twelve pounds soon after birth.

The shooting match advertised for last Monday did not take place. The managers came to the conclusion that there was not pigeons enough within the narrow limits of Inyo county to satisfy the unerring aim of the many crack shots of Bishop Creek.

BILL.

THE retirement of Mr. James from the Postmaster-Generalship is one of the most unfortunate results of the present system of civil service. He was selected by Garfield as the one man in the country who, by actual knowledge and skill, was most competent to take charge of this great national department. He had made so many improvements in the New York office that it was naturally inferred he would be equally useful in Washington. He proved himself so by digging up the star-route frauds. But all his efficiency was of no avail, because he was not a stalwart and a politician. He was forced to get out of the Cabinet, and his son-in-law, an equally efficient man, will be crowded out of the New York Postoffice to make way for a political worker. James' successor, ex-Senator Howe of Wisconsin, never did anythihg brilliant in his political career, and has no special fitness for his new position, which he owes entirely to the fact that he worked for Cenkling in the Senate.

BEN. BUTLER evidently has salted away a nice little pile from his various speculations. He now has his weather eye on the Sprague estate, which is in bankruptcy, and has offered $3,000,000 for it.

THE Controller of the Currency is charged with crookedness in winding up the affairs of national banks.

A STRONG effort will be made to pass Reagan's Inter-State Commerce bill.

THE arsenal at Vancouver, W. T., is to be discontinued.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 7.....1882

It is said that one of the singular superstitions which prevail among miners in the Pennsylvania coal fields is that if anyone whistles in a mine disaster is sure to follow. This belief is chiefly confined to foreigners, but their prejudices are respected by their fellow laborers who are natives, and whistling is a pastime never indulged in underground except by thoughtless or reckless persons. Like all superstitions, this one is supported by a long catalogue of "proofs" that it is the truth. For instance: On the 2d of December, 1872, Margan Powell, a mine boss, imagined he heard a man whistling in the shaft. Investigation proved that no one had been whistling at all. He was told by the miners that he had had a bad omen and that some trouble would befall him. That night as he was leaving the store of Capt. Williamson, at Summit Hill, midway between Lanford and Mauch Chunk, he was shot dead by Mollie Maguire assassins, who were afterwards captured by Detective McParlan and hanged at Mauch Chunk. The miners think it was the whistle of the fatal bullet that he heard that morning.

THE Arizona Star, Tucson, has received a letter from a young lawyer in Iowa, asking numerous questions about the chances for him in that Territory. The enterprising spirit of encouragement with which the paper meets his inquires in highly commendable. In answer to a query on the opportunity for a lawyer there, and the average income for attorneys, it replies that they have a lawyers' graveyard, few living over ten hours after landing in the country, and that it is no uncommon thing to see them wandering shoeless and hatless. He asks, "Are your collections good?" "Well, yes; mostly centepedes, tarantulas, scorpions, and a few butterflies and June bugs." "And what is your practice code?" "Shoot your man at sight." It is safe to say that this cheerful outlook will fail to draw the young man from home.

IN a truly rural district in Arkansas an old man was accused of stealing a pig. It was a clear case, but to the astonishment of everybody the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty, in exact opposition to the evidence and the Judge's charge. When the court adjourned the judge approached the counsel for the defence and remarked: "Look here, my friend, I never heard of such a verdict. I cannot, as an impartial disseminator of justice, allow so flagrant an outrage to be perpetrated on this community. The man is as guilty as Judas, but if you will tell me the secret of acquittal I'll allow the verdict to pass." "You see, Judge, some of the jurymen were rather young and some rather older." "Yes, but what does that signify?" "It signifies that I run in the old man's twelve sons on the jury."

THE Secretary of the Interior has rendered a decision of great importance to parties interested in mining properties in the case of the mineral affiants against the City of Deadwood. In this case the Secretary has decided that patents should issue on all mineral entries made prior to the location of a town site; and that a patent for the town site should issue for all lands included in the location, except that covered by the prior entries referred; the patents to be without the reservation clause and issued in mineral lode patents within the borders of town sites. This decision is applicable to town site entries or placer mining lands.

THE London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian writes that a collection of the highest interest and importance to Oriental scholars, consisting of 6,400 cuneiform tablets, is now on its way to England. These were discovered by Mr. Rassam at Sippara, near Babylon. It is supposed that these tablets are the library mentioned by Berosus, which contained antediluvian records copied from earlier documents by King Sargon I, who lived 1,800 B. C.

AN investigation of the causes of boiler explosions—brought about by the recent disaster in the Keystone Rolling Mill—is now in progress in Pittsburg. A great amount of testimony by experts and engineers has been patiently listened to, but thus far little light has been thrown upon a difficult subject. Everybody knows the cause of some explosions, but nobody seems to be able to do more than blindly conjecture as to the cause of others.

FROM the date of the discovery of gold in California, to the present time, this State has produced one billion dollars in gold. The inhospitable mountains of Nevada has sent out $275,000,000 of silver. Then follows Colorado, Utah, Montana, Idaho, Arizona and the Black Hills, which have contributed millions to the commerce of the world.

THE latest kink of fashion in Parisian circles is a "telephonic at home." This is telephonic communication with one of the great theaters. APPLICATION FOR A PATENT.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Bodie, Cal., November 7, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT M. Friedlander, whose post office address is San Francisco, California, has this day filed his application for a patent for 1,499 5-10 linear feet of the VIRGINIUS quartz mine or vein, bearing gold, with surface ground 299 6-10 feet in width, situated in Valley View Mining District, County of Kern and State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot Number 37, in Township 27 South, Range 33 East, of M. D. Meridian, the exterior boundaries of said Lot No. 37 being as follows, to-wit:

What Invention May Do.

The possibilities of science when applied to the industrial arts are so very great that careful people hesitate to state them for fear of exciting ridicule. So, in articles which have recently been published in London as well as in New York, a humorous turn has been given to some of the possible results of invention in these days.

Were an Englishman of the time of Elizabeth to have been told that water would be supplied to every house by means of pipes, that a combustible gas would be distributed in a similar manner from a central reservoir, that messages would be sent across continents and under oceans in a few minutes, he would have set down his informant as a lunatic, or, at best, the wildest of dreamers. The man of to-day would be quite as incredulous if told what inventions and applications of science may do for the people of 1981.

One writer ventures to predict that in the twentieth century electricity will accomplish marvels which now seem too absurd to seriously set forth. Chops and steaks will be cooked by electric sparks so as to make the Frenchman's cotelle a la minute a reality. The fruits of the earth will be multiplied enormously by the use of electric light behind colored glass. Fruits and vegetables will be grown all the year round, Winter and Summer, day and night, so that the field which now produces one hundred bushels of any product will yield ten thousand. We now cook our food, but take our air and water raw, and through these two elements come all the disorders and contagions which afflict humanity. In the future water will be distilled and prepared for human use, and thereby purified from all germs of disease, while air will not be breathed by human beings until it has been cleared of all noxious qualities, after which it will be admitted to the glass-covered streets and dwellings in which the man of the future will live. Houses and places of business will be situated in immense inclosed edifices, the air of which will not only be rendered wholesome, but delightful to the sense of smell. Summer and Winter, so far as extreme cold or extreme heat is concerned, will be abolished, as the temperature can be controlled by artificial means, and all parts of the globe will become equally inhabitable. Day will have no attractions over night, for the artificial lights will be more pleasing than any which the great luminary of day can give us. Then, of course, the air will be navigated, which will help to change the appearance of the surface of the earth, for the great cities will then be situated on healthful hilltops, instead of the insalubrious plains below. With the great motors shortly to be discovered, huge mountain chains which obstruct man's progress in any direction can be leveled, while the ice packs around the two poles can be liquefied and made navigable.

All this seems wild enough, but no doubt very great changes will occur. If food can be produced by improved methods, with less cost, the problem of poverty is solved. If machinery continues to replace handwork, the hours of labor must be shortened and its value increased; but to accomplish this, a social revolution will be needed by which labor-saving machines will be worked for the benefit of the laborer, and not in competition with him.—The Hour.

VIRGINIA Chronicle: Gov. Kinkead is in New York; Secretary of State Babcock has just returned from an extended trip to California; Capt. Lyon, the Governor's Private Secretary, is Superintendent of the Princess mine at Candelaria and Paymaster for the White Mountain Water Company there; Surveyor-General Hatch has located at the Grand Hotel, San Francisco for the Winter, and Superintendent of Public Instruction Sessions is acting editor of the Eureka Sentnel, and has removed his family to Eureka.

Enemies of the Wires.

A writer in Youth and Pleasure says: If you will kick or pound on a telegraph pole, or place your ear against one on a windy day, what will the noise remind you of? A hive of bees? Precisely. So it does the bears in Norway. Bears are passionately fond of honey, and when, in one of the wild districts, bruin hears the humming of the wires, he follows the sound to the post where it is loudest and begins to tear away the stones heaped around the poles in rocky soil to steady them, in order to get at the hive which he imagines to be there. In his disappointment and disgust he usually leaves savage marks of his claws in the wood. Nor is he the only victim of the wires. In the electric exhibition at Paris they show the top of a thick pine telegraph pole through which a woodpecker had drilled a hole several inches in diameter. The bird had apparently perched on the pole and taken the humming of the wires for the buzzing of a nest of bees in the wood, and he set himself manfully — or, birdfully—to dig them out. Wolves will not stay in Norway where a telegraph line has been built. It was formerly the custom to protect farms by planting poles around them strung with corks something like a rabbit snare, and gradually the wolves came to respect these precautions, so that a line stretched across the neck of a peninsula would protect the whole district. The wolves take the telegraph for a new and improved snare and promptly leave the country when a line is built. On our own treeless plains the buffalo hails the telegraph poles an an ingenious contrivance for his own benefit. Like all cattle, he delights in scratching himself, and he goes through the performance so energetically that he knocks down the post. An early builder of telegraph undertook to protect the poles by inserting brad-awls into the wood, but the thick-skinned buffalo found the brad-awl an improvement, as affording him a new sensation and scratched down more poles than ever. In Sumatra the elephants are systematically opposed to telegraph lines, and at least twenty times a year make raids on them. In May, 1870, the elephants tore down the poles for a distance of several furlongs, and hid the wires in a cane jungle, and for three nights in succession they repeated the performance as regularly as the repairers built the line during the day. The monkeys and apes are about as formidable enemiss, as they use the wires for swings and trapezes, and carry off the glass insulators as valuable prizes; then, when the repairer goes to correct the mischief, he may be pounced upon by a tiger or driven to the post by a mad buffalo. In Japan the special enemies of the telegraph are the spiders which grow to an immense size, and avail themselves of the wires as excellent frameworks for their webs. So thick are the cords the Japanese spiders spin, that often, especially when covered with dew, they serve to connect the wires with each other or the ground, and so stop them from working. In the sea the wires are not any safer, as a small worm has developed itself since cables came into fashion, which bores its way through iron wire and guttapercha, lets in the water, and so destroys a line worth millions of dollars. When a great storm comes on in the center of the ocean, and the cable breaks while it is being laid, or threatens to break, no one is alarmed. They fasten the cable to a buoy and come back afterwards and pick it up, or if it is at the bottom of the sea, they drop a dredge, with a mile or so of rope, and fish out the precious thread, as large as one of your fingers, almost as easily as you would fish up a penny from the bottom of a tub of water with the tongs. But the little worm no bigger than a needle is more formidable than the elephant on shore or the hurricane at sea.

The New Railroad.

On Friday last Engineer Newman of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad arrived with a party of surveyors and fixed their tents near the Kern River Mills, within the limits of the town. The line was made direct from the sink of the Tejon to the mills, and passes about five miles East of the Adobe Station. On the following day the line was curved to run along Railroad avenue, stakes were set to the east of the Methodist church and a curve made there to connect with the old ferry crossing about half a mile below the bridge of the Southern Pacific road. This is the third survey on the line from the southern slope of the Tehachipa mountain to Bakersfield, and to that point is definitely fixed. From thence North through the town the line is merely preliminary, and will not be finally determined till the town locating agent of the road is called to adjust it to the convenience of the road and the requirements of the people of the town. The engineer has been since engaged on the borders of the river, and has not yet extended the line beyond to indicate the course through the valley to the North. It is said that work will begin on the mountain section in this county as soon as material can be forwarded.—Bakersfield Gazette.

THE Columbia and Puget Sound, otherwise the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, is endeavoring to get a right of way along the city front of Seattle. The Company promises to put in switches and side tracks wherever owners of wharves desire for the handling of grain.

ANOTHER grand cavern has recently been discovered in the Castle range, M. T. B. M. Bean, sheepherder, accidentally came upon its entrance. The main apartment is about 100 yards in length and the same in width, and the ceiling is from 60 to 100 feet in hight.

Educating Animals.

The value of the horse, the ox, or the cow, is greatly enhanced by education, or if you please proper training. At least three-fourths of all the runaways and consequent damage sustained by the same are attributable to the improper training, breaking, or education of the horse. All animals are naturally a little fearful of man, but there are more that are capable of domestication or of being tamed but what by kind treatment become not only fearless of man but many form very strong attachments for him. The great difference found in horses as to vicious habits or reliability comes more from the management of men than from variance of natural disposition in the animals. Horses of high metal are more easily educated than those of less or dull spirits, and are more susceptible of training, and consequently may be as good or bad, according to the handling or education given them. Even horses of very dull spirits are not by any means proof against bad management, for in them may often be found the most provoking obstinacy. Could the coming generation of horses in this country be kept from the days of their colthood to the age of four years in the hands of good, careful managers, there would be seen a great difference in the general character of the noble animals. If the colt is never allowed to get the advantage, it will never know that it possesses a power that man cannot control, and if made familiar with strange objects, it will not be skittish or nervous. If a horse is made accustomed from his early days to have objects hit him on the heels, back and hips, he will pay no attention to the giving out of harness or a wagon running against him at an unexpected moment. The great mistake made by most men in handling horses, especially young horses, is that they do not give the animal credit for the intelligence that it possesses and they do not generally deal as firmly with them as they should. The brute creation understand much more than people generlly think and they seem to appreciate kindness and apparantly strive to repay it, Remember that the value of your horse will certainly depend upon the way you handle it, and if you do not feel competent to break a colt put it into the hands of a skillful and well-known trainer. The value of the future cow will likewise depend greatly upon the treatment she receives when being first milked; you may make her a quiet, gentle animal, one that will meet you in the cow-yard when you approach to milk, or you can make her a wild, kicking or vicious animal, one that will always endeavor to avoid you.

GUSTAVE DORE is nearly fifty years of age and looks about thirty-five. He is of medium stature, and has the frame of an acrobat with the head of a poet. In the street he might be mistaken for a beggar, for he is the worst dressed man in Paris, the scape-goat of a tailor, who inflicts upon him all his misfits.

NEARLY two thousand men are employed on the mines of the Comstock. It requires a large amount of supplies and big sacks of money to keep such an army moving, even though dull times are complained of by the people of the great lode.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 14.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

GUITEAU.

We are glad to say that the legal examination of the assassin of the late President is drawing to a close. Day before yesterday was consumed in the argument for the prosecution, and the country is looking anxiously for the verdict. While it is hard to question but that the conclusion will be that the prisoner is morally and legally responsible for the fiendish act, and that he will be finally hung for it, the whole trial looks as though the chief actors—Judge, lawyers and witnesses — were playing a part for notoriety, almost as much as Guiteau himself. The end of Justice should have been arrived at a great deal quicker.

AT length there seems to be suggested a practical way of dealing with the question of polygamy. McGinnis, the Delegate from Montana, is the man whose suggestion has been caught up by the representative spirit in Congress and declared ample to settle the vexed question. McGinnis proposes to dismember the Territary of Utah and incorporate the western part with the State of Nevada, the south-eastern part with the State of Colorado and the northern part with Idaho and Wyoming. This arrangement would please a Mormon minority in Nevada and a like minority in Colorado, and thus render the polygamist element of the Mormon faith amenable to penal statutes without the power of effecting saintly combinations to paralyze the arm of justice. Another goodly consequence of this plan, which has not been noticed by the originator, would be that Nevada would thereby gain population, as essential of which she is at present very much in need. As to the constitutional right of Congress to make this disposition of Utah there can be no question.

AN eminent lawyer in Washington is authority for the statement that Guiteau has at least a lease of his life till next May, even if he should be promptly found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. The distinguished legal authority says there is a statute in force in the District, more or less ancient and somewhat awkward, directing that sentence of death shall not be executed until thirty days after the beginning of the term of court succeeding that at which sentence is pronounced. This would throw the hanging of Guiteau over till some time next May, even if the jury this week should find him guilty, and Judge Cox should at once pronounce sentence of death. The wretch would thus be allowed to nauseate the American people and indulge in his inordinate propensity for notoriety for four months longer. In the meantime he can occupy himself with manufacturing sympathy and preparing petitions for clemency.

A BOSTON millionaire, Wm. F. Weld, died recently while on a visit to Philadelphia, leaving a will which bequeathed property valued at $21,000,000. The old man had accumulated this fortune in the shipping business, and at one time he had more vessels than any other man in the world. The decay of American shipping induced him to withdraw his capital, which he invested in bonds and mortgages. His death in Philadelphia is a windfall for that city, as it is entitled to the heavy fees for the probate of the will.

THE fact that a tramp, recently sent to the work-house at Davenport, had had in his pocket a certificate of admission to the bar of the Iowa Supreme Court is mentioned as singular. The fact that a man has been admitted to practice in a Supreme Court is no more evidence of his ability to make his own living than the possession of a piece of parchment from a college is evidence of the same thing. The way to get rich is to learn to write for a newspaper.

NOTHING more is heard of the Ute difficulty which occupied so much space in the telegraphic dispatches a few months ago. By the treaty made with them last fall the Southern Utes ought to have been paid $25,000, but it is stated that they have never seen the money, and are growing ugly over the delay. Some enterprising Indian agent has probably cornered this coin, and has thus arranged matters nicely for a new Indian war in the Spring.

IOWA is in a happy condition. The State is out of debt and has a cash balance of $91,850. Political economists, who look upon a big debt as the bulwark of a State or nation, will probably shake their heads over this astonishing freedom from liabilities, but the Iowa taxpayers doubtless agree that it is as good a thing for a State as for a man to owe nothing.

THE PROPOSED SEQUOIA PARK.

Senator Miller's bill to set aside a national park to include the big trees of Tulare and Fresno counties has provoked much spirited and, we think, just and merited protest and opposition. The boundaries of this proposed new reservation, which the Senator thinks ought to be devoted to four-eyed tourists and funny business for ever and ever, are as follows: It commences at the N.E. cor. of Twp. 11 S., R. 28 E., and runs south 7 townships, east 1, south 3 to the 5th standard line, and thence east to the summit of the Sierra; thence following the summit northwest to a point east of the point of beginning and from thence west to the starting point. It is 26 miles wide at the north, 48 at the south and 60 miles long. In a brief description of the territory the Visalia Delta presents facts which of themselves ought to change the Senator's mind on the subject:

"If any great percentage of the proposed park of Senator Miller was covered with timber it certainly would be a giant affair; but it covers more than one million acres of barren rock, besides covering half the available lumber supply of Southern California. The proposed western line of the park strikes the Kaweah River east of Visalia at an altitude of about 700 feet above the sea, and embraces the whole country east of this line for a distance of 50 miles. Of the thirty townships of the grant lying on Kern river nearly all are destitute of soil or any kind of timber except Scotch pine (pinus distorti), which is familiar to naturalists as marking the bounds of vegetation in the higher altitudes. Then we have one-half of the grant in a solid body where not one sequoia is to be found. On the other hand the proposed grant covers a large portion of the post oak belt in the lower foothills. The proposed park covers 1,200,000 acres, of which, perhaps 200,000 are covered with pine. Within these pine forests there are perhaps 20,000 acres on which occasional clusters of sequoia are to be found. To visit these various clusters of "big trees," in a country scarred with yawning chasms and overhanging precipices, would necessitate returning to the valley several times and traveling probably 100 miles without a road."

It is evident that there is too little sugar for a penny in this business. Some common-sense law might be devised by Congress under which the big trees could be protected, without depriving people of their natural rights to the country's resources.

Senator Miller is off wrong. A national park bill preserving Mount Whitney and surroundings is what is demanded by the scientific world and the signal service. No private interests could possibly be injured thereby, while the entire public would be benefitted. Let him drop the big tree bill and espouse one to outfit a signal service station on the loftiest mountain in the United States, backed up with a $25,000 appropriation. Otherwise, judging from the tone of public sentiment, the Senator's future political support in this part of the State becomes nil.

IN the latest Arizona stage robbery reported the driver was peremptorily ordered to halt by two men, and compelled to get down and hold his leaders while they went through the passengers. The outside passenger on coming down was relieved of a fine six-shooter, which one of the robbers took, remarking that he needed it in his business. Among the inside passengers was Mr. Hume, chief detective of Wells, Fargo & Co., who had on his person two fine revolvers. Instead of making use of them on the robbers, he stepped out with the rest and gracefully surrendered them on demand, just like a little gentleman.

THE Mining Record says there has been a fair jobbing demand for common pig lead at 5¼ to 5.30 cents, according to brand, the former price for Richmond from dock and the latter for Newark, and other preferred brands from store. There is no demand from large buyers, consumers and dealers being supplied for present wants, and not disposed at present to provide for future supplies. Western brands forward delivery available at 5.15 to 5.20 cents. Refined nominally quoted at 5⅛ to 5¼ cents.

REFERENCE to the advertisement and time table of the Virginia and Truckee and Carson and Colorado railroads, on the first page of this paper, will disclose some changes in the running time of the latter road. The stations Rhodes and Belleville have been added and trains now arrive and depart from the last named station, which for a time will be the terminus.

THE Visalia Delta of the 30th ultimo refers to a little romance that took place in connection with the imprisonment of the five Mussel Slough settlers at San Jose. One of them — William Bradan—was unmarried, and as we often read in works of fiction, he succeeded in so impressing the heart of the jailer's daughter that she consented to become his wife, and, a few months after his discharge, he went back and married her, thus voluntarily returning to captivity.

LETTER FROM ARIZONA.

TUCSON, A. T., Jan. 9.

It is a source of immense regret to me that people are so desperately ignorant. Nobody here, save a few who have "traveled," know anything whatever about Inyo—where or what it is, how to get to or from there, or what the natives do to keep from starving. To make it even though, and judging others by myself, Inyo people know even less of the geography and actual conditions of things in Arizona. I shall take upon myself to enlighten such of THE INDEPENDENT readers as care to be enlightened in regard to Arizona matters; but it will have to be done by installments—"Twelve Short and Easy Lessons."

FIRSTLY.

It takes from 5 A. M. of one day to 9 P. M. (40 hours) of the next of continuous staging to get from Independence to Caliente. Were the stage route direct to Mojave thirty hours would be amply sufficient to make the connection. But, in order to bring all the intermediate postoffices in a straight line, the present stage road is modeled after the letter S—"crookeder nor two dogs' hind legs," as one passenger elegantly described it. It is likely some important changes will be made in the present mode and route of staging to the railroad as soon as the new contract is let and entered upon. Anyway, it is to be hoped so, both for the business of the stage company as well as the welfare of travelers.

ABOUT TICKETS.

A through ticket from Independence to Los Angeles, stage and rail, is $25—arrive at the latter place at 6 A. M. of the third morning. It is better to take such a through ticket; as a ticket from Caliente to Los Angeles costs $10. But, again, should you desire to come on to any point south of Los Angeles, buy your ticket through from whatever way station you take the cars. For instance—from Los Angeles here, $55; from Caliente past Los Angeles here, it is the same as a through ticket, but $10 additional if first to Los Angeles.

ACROSS THE DESERT.

Trains south leave Los Angeles at 8:15 A. M. and reach this place (Tucson) at 6 the next morning. We were an hour late in getting out of Los Angeles the other morning, all because of a hot box; in fact the car came in all ablaze over one truck, the box having taken fire. New boxes were fitted, causing an hour's delay. The car was then dragged on through, though one of the boxes frying continually, but did not get ablaze. It is a wonder people are not suffocated outright while crossing this Colorado desert in the Summer time. The fine sand rolls up under, around and into the cars in volumes like steam; it penetrates any place where steam could get through, and of course, passengers, seats, and everything feel desperately guilty, and look as though their last friend had gone home months ago. But after getting down 260 feet below sea level both as a physical as well as a mental fact, things begin to change for the better in the matter of dust. The Colorado is crossed after dark. Thence, onward, there is no more dust or disagreeable peculiarities than is common everywhere. But, even in the darkness, it is plain to be seen that we are spinning through an unmitigated desert, and even so at the stations or various "cities" marked on the map.

TUCSON.

The first view of this place in the cold gray of a cloudy morning is not such as to inspire high admiration. But Tucson is very much of a singed cat when viewed in all its length and breadth. It is an irregularly laid out city of about 8,000 souls (so-called), quite compactly built for a mile or more in one direction, and nearly the same in the opposite, save that eastward toward the railroad, the buildings are somewhat more scattering. Lots of small boys and girls, but I have not seen or heard one as yet but played marbles and everything else in Spanish, though they are not all Mexican or Papago boys by any means. It is one of the oldest towns on the continent, yet the present site and titles is secured under the town site Act of Congress, and titles are considered beyond dispute. Over a large portion of the 1,280 acres comprising the town site, lots are held at from $1,000 to $5,000 each, the latter, of course, for the more eligible business locations. It stands on level ground some twenty or more feet above the valley lands of the little Santa Cruz river, skirting the western boundary. The houses, "palaces," public edifices, and nearly everything, is built of 'dobes, and the very poorest kind of 'dobes at that — piles of mud, rain-marked, tumble down looking institutions—just the sort, especially the two-story ones, to give any experienced earthquake sharp a fit of horrors, such as to inspire him to prophecy "woe, woe, to these people, when the tembler cometh." Yet the best of California lumber can be had here by the million feet for from $30 to $40 per M. Besides the dirty looks of the 'dobe buildings scarce one of which stands, if ever built, according to the Three P. rules of "squares, horizontals and perpendiculars" — besides the dirty looks of these walls comes another consideration, calculated to alieniate the affections of any cleanly housewife — every bare floor and unpainted surface in the best of houses, as well as all out of doors, takes on an immovable coat of the dirty white dust or earth of which the country is composed. No amount of scrubbing, sloshing around, or hard talk will remove this native paint. Were there to come a gentle Oregon mist of about three weeks duration (looks as though three hours' would be sufficient) which would melt all these mud buildings down to a common level, for foundations for safe and cleanly wooden and iron and stone structures, it would be a good thing in the end, though a little rough to begin with. This is, and is bound to be, quite a great city of the interior. Save the drawbacks spoken of, it would be a pleasant place to live. It strikes me that there are good chances for some additional professional and business men. San Francisco has no heavier business houses than are to be found here; nor a commodious store building than one now nearly completed for S. Zeekendef—one room, redwood finish, plate glass front, 125x150 feet in the clear.

FARMING LANDS.

The valley of the Santa Cruz as seen from the hotel window, looks as pretty, as productive and quite as well cultivated as the best part of even famed Los Angeles. But I fancy there is too much alkali or similar trouble for universal crops, or fruit growing. I see no trees of any size except cottonwoods and mesquite. But it is a good country from this place west and south for grain growing and stock. However, I can tell more about these things after a few days. The markets are abundantly supplied with everything to be found in any city on this coast, and there is nothing whatever eaten or worn or that is handy to have about the house, from a dish to a double decked silver-plated cook stove, but sells cheaper here than in Inyo. Board, $10 to $14 per week, meals, 50 cents, and everything else in proportion.

PERSONAL.

In the San Gorgonia pass I was greeted while the train was delayed at a station, by Mr. Thos. Chandler, of Taylor, McEvoy & Chandler, who went there for his health. Instead of being dead, as his poor health in Inyo seemed to indicate, he looks comparatively strong and well. Frank Drake, of Cerro Gordo, tells me he is engaged on a copper smelter out here a few miles. The "Bob" Paul, whom your readers will remember as one of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messengers who had sand, is Sheriff of this (Pima) county, and is spoken of as a very superior officer. Many of his inquiries of Inyo people were beyond my ability to answer, especially as regards persons formerly of the Darwin region. Surveyor General John Wasson, in whose office I am now writing, is the elder brother of our late Representative, and, like him, is also a reformed newspaper man. He, I believe, is the best and most reliable officer in the Territory. Tritle, of Virginia City fortunes, is likely to be the next Governor, and is actually engaged in mining operations out in the Gunsight country; he is not here now, however. John Williams, of the New Coso, is doing well in running furnaces out toward Tombstone. I "go West" to-morrow; in due time I will be able to get down to particulars of more direct interest to some at least of your readers.

Superior Court Proceedings.

MONDAY, Jan. 9.

A. Parker vs. J. J. Moore; Action of replevin. A venire of twenty-four persons having been ordered by the Court, the persons summoned appeared and answered to their names. Counsel being unable to agree on a number less than twelve to try the issue, finally agreed to try the same before the Court without a jury; whereupon the venire was discharged from further attendance.

W. O. Merithew vs. J. T. Hutchison; Assumpsit. Referred to the Court Commissioner to take testimony.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 11.

A. Parker v. J. J. Moore; the plaintiff having closed his case, counsel for defendant moved the Court for a nonsuit. Argued and submitted, and taken under advisement.

THURSDAY, Jan. 12.

A. Parker v. J. J. Moore; Motion for nonsuit taken under advisement and case continued until February 20th.

RE-LOCATIONS. — Location notices of the following named claims have been recorded in the County Clerk's office during the week: In Pine Mountain District, between Deer Creek Spring and Birch Creek, the Coin ledge or lode, the "Domestict," Boston, Banking House, No. 2 Ledge, No. 1 Ledge, Rifle, "Fairveew," Stonewall Jackson, "Samples Claime," "Chastain," Moonlight, Cleaveland, Tower, Birch Creek, Battle and the Ice, also the Hastings Springs and millsite; and the Capitol, Bodie and Richmond claims. The foregoing locations were all made by H. T. Hastings, and the order for recording came from Bodie. The New Haven ledge, in the same district, is recorded as being located by E. L. Benedict. It may be remembered that a year or so ago we made mention that "Bodie Bank men" had located pretty much the whole country in Pine Mountain District, and from the public record it would appear that the same gentlemen are simply renewing title on the 1st of January — or the 2d, as the notices are dated.

DEEP SPRINGS. — W. A. Greenley and Wm. Hedge came in a few days ago from the above named district, where they have been for some time engaged in prospecting, and doing assessment work on their claims. Two more ledges were discovered, about two and a half miles northeast from Gilbert's ranch. One of these ledges, named the "Scott," is reported as being full six feet wide, with prominent croppings. The surface ore is both a gold and silver bearing quartz. An assay of an average sample, made by Mr. Woodhull, shows $188 54, silver; and $85 50 gold per ton; total $274 05. Average sample taken from the East mine asssyed, gold, $75 24; silver, $67 54; total, $142 78. Mr. Greenly has returned to Deep Springs to commence prospecting these claims. The parties interested in Deep Springs have an unwavering faith in the richness and permanency of a number of claims in that district, and there is every proof as far as the mines have been prospected that they are correct in their judgment.

SCHOOL FUNDS.—Following is the apportionment of County School money made by Supt. Symmes on the 9th instant:

DISTRICTS.	AMOUNT.
Bishop Creek	$381 00
Big Pine	190 50
Cerro Gordo	———
Darwin	190 50
Irving	190 50
Independence	190 50
Lone Pine	190 49
Milton	190 49
Round Valley	190 49
Union	190 49
Total	$1904 96

DIED.—Henry A. Jones, elder brother of Senator Jones, of Nevada, died Monday morning at Gold Hill, Nev., of gastritis. Mr. Jones was an old resident of Tuolumne county, where at one time he was a man of large means. He subsequently became superintendent of the Panamint mines, in which his brother was heavily interested, but of late years has not engaged in any active business. Mr. Jones was 51 years old.

DIVORCED. — In the Superior Court, January 7th, Lilian F. Campbell was granted a divoree from Duncan Campbell, Jr., the grounds being habitual drunkenness and failure to provide. Also, on the 10th, a decree of divorce was granted to Isabella Harrell from Wm. O. Harrell, on ground of incompatability of temper.

COUNTY CLAIMS.—The County Clerk gives notice this week of the order made by the Board of Supervisors at the last session, requiring all persons having claims against the county to file them at least one day before the commencement of any regular session.

ASSESSMENT.—The Rex Montis mine Directors have levied assessment No. 14, of twenty cents per share; delinquent February 14; day of sale, March 10. This will make $20,000, which we presume will be devoted to pushing the big Independence tunnel.

TO ROAD OVERSEERS.—In accordance with the official notice elsewhere, Road Overseers will have to make out full reports, quarterly. Suitable blanks are being printed at this office, to be furnished to the overseers of each district.

ENTERTAINMENT. — By advertisement elsewhere it will be noted that the "Witherby Troupe" is announced for a performance at Mair's Hall next Monday evening, the show to be followed by a dance.

BISHOP CREEK, Jan. 11.

I have often wondered why in the absence of almost every other kind of amusement, the people of Bishop and vicinity do not organize a literary society or a debating club. Such an organization would not only afford a vast amount of enjoyment, but would also prove instructive, both to young and old. If some person would make the proper move toward forming such a society in Bishop Creek, there is no doubt but that his or her labor would meet with complete success.

Justice Brooks was engaged nearly all of last Saturday afternoon, trying the case of the People vs. Martin McCloud. The defendant was charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon in a "rude and threatening manner," to which charge he, through his counsel, P. W. Forbes, pleaded "not guilty." On account of the Witherby troupe having previously engaged the hall where the sessions of the court are usually held, justice had to be meted out in a small room, used as a kitchen, and about 6x8 feet in dimensions. As the Judge took his seat, he observed our merchant tailor occupying a comfortable position in an arm-chair, and remarked to that gentleman that owing to the scarcity of room his presence in court was not actually necessary, and politely informed him that probably he could utilize his spare time to better advantage on the outside. To this decision the man of broadcloth suits demurred; and notwithstanding he was aware of the jurisdiction of the Court in cases of contempt, still he continued to retain his position during the whole proceedings with as much determination as an Anthony Wade or a Hickory Jackson. After an exhaustive review of Blackstone and Kent the Court found the defendant "not guilty" and that individual was once more allowed to breathe the air of American liberty.

Mr. Chas. Hollenbeck has hired a force of men, also a pack train of ten animals, which he intends to take to his mine at Beveridge, for the purpose of constructing a five-stamp mill. The pack train will consist of all mules, they being better fitted for carrying heavy loads over that rough section of country than horses. The work of erecting the mill will be under the superintendency of Mr. White, of Bishop Creek. The party expect to have everything in readines to start by the end of the week.

Messrs. J. Clarke and L. Munzinger have purchased six dozen carp of Thos. Jones of Round Valley, which they have placed in the various streams in the vicinity of town. They expect ere long to be able to supply the whole country with fish.

BRIEF MENTION.

Messrs. Steve Gregg and Crittenden Hampton paid our town a visit last week. Judging from the number of empty bottles they had in their overcoat pockets, they must have come after medicine....Arly Mairs left for Independenc to-day.... W. A. Irwin, superintendent of the Poleta mine, is expected to arrive on or before the 15th of this month....A Pinte was seen riding through town smoking a pipe that looked exactly like Frank Dillon's. Our Deputy Sheriff was informed of the fact but made no arrest.

BILL.

TO SAN FRANCISCO.—Upon receipt of a telegram, Judge A. R. Conklin left for San Francisco Thursday morning, on important law and mining business.

THE Bodie Free Press paragraphs as follows:

Some men are saddest when they sing, while others feel the most melancholy when the collector enters the front door. There is a great deal of tear shedding in all directions.

The C. & C. Railroad Company will have to build two or three hundred feet of trestle work between Belleville and Candelaria.

There is much sickness in Bodie at present. Times are so hard that people cannot afford to be ailing.

Stocks are at bedrock and it looks as though it was a good time to buy. But the people are timid.

Joe Wasson is contented in New York. He appreciates the largeness of the town.

The Northern Belle Company declared a dividend of 50 cents per share on Tuesday.

The narrow gauge railroad will be extended as soon as Spring opens.

Judge Briggs' health is much improved.

THE Desert Land Act is a good law and its intent is to enable the reclamation of waste lands in certain States and Territories. That the law has been abused is no fault of the man who framed it. It has never really worked any harm so far; though, as being the means of enabling individuals to obtain and hold immense tracts of land, it may work harm in the future. But it must be remembered that only men of large capital could have redeemed these lands and that their reclamation could only be made profitable in large tracts. Very little land has been appropriated under the Act that a poor man could have transformed into a farm. There are still unlocated millions of acres of just such land as has been reclaimed under the Desert Land Act, and they can only be reclaimed by the expenditure of large sums in the construction of irrigation works. If anybody is to blame for any abuses in the operation of the law it is not Mr. Sargent, but the gentleman who is being pushed in opposition to him for Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Williamson, who was United States Land Commissioner and is responsible for any and all abuses of the law during his administration, and whatever such there have been were perpetrated while he was Land Commissioner.—Stock Report.

THE State Fish Commission has received from the East 50,000 Eastern trout and 500,000 whitefish eggs for distribution in the waters of this State. Twenty thousand of the trout eggs are being hatched at San Leandro.

BISHOP CREEK ITEMS.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

THE MOUNTAIN CHIEF MINE. — Mention of this valuable property was made by the Times some weeks ago, since which time a very rich strike has been made in the incline. Thirty days ago a vein averaging from 12 to 18 inches in width that assays as high as $30,000 per ton was encountered. Knowing that were this rich strike made public it would cause a great deal of trouble by persons endeavoring to jump claims, the owners concluded to keep the matter quiet until after that time. The ore contained in the small vein is literally covered with free gold and is said to be the richest ever found in the county, the Keynot, in Beveridge District, not excepted. A small piece of black ore, showing no free gold whatever, was sent to Mr. Woodhull, at Independence, to be assayed, and last Thursday the result was received by Ted Cook, clerk in Stoutenborough's store, which was as follows: Gold, $14,396 48; silver, $160 22; total, $14,556 70. The owners of this rich mine are Peter Roussell, Jacob Davenport, A. Brooks and M. L. Cook. They have negotiated for a five-stamp mill, which is expected to be running by the first of April. After the rich vein was struck sinking was continued until an additional depth of about 25 feet was attained, when work had to be suspended on account of the crookedness of the incline, occasioned by following the ledge wherever it dipped. At present it dips perpendicular and is about four feet wide. The incline has been bulkheaded and a drift is now being run from the bottom of the shaft to tap the ledge at the bottom of the incline. The connection is expected to be made in six or seven days, when anybody desirous of visiting the mine will be allowed to do so.

DARK HORSE. — A gentleman just down from the Piute District reports that the Burchim Company are steadily at work on their mines. They are down about fifty feet on the Dark Horse, and have an abundance of good ore. The ore in the mine is similar in character to the Mountain Chief of the same district and, like that, is gradually improving in richness as they proceed downwards. This class of ores—a dark oxide of iron, intermingled with quartz — was overlooked in the early days of Owens river, and since the present influx of experienced miners, their true value is fast becoming known. A few more such finds as these, with our railroad here, and things will boom.

POLETA.—Since the tunnel made connection with the main incline, nothing of much importance has been done. The tunnel, after making the connection, is being run east from the incline and good progress made. Supt. Irwin is expected shortly, when something of more consequence may be expected.

Mining Partners.

The law provides that upon the failure of any one of several co-owners of a vein, lode or ledge which has not been entered for patent, to contribute his proportion of the expenditures necessary to hold the claim or claims so held in ownership in common, the co-owners who have performed the labor or made the improvements as required by law, may, at the expiration of the year, give such delinquent co-owner personal notice in writing, or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim, for at leaat once a week for 90 days; and if, at the expiration of 90 days after such notice in writing, or upon the expiration of 180 days after the first newspaper publication of notice, the delinquent shall have failed to contribute his proportion to meet the expenditures and improvements, his interest in the claim by law passes to his co-owners who have made the expenditures or improvements.

The following forms are those which will be the proper ones to use in such cases:

NOTICE OF FORFEITURE.

.....County, ..., 188 .

To....(names of all parties who have record title to any portion of the mine). You are hereby notified that I have expended.... .dollars in labor and improvements upon the.... ...lode (describes the claim,) as will appear by certificate filed..... ., 188 , in the office of Recorder of said county (or district,) in order to hold said premises under the provisions of Section 2324 Revised Statutes of the United States, being the amount required to hold the same for the year ending....., 188 . And if within ninety days from the service of this notice (or within ninety days after this notice by publication,) you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of such expenditure as a co-owner, your interest in the said claim will become the property of the subscriber under said section 2324.

..... (Signature).

NOTE.—At the expiration of 180 days, this notice should be recorded with the affidavit of the newspaper publisher, that the same was published for the period of ninety days, together with the affidavit (Form 4) of the party signing the notice to the effect that one or more of the co-owners named in the published notice had not paid their share of the expenditure. This completes the record title.

AFFIDAVIT OF FAILURE TO CONTRIBUTE.

.....of..... County of .....ss.

....., being duly sworn, deposes and says, that for the year ending....., 188 ; he expended at least.....dollars in labor and improvements upon the.....lode, [or placer claim] (here describe the claim,) to hold the same under the laws of the United States and of this.....(district, Territory or State;) that due notice thereof was personally served upon..... co-owners, on the.....day of..... 188 , or was duly published in the..... as appears from the affidavit of the publisher thereof; and that.....(of the said) co-owners have failed or refused to contribute their share of said expenditure within the time required by law.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this .....day of....., 188 .

The party who contributes his proportion of the required expenditures, can retain his interest in the mine. If a party fails to contribute his proportion of the actual expenditures upon a mining claim, the remedy must be sought elsewhere than in the General Land Office.—Scientific Press.

THE Southern Pacific Railroad Company, of Arizona, has appropriated $300,000 for the construction of the road from Yuma to Port Isabel. President Crocker says the road will be completed in 60 days.

In Los Angeles.

Our late Senior, in a private letter dated at Los Angeles on the 5th, among other things says: "To-day, at 12, M. a 'Grand Charter Excursion' party was to take a run down to Wilmington to view the extensive railroad works going on there. It is hard to say what it was all about, but as near as I can understand it, it was by invitation of the R. R. Company to the Board of Supervisors, Chamber of Commerce, and other similar dead-head bodies, as part of a plot by which the influence of said dead-heads was to be secured in working up another appropriation for the breakwater. All, save the above-mentioned, had to pay $1 for the round trip. As it was a private buisness-like excursion and only $1 for the round trip, everybody and his uncles and aunts determined to go, and were all there at the proper time. But you can see what there is in a name—the usual rate for a ticket for the round trip was exactly the same as on this occasion. Three cars were at the starting point precisely on time; that number wouldn't hold half the crowd; a wait of half an hour, and two more cars were hitched on. Started, but only to stop on the slightest provocation; got down to Wilmington after a while, however, and pushed on out over the trestle work to the point or end of the breakwater, staid an hour and a half; everybody astonished, none more so than myself, at the magnitude of the railroad operations; completed or in course of completion; still more at the vast amount of business carried on over this road, and from this port. There is no doubt but the harbor is worthy a much larger appropriation than it has yet received, but as I was not one of the above named dead heads, of course, I shall not lend my influence in Congress to procure said appropriation. What the deadheads saw or did, or propose to do, or are required to do, remains to be seen, for they made no sign while we were there, unless it was they we saw in the mud digging clams. At 4 30, this evening, the conductor thought he would start out and take us home; started; stopped; backed; switched off; started some more: stopped; waited; time flew; nobody had had any dinner; no chance to get anything; wasn't even a train boy with prize packages; the sun went down away out of sight in the Pacific ocean; we were still at Wilmington. Some of the people marveled greatly at the delay; one of the others said a (solid man) had got a glimpse of something he couldn't quite comprehend, and the R. R. Company were bound to give him a chance if it took all night; others, those who never had much 'reason,' swore worse than those army people; still another lot of jolly souls sat in a smoker and sang 'Marchin' thro' Georgey;' with energy enough to jump those 'pertaters from the ground;' but it was no go; the solid man hadn't seen through it yet. Finally, though, it seemed that he thought he had, and we four-hundred ravenous souls were started for the city. Half-way there came another trouble; the Santa Ana train was coming down, and we had to pull up till that passed; that took place after fifteen solid minutes' waiting; once again we moved on, and at last, got back to the city. But for these pullbacks or holdbacks, the trip would have been a most enjoyable one; the day as warm and balmy as in May in Inyo; one orange orchard after another, every tree literally loaded with the golden fruit; gardens full of 'truck' green and still growing — and—lots of things too numerous to mention. Our party consisted of 'yours truly' to begin with; Dr. F. T. Bicknell, and his brother, who is a prominent lawyer here, his wife, sister, daughter and among other relatives and friends, Mrs. H. D. Gelatt. You will be pleased to hear of the two whom you personally know, that the Dr. is doing quite well here in his profession and is enraptured with the climate and the bright prospects of the place; yet, at the same time, still has a 'hankering' for that identical Inyo county where you are; and, that Mrs. G. has greatly improved as to seem almost in perfect health. This city, in many respects, is one of the grand places of the earth — Adam and Eve would have had a right to make a fuss about it, if this had been the place where they were snaked out of. Independent of oranges, climate and all that, Los Angeles has a solid business future before it, even better founded I believe than San Francisco, or any other place on the coast. There has been no rain, though, and this fact begins to tell in various ways. There is as yet but a suspicion of green in fields that by this time should be in waving blades. But I won't undertake to tell you all I know this time. Will move on to Tucson to-morrow, which place I will reach, barring accidents, on Sunday morning. Then, or as soon after as may be convenient, I will give THE INDEPENDENT readers enough to satisfy their cravings, if quantity will satisfy them. There will be some more to say about this place—routes, fares, and the like."

Homer Index Excerpts.

If H. L. Childs—formerly of THE INDEPENDENT, later of the Bodie Standard, and now subbing for Brother Ginn of the Homer Mining Index—should ever happen to return to this county he will get badly demolished. Hear him:

The Waucoba Mining Company of New York, represented in San Francisco by Col. Hewston, of the Selby Reduction Works, will employ a force of men preparatory to active operations. The mine is situated directly east of Independence — high up over the summit of the Inyo range of mountains. That the property is valuable there is no question; but at present it cannot be reached except by an almost inaccesible Indian trail from Owens river. Of its history five years ago thereby hangs a tale as follows: During the time of the occupancy of Camp Independence by the United States regulars a young man was placed in charge of the Waucoba mine by Major Egbert and his brother officers — the Major being an interested party — and the few simple supplies required by the modern Robinson Crusoe was sent from the Post by Indians at stated intervals of six months. After a time Egbert's command were ordered to Arizona and some time later the military post was abandoned altogether. Here comes the romance. The aforesaid young hermit ran out of tobacco, then beans and bacon. Subsisting on pine nuts he passed many weary days patiently watching the direction of the setting sun. At last he could no longer withstand the rodent diet and the irresistible desire for tobacco, and learning from a few broken sentences in the Piute language by a passing brave that it was rumored all the soldiers were gone he returned to the valley to find the story confirmed. Alas! What a plight. He had not seen a white face for thirty-two long, weary months of patient watching and, like Rip Van Winkle, he woke to a realizing sense of his desolation — for no one knew him. After sadly viewing some of the old, familiar landmarks he brushed away a tear, borrowed two and a half from the local newspaper man and got on a roaring drunk. It transpired that the intelligent, sad-eyed young man was a crack-brained near relative of the military men—his failing being a passion for whisky. His cruel desertion was unaccounted for.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT chronicles the killing of an Indian known as "Saw Mill Jim." The cognomen, however, is not correct. He was christened "Whim Jim" at Fish Springs when employed by John Bell at the mine in 1871. He never murdered anybody, but under inspiration once killed a medicine man—which act was customary and legitimate. He was honest, industrious, intelligent and exceedingly clever, and never got drunk only when opportunity afforded — like unto the characteristics of Inyoites in general. The local paper ought to have given him as good an son-o'bituary as it could afford to grind out.

THE New Year's cards turned out by the Index job man has but few equals in Nevada and no superiors in California. It protects the usual greeting from accumulating dust by the customary overlap and is embellished with an appropriate engraving entitled "Take a drink." The opposite corner is left blank for some member of the Nevada legislature to fill in and pay for the drinks.

P. A. CHALFANT, formerly of THE INYO INDEPENDENT, has left his bedside and fireboard in Inyo county to roam among the wild Apaches in Arizona. P. A. is red-headed which may preserve his scalp. It is hoped so anyway and he will certainly have the best wishes of all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

HAD the prodigal son returned to Bodie he would have got licked, then brought suit against the old man for violation of the Sunday law.

MEN employed in building the railroad telephone line received $1 50 per day for transplanting frozen post holes, etc. Still the average laboring man of Bodie is not happy.

THE Mexican dollar with its buzzard astride of a bristling cactus has received its everlasting quietus since the ten per cent. discount was brought to bear.

THE visitation of Providence theory is exploded since the fact is apparent that Inyo county has not experienced an earthquake for ten years.

THE Bishop Creek Times brags about their modest young ladies. You are not acclimated yet, pardner.

WONDER how the Bodie exiles in Inyo county accustom themselves to the two bits a drink system?

IT is just as well to manufacture your own gin as to take chances with the San Francisco rectifying sharps.

THE P. P. P. organization—to work under dispensation—is on the tapis in Lundy.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 14.....1882

Night in the Moon,

At last night sets in. Gratefully it comes after the sun has gathered up its smitten rays and gone down to rest. All at once we are plunged into comparative obscurity, for again there is no twilight to stay the steps of departing day. At one stride comes the dark. But, looking into the sky we behold a vast orb which pours down a milder and more beneficient splendor than the great lord of the system. It is such a moon as we terrestials cannot boast; for it is not less than thirteen times as large and luminous as our own. There it hangs in the firmament without apparent change of place, as if "fixed in its everlasting seat." But not without change of surface. For this great globe is a painted panorama, and, turning round majestically on its axis, presents its oceans and continents in grand succession. As Europe and Africa, locking the Mediterranean in their embrace, roll away to the right, the stormy Atlantic offers itself to view, then the two Americas, with their huge forests and vast prairies, pass under inspection. Then the grand basin of the Pacific, lit up with island fires, meet the gazer's eye, and as this glides over the scene, the eastern rim of Asia, the upper portion of Australia sail into sight. The Indian Ocean, and afterwards the Arabian sea, spread themselves out in their subdued splendor, and thus in four and twenty hours "the great rotundity we tread" turns its pictured countenance to the moon, and grandly repays the listening lunaries by repeating, to the best of its ability, the story of its birth. Nor is the sky less marvelous in another respect. For the absence of any atmospheric diffusion of light permits the constellations to shine out with a distinctness which is never paralleled on earth. They glitter like diamond points set in a firmament of ebony. Stars and clusters, which we never see by the naked eye, flock in view and crown the heavens. — British Quarterly.

A Judge's Charge with Variation.

The following comes from Georgia, and its accuracy is vouched for by the stenographer who took it down:

Judge——was noted for the way he got mixed in his charges to the jury. On one occasion a case was tried before him, the points of which may be briefly stated thus: Smith brought suit against Jones upon a promissory note given for a horse. Jones' defense was a failure of consideration, he averring that at the time of the purchase the horse had the glanders, of which he died, and that Smith knew it. Smith replied that the horse did not have the glanders, but had the distemper, and that Jones knew it when he bought. The Judge charged the jury: "Gentlemen of the jury, pay attention to the charge of the Court. You have already made one mis-trial of this case because you did not pay attention to the charge of the Court, and I don't want you to do it again. I intend to make it so clear to you this time that you cannot possibly make any mistake. This suit is upon a note given for a promissory horse. I hope that you understand that. Now, if you find that at the time of the sale Smith had the glanders, and Jones knew it, Jones cannot recover. This is clear, gentlemen. I will state it again. If you find that at the time of the sale Jones had the distemper, and Smith knew it, then Smith cannot possibly recover. But, gentlemen, I will state it a third time, so you cannot possibly make a mistake. If at the time of the sale Smith had the glanders, and Jones had the distemper, and the horse knew it, then neither Smith, Jones nor the horse can recover."

The Increasing Use of Glass.

There seems to be an impression of late that glass must soon come into a much more general use than it now obtains. It has been suggested as a suitable material for water mains, for street lamp-posts, and for many other purposes for which cast iron is now used. Mr. Siemens proposes to prepare a toughened glass for these purposes. He claims that he can prepare a toughened glass which will be much stronger than iron castings, imperishable and incorodible. The cost per pound, allowing more profit to the maker than can be obtained from iron, is twice as much the cost of the latter, but the specific gravity is so much less that the consumer will be able to obtain glass articles at about 33 per cent cheaper than similar goods in cast iron.

Some of the Pittsburgh glass makers are proposing to use it in the form of blocks, like granite or marble, for structural purposes. One writer says: "Perhaps not one builder or contractor in 10, if told that the common grades of glass have a crushing strength nearly four times as great as that credited by experienced engineers to the strongest granite, would accept the statement as true. Yet it is a fact, and being so, the query as to why glass has not received more attention from architects as a structural material naturally suggests itself. A reporter had a talk with several prominent glass manufacturers on the subject, and in answer to an interrogatory as to whether blocks of glass could be made in suitable lengths and sizes and so annealed as to be utilized in the construction of a building in place of stone, they said that it could be done. Said one of these gentlemen:

" 'This question has been considered by myself a number of times, and, although I do not want to advocate the absolute abolition of brick and stone, yet in the erection of art galleries, memorial buildings, etc., a structure composed of blocks of glass in prismatic colors would be alike a unique, beautiful and lasting structure. With the numerous inventions which have come into use of late years in connection with the production of glass, the cost has being gradually going down while the quality of the fabric is steadily becoming better. One objection which would be raised to the durability of a glass house, might be that the blocks would not take a bind or adhere together with common mortar. This objection can readily be set aside by the use of a good cement, and when completed the structure would stand for ages, barring extraordinary accidents, or, mayhap, cataclysm. As to the cost of a glass house, it can be kept down to but a small percentage above cut granite, as there are many points where saving gains can be made. Thus, for instance, in building with stone, you have to pay the stone masons, and when it comes to elaborate examples of carving, in Corinthian pillars, collars and capitals, etc., why, the work is rather costly as compared with glass, when the latter can be molded in any shape or form, and the work accomplished in much less time. I am convinced that the time will come when we will see such a building erected."

IT is said that Mrs. De Long has been remembered by James Gordon Bennett in a substantial manner. Before the sailing of the Jeannette on her Arctic expedition he deposited $25,000 to her credit in a bank, and the sum was doubled last Summer, when discouraging news was received from Capt. De Long and his gallant crew.

Hydraulic Mining in Mono County.

The hydraulic mines on Mill Creek cover 20,080 acres — secured by patent —of gold-bearing wash gravel some three miles in length by one in width, commencing a little above the mouth of Mill Creek Cañon, and extending down the creek in a southeasterly direction to within half a mile of Mono Lake. Work was commenced on the 10th of October last on the big ditch, whose proposed dimensions were five feet wide on top, three on the bottom, four feet deep, and having a carrying capacity of 2,500 inches. Up to date it has been completed one mile from where it taps the creek to its present point of connection with the penstock. The latter is fifty feet long, four feet wide by three deep. There is now in use 300 feet of the best Norway iron pipe, 24 inches in diameter at the penstock and tapering down to 11 at the giant. The largest sized monotors with patent deflectors are used. The nozzles are 4½ and 6 inches in diameter, and under an 8-foot pressure the former is capable of throwing 500 inches and the latter 800. There is now only about 1,500 inches of water in the channel bed and it is all required. The flume is 700 feet long, and is being extended at the rate of 14 feet per day. Its width in the clear is 48 inches by 36 in depth. The bottom blocks are 10 inches by 36 inches in diameter; lining blocks 4x18, with six sets of riffles; dip, 4 inches in 12 feet, while its gravel capacity is 4,000 tons every 24 hours, with 2,000 inches of water. Seventy thousand feet of lumber have thus far been consumed in its construction. The bank is 53 ft. high, and in six days' work of ten hours each, with a 4-inch nozzle under an 80 foot head, 20,000 tons of gravel have been washed down and flumed away. The creek, upon leaving the cañon, makes a sweep from east to south about three miles to the lake. The company is now getting ready to lay its pipe from its present workings directly south to the lake, instead of following the old creek channel, and commence cutting back on bedrock to the extreme northern boundary of its property. This manner of precedure will give it a fine tailing-off or dumping place, save one and a quarter mile of flume, and pierce the center of the claims, whose highest point is 900 feet. Ample fall will thus be secured. There is now enough pine timber of the best quality standing on the claims along the creek to furnish blocks for two miles of flume. All the water coming from the cañon has been secured by purchase and pre-emption. They can also increase the number of inches to five thousand when necessary. All that is required is five more miles of ditch, which can easily be constructed, as the soil is good picking ground. There are two to five colors—and sometimes a dozen can be found — in every pan of dirt prospected on any part of the creek or its vicinity. — Bodie Free Press.

Texas' Painted Caves.

J. Van Wie informs the reporter that the grading forces on the Mexican extension of the Sunset Railway are now at Painted Cave, on Devil's river, or about two miles beyond. There are three caves at this locality, all of which are painted, the figures being buffaloes, bears, Indians with bows and arrows in warlike attitudes, Indians mounted and on the chase, squaws, etc. The caves have been tatooed, entirely, within, and many of these figures are still in a good state of preservation. This work was done by the red men in years long gone by, as the oldest white citizens remember these paintings, and say they look very much now as they appeared thirty and forty years ago, indicating the great age or the paintings. Mr. Van Wie has occupied one of these caves for kitchen and dining room purposes. It is about 40 feet long and ten feet wide. It is approached by climbing a hill, when the cave is entered from the side of the hill. Its mouth is covered with clusters of vines pendant from the branches and boughs of a clump of hackberry trees. In the top of this cave is a hole, extending to the surface, through which Mr. Van Wie has run two stovepipes. Another cave still, its shape being round, and of capacity to hold seventy or eighty people, is used for storage purposes. The third cave opens in a solid rock bluff, being about six feet in diameter, at the mouth, and extends backwards a distance of about 150 feet. —San Antonio Express.

SOMEBODY has condensed the mistakes of life, and arrived at the conclusion that there are fourteen of them, says an exchange. Most people would say (if they told the truth) that there was no limit to the mistakes of life, that they were like the drops in the ocean or the sands of the shore in number, but it is well to be accurate. Here, then, are fourteen great mistakes: "It is a great mistake to set up our own standard of right and wrong and judge people accordingly; to measure the enjoyment of others by our own; to expect uniformity of opinion in this world; to look for judgment and experience in youth; to attempt to mold all dispositions alike; not to yield to immaterial trifles; to look for perfection in our own actions; to worry ourselves and others with what cannot be remedied; not to alleviate all that needs alleviation as far as lies in our power; not to make allowances for the infirmities of others, to consider everything impossible that we cannot perform; to believe only what our finite minds can grasp; to expect to be able to understand everything." The greatest mistake is to live only for time, when any moment may launch us into eternity.

GUITEAU is still upon the rack.

Profit in Black Walnut.

IN view of the fact that the bottom lands of Owens River Valley are well adapted to the cultivation of black walnut, the following article will be of interest:

The smartest Texan, and, in fact, the smartest farmer I have ever met, is old Sim Graves, who lives on a 1,000-acre farm west of Waxahatchie, in central Texas. After Mr. Graves had shown me his cattle and cotton, he took me over to see his woods.

"Well, what of it," I said, as he pointed to a ten-acre forest.

"What of it? Why, them's black walnuts, sir. Ten acres of 'em. Planted 'em myself ten years ago. See, they're nine inches through. Good trees, eh?"

And sure enough there were ten acres of hand-planted black walnut trees. They stood about twelve feet apart. Two hundred to the acre — in all, 2,000 trees.

"Well, how did you get your money back?" I asked.

"Black walnuts are worth $2 50 a bushel, ain't they? I'll get 400 bushels this year. That's $1,000. A hundred dollars an acre is pretty good rent for land worth $15 an acre, ain't it?"

"Well, what else?" I inquired, growing interested.

"The trees," continued Mr. Graves, "are growing an inch a year. When they are twenty years old they will be nineteen inches through. A black walnut nineteen inches through is worth $25. My 2,000 trees ten years from now will be worth $25,000. If I don't want to cut all of them I can cut half of them and then raise a bushel of walnuts to the tree—that is, get $2,500 for the crop. Two hundred and fifty dollars an acre is fair rent for $15 land, ain't it?"

SALT IN DIPHTHERIA. — In a paper read at the Medical Society in Victoria, Australia, Dr. Day stated that, having for many years regarded diphtheria, in its early stage, as a purely local affection, characterized by a marked tendency to take on putrefactive decomposition, he has trusted most to the free and constant application of antiseptics, and, when their employment has been adopted from the first, and been combined with judicious alimentation, he has seldom seen blood poisoning ensue. In consequence of the great power which salt possesses in preventing the putrefactive decomposition of meat and other organic matter, Dr. Day has often prescribed for diphtheretic patients living far away from medical aid, the frequent use of a gargle composed of a teaspoonfull of salt dissolved in a tumbler of water, giving children who cannot gargle a teaspoonful or two to drink occasionally. Adults to use the gargle as a prophylectic or preventative, three or four times a day.

THE Springer bill, defining the law of insanity in criminal cases, provides that no person indicted in the United States Courts shall be acquitted on the ground of insanity, idiocy, lunacy or other unsoundness of mind, except on proof that, at the time of committing the offence, he was laboring under such derangement of reason as either not to know the nature of the act he was doing, or not to know it was unlawful and wrong.

THE Senatorial elections in France recently, resulted in a complete triumph of the Republicans. Of the seventy-nine seats contested, only thirteen were carried by the Monarchists. The remaining sixty-six were carried by the Republicans, who, for the greater part are pledged to support Gambetta in his scheme for the so-called reform of the Constitution. Gambetta's popularity with the Parisian masses is fast fading.

Want of memory is considered one of the strongest proofs of insanity. The tailors then have good reason to believe that most of their customers are crazy.

Some men who never succeed say it is because they can't see an opening. Often, however, it is because they see too many openings in tavern fronts.

A bridge over a stream in Missouri bears this legend: "Drive as fast as you want to, and be durned!" Everybody, therefore, drives at a walk.

Talk about "unkissed kisses" and unthunk thoughts." It is the unvoted votes that make half the mischief in politics.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE.

Monday last a telegram was received by the Quartermasters's agent in charge of Camp Independence property informing him that the sale of the buildings had been "indefinitely postponed." We believe now that no sale will ever be made, as indicated in the following favor from Congressman Pacheco, under date of Washington City, January 9, addressed to this paper:

"It is difficult to accomplish anything in the War Department as military people don't like civilian interference in their business. From this fact there have been many obstacles in the way. I have, however, succeeded with the Secretary of War in securing the postponement of the sale until after the adjournment of Congress, which will allow me ample time to work on my bill. I have no doubt as to its passage and I shall make every effort to accomplish that end."

IT has been reported that Secretary of War Lincoln has designs upon the Presidency, and would contest Mr. Arthur's right to the nomination. A Washington correspondent says that these stories are denied by Secretary Lincoln's friends, who speak at the Secretary's request, and add that the President, instead of seeking the early retirement of Mr. Lincoln from the Cabinet for that or any other reason, has renewed within the past day or two his wish that Mr. Lincoln should retain the War portfolio. That Senator Logan is working up his own boom to secure the Presidential nomination in 1884 many readily believe, but all statements that have been telegraphed concerning such matters are premature, as nothing has yet been said or done to justify their publication.

AT the meeting of the California Railroad Commission last week, Gen. Stoneman called up his resolutions, introduced last November, requiring the companies to furnish second-class accommodations to holders of second-class tickets, at rates not exceeding 60 per cent of the first-class fare. The resolution also contained clauses to the effect that second-class passengers should not be obliged to ride in the smoking cars, and that they be entitled to the same privilege of "lay-over" tickets as the first-class passengers. A warm debate ensued, and the resolutions were finally laid aside for want of a second. To say the least, this is unfortunate. Second-class passengers have rights which ought to be protected, and they are generally less able to "stand up" for them than first-class ones.

THERE is little doubt that should the verdict be guilty Guiteau will spend several months in jail before his execution. Of course the defendant's counsel will take the case up to the general term, and should the trial last over this week the case will go to the April term, which runs to September. In this case the prisoner's execution may be postponed until next Fall. If the jury get the case this week and find a verdict of guilty, the execution will take place in the Spring.

SENATOR MILLER, in response to the protests of Tulare people, has written that he will cause the indefinite postponement of his bill to establish a national park in the Tulare and Fresno big tree section. His letter is in the right tone, and it is probable in the outcome some legislation may be arrived at protecting the "majestic monarchs of the forest" without depriving people of cord wood to cook with.

NYE county, Nevada, is the largest county in the United States, covering 24,000 square miles. San Bernardino county, California, is next largest, with an area of 23,000 miles. California has four other counties that are each as large as Massachusetts, three that are larger than Connecticut, and fifteen others that are larger than Delaware. The smallest county in the United States is that of New York, and it has the largest population.

AMONG the on dits in connection with the Guiteau trial is a prediction that Juryman Bright will hang the jury, on the ground that Guiteau is insane. Bright's father was for some years an inmate of an insane asylum and the son has been peculiar.

THE Opinton, Bodie's new weekly newspaper, comes to hand. In all respects it is a most creditable concern—and editorially reflects the natural talent of that veteran journalist, Mr. O. E. Jones, the editor and proprietor.

SO FAR the arguments by the defense in the Guiteau case have been weak and have but little effect on the jury. It is expected that Porter's closing argument will be the grandest effort of the present decade.

RAILROAD MENTION.

The subjoined statement, condensed from two articles, is taken from the Chicago Times, Dec. 31. It will, of course, be read with interest by Inyo people, who have so long watched, waited and hoped for the incoming railroad and telegraph. That the natural advantages, as to business and feasibility, of Owens River Valley as a railroad route would eventually result in the building of one throughout its length has never been doubted by THE INDEPENDENT, although the final failure of the Los Angeles and Independence scheme was discouraging. THE INDEPENDENT originated that proposition; the Los Angeles Express fought for it with heart and brain in the work; Senator John P. Jones put a million dollars or so into it, but the skinflint cent-per-cent. capitalists of Los Angeles had not the business sense nor independence to support any opposition to the C. P. and S. P. monopoly. On this account Mr. Jones was financially "froze out," and compelled to yield up the franchise and road so far as constructed. Since those events we have been positive that the first locomotive whistle in the valley would be heard coming from the north, and there are some here — remembering the illiberality and assinine stupidity of those Los Angeles men who were given the railroad charter—who are glad that under the changed railroad relations the "City of the Angels" will gain no perceptible business advantages when the C. & C. road is completed to Mojave. The Chicago Times says:

It may be said that this railroad is almost a Pacific coast company. In fact, it is practically a new road, although it has over one hundred miles completed, and is continually building. Incorporated May 10, 1880, it has pushed its way rapidly through a rugged, mountainous country. Mr. H. M. Yerington, president and general superintendent, writes that this company's line will be in operation from Jan. 1, 1882, from Mound House, Nev., where it connects with the Virginia & Truckee Railway, forming a connecting link between it and the Central Pacific railway line at Candelaria, 186 miles southwest from Carson City, the capital of Nevada. From Candelaria the road will be extended during the present year in a southwesterly direction into Mono, Inyo and Kern counties, California, following the lines at Owens river through Owens Valley to a connecting point with the Southern Pacific railroad, to near Mohave station, Kern county, California. From D. A. Bender, secretary and general freight and passenger agent of the line at Carson City, Nevada, it was learned that since the road was opened for business it has been most prosperous, on account of its running through a large territory directly depending upon it for transportation facilities. The line is a most important one for Nevada, as it will be the means of causing the development of a large area of mining, grazing and agricultural country in both Nevada and California.

The Carson and Colorado Railroad is the direct and only route for freight and passengers to the Mono mining districts and those of southern Nevada. Mono and Inyo counties are also in California. Although the sections of country which this road will penetrate are at present unsettled and undeveloped, it is assured that when such admirable transportation becomes completed its varied and extensive grazing, agricultural and mineral resources will command attention from the world, and offer to the miner, the stock-raiser, the farmer, the mechanic and the merchant all the inducements for settlement which a new, prosperous, and progressive country naturally possesses. The Director of Mints of the United States, in his reports for 1880, says: "Inyo county is rich in minerals, and for a number of years has produced quantities of silver, lead, and argentiferous galena; and gold is found in its mountain ranges." Recent operations promise full development of these resources of mountain treasure. Heretofore the great drawback has been the high rate of transportation charged on bullion going out and supplies coming in. But when the extension of the Carson and Colorado road from Candelaria, through Owens Valley, one of the best mining countries on the coast, has been completed, no doubt more admirable facilities will be afforded. Immense beds of salt, borax, lime, sulphur, soda, etc., are in existence in Esmeralda county, which have been lying dormant for lack of transportation facilities, and will at once find a ready market. It becomes necessary to refer to this road in order to show the capabilities of that section, a section that has been practically inaccessible for carryfng on many pursuits. Owens Valley, which is destined to become a large and productive farming district, is one of the many beautiful garden spots that will be opened to the adventurous farmer, mechanic or business man. The opening at this time by this road offers superior inducements, which taken advantage of, must result in achievements gratifying with their results in various undertakings.

CONCERNING the campaign in favor of an Englishman's marrying his deceased wife's sister, the Boston Transcript wishes to know why Englishmen do not marry the sisters in the first place. "It takes Utah to settle any little difficulty like that."

IT is said that Mexican ladies, even among the wealthiest families, make their own dresses, almost as a universal rule.

THE Cincinnati Commercial says, on authority, that ex-President Hayes saved $60,000 out of his four years' salary.

A NEW measure is now under way to settle the slickens question to the satisfaction of all the parties in interest. It is found to be one of the most difficult questions that the State has ever encountered, and a settlement in favor of one or the other of the contending forces cannot be reached without operating something in the nature of a wide spread confiscation. Hence, with the view of settling the vexed question in a way that will give the least embarrssment to either of the great industries represented, a corps of United States Engineers, acting in the interest of the Federal Government, have been making surveys of the Yuba, American, Feather, Calaveras, Mokelumne and Cosumnes rivers, seeking for the best localities where dams may be constructed, and reservoirs for mud wherein slickens may be retained. The country has been carefully mapped, and storage places noted. One party of engineers surveyed the Calaveras and Mokelumne and Cosumnes rivers; another party the Yuba, American and Feather rivers. It is estimated that as a result of these explorations reservoirs of sufficient capacity to contain the sediment and slickens of five years' hydraulic mining will be provided at moderate expense to the Government.

THE city of Los Angeles has suffered from a destructive fire. It swept away the buildings between the United States Hotel and Cardona block, extending also to the rear, and destroying several wooden buildings. The fire would have been promptly suppressed, but there was delay in obtaining water, and the apparatus of the fire department proved defective. The losses are estimated at about $100,000. They will fall principally on the insurance companies. Although an immediate injury, this fire will prove a benefit in the end. Finer and more substantial buildings will take the place of those that have disappeared, and a great improvement be the result. Buildings that were considered good specimens of architecture a few years ago are far behind present requirements.

ONE important measure which is now in the hands of a sub-committee of the Senate is the framing of a national bankruptcy law. The sub-committee have agreed upon the main principles of the measure to be recommended, and the bill will soon find its way into the hands of the Judiciary Committee. While the special features of the proposed bill are still the secret of the sub-committee the statement is said to be made upon authority that its advantages over the old law will be in its inexpensiveness, thoroughness and convenience. The coming bankruptcy law will, of course, work a suspension of our very convenient State Insolvency Act.

OUR American securities manifest some novel peculiarities abroad. In times of profound peace the great national wealth and progress of the United States give them an enviable value; but, in view of the contemptible character of our national defenses, let the least speck indicative of international strife manifest itself on our political horizon, and they tumble with a most undignified suddenness. Cable dispatches from London show that American securities are hardly salable at present.

THE annual product of precious metals in the States and Territories west of the Missouri river, including British Columbia and the receipts at San Francisco from the west coast of Mexico, reported to Wells, Fargo & Co., is as follows: Thirty-one millions eight hundred and sixty-one thousand six hundred and eighty-six dollars in gold; silver, $45,077,829. California shows an increase in silver and a decrease in gold. Nevada shows a falling off, and Utah, Colorado and Arizona an increase.

GEN. CARR has been placed under arrest by order of the President. The cause is not definitely ascertained, but it is reported on good authority that it was on account of alleged frauds brought out at the recent trial of Indian scouts. On the subject of the disposition of the Apache prisoners captured by our troops in Arizona, Gen. Wilcox has recommended their being sent to Indian Territory and the leaders to Tortugas, except the convicted scouts, whose cases await special attention.

THE Southern Pacific railroad is doing some good work in Texas, the line being put down at the rapid rate of three miles a day. This eclipses the Arizona record of the same company and shows what experience and executive ability may do, with plenty of coin to back it. Texas is a big State, but if every railroad now building across it advanced in this fashion it would not take long to thoroughly "gridiron" its prairies.

THE Riverside Press states that Hon. R. Pacheco will not be a candidate for Congress from the Fourth District again, as his business interests are such that he cannot afford to sacrifice them.

THE proposed donation of the Camp Independence property to Inyo and Mono counties for school purposes, which in now making good headway in Congress, will be espoused by Senators Miller, Farley, Jones, and Fair, of California and Nevada. Of course it is mainly in the hands of Congressman Pacheco, of this district. In direct connection with the subject Mr. Pacheco will secure the passage of his bill for the relief and protection of the settlers and "citizens and occupants of land within one mile of the military post." Certain speculators may find that they don't absolutely boss the United States, and that the Quartermaster's agent here is not really the Secretary of War.

THE memory of Wheeler, the strangler, has doubtless grown dim to many, his crime having been committed so long ago. After a long delay he was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. His case was appealed to the Supreme Court, when, after long consideration, it was sent back for a new trial on the ground that the record of the inferior court was defective, in that it did not show when the crime was committed. The case, it is said, cannot be reached until 1883, when all the circumstances of the crime will be forgotten and the witnesses gone to parts unknown.

A WASHINGTON special to the New York Graphic says that despite of the frequent predictions to the contrary it is settled beyond a question that Sargent will be made Secretary of the Interior. We would regard Mr. Sargents' appointment as a Cabinet member as infinitely more desirable than that of Williamson, his chief opponent. The latter, as Land Commissioner, made more stupid rulings and perversions of the good intent of the desert land act and other general laws than any other man could possibly crowd into one official life.

ENGLAND'S four fastest trains are the Flying Dutchman, 194 miles in four hours, fourteen minutes, or about 46 miles an hour; the Leeds express, 187 miles in four hours, or almost 47 miles an hour; the Great Northern express, 395 miles in nine hours, or almost 44 miles an hour; the Midland night express, 425 miles at forty and one-half miles an hour. But the Pennsylvania train that leaves Jersey City at 4 P. M., and does the 88 miles to Philadelphia in 100 minutes, is the fastest in the world, running 52.8 miles an hour.

GOV. CORNELL sent a message to the New York Legislature calling attention to the recent railway accident at Spuyten Duyvil, and recommending prompt and vigorous legislation to prevent such accidents in the future. The Governor refers to the above-mentioned accident as one absolutely inexcusable; denounces the present means of heating and lighting railway cars, and suggests that all trains be required by law to carry appliances for breaking into wrecked cars and extinguishing fires.

NEW YORK is at present well supplied with Californians of wealth, and their extravagance is noticeable. Money is being squandered right and left, and no pains is spared in making displays. D. O. Mills' expenses average $1,000 per day, and when Mackay is here his bills foot up to a much larger amount. Fair of Nevada is more modest. W. H. Lent lives quietly, but does not hesitate to spend money when an occasion presents itself. The California colony is the life of the city.

IF Congress will provide for the establishment of a mint and bullion refinery in Arizona, at some point to be intersected by East and West and Mexican railroad lines, the business would suit Inyo county exactly. Our bullion product might then go to a country where the legitimate earnings of mining are appreciated, and not to San Francisco middle-men, stock sharps and timid "capitalists."

THE California Southern Railroad will be completed to Colton on or before the first of April next, beyond which place it will not be extended for some time to come. The grading will be completed in about six weeks, when, it is believed, the force engaged in that work will be transferred to the Atlantic and Pacific, probably to the section between Bakersfield and the point of crossing of the Southern Pacific.

THE report comes from Washington that Capt. Eads is making his approaches upon Congress with such skillful generalship that he is pretty sure to obtain the aid he asks for in constructing the ship railroad across the Isthmus of Tehauntepec.

UPON the completion of a new one hundred mile section of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, the Government has confirmed to the company patents for over 25,000 acres of land for each mile.

Last Thursday night a fracas occurred in the Grantsville Brewery saloon between H. M. Smith and Dominick Bradley. Smith told him to keep away as he did not wish to have any trouble. Bradley then pulled Smith out of a chair, striking him twice, knocking him down and kicking at him. Smith then drew his pistol, and shot Bradley through the lower part of the abdomen. The wound is likely to prove fatal.

Grading and track-laying are progressing favorably between this point and Belleville. The track is completed about half the distance this side of Belleville. The severe cold retards the laying of the water pipes of the White Mountain Water Company, but still the work goes on. The superintendent expects to have water in the Pickhandle reservoir within three weeks.

A private letter from Gold Mountain represents everything getting into active shape. The arrival of Superintendent Selover has raised the embargo in financial matters which has rested for some time on the State Line mine. It is expected that the mill will start up about the first of next month, when its stamps will awaken echoes long wished to be heard.

The arrival of Capt. G. G. Lyon was a pleasant one to the employes of the Princess mine and the White Mountain Water Company. A goodly quantity of double eagles are in circulation in consequence, and the hearts of merchants and boarding-house keepers made glad.

Ten car loads of lumber, aggregating four hundred thousand feet, were shipped from Carson on the 10th instant. This is intended to be used on the trestle work on the Carson and Colorado railroad between this place and Belleville.

The Grantsville Bonanza confirms the truth of the reported sale of the Alexander mine. The money, $675,000, was paid down in one check. The deeds for the mines have been recorded. Eastern parties are the purchasers.

Eureka, Esmeralda, Storey and Lander, in the order named, now are the largest silver producing counties in Nevada. This is shown by the forthcoming report of the State Controller.

There is some talk of forming a limited club. One of the principal by-laws reads that the number of drinks to be taken is limited to the number of times the member is asked.

The average daily yield of ore from the Northern Belle is about 52 tons. Bullion shipments for the week ending January 11th, $15,042 19. Shipments on January account up to January 11th, $19,211 21.

All the cattle on the Carson Sink are contracted for to go to Belleville at seven cents now and eight cents next month.

Fifteen hundred tons of railroad iron arrived at San Francisco recently. The Carson and Colorado Railroad Company are the consignees.

Numbers of the railroad graders find their way into town these evenings.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 21.....1882

THE RAILROAD. — THE INDEPENDENT was favored last night with a call by Mr. Jas. Olliver, Chief Engineer of the Carson & Colorado Railroad, and Mr. R. J. Laws, Assistant Superintendent. Both are thorough men, well versed in constructing railroads. Last Summer Mr. Olliver passed down through the valley to Lone Pine, from which point he returned northward on the east side of the river, setting stakes along and practically appropriating and acquiring for the C. & C. Company a railway route. On this trip, with Mr. Laws, he will go to Mojave, thence by the C. P. to San Francisco and from there by rail back to Belleville. The chief business of these gentlemen, during their trip, has been to ascertain the comparative advantages of the routes open to the road—on the east or west sides of Owens River and the Lake. On this side are located all the towns and farms, on the other is a barren stretch at the base of the Inyo range. This has the population and present business. The other has most of the mines—thousands of them, so far as comparatively surface prospecting shows. The width of the valley will average only some ten or twelve miles, so that locomotives, cars and the telegraph anywhere will be "good enough." But we are inclined to believe that the main line will run on this side, through Bishop, Big Pine, Independence, Lone Pine and Olancha — the work of constructing a branch road along the base of the Inyos being only a simple matter. Grading has been commenced this side of Belleville and all material is on hand to complete the road to McBride's ranch. As to the course of the route through the valley, the gentlemen say that they have never found a dissenting voice, and no land owners but who are willing to give the right of way free.

DARWIN.—From Billy Lake, who visited Darwin a day or so ago, we learn that the present business and future outlook is much better than for years past. Messrs. Reddy & Gorman have some 25 or 30 men employed in the Defiance and Custer mines, both of which are looking better, if possible, than ever. Twenty tons of hard ore is being delivered at the furnace daily, there being now about 1,000 tons at the stacks, with 20,000 bushels of coal already delivered. Both the Defiance furnaces will be fired up on the 25th, requiring altogether about sixty men to keep them going. The late cold weather has delayed much necessary outside work, preparatory to the proposed long run; otherwise the bullion output would have begun before this. The Defiance owners advertise this week that freight teams will be wanted after the 25th, to haul the base bullion to the railroad, at Mojave station. It don't appear that Messrs. Reddy & Gorman consulted San Francisco capitalists about this thing, yet the work goes on all the same.

RETURNED.—Messrs. L. C. Gray and John H. Holt, managing superintendents of the Kearsarge and Rex Montis mining properties returned from San Francisco last week. We have not been able to learn anything definite as as to the programme of either of the companies. The complete apathy of the San Francisco stock holders in these mines and mills is incomprehensible, save on the general proposition that San Francisco, Pine street or Pauper Alley is played out—which we believe to be the fact. The Comstocks sharps have busted the game. It has been simply miserable stock speculation instead of legitimate mining investments that has made them "all broke up," as it were. In the two series of mines mentioned the companies might at least lease the properties to chloriders, instead of doing next to nothing themselves. With a little capital, hard work and decent management, any experienced man can take either the Kearsarge or Rex Montis properties and make all the money he wants.

KEYNOT.—Superintendents O. G. Fuentes and Peter Taylor, of the Keynot mine and the Taylor & McEvoy mill, respectively, are now in Beveridge District taking a new look at things generally. They are accompanied this time by H. H. Scott, a prominent San Francisco stock-broker. It would rather look as though the Keynot owners have already lost too much valuable time in truckling to possible San Francisco purchsers of their rich mine. At least two-thirds of the money they ask for it could have beeu taken out in the meanwhile.

A CORRECTION. — We are in recipt of communications from both the principals in one of the divorce cases noted last week—that of Harrell vs. Harrell, desiring a necessary correction. It was Wm. O. Harrell who obtained the decree, instead of Mrs. Isabella Harrell. The report was made as stated to us at the time, and not based upon a careful examination of the record, which we find appears as foregoing.

PANAMINT CON.—According to A. W. Robinson, who lately brought some $2,000 in silver from Surprise Cañon into Darwin, there are about 50 miners at work in Panamint, extracting ore for Pinney's much abused and blackmailed "Eastern Company." The big mill is steadily pounding out bullion, and we are glad that New Yorkers get the dividend benefits.

IDLE—The Lookout country is idle, the late lessee of the Modock being in San Francisco. The Snow Cañon and Minneatta works, in the same district, and adjacent, are also quiescent. Lee District, just this side of Darwin, with its fine mill, is in the hands of San Francisco Micawbers, waiting for "something to turn up."

WARRANTS. — See Treasurer Hardy's notification of County warrants payable, they being some pieces the holders whereof are unknown.

Inyo Consolidated Superintendent's Official Report.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT,
Inyo Con. Mining & Milling Co.,
Surprise Cañon, Inyo Co., Cal.
PANAMINT, Jan. 18, 1882.

To the President of Inyo Con. M. & M. Co., Dr. J. H, Mott, 58 Broadway, N. Y.: DEAR SIR—The mill has continued to run without any interruption since my last with the usual good results. Have on hand eight bars of bullion which I will ship as soon as storm is over. Will ship about fifteen more to complete month's run on the last of January. Our mines all continue to look well and promising.

Yours, truly,
THOS. B. PHEBY, Supt.

Our Panamint correspondent adds: "Enclosed find copy of Supt. Pheby's letter to the President of the Company. For the past few days we have had considerable bad weather, but the work goes on as though everything was sunshine. The mines are still yielding an abundance of good ore, with every prospect of a steady increase. It now looks that under the present management this will yet be one of the camps. Mr. Bibbins is here looking around in the interest of Eastern parties. I have every reason to believe that he has formed a new company, with your old ex-Judge, A. C. Hanson as their Superintendent. So things may yet boom here."

DISCHARGED.—In the Superior Court yesterday, J. P. Brown was granted a final discharge, in insolvency. In the matter of the bond of Charles H. Parsons, as guardian of the person of Jessie Squires, it was approved and letters of guardianship issued.

TAXES. — The County Auditor has completed his official examination of the list of delinquent property taxes. There remains to be paid only $5,987 48 due from 142 persons assessed.

RICH ORE. — A sample of ore from the Indiana mine at Swansea, sent in by C. J. Johnson, and assayed by Mr. Woodhull, gives in silver, 4,745.93 oz. per ton; value, $6,265 18.

Bishop Creek Items.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

MOUNTAIN CHIEF.—The drift running from the bottom of the shaft to make connection with the incline has encountered the ledge, and it is expected that the connection will be made in a few days. Slow progress was made during the week owing to the fact that most of the men employed in the mine were busy building a boarding house near the arastra. When completed it will be run by Mrs. E. A. Greer. The arastra is being overhauled and a new bottom is being put in, and as soon as repaired will be started up again.

Bishop Creek experienced several shocks of earthquake during the past week, one about 10:30 o'clock last Saturday night, another the following morning about 6 o'clock, and still another slight shock was felt on Thursday morning.

Charley Hollenbeck, Nap Baker, Bob Baker, Nate Mount and several others left yesterday morning for Beveridge for the purpose of erecting a five-stamp mill for the owners of the Laura mine.

J. F. Smith delivered last Sunday the first freight by the new route, four days from Belleville, making a reduction of six days' less time from San Francisco than by Mojave.

A Brief Vacation.

Supt. Thos. Holt, of the Bodie Railway and Lumber Company, has gone to San Francisco on a brief vacation. Mr. Holt came to Bodie a stranger last Summer, and commenced the work of building the narrow gauge railroad. Since then his labors have been arduous. He has built thirty-two miles of railroad, half of it over a most mountainous country, and the rails for which had to be hauled over fifty miles by team. He has also built a large sawmill and cut up over 5,000,000 feet of lumber. Mr. Holt has proved himself a man of very great capacity as a railroad builder and manager. He has had a wide experience on railways in the East, as well as in the construction of public buildings. He did the finishing work on the magnificent Postoffice in New York, as well as that of the Custom House in San Francisco, and has erected other large buildings and works in different parts of the United States. The local railroad will be in operation again by the first or middle of March, and during the coming Summer it is probable that it will be extended to connect with the C. & C., a contract having been already entered into to deliver the requisite amount of rails by July 1st.—Bodie Free Press.

From Gospel Swamp.

BISHOP CREEK, Jan. 18.

The extreme cold weather of the past two weeks have allowed the residents of this burg the opportunity to amuse themselves with the innocent, harmless, and muscle-producing exercise of skating. And nearly every person from the youthful school boy to the aged resident have taken advantage of that opportunity and tried their skates on the many ponds in and around Bishop. The small boy loves to see how many times he can fall upon the ice, and with what activity he can rise to his feet again and glide off with his many companions. But it is entirely different with those who have approached proud manhood. They allow the youthful maiden the privilege of doing the falling and performing all the other manevours pertaining to the sport, while they stand by as attentive, close observers. There is undoubtedly a vast amount of enjoyment in skating; but in Bishop it is difficult to ascertain which has the bulk of that enjoyment, the skaters, or the observers.

The clergy are making it lively for sinners in this neighborhood. Prayer meetings, preaching, etc., are held daily, and no less than twenty converts have been made during the last two weeks. At every meeting some person goes upon the mourners' bench, acknowledge their guilt of sin, and ask the prayers of the congregation. There are no less than four preachers engaged in this work of salvation, and they expect before they get through to have at least three-fourths of the people of the town faithful followers of the Lord. Whether their expectations shall be accomplished remains to be seen.

Another member of the Piute tribe has gone to the happy hunting grounds from the effects of a gun-shot wound administered by one of his brother Indians. The victim was an old man known as "Old Beans," and his slayer is known as Indian Mike. Several different stories as to the cause of the shooting, but it is impossible to ascertain, which, if any, is the correct one.

BRIEF MENTION.

Mr. Robt. Weir, clerk of the Poleta mine, has moved his family to Bishop, where they intend to reside in the future .... Harry Fontecella and Will Davis expect to start for Colorado about February 1st .... Louis Munzinger, heavy weight pugilist of Bishop, intends to start a school in the "manly art of self defence."....Whist is the popular game in town. Messrs. Esmeralda "Herald"-ings.

Alf Chartz has again been denied pardon by the Board of Pardons. We certainly felt disappointment at the announcement, but humbly bow to the judgment of the Board, as of course they know best. Johnny Donovan, well known to many in Aurora and other parts of Nevada, also in portions of California, was pardoned last Monday.

Upon an appeal from a decision of the Register and Receiver of the Bodie Land Office, upon the claim of Jonathan Boomershine to certain land on which a great portion of the town of Lundy is located, the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington decides in favor of Boomershine. Sixty days is given to appeal.

P. P. Moses, of Pine Grove, Esmeralda county, Nevada, advertises in today's Herald a five-stamp quartz mill, with engine and boiler complete, for sale cheap. Also six large sized horses and three wagons.

The Indian Queen Mill and Mining Company shipped Dec. 31, 1881, $9,145 54. Total shipment for the month of December, 1881, $22, 293 88.

AT 4 o'clock Monday morning the Exchange Hotel in Aurora was discovered to be in flames, and in an hour the building was a total ruin, nothing remaining standing but the brick walls. It seems a waiter got up at 3.30 o'clock, and built a large fire in the kitchen range, and then returned to bed. As the fire originated in the kitchen, it is evident something ignited near the stove. Before the discovery was made the entire rear portion of the hotel was in flames, and the fire spread to other portions of the building with such rapidity that scarcely anything could be saved. Those residing in the hotel lost everything, and several made very narrow escapes from their rooms. Mrs. Stoutenborough, of Bishop Creek, who was a guest, lost her wardrobe and jewelry, valued at $1,000. But $200 worth of property was saved. The Exchange Hotel was a large two-story structure and was owned by Angus McLeod, the landlord. It was erected in 1862. There was no insurance. Mr. McLeod will rebuild the hotel. This is the only fire of any consequence Aurora has had in many years.—Bodie Free Press.

THE people of Visalia held a public meeting on the 10th for the purpose of trying to induce the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad to go down the valley and pass through that town. A resolution was adopted to the effect that depot site and right-of-way through the town and vicinity would be guaranteed. Probably if all the towns in the valley, including Stockton, were to take similar steps and offer such inducements as they are able, the route might be changed to go down the valley, instead of by the way of the Salinas, San Juan and San Jose valleys, as is now the evident intention. We have not found it necessary to take any action here. Bakersfield stands at the great transcontinental railroad portals of the State. It is one of those natural trade centers to which all routes of trade and travel naturally converge. All the roads now pushing westward across the continent must come together here, however much they may diverge afterwards.—Kern Co. Californian.

IT is some time since George H. Pendleton has been heard from, but he turns up now as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1884.

Silver.

Against an unjust, and, in one sense, a double discrimination, the silver interest in this country has within the past few years risen to a marked prominence, and is bestowing its generous favors with a lavish hand upon a people and nation which deny its value, and virtually protest against its development. While the strong arm of the government protects by tariff the development of every other mineral, and encourages the production of the baser ores, silver is not only compelled to compete with the nations of the world in the market, but is practically shut out from its true place in the currency of the country. However, in the face of these obstacles it is proving itself not only to be an industry of great value and importance, but to be one of the chief elements in extending the borders of civilization, and opening up new fields to be filled with farms, cities, manufactories and other substantial evidencies of industrial and financial prosperity.

The statement of the Director of the Mint places the value of the annual production of silver for 1881 at $39,200,000, and this estimate is certainly very much less than the actual amount produced. The addition of at least $40,000,000 of an available commodity per annum, with positive assurance of a largely increased production, in addition to the other lines of business which follow upon its footsteps and thrive upon its activity, is a fact worthy of more attention than it has received. An industry which adds that amount alone to the channels of commerce deserves at least to be placed upon an equal footing with other productive industries of not greater value and importance.

THE papers published in the mining camps are at all times the most trustworthy sources of information in regard to the mines, and we believe that they deal quite as fairly with the public as do the exponents of any special industry in any part of the country.—Bodie Free Press.

THE business of stage-robbery has been reduced to such an exact science in Arizona that it is reported that Wells, Fargo & Co. have thought of withdrawing the express service from many points in that Territory, including Tombstone, the losses largely exceeding the receipts.

Lost in The Desert

I.

The withered winds sighed with heated breath o'er the burning desert sand. The distant rim of the syren-like horizon kept equal pace with a lone and discouraged wanderer. Yet still he hopes and rouses up his tired frame, in just obedience to his soul's command. The heat increases with every step, till the sun pours down his fiery beams like red-hot thunder-bolts. He bravely presses on, although his heart at every throb sends the fiery blood through every vein.

Again shading his eyes with his sun-burned hand, he stops, and peers with anxious gaze at the far blue rim, quivering in the heat. He pictures to himself a little blue-eyed daughter in a far off land. He sees her stoop before the spring, her feet upon the well worn rock, and lift to him with lily fingers dripping with the crystal water, the old brown mug, which "Grandpa" loved to drink from years ago. A rapid thought of blank despair dashes the angel vision from his mind.

From his home a thousand miles away, his thoughts return to his own misfortunes and wretched surroundings. His hope begins to melt away, as if it were a shallow pool striving for its place, before its master, the fiery sun. At length he stops to rest. The dreadful truth is now too plain. He is lost. The heated air at every breath, rasps his dry throat. He looks toward heaven and his vision is dazzled with a flood of lighted heat. He gazes at the gray and livid sand, but it offers no relief. He views the far off circle of dingy blue, but still it seems the same. He staggers for a moment and feels as though a sudden whirlwind of flame had swallowed up his being. Its force subsides, and with a dizzy brain and reeling step, he starts again regardless of direction. The ground is like a heated furnace, the air is like its breath. Ha! A grim smile lights up his care-worn face. The shifting waves of heated air, that play before his vision, send their force to play upon his brain. His mind wanders, The sand begins to change. He rolls his glazing eyes, and gazes on a lake of crystal water. Its million tiny waves, each reflect their golden light like scattered diamonds. Stooping to receive a gracious draught. to end that life-consuming thirst, he falls upon the livid sand; his resting place forever.

II.

He dreams of fairy forms that dance around, and o'er his boat, which glides upon the surface of a river. The wild lilies on the bank, nod a welcome as he passes. The long branches of the willows, bathing their plumes in some circling eddy plash a rain of dew-drops on his brow. They all pass by. Faster and faster flows the current. He reaches for the oars but cannot move. The scene begins to change, like the dissolving views on a showman's canvas. All fades away, and in his dream, he visits o'er again his boyhood's happy home. In fancy there again, he wades, a barefoot boy, in the clear spring water, as it wanders through the tufts of green cresses. His boyhood's days vanish. Now he sees his little daughter, and as she holds the old brown mug to his parched lips, he quaffs the strengthening liquid and is at rest.

III.

Two coyotes, with flashing teeth and bristling hair, are fighting over the carcass of a man. The fiercer of the two holds the other at bay, and amid fierce snarls and growls, proceeds to devour his easy prey. Ere a day has passed, the stripped and whitened bones are scattered over the sand. Here, unknown, reposes all that remains of him, whom a daughter awaits, in that far off home. Oft will she sit in her father's old arm chair, and through the open window, with misty eyes, look out upon the moon-lit water, as it winds among the cresses. Little will she ever know of those poor white bones, scattered on the desert sands, round which the howling coyote holds his revels undisturbed.

WADE.

He Did His Duty.

In the pioneer days of Michigan a horse-thief or murderer stood as good a chance of being run up a limb as one of those characters does now in the Far West. One night, thirty years ago, a stranger, who had not only stolen a horse, but shot one of his pursuers, was overhauled near De Wit, Clinton county, and taken to jail. In half an hour a mob was drummed up, and proceeded to the jail to remove the prisoner and hang him. One of the foremost was a lawyer named Green, dead long since. In fact he led the mob and acted as spokesman. When the crowd reached the "cooler" Green stepped forward alone to demand the prisoner of the jailer, and after a conference lasting five minutes he returned to the mob and said:

"Gentlemen, I at first believed the prisoner to be guilty, but now I have my doubts about it. In fact I firmly believe in his innocence."

"How do you make that out?" yelled a dozen men.

"Why, gentlemen, I at first supposed he was some poor coon without a dollar in his pocket, but I have learned that he has over $200 in cash, and it is my further duty to inform you that he has retained me as counsel. Gentlemen stand back! The first red-handed villian who raises a hand against my innocent client will pass the next ten years in State Prison." — Detroit Free Press.

WHEN Commander De Long, of the Jeannette, drew the awful prize in the lottery of Arctic exploration, his ambition rose to fever heat. So much so that in a measure it dried away the tears of his almost broken-hearted wife, who felt the fate of Lady Franklin wrapping her mind as a dead body is swathed in a winding sheet. Just before Commander De Long left the Capitol, husband and wife decided to go to the White House and receive the Executive prayers and blessings ere the doomed vessel should unfurl her sails.

Arriving at the proper morning hour they waited and waited, until patience was gone, when a messenger returned, bringing the sad intelligence that "the President could not be seen, but Mrs. Hayes would soon be at leisure." Another period of precious time passed when the rustling of silk was heard in a distant corridor, and at last a huge bouquet "hove" in sight, with a remarkable smiling lady behind it. Without giving Captain De Long an opportunity to get in a word edgewise, Mrs. Hayes seemed determined to let the visitors know that she had mastered the situation and knew all about it; but imagine the consternation of the brave naval commander to find that he had been mistaken for a charlatan who had invented a method of freezing out yellow fever on board of ships irrespective of the vessel's latitude.

THE dome of the Capitol at Washington is the most ambitious structure in America. It is 108 feet higher than the Washington Monument in Baltimore, 68 feet higher than Bunker Hill Monument, and 23 feet higher than the Trinity tower in New York. It is the only considerable dome of iron in the world. It is a vast hollow sphere of iron, weighing 8,000,000 pounds. How much is that? About 4,000 tons, or a weight of about 70,000 full-grown persons, or about equal to 1,000 coal cars. which holding four tons each. would reach two miles and a half. Directly over your head is a figure of bronze. "America," weighing 14,985 pounds. The pressure of the iron dome upon its pier and pillars is 12,447 pounds to the square foot. St. Peter's presses nearly 20,000 pounds more to the square foot, and St. Genevieve, at Paris, 77,000 pounds more. It would require, to crush the support of our dome a pressure of 557,270 pounds to the square foot. This dome cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

THE Bakersfield Californian says that the land taken up in Kern county by Haggin and Carr under the Desert Land Act, was worthless without irrigation, and that they have spent $1,500,000 in reclaiming and cultivating it, and will probably have to invest as much more. The fact that they have succeeded in making it productive and valuable not only works benefit to them, but to the whole county, as may readily be understood. There are vast tracts of desert land still uncultivated in San Diego and other counties. Some day capitalists will find profit in investing millions of dollars in reclaiming them, and, after the work is done, growlers and demagogues will get up on their hind legs and bray about land-grabbing and land-monopoly.

SENATOR BAYARD of Delaware made a notable speech on the tariff question in the Senate on Tuesday, in which he took a middle or compromise ground between the high protectionists and the tariff for revenue advocates. It is surmised that his speech will be the means of placing the Senator prominently as a Democratic candidate for the Presidency in 1884.

MAJOR GEN. HANCOCK has been invested as Commander of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of Philadelphia.

IT may be a popular superstition or it may be a natural fact that dogs presage death. It is well known that experienced nurses tell the approach of death by a peculiar and indescribable odor, imperceptible to all others, and it is therefore supposable that the acute noses of dogs may detect something imperceptible to human organs, which terrifies them as the smell of blood terrifies the unfortunate beasts at the slaughter-house. A curious incident which would go to confirm some people in their belief in the death-prescience of dogs, occurred recently at a house on Post street, where there were a Newfoundland dog and a parrot. The dog—usually a very quiet animal—showed during the night and early morning symptoms of extraordinary distress, and his howls communicated extraordinary distress to all who were unlucky enough to be within hearing of them. At length the dog—towards 7 o'clock — lay down in front of the parrot's cage and did his howling there. Before long the parrot reeled on his perch and dropped to the bottom of the cage dead. Now whether the howling of the dog killed the parrot, or whether the dog knew the parrot was going to die and was distressed by the knowledge — for he and the parrot were great friends—must be left to Darwin & Co. to decide.

A REMARKABLE exhibition of tranquility under acute suffering and generally disheartening circumstances was furnished by Mr. C. K. Tibbitts, a victim of the accident on the Boston and Maine railroad recently. He was found by a reporter, soon after the disaster in a farm house kitchen near the wreck, propped up in two chairs, with his head against the wall. One leg was badly crushed, his right arm was disabled, and his head was so thickly bound with linen that his mouth and one eye were the only features visible; but the philosopher was smoking a cigar, and evidently enjoyed it. He could not speak aloud, but he huskily whispered that there was no use in crying when he could just as well laugh.

AT the Brighton (England) police court, the chief constable informed the magistrate that a prisoner named Alfred Humphrey, charged with obtaining money by false pretences, had been barking like a dog since he was placed in the cells, and had also snapped savagely at several of the constables. The chief constable had sent him to the hospital, and had since been told that he had been bitten by a cat a short time before. The stipendiary said the charge had better be allowed to drop. Subsequently, upon medical examination, it was found that the man was perfectly well, and that his apparent distress was simulated.

THE Gold Hill News gives the title of Oscar Wilde's lecture as the Truly True, the Bully Good and the Bang-up Beautiful. Oscar intends to visit the Comstock, having heard that that region is full of mining superintendents of esthetic tastes and high up in cult. The Comstock cult, as is well known, contains some beautiful poetic phrases and expressions, among which may be mentioned the delicate reference usually made by a Comstocker to the ancestry of his enemy.

MR. CARL ROCK, who was traveling in Borneo for the Dutch Government, who were very anxious to obtain information as to certain tribes, visited Sibau Mobang, a cannibal chief, who, when he saw him, had fresh upon his hands the blood of no less than seventy victims—men, women and children — whom he and his followers had just slaughtered, and whose heads and brains, considered the tidbits, he had devoured. His appearance was unprepossessing.

JUST as Louis XVI. loved lock making, so Charles IV. of Spain had a craze for the manufacture of sausages, which he carried on in strict seclusion in a building specially set apart for it. Lady B., a handsome Englishwoman, true to the instincts of Grandmamma Eve, must needs peep in on his Most Christian Majesty. He detected the fair spy, and punished her by seizing her with his bloody hands and repeatedly kissing her.

THE Gold Run suit progresses slowly at Sacramento. Testimony is still being taken. The indications are that the debris struggle will drag on indefinitely, unless the efforts of our Representatives in Congress to enlist the aid of the National Government in its settlement shall be successful.

ORDERS have been received at New Orleans from San Francisco to provide freight room in March and April for 180,000 bushels of wheat for Great Britain. This wheat is to be shipped from California to New Orleans by the Southern Pacific railroad, thence by steamer to its destination.

THE semi-annual dividends and interest to be paid in Philadelphia this month are estimated at $10,000,000. The city itself pays $2,050,000.

ABOUT half the divorces granted in Chicago now are said to be on account of the drunkenness of the wives. This is terrible, if true.

THE indictments against Peter B. Sweeney, of the New York Ring, have been nol prossed. He paid $400,000 on them some years ago.

A GOVERNOR is to be elected in New York this year, and the politicians are already giving themselves much concern about it.

MASSACHUSETTS savings banks have $13,000,000 more money than they had last year at this time.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

THE LATEST, SO FAR.

Washington dispatches of day before yesterday wind up our latest news of the infernal Guiteau business as follows:

"When the verdict was pronounced Guiteau turned deathly pale and was an object of misery. It was a surprise to him, as he thought the jury would not agree. When the officers conducted him to the van he said scarcely a word. The vast crowd hissed as he passed, and as he entered the close wagon he felt much relieved. It was a trying moment for all concerned. The prisoner upon reaching the jail threw himself upon his couch and displayed signs of emotion. During the night he was wakeful and prisoners in adjoining cells state that his agony was great. At breakfast this morning he could eat but little, and the guard noticed that he showed signs of weakness. However, he says a new trial will be granted, and that he will be acquitted by a competent jury."

"It was found on inquiry that the jury took two ballots, At first eleven votes were cast for conviction and one blank. This was given by Hanlin, who wanted to be assured that Guiteau had said at any time that the notoriety he would gain by killing the President would increase the sale of his book."

LYNCH law is coming to be very frequently invoked all over the United States, observes the Daily Report. The responsibility for this rests on the clumsy construction of the laws, and the proneness of lawyers to raise and Judges to consider trivial technicalities, that often in cases of strongly proven guilt enable criminals to escape punishment. The Vigilance Committee had its origin in the far West at a time when the region was sparsely settled and it was impossible to bring criminals to punishment by the ordinary methods of law; but the only excuse for it now is that, though there are laws and all the necessary machinery for their enforcement, they are so cumbered with technicalities as to render the conviction of a criminal extremely uncertain, and hence an outraged community takes the law into its own hands and hangs a murderer or ravisher. The plea of insanity, inspiration or impulse is never set up in Judge Lynch's Court.

ONE of the largest and heaviest engines ever built is now being constructed in Sacramento for use on the heavy grades of the Tehachipa pass. Its weight will be, when in running order, about sixty tons, or about one-half greater than the present engines. This is exclusive of the tender, but including the latter, with fuel and water for use, the weight will be about ninety tons. It is expected to take twelve full-loaded cars over the grade. In consequence of its great size and weight the running machinery will be different from ordinary engines, and there will be a change in some other points of construction. It will be ready for use some time in the month of March. If it proves a success more will be built after the same pattern.

IN an interview with the Quartermaster's agent in charge of Camp Independence, we learn that something in the article of last week, quoting Congressman Pacheco's letter in regard to the school bill, had greatly offended that individual. An article from Mr. Gelatt will probably appear in the Bishop Creek Times to-day, which was intended to be "pretty bitter." When received, this paper will give it due attention. We may, in advance, give Mr. Gelatt the benefit of his general denial — that he has never officially (!) sought to interfere with the passage of Pacheco's bill granting the property to Inyo and Mono counties for school purposes.

THE State Miner's Association contemplates, as soon as the trial of the Gold Run case is concluded, to call a convention of the miners of California, to consider ways and means for the common defense of the mining interests and rights. All miners will be invited to attend, irrespective of the character of the mining they are engaged in, as the continued and persistent attacks made upon hydraulic mining are considered as placing the whole mining industry in jeopardy in this State.

THE phenomenal weather in Southern California will spoil many a contemplated editorial on the semi-tropical climate of Los Angeles and San Bernardino. Snowstorms and penetrating cold weather are not features of the tropics. The visitation, however, will be viewed with great complacency, as it has relieved the country from an impending drought.

NEVADA contains 110,700 square miles. Of this area 35 square miles are rivers and smaller streams, and 925 square miles lakes and ponds, making a total water surface of 960 square miles and a total land surface of 109,740 square miles.

THE COMING RAILROAD.

The trip throughout the valley to Mojave by Chief Engineer Olliver and Assistant Superintendent Laws will at least show to the company the fact that there is not the slighest difficulty in running the C. & C. road on either side of the river and lake. On this, or the west, side is situate the population, the farms and the towns. On the other the road would skirt along the base of the Inyo's nearest to the greatest number of mines. This side is the most direct route to the terminus at Mohave. While to have a railroad run anywhere through the valley will be a grand thing for the country, it is infinitely preferable to have it connect with the present points of population, which are located at the only places where the surrounding fertile lands and mountain water make the most pleasant residences.

We hear of nothing otherwise than the road builders will be met with the kindest feeling everywhere. A true public spirit prompts farmers to offer all rights of way free, while John Clarke, one of the principal land owners around the town of Bishop Creek has proffered a 40-acre tract joining the town for depots, round house, works or what not. Here, we understand, Mr. Isaac Harris has offered to give any vacant town lots which the company may select. There can hardly be a doubt but that Lone Pine, George's Creek and Big Pine people will do the same thing.

These inducements should be sufficient, but these whole facts ought to be completely compiled by a competent committee of well-informed citizens, and set forth to the company in good shape. THE INDEPENDENT suggests that at Bishop, Big Pine, Independence and Lone Pine public meetings be called for the purpose of discussing the question and selecting citizens to act as a general committee. The men so chosen might designate out of their number a smaller Executive Committee, whose business it would be to canvass the whole matter thoroughly in their respective districts and by agreement meet here at the Court House and make up a report for submission to the C. & C. directory and for publication.

The vast importance of the matter warrants some movement of the kind, and we trust that the ball will be started by the Bishop Creekers to begin with. It will roll this way fast enough, and finally a concert of action be attained.

LAS VEGAS is a lively town; but though young and frolicsome, it stands on its dignity when any one from the East ventures to act as an oracle. Recently a meeting wrs held there to organize reading rooms and a library association. Everything was going on well, when a young man from Boston attempted to urge the claims of a Young Men's Christian Association. He was sternly suppressed, and the local reporter describes the process with great gusto in this style: "No one had gone there to be outwinded by a buckshort with a pet hobby, and the young man from Boston—the meek and lowly lamb, the superlatively pious individual—was most graciously and becomingly squatted down upon by the uncouth and unpretentious sons of the West — the men who have made Las Vegas what she is to-day, and who can dispense with the interference of a bean rattled upstart from Bosting, or some other seaport village on the Eastern border."

ONE of the silliest pieces of legislation ever attempted outside the walls of an ordinarily well regulated insane asylum is that which Senator Miller of New York is endeavoring to secure. The Senator's bill recently introduced, provides that every family in the United States shall be furnished with a transcript of all Congressional proceedings! Just contemplate the Government going into a quasi newspaper enterprise upon such a scale—distributing weekly about 10,000,000 of printed sheets, not 100,000 of which would ever be read. And calculating the cost for printing, clerical labor, etc., at 2 cents each we have a weekly outlay of $200,000. If this is a sample of the best brains in New York the intellect of the Empire State is sadly in need of cultivation.

THE State Immigration Association has begun well. Its financial affairs seem to be at the low ebb, but as the expense of conducting its business is secured for the present, it will probably have a larger fund by the time that heavy outlays come to be demanded. It has $152 on hand and monthly subscriptions of about $300. At a meeting of the Executive Committee, held on the 17th, C. H. Strue, Land Officer, reported that 142 townships had been examined and 153,000 acres of vacant land discovered, and that a small number of immigrants had been sent to different counties in the State. The Secretary invites reliable information valuable for immigrants, from all who wish to respond.

AN ACT OF JUSTICE.

We quote the following from the Bakersfield Californian, in reference to amending the provisions of the so-called Sargent desert land Act. Congressman Rosecrans' bill, as mentioned, is even more appropriate in its applicability to this particular valley than to Kern County, because this region has as much or more water running to waste and at least 100,000 acres of fertile but at present dry lands, which should be brought into value by irrigation from the river. Out of this amount perhaps some ten or twenty sections have been filed upon, and in but two or three instances has the land been really reclaimed and cultivated. This fact has been mainly the result of "hard times," lack of capital, mining enterprise and all that. Now that a railroad is to come through the valley these difficulties will vanish; and those who were enterprising enough to locate and pay the first instalment on desert lands should have the benefit of some law giving them a reasonable extension of time in which to perfect title. We indorse the following from the journal mentioned:

Gen. Rosecrans has introduced a bill into the House to extend the time for making final proofs and payment in desert land entries. This bill is no more than an act of justice to those who have made entries under the Act in good faith, and ought to pass. Experience has shown that, with all the energy that can be employed, aided by the resources of unlimited capital, it has been impossible is some cases, to effect reclamation within the time allowed by law, as it now stands. In an extensive desert like the one being reclaimed in this vicinity the absorption of water is so great that many years must elapse before it can find its way into the irrigating system of each quarter section or claim located, and the land be reclaimed under a proper construction of the law. Every reasonable opportunity should be given those who have entered upon the reclamation of desert lands with honest intentions and good faith.

THE Pacific Coast Mechanic's Educational Association, a society whose objects will be the diffusion of useful knowledge pertaining to mechanics, by means of courses of lectures and the formation of classes for instruction, has been organized at the University at Berkeley.

Machinery Not "Locatable."

The quicksilver claims near Steamboat Springs, Washoe county, Nev., have been relocated as abandoned, no work having been done on them for two years. We notice that one of the Nevada papers, usually better posted, says that the works, said to have cost $30,000, are on the ground, and became the property of the relocators. This is wrong. The Government can not compel a man to work a furnace or a steam engine, and spend so much a year on it. Such things never belonged to the Government, as the mineral land did, so that a failure to comply with conditions imposed by the Government on the locators of the lands can by no possibility be made to throw a man's steam-engine or furnace "open to relocation." Buildings, tools, machinery, etc., belong to the man who paid for them, and he can claim them any time. The relocator of a mine must account for anything of this kind he finds, provided the original owner appears. This is nothing which the Land Office or the Government has anything to do with.

In fact, it was not long since decided —and we published the opinion of the Commissioner at the time—that ore from the claim, not out on the surface at mouth of tunnel or shaft, belonged to the man or men who got it out, not to the relocators of the mine. Therefore, if a miner relocates a mine, he has no right to the ore already taken out, and in case the original owner comes along, he can make him account (in the courts) for the ore he left there, provided no unreasonable time has elapsed.

A good many men seem to have this erroneous opinion, that machinery, etc., is relocatable because the claim is. A moment's thought will prove the fallacy of this belief. The Government gives the land, or mine, to anyone who will work it, under certain conditions, failure to comply with which results in a forfeiture of the right, which then lapses again to the Government, which can then, and does, give it to the first man who finds it abandoned. The principle is a good one and has worked well since it was inaugurated, May 10, 1872.

But the Government cannot take away a man's machinery or tools because he has not used them on the mine. It never had any title to them, and so cannot say the first man who finds them can take them. This is so simple a proposition it seems scarcely debatable, yet that there is an erroneous impression prevalent is shown by the fact that a newspaper familiar with mining matters, should give publicity to such a statement as we have referred to.—Scientific Press.

THE project of "shooting for rain" is being quite seriously talked of about town. There are many who are in favor of giving it a trial when circumstances are again favorable. Especially those who have seen the effect of the heavy concussions, etc., attendant upon a battle, are strong in the belief that a few pounds of power exploded from one of our hills would frighten the god of rain into yielding down the much needed boon.—Los Angeles Express.

A SAN FRANCISCO dispatch says: "S J. Millington, a teacher of dancing, committed suicide in his room at the Palace Hotel at Visalia by blowing his brains out. The act is attributed to despondency arising from long continued illness, which has incapacitated him for exertion and exhausted his means." Many in California and Nevada were acquainted with the deceased in the long ago.

CONVICTED.

As usual the first news of important public interest reached this place yesterday through the medium of the Bodie Free Press dispatches. We quote, at some length, the closing scenes and the conclusion of the great trial, as follows:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.

As usual Guiteau opened the proceedings by announcing: "My sister has been doing some silly talk in Chicago. She means well, but she's no lawyer."

Porter resumed his argument: "Admonished," he said, "by the falling snow and the severity of the weather, from which he had suffered and from which, doubtless, the jury had suffered," he felt it necessary to vary somewhat from his original intention and trust to the intelligence and honor of the jury to supply his deficiencies. He would not, therefore, linger over any details of the evidence, feeling it imperatively necessary that he should bring his remarks to a conclusion as soon as possible, he would simply look upon a few salient points of evidence: "John W. Guiteau," said Porter, "I believe to be an honorable man. He came here ready to contribute his means, his evidence and services to save his brother's life and an honored father's name, and yet truth came from his lips that must impress upon every one of you conviction that on the 2d of July this prisoner was as sane as you or I, or the Judge upon this bench." Reading from the evidence of J. W. Guiteau and commenting upon it, Mr. Porter said: "He has two faces."

Guiteau — "How many have you got?"

"He has two faces," repeated Porter, "one showing sanctity of a Parsee and the other a hideous grin of the fiend that possesses him." As he continued he read from J. W. Guiteau's testimony relative to his last interview with the prisoner. Guiteau continually interrupted with such comments as. "What I say is always true."

Porter — "What you say is generally false." Proceeding, Porter contrasted the life, conduct and deceitful practices of the prisoner with that of the Apostle Paul, in the light of the prisoner's assumption that he, like Paul, was doing the Lord's work. "Paul never palmed off a brass watch for gold."

"Neither did I," shouted Guiteau.

Porter—"Paul never swindled his creditors out of his just debts."

"Oh, you are a blood-money man," retaliated Guiteau, "you belong to Juda's tribe.

The picture drawn by Porter was anything but a lovely one and provoked the prisoner to the most abusive retorts.

"You are a liar, and you know it, and I tell you so to your face, Judge Porter," he called out.

"This man," said Porter, "who says he never deceived anybody,—"

"That's a fact," piped the prisoner, "put that in."

"Frequently, this man who says he never deceived anybody," proceeded Porter, "says in one of his handbills, 'Lecture by the Hon. Charles Guiteau.' If he never deceived anyone where did he get his title of Honorable?"

Guiteau — "That's how my letters came addressed, sir, and to the 'Little Giant of the West.'"

Judge Porter continued: "The Lord murdered Garfield."

Guiteau — "Yes, and He'll murder you before long."

Porter — "The Lord defrauded the printers and the boarding-houses, and every night, evening and morning, the Christian prisoner thanks the Lord for his work."

Guiteau continued shouting desperately: "You are a liar, and you know it; you havn't brains enough to talk. A saint from heaven couldn't stand the abuse of that man Porter, and I won't stand it. He's a liar, and I call him so."

Porter said he was simply reading from the sworn statement of Guiteau's brother.

Guiteau—"He's no brother of mine; I want that understood. My sister sympathises with me."

The first interruption from counsel came when Reed strenuously objected to Porter's quoting from English authorities.

Judge Cox said there was no cause for the objection. Though it was not very pertinent, it was not objectionable.

Guiteau's remarks about Jews drew from Porter the remark, "that he had yet to know a man who need be ashamed to spring from the same race as the Saviour."

The clamor made by Guiteau, reinforced by Scoville, resembled a small Babel. Scoville finally objected to Porter's construction of the evidence, and the prisoner insisted that Porter should be arrested for insolence.

The bailiffs, in trying to quiet the assassin, only drew from him the most vicious demonstrations, which nearly obliged them to administer the severest discipline.

Porter then reviewed Dr. Spitka's testimony, and was called a miserable, dirty, lying whelp by the prisoner.

At 3 o'clock Judge Porter concluded his argument, and Judge Cox charged the jury. At 5:35 the court was called to order, and at 5:36 the jury came in and rendered a verdict of "guilty."

Judge Cox's charge to the jury covered all the ground in the case and it was impressively rendered. The jurymen paid close attention to the charge and the prisoner listened attentively. He appeared somewhat paler than during the early part of the day, and at times a dark shadow passed over his face.

THE high license liquor law of Nebraska went into effect on the 1st instant. This law fixes the license so high that out of 140 saloons in the City of Omaha 108 suspended operations when the law went into effect.

THE New Yorkers are getting down to the opinion that it is no use trying to get up a great international exhibition in 1883.

THE St. Gothard Railway Tunnel line will be opened July 1st.

BIG PINE, Jan. 17.

We have had glorious good times in Big Pine till you can't rest. Parties, races, shooting matches, etc., enliven the young people and interest the old folks. I was fortunate enough to receive an invitation to attend a most pleasant birth-day party, given in honor of Mr. Denny Hessian. Although the night was very cold a goodly crowd assembled, "to chase the glowing hours with flying feet." The old folks sat in the corner and made room for the lads and lasses to dance. And it would be difficult to say which enjoyed themselves the most. Between dances I tried to count the babies corded up in tiers (or tears) in a corner, but gave up in despair. Twelve o'clock came and Oh! With credit to Mrs. H. I must say it was excellent. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves, and feel at home. They could hardly do otherwise. Towards prima luce, reluctantly the guests took their departure. Mrs. H. surely deserves credit as a hostess, and now we say to her, "may you and 'Hubby'" live long and prosper.

RACES, ETC.

The match race on the 16th instant was an exciting affair, and to some quite surprising. Mr. Baker entered "Yank," McDonald, "Maud." Considerable betting was in progress, most of which was two to one in favor of "Yank." But Maud yanked the stakes by a good full neck. The race for untried saddle horses took place on the 17th. Three entries were made. It was fairly won by "Blazer," entered by Mr. Ross. On the 18th the race between Brown Abby and Black Harry was won by the former. She is a beauty and fully deserves to be called "Cock of the Walk." Her appearance and prosperity is greatly due to the training of Mr. Ross. The idea that he understands his business is strengthened by the fact that he correctly foretold the winning horse in every race. Among jokes I must mention the raffling of a pure kettle-mettle ring by the Doctor. When the handle of a candlestick will bring $25, why remain poor?

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28.....1882

BASE BALL.—At Lone Pine, Friday 20th (an account of which was received too late for the last issue) was played a match at the "national game" of base ball, between two nines called respectively the "Tar Flatters" and the "Rounders." The first named club consisted of Mark Hoff, Captain; J. H. Barry, pitcher; J. J. Stewart, 1st base; Mr. Delano, 2d base; R. Montenegro, 3d base; M. Mountain, short stop; and Messrs. Duval, Crosby, and Gregory fielders. The "Rounders", or second club named, was composed of J. Sutcliffe, Captain; Double-up-Pete (?) catcher.; R. Carrasco, 1st base; M. Lasky, 2d base; J. Anton, 3d base; and Messrs. Padillo, Barrago and Edwards in the field. In our somewhat complicated report of the affair, the pitcher and short-stop of one nine was left unreported, and the catcher of the other. However, there were nine in each, and two innings were played—but not entirely "played out," as the Captain of the Tar Flatters was disabled by getting a hit on the hand by the striker, who happened to be the captain of the opposite nine, when the game stopped. The score might be interesting to one understanding the hieroglyphics of the game—1, O, X, etc., but as near as we can get at it the Tar Flatters scored 3 in the first and got a "whitewash" in the second; the Rounders gained five tallies in the first innings besides two home runs on strikes, and got two tallies in the second—when the exercises were abruptly concluded for the reason stated. Ned Ryan as scorer and A. H. Wemple as referee shed effulgence upon the occasion. Later.—Another correspondent, equally reliable, refers to this important episode in the words and style following: "There was a match game of base ball played here Sunday between the Glee Club and Rounders, which resulted in a draw, a broken hand, a black eye and a broken nose. The game was umpired by old Wemple, who backs his decisions with Wemple's best."

GOING FOR CALICO.—Wednesday last the Fresbie brothers, mining men lately from Colorado, set out for the Calico Mountains, in San Bernardino, about 80 miles distant from the town of that name. They were accompanied, in another wagon, by Uncle Davy Thomas and Tommy Ryan. Jimmy McDonald and W. T. Grant started today. A trip to this new district involves only seven or eight hundred miles travel, though it is situated in a county adjoining this. The distance probably lends all the enchantment, though some three heavy mining sales are reported from there lately. T. W. Lynch, who worked at the Kearsarge for a long time, is one among the lucky prospectors who sold out for some round thousands of dollars. We hope that the boys will not only secure a piece of Calico, but get "put on velvet" besides.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE. — We neglected last week, through hurry and oversight, to note the fact of a change in the proprietorship of the Bishop Creek Times paper, Mr. R. C. Julian having succeeded to the interest of E. H. Fontecella. THE INDEPENDENT takes a fraternal interest in the Times, our only Inyo contemporary, and sincerely wishes it success. Harry Fontecella, instead of abandoning the country to its fate, will take charge of THE INDEPENDENT job office for two or three weeks. As he is a first-class printer and will have an abundance of material to work with, we would suggest that business men all over the country send in their orders for stationery and general job-work now.

BROWN MONSTER. — Engineer Wm. Hedge returned yesterday from the Brown Monster mill, where he has been engaged in repairing the penstock and water-wheel. The mill is to be started up, or at least one battery of it, on two or three hundred tons of ore from mines belonging to Messrs. Reynolds, Thorpe and others. In the meanwhile Aleck Clark is making a thorough clean-up of the mill, at a very considerable profit to all interested.

HERE.—Messrs. S. H. Squire and N. Curry, mining men from Gold Mountain, are in town. They have paid a visit of inspection to the old Kearsarge, taken samples and are getting assays. "Dr." Squire is an Inyo pioneer of 1860, from whom we expect to gain some historical mention relative to those days, promised in time for next issue.

EASY.—The Times wonders why THE INDEPENDENT refers to Bishop Creek as Gospel Swamp. That's easy. The lovely lowlands that run a monopoly of the only churches in the county, and support about seventeen hundred preachers, were so designated in the sweet long ago.

LONE PINE WATER WORKS. — The Lone Pine Water Company has received the balance of pipe necessary to complete the work so far as intended at present, and the work of laying them to the houses is going on.

PARTY. — A pleasant surprise party was given at Lone Pine last week to Mr. and Mrs. Morden and Miss Nellie Hughes. Lots of dancing, music, supper, etc., and a good time generally.

BLANKS.—The blanks for the use of Road Overseers, in making quarterly reports to the Board of Supervisors, will be sent out by the County Clerk on Tuesday next.

GOOD SHOT. — The other day Billy Lake, with a rifle killed two geese with one shot, 130 yards distant. The bullet cut through the neck of one and into the body of the other.

ASSESSOR'S WORK.—The taxes for 1881 are not as yet all paid up, but County Assessor Irwin is at work preparing blanks for 1882.

LETTER FROM ARIZONA.

GUNSIGHT MINES,
Western Pima Co. A. T., Jan. 18.

I shall not this time attempt a description in detail of such of the Arizona mines as have come under my personal observation, and if not of them, certainly not of others. This much, however, I will say of the now

FAMOUS GUNSIGHT MINES:

The croppings of this ledge are piled up in masses for more than half a mile. According to my own measurement the ore body is full forty-three feet wide in the bottom of the 200 foot shaft. This ore body is not a spot of pay-rock here and there, but solid ore throughout. I doubt if a finer prospect was ever seen on the Pacific Coast, the Comstock always excepted. It is said there are 30,000 tons of ore in sight. This statement is not at all unreasonable, for ore is to be found in every opening on the ledge, a distance of 3,600 feet. Its average value is placed at from $40 to $60 per ton; can't, for myself, say how that is, but it is safer to place the average a little lower, taking working results of other big mines as the criterion. Nevertheless, it is a big thing, else appearances belie the facts. It is now the property of a strong Philadelphia company, and, as rapidly as possible, the company is preparing for a complete opening of the mines, and for extensive reduction works. At present, as from the beginning (some sixteen months ago) Mr. Albert Caldwell, well known to many of your readers, is in full charge. I must say, that as far as I am able to judge, Mr. C. is really a most efficient and zealous superintendent, and has done exceedingly well. At present, no work is being done in taking out ore, nor will there be until the working shaft is down several hundred feet—500 being the contemplated depth. This is a three-compartment shaft, in solid granite at the surface, and to be perfectly timbered and complete in all respects. From this time on the work of sinking will be carried on night and day, four men below all the time. There are a number of

OTHER LOCATIONS

In the vicinity, some of which are valued highly, though none that are ranked as yet with the Gunsight. Prospectors tell me that ores assaying from $10 to $20 per ton are to be found in this country by the million tons. In general, however, these prospectors are no more hopeful or sanguine then are those of Inyo.

THE WATER QUESTION.

There is not a running stream of water, scarce even a spring even with the surface of the ground in all this wild region west of the Santa Cruz and Gila rivers, west to the Gulf of California, say 200 miles, and north from the Sonora line to the Colorado, about the same distance. Wells, some of them affording an inexhaustible supply of water, are found in various places, say at intervals of 25 miles. I think there is no doubt but water can be had by digging or boring almost anywhere throughout this region. One, and perhaps two railroads will ere long cut lengthwise and cresswise of this region between the S. P. R. R. and the Gulf. In that event, and assuming the mineral deposits to be half as great as stated, it will eventually be a thickly populated country—at least, a business country. No doubt at all but quite a town will spring up in this vicinity, which will be on a "silver basis." But the bulk of the business will be based on copper, which, even now, is almost the leading industry of the Territory in other portions while this section is said to be the richest of all in that metal.

WHERE WE ARE.

The Gunsight mine is about 20 miles west of the railroad at the nearest point, and about thirty miles from the Sonora line. By the traveled road from Tucson, the metropolis of the county, it is about 130 miles due west to this point—not a house en route. From Gila Bend, about due north, it is but 65 miles—48 without water. That is, or should be, the freight and passenger route for this locality. There is scarce a hill a hundred feet high to cross on either of these routes — both almost dead levels, and a good, solid, clayey, not sandy, road bed very nearly their entire length.

THE COUNTRY IN GENERAL.

The highest mountains here are but the merest hills compared with the Sierras—knobs and short ranges pushing up here and there through the broad mesas or plains. Some millions of years ago they were doubtless lofty mountains; the erosion of the softer rocks has buried up whatever small running streams that then coursed through the valleys, and at the same time brought all the country save the few remaining knobs to a common level. In many portions, almost everywhere in fact, the soil is red, as in the gold region of California. Almost everywhere, too, it is grass covered, and to the eye, as pretty as was the Sacramento Valley in the early days, the larger mesquite trees, verdes, and other thorny trees and shrubs, doing duty in lieu of the oaks, etc., of the Sacramento.

AGRICULTURALLY CONSIDERED.

Horses and cattle do remarkably well on these plains. The only limit to their production is the lack of water. All have to be watered at wells. Hundreds of square miles of the best of pasturage lie here unclaimed, untouched. At intervals of fifteen, twenty or more miles, the semi-civilized Papago Indians have wells, around which they live in scattered villages, and devote their whole valuable time to raising horses and cattle, and it is they who supply the markets of the country with those animals. White men, with proper appliances for raising water, could do better at the business than they, and have all the range that can be desired. Finding a well of water would be the first and most important step. The Indians, though reputed to be honest and all that sort of thing, would be another consideration. They might and probably would steal stock, though otherwise there is nothing whatever to be feared from them. Their boast is that none of their tribe ever killed a white man. They won't work; like a soldier, would sell their shirt first. Everything here has a thorn or a "sticker," the grasses, gramna excepted, being no exception. For this reason, if for no other, this country would not do for sheep at all, nor is it at all likely that hogs would be of any avail—horses and cattle, and that's all. Farming is out of the question, but only because water is not available, except on the alkali lowlands of the running streams further eastward. The Summers are intensely hot, but rainy during the latter part. The Winters are as pleasant, generally, as could be desired, though I, for one, laid one night and traveled one day in several inches of snow, followed by two days and nights of like comforts in a full-fledged '49 rain.

SOME COUNTER ATTRACTIONS.

Centipedes, tarantulas, thoroughbred and sidewinder rattlesnakes, rapid coyotes and wildcats, and thorns and stickers ad infinitum, abound here in their season, but do not seem to worry the natives in the least. Besides these admitted facts, there are also a few fleas, full as energetic as those in the cow-counties of California. Some old residents, though, say I am mistaken on the flea proposition, but I think I am not. As an offset to all these, however, it is asserted that not a single bed-bug has ever reported for duty in the Territory. By the way, the natives, when bitten or stung by any of the above mentioned insects and reptiles, always scarify the wound, and apply common salt in abundance, said to be better than whisky.

IN CONCLUSION

I will say that it now looks as if this portion of the Territory would soon present excellent opportunities for the establishment of businesses of various or all kinds, including the professions, but that time is not yet, unless it would be in the horse and cattle line as above referred to. There are no well established lines of stages or freight communication into this section, and it takes days, almost weeks to get a return from the railroad towns and civilization in general. Things move rapidly here, however. Plenty of Eastern capital rushing in, and capital makes mines, the old man, and also railroads go right along at an astonishing rate. But you Invoites stay where you are just for the present, or till your credit fails.

CHALFANT.

RICH GOLD ORE.—Si. Reynolds and Tom Treglore brought in yesterday a very fine specimen of gold quartz, taken from their claim called the Ranger, which is situated a little north of the Brown Monster and Hirsch mines, in the Inyos. The specimen is as large as a man's fist, and shows free gold in twenty different places; some of it quite coarse. The vein is said to be two feet wide, and shows rich quartz throughout. But little work has been done on the claim as yet, but the prospect is a good one. There are several fine gold prospects in the locality of the Ranger, which are very conveniently located for working, and we expect to see some good paying mines opened in that section during the coming year.

A MINERAL PICTURE. — Mr. Woodhull, of the assay office, has been getting up a beautiful case of minerals, set in a frame 14x18 inches. The case contains 100 different selected specimens of ores, from as many different mines located in Inyo county. The specimens are about one inch square. They are of various bright colors, and are neatly cemented upon an ornamented background. The contrast of the colors, and the flashing of the light from the faces of the crystals makes altogether a handsome ornament.

THE EAGLE MINE.—This mine is owned by Geo. Desalier and Phil. Cartier, who have been hard at work on this claim for the past month. The Eagle is situated in Mazourka Cañon, and is very conveniently located for working. The ore is of a smelting character and some of it assays over 100 ounces of silver per ton. A shaft is being sunk on a fine vein of ore over two feet in width, which can be traced several hundred feet on the surface.

BEVERIDGE.—Supt. Fuentes has arrived from Lone Pine from his San Francisco trip, with the intention of immediately starting up work on the Keynot mine, to supply ore for the mill and arrastras. He thinks that if the whole of Inyo county, mines and land, was to be sold for a cent, San Francisco "capitalists" couldn't raise enough money to buy one sage brush.

CERRO GORDO.—Sam Cowles has returned to Cerro Gordo, after an extended trip through most of the Eastern cities. He says there is no place like California, and is glad to get back home. Diaz is working five men in the San Lucas, which is looking well. Crapo is prosecuting developments on his section of the old Buena Vista ledge. Hoff has a fine body of ore in the Oceola.

LIVERY STABLE.—The new advertisement of the Independence Livery Stable, elsewhere, should be noted by teamsters and travelers generally. It is the well-known Bennett stables, opposite the Miner's Home hotel, both institutions being run by H. Levy.

BLACKSMITHING.—Billy Matlack, the reliable and popular young artificer in iron, has leased Uncle Abe's well-known Pioneer blacksmith shop, and in an advertisement this week sets forth the fact that he is prepared to do all kinds of work in his line, at prices reduced to suit the times.

BUSINESS. — Two pack trains have gone over to Beveridge, to load back with gold ore to be worked in the Hitchcock mill, in Lone Pine Cañon.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. S. Rothschild arrived last Tuesday, upon his annual Inyo visit.

NEW.—J. J. Moore's new mercantile advertisement will appear next week.

Bishop Creek Items.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

THE RAILROAD.—Last Thursday Assistant Superintendent Laws and Chief Engineer Olliver arrived in Bishop Creek, looking after the interests of the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company. Accompanied by J. H. Stoutenborough, John Clarke and other business men of our town, they took a look at Bishop Creek and the country surrounding it, and expressed themselves as being favorably impressed with what they saw. As an inducement to the company to construct its line through the town, John Clarke agreed to donate forty acres of ground for the use of the company; also the right of way through his land. It is thought that every land owner on the line of the proposed route will cheerfully give the right of way. If this is done, Mr. Laws says, there is little doubt but the road will be built this side of the river. This is an important matter, and our citizens are taking prompt action in regard to it.

ENTERPRISE. — John Clarke has purchased 500 more carp, and will place them in the sloughs on his ranch south of town. During the past week he has made a number of experiments to ascertain if they are a hardy fish. He placed one in a small pool of water which during the night was frozen solid and remained in that condition for three days. After the ice thawed, the fish was as lively as ever, and on being pushed in deep water swam away. All his experiments were satisfactory, and Mr. Clarke will hereafter "cultivate" carp extensively.

MOUNTAIN CHIEF. — Connection with the incline was made Wednesday night. The ledge has been encountered at a point 1940 feet north from the shaft. Two tons of average ore, taken from wall to wall, will be shipped to Creaser's mill at Benton for reduction. This will be a substantial test of the mine, and the result will be anxiously looked for. The boarding-house is completed, and everything about the mine is in good working order.

Last Monday J. H. Stoutenborough went up to Benton to meet his wife, who had been residing in San Francisco for some months. Mrs. S. was in the Exchange Hotel at Aurora when it caught fire, and narrowly escaped with her life. The lady lost a gold watch and chain and other valuable jewelry. Her many friends rejoice to know that she escaped uninjured.

The articles descriptive of Owens Valley recently published in this paper attracted much attention, and there were many calls at this office for extra copies of the Times containing them. We shall republish them complete in one number, when those desiring extra copies can procure them. "Melos" has reason to be proud of his success as a historian.

Bishop Creek is a beautiful town. It contains many handsome residences, with bay windows and other adornments. The business houses are all substantial structures and mostly new. The streets are wide and lined with shade trees. There is not a finer residence town on the coast.

Will Yaney says that while prospecting in the White Mountains he discovered two petrified trees, perfectly formed. In the branches were two robins, also petrified.

Stansfield & Co.'s teams arrived at Belleville on the 17th instant with two wagonloads of coffins and seventeen barrels of whiskey. Evidently the boom is near at hand.

A fine Newfoundland dog belonging to Dr. Middleton, at Big Pine, was poisoned a few days ago. The Doctor offers $100 for the arrest of the culprit.

Harry Fonticella, our recent partner, will soon leave for Colorado.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28.....1882

THE Washoe county (Nevada) Grand Jury recommends that drunken Indians be arrested and confined in jail on low diet till they reveal the names of the parties who furnish them liquor. A diet would have to be lower than human imagination can compass that a Washoe Indian could not keep fat on. It is either a feast or a famine with the Washoes. In the days of overland emigration by wagon they would camp by a dead mule and gorge themselves on the meat, and perhaps go for days after the carcass was exhausted without anything to eat but a few pine-nuts. They can live for a week at a time on wind pudding and snow-water, but when they can get a quantity of food, they make up for lost time.—Stock Report.

THE sheep men of Southern California were preparing to remove their flocks to other quarters, anticipating a drought. The opportune storms will go far to remove all fear, as the dry hills will soon be clothed with nutritious feed, insuring good fat mutton in abundance.

Goats to Protect Sheep.

The farmers of Hunterdon and Somerset counties, New Jersey, use goats to protect their sheep from dogs. Two goats will drive away a dozen dogs, and two are about all each farmer puts in with his sheep. As soon as a dog enters the field at night, the goats attack him, and their butting propensities are too much for the canine, who soon finds himself rolling over and over. A few repititions of this treatment causes the dog to quit the field, limping and yelling. Formerly, when a dog entered a sheep field at night, the sheep would run wildly around and cry piteously. Since the goats have been used to tend them, they form in line behind the goats and seem to enjoy the fun. The idea of utilizing goats in this way came from the West, where they are put in sheep pens to drive away wolves.—N. Y. Sun.

BRONSON ALCOTT says that all pure poets abstain from animal food. That cannot be so. When Joaquin Miller was with the Indians in the northern part of this State he used to feed on jack-rabbits and roast crickets, with gopher sauce. Mr. Alcott asks us to compare a table of the present day with that spread by the hands of Eve for her ethereal guests. He sems to forget that Eve was requested to resign her seat in Paradise for indulging in a fruit diet. If she had eaten the serpent instead of the apple she might be here yet, to tell us about the good time she and Miss Anthony used to have playing lawn-tennis in the garden, when they were both giddy girls just out of Vassar, but she couldn't have been a pure poet, though Alcott advises a diet of cabbage, apples, mushrooms and that sort of truck for people who desire to be pure poets. We have no ambition to become a pure poet and shall stick to our regular scheme of fried liver and onions.Ex.

A SCHEME is on foot to introduce ostrich farming into this State. Those who are disposed to harbor this mad proposal are not acquainted with the ostrich. Everybody knows the goat and his power of absorption — how he eats with a relish tin cans, horse-blankets, fence-rails and other portable property, but a goat is a dyspeptic compared to the ostrich. The ostrich has a patent fire-proof, water-proof and dynamite-proof stomach, warranted to run for thirty years without getting out of order, and an appetite that would make a dromedary preach a homily on good manners at table. The men who contemplate introducing ostrich farming into this State are designing villians and contemplate the devastation of the State. Once let the ostrich get a foothold, and there will be no surplus grain or fruit for export and every field, garden and household will be laid to waste to satisfy the terrible appetite of this antipodal monster.—Stock Report.

LOTTA, the actress, during the Christmas holidays, bought a plaque in Baltimore for $12, and gave orders to have it dispatched to a friend in Boston and the bill sent to her. A few hours after she changed her mind and countermanded the order. The tradesman claimed to have already boxed the purchase and sent for the express wagon, but Lotta's agent, a young woman, snubbed the proprietor and then left the store. The result is a lawsuit, the irate shopkeeper swearing that he will spend $500 to get satisfaction. Several thousand dollars belonging to the actress have been attached in Baltimore, and the case will soon come up for trial. No doubt the little woman will give Baltimore a wide berth the next time she feels a yearning for bric-a-brac.

CASSIDY has introduced in Congress a bill for appropriating $100,000 for expenditure, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, in sinking two artesian wells at points to be selected by him on public lands in Nevada, to test the feasibility of reclaiming large tracts by this method in that region.

"Cold Catching."

It is noteworthy as a curious yet easily explicable fact, that few persons take cold who are not either self-consciously carefulf or fearful, of the consequences of exposure. If attention be wholly diverted from the existence of danger, by some supreme concentration of thought, as, for example, when escaping from a house on fire or plunging into cold water to save life—the effects of "chill" are seldom experienced. This alone should serve to suggest that the influence exerted by cold falls on the nervous system. The immediate effects of a displacement of blood from the surface, and its determination to the internal organs are not, as was once supposed, sufficient to produce the sort of congestion that issues in inflamation. If it were so, an inflamatory condition would be the common characteristic of cur bodily state. When the vascular system is healthy, and that part of the nervous apparatus by which the caliber of the vessels is controlled perform its proper functions normally, any disturbance of equilibrium in the in the circulatory system which may have been produced by external cold will be quickly adjusted. It is, therefore, on the state of the nervous system that everything depends, and it is, as we have said, on the nervous system the stress of a "chill" falls. Consciousness is one element in the production of a cold, and when that is wanting the phenomenon is not very likely to ensue.

It is in this way that persons who do not cultivate the fear of cold-catching are not, as a rule, subject to this infliction. This is one reason why the habit of wrapping-up tends to create a morbid susceptibility. The mind by its fear-begetting precautions keeps the nervous system on the alert for impressions of cold, and the centers are, so to say, panic-stricken when even a slight sensation occurs. Cold applied to the surface, even in the form of a gentle current of air somewhat lower in temperature than the skin, will produce the "feeling" of a "chill." Conversely a thought will often give rise to the "feeling" of cold applied to the surface—for example, of "cold water running down the back." Many of the sensations of cold or heat which are experienced by the hypersensitive have no external cause. They are purely ideational in their mode of origination, and ideal in fact.—Lancet.

Bamboo for Oregon.

The American Consul-General at Shanghai has lately sent twenty boxes of bamboo cuttings for transplanting in Oregon. He writes to the State Department that in the Chinese Empire, south of the Yang-tze, about sixty varieties of bamboo are said to grow, although five or six furnish the principal material used. At Foochow and Swatow the large size grows 40 to 50 feet high and six or seven inches diameter; on the Island of Formosa it is found even larger.

The bamboo serves at least five hundred different purposes in China. The roots are carved into images, lantern handles, and canes, the tapering culms are used for every conceivable place where poles and ribs can be put; the leaves are worked into thatches, umbrellas, and screens; cut into splints, the wood is woven into baskets, plaited into awnings, and twisted into cables; the shavings stuff pillows; other parts supply chop-sticks for eating, beds for sleeping, brooms for sweeping, pipes for smoking, fuel for cooking, skewers for the hair, paper for writing, rods for whipping, tables to eat on, buckets for water drawing, and the tender shoots are highly esteemed as a vegetable to be eaten.

The Consul-General urges the naturalizing of the bamboo in the Southern States and on the Pacific coast.

Measuring Fields.

Few farmers know the size of their fields or how many acres they contain. A field of the writer's before it came into his possession, had been plowed and reaped by contract for fifteen years for fifteen acres. On measuring it, it was found to have but twelve acres. It is desirable, in fact indispensible, for good work that a farmer should know how many acres each field contains, for otherwise he cannot apportion seed or manure for it, nor can he tell how much time it should require to be plowed. A measuring cord should be part of the furniture of every farm. To make one, procure sixty-seven feet of strong rope, one inch around; make a loop or fasten a ring or a bar at each end; and make these precisely sixty-six feet apart. This is four rods. Then tie a piece of red cord in the center. One acre of ground will be a piece four of these cords (chains) long and two and a half wide, equal to sixteen by ten rods, making 160 square rods, or one acre. The advantage of a ring or loop is that one person can measure alone, by driving a stake in the ground to hold the rope while he stretched it out. The rope should be soaked in tar and dried, which will prevent it from shrinking when wet.

ACCORDING to statistics recently considered by the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, this state ranks as the second wheat-producing State in the Union. This extraordinary agricultural progress has taken place under the hard condition of sending the crop to a market by the longest sea voyage in the world. It is promised that this will be made better by the rail route to New Orleans, which will bring the market almost as near as it is to Kansas or Iowa.

THE agitation of thought is the beginning of truth.

KERN COUNTY NOTES.

[Kern County Californian.]

The rain that commenced here last Tuesday morning at 3 P. M., was general througnout the State, but does not seem to have fallen anywhere as copiously as here. It rained the greater part of that day and fell heavily about half the following night. It was as unexpected as opportune. It was the first rain of the season worthy the name. The two or three light passing showers that had fallen since October did not represent a total rainfall to moisten the ground to more than the depth of a quarter of an inch. They were, in fact, equivalent to no rain at all. The situation of stockmen who did not own land in the valley seemed desperate. They could neither go nor stay. To remain meant starvation, and to go was impossible because of the weakened condition of the flocks and herds, and the vast distance to be traversed without grass. Nearly all the seeepmen on the outside ranges had killed their lambs. The grass here, at this season of the year, with sufficient moisture, grows with great rapidity, and there is very little doubt now of the safety of all the stock remaining in the county. This rainstorm represented the greatest fall of water we have had in the county at one time, and there is very little doubt, from present indications, that henceforward, as long as the season lasts, the rains will be frequent and abundant. For the first time, the present season, the mountains are covered with a coating of snow coming down to a lower line than usual. A good year for grazing may be safely calculated upon. Had the drouth continued, as there was only too good reason to believe it would, the grazing and agricultural interests of the county would have narrowed down to the valley—to the area that is independent of rain, through irrigation, and the result to a large part of the people of the county would have been disastrous. The only direct evil to the valley would have been that the reclamation of desert lands would have ceased for the season, as their immense absorbing capacity precludes the use of water for the purpose when not abundant. From the comments of the press, we judge that the rain was even more welcome in other parts of the State than here. In many places sheep have died in vast numbers, and in Los Angeles county large herds have been sent away on the railroad to Arizona, which, strange to say, is becoming a rainy country, having, at this time, remarkable grazing resources. For the present, the ground is soaked to a sufficient depth for all purposes. Nothing better could be asked for just now.

Some parties arrived here from Bodie a few days ago with two eight mule teams and three wagons. Becoming discouraged at the prospect of a drouth and the increasing price of hay, they suddenly offered this valuable property for sale, and it was bought, last Sunday, by Henry Miller, of the firm of Miller & Lux, for the sum of $1,600. The mules alone, leaving the wagons and harnesses out of the question, were worth nearly double that sum. The purchase was turned over to S. W. Wible, who has charge of the firm's interests in the Buena Vista swamp, where he has it in charge to seed two or three sections of land in alfalfa.

The locating engineer of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, Mr. Drum, who recently left San Bernardino to locate the line of that road across the Mohave Desert, was interviewed before his departure by the Index, published at that place, which states that: "He left this morning for Hawley's station, on the Mojave, to which point he has located the line from the Colorado river. He goes out now with instructions to run a new line from the Colorado, with Bakersfield as its objective point, as nearly direct as the topography of the country will permit, the company desiring a more direct line than the one now located."

The despondency into which our sheep and stockmen were plunged last week have been changed to exultant feelings, inspired by the copious rains which commenced last Tuesday morning. It rescued many of them from utter ruin and saved all from great losses. Their gratitude for this beneficint dispensation was manifested by generous investments in Rodorer, etc., and in the unbounded hospitality they extended to their friends. In fact, the mutton "stew," for the present season, may be said to be over—and we are glad that it is.

FIFTY new cars are being built at the shops of the Virginia and Truckee railroad for the Carson and Colorado. It is found that they can be built more cheaply at Carson than they can be purchased in the East. Two new hay cars, forty feet long and seven feet high, are also being built for the Carson and Calorado. The foundry, blacksmith shop, corpenter shop and other departments of the car shop are now being run to the fullest capacity in preparing the Carson and Colorado with rolling stock and equipments for business.—True Fissure.

A PERSON who was recently called into court for the purpose of proving the correctness of a surgeon's bill, was asked whether the doctor did not make several visits after the patient was out of danger. "No," replied the witness; "I considered the patient in danger as long as the doctor continued his visits."

"TOMMY," said a mother to her seven-year-old boy, "you must not interrupt me when I am talking with ladies. You must wait till we stop; and then you can talk." "But you never stop," retorted the boy.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES U. S.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26, 1881.

To the Inyo Independent:

I am informed by the Secretary of War that the Government will not bear the expense of a keeper of Camp Independence. The Department communicated this fact to Mr. Gelatt, at present occupying the position in question, who thereupon volunteered to take charge of the place without compensation until it was disposed of. Now as the sale has been indefinitely postboned, it is doubtful whether Mr. G. will desire to continue his services. Should it prove to be the case, cannot the people of Independence provide a good reliable man for the position without expense to the Government?

Very truly yours,
R. PACHECO.

To the above we would publicly answer most emphatically and decidedly, yes. And our citizens will make a further guarantee that whoever they may place in charge will not permit any portion of the property, whether under the War Department's official schedule or not to suffer loss or damage during the interim.

THE INDEPENDENT asks that the matter be considered in full and arranged as far as possible as to detail, in the mass meeting to be held at the Court House next Wednesday night.

THE "silken" entanglements of the heathen students in New England have turned out unfortunately—at least for the heathen. The fascinations of the daughters of New England were too much for even the torpid sentiment of the sprouting Mandarin, and he took a figurative summersault into an ocean of bliss — head and ears into the æsthetic entanglement of the grande passion. This gossip having reached China, they were recalled. But one at least took with him some happy memories and a picture of a serious-eyed Boston girl who wore glasses. The paternal government of China did not like this, and in order to dissuade him from corresponding with the girl they cut off his head. The others were shut up in a building, the doors of which were then nailed up, where they were duly starved until all their recollections of Western love scenes were merged in the contemplation of rice and chopsticks. They are cured now.

THE President is said to be the hardest worked man just now in the United States. He dines at 7:30, and is a hearty eater. He generally has friends to dinner, and wine and good stories are not lacking. At dinner he is Chet Arthur again. This meal and cigars end about nine o'clock. From that to eleven he accords to appointments made during the day with various individuals. After these are over, or about twelve o'clock, he goes into the library and looks over the newspapers arranged there for him, and disposes of such public business as must be transacted without interruption. This occupies him until two or three o'clock in the morning, and sometimes it is four or five before he creeps into that æsthetic bed which has been so elaborately described. He breakfasts next day at ten.

FROM the San Francisco Daily Exchange it is learned that articles of incorporation of the Bodie and Benton Railroad Company were filed on the 20th ultimo in the office of the County Clerk of San Francisco county. The articles set forth that the object of the company is to acquire timber lands near Mono Lake, Mono county, erect sawmills, cut timber, manufacture lumber, and in connection therewith, build and operate a narrow gauge railroad from the south end of Mono Lake to the town of Benton. The capital stock of the company is set at $2,000,000. Directors are R. N. Graves, A. J. Ralston, H. M. Yerington, Thos. Menzies, William Willis, J. B. Low and W. S. Wood, all of San Francisco. William Willis has been elected Treasurer.

Guiteau's attention having been called to a report that his body was to be sold for the purpose of being exhibited, he seemed quite indignant and said that Scoville had no business to entertain such a proposition. He said he intended to will his body to some institution. Guiteau is beginning to show much uneasiness and irritability. He is suffering from a severe cold which has inflamed his eyes. One of the jail officials, who has observed the prisoner closely, says he would not be surprised if he did not live to be hung, as his health is failing rapidly.

AN attempt was made, on the 24th, to wreck Jay Gould's special train in Missouri, and a German farmer has been arrested for it. Had not the obstructions been discovered as soon as they were, there is no doubt that a large number of persons would have been killed.

AN IMPORTANT MOVE.

The call issued this week by a number of our leading citizens, inviting a mass meeting to be held at the Court House next Wednesday evening, indicates a proper awakening of public spirit regarding the coming Carson and Colorado Railroad. All citizens, representing every interest, should join in a discussion which will lead to the evolvement of some plan to finally effect the object sought. This object, it will of course be understood, is to present such inducements to the company as will decide it upon constructing the line on this side of the valley. Some concert of action on the part of all the towns interested is necessary, and probably this object can be effected through some plan similar to that outlined by this paper last week—the appointment of various committees and conferring upon them the authority to select a Central Executive Committee. The local committees could readily attend to all work necessary in the respective places, and report results to the Central one representing the whole valley. This idea has been in the main adopted by Lone Pine, as will appear by our local report. There is no doubt but that a sufficient fund can be obtained to send two or three or a delegation of leading citizens to Carson to confer with the railroad management regarding the matter. They should go armed with facts, statistics and arguments, which can be piled up without limit, showing this side of the river to be the proper route. Bishop Creek and Big Pine should take some similar action, and report conclusions to the public through the papers.

DURING 15 days of this month, the Southern Pacific railroad company built and laid, on the southern extension of its road to New Orleans 145,285½ feet of track, equal to a fraction over 28½ miles. The longest distance of track laid during that period in one day was 21,000 feet, or a fraction under four miles. Up to Saturday last track had been laid 207½ miles from the eastern end of the Rio Grande bridge, or 203 miles east of El Paso. The railroad runs through a comparatively unsettled portion of Texas, but a line of towns is springing up along the track. One advantage to the country is the discovery of water in several localities, thus supplying a want that has retarded the development of that part of the State.

THE San Francisco Mining and Scientific Press last week consisted of 24 pages, and our readers are reminded that this number is one worthy of preservation for future use. Its annual review fills nearly five closely printed pages, and it gives in a comparatively brief space a resume of the condition of the mining industry over a very large territory. It has compiled, also, such statistics of bullion production, etc., as will be interesting in this connection. The latter work shows a great deal of information in a brief space. Although the review may seem somewhat extended, it is really brief, when the ground covered by it is considered.

BOTH houses of Congress seem to have taken a very decided stand upon the subject of ascertaining the true status of the Railroad Land Grants. Teller's resolution introduced into the Senate on the 24th enumerates 22 railroads the grants to which under the terms of the resolution are declared forfeited so far as the same have failed of fulfilment under the terms of the grants. Among these roads are the Northern Pacific, Atlantic & Pacific and Texas Pacific. The estimated quantity of land granted to each of these is set forth in the bill, respectively 47,000,000, 42,000,000 and 18,000,000 acres.

THE length of the shafts and galleries in the Comstock mines of Nevada is 350 miles. During the 20 years just closed 350,000,000 tons of waste rock have been hoisted, 1,750,000,000 tons of water pumped to the surface, and the net result of all this work was $325,000,000 in bullion. We must wait until the twentieth century to ascertain if the Comstock's equal has been discovered and is numbered among the mines of to-day. Whether or not such stupendous results could have been, or can be, attained by companies with non-assessable stock, will probably remain an unsolved problem.

THERE is a good deal of travel to and from all the Eastern towns and mining camps over the Carson and Colorado. Persons passing over the route are loud in their praise of the road as one of the smoothest running in the country.

SENATOR FAIR has introduced a bill providing an appropriation of $100,000 for a building in Carson City for the Federal Courts, Postoffice and other Government offices.

BRO. HARDNUT, in the Kern county Californian, refers to the lucubrations of its contemporary as "original idiotorials." Let the words be embalmed in the next dictionary.

THE Grand Jury of Mono County submitted a very thorough, and, as regards to certain officers, a scathing report. The District Attorney gets a rap for unlawfully dismissing criminal actions, and taking fees therefor; the Board of Supervisors are shown to have drawn $928 from the County in excess of their lawful pay, and Judge Wiggin is recommended to be proceeded against by law if he does not on the 10th instant pay over the amount of $1,908 08, which said money he has neglected to deposit with the proper custodian, it having come into his hands per his own order from the estate of a deceased. Proper reference is made to the authority of the County Auditor to practically veto any improper claims allowed by the Board of Supervisors. On its face the whole thing is correct and complete, as illustrating the power and value of an annual session of a competent Grand Jury. In that county, however, like this, its decree will not amount to much, except as affecting future elections.

A ST. PETERSBURG journal, which no doubt speaks officialy, in reference to England's protest against the outrages on Jews, in Russia, says the Jewish question is an internal question and no foreign interference in it will be brooked by Russia. The question is really one of humanitarianism, but it is questionable if other powers have the right to interfere in it, especially considering the fact that Russia is so powerful an empire. If it were some fifth-rate power that allowed its subjects to be persecuted for religion's sake the case would be different, and England would have a perfect right to go to war with that power, kill the oppressors and take possession of their country. When Russia says "hands off," it is hands off, as England, with all her philanthrophy, would not risk a war with Russia for the sake of a few persecuted Jews. If England really wanted ts go to war with Russia, the persecuted Jews would come in very well as an excuse.

IT is said you cannot throw a snowball anywhere in the streets of Washington without hitting an office-seeker's nose.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4.....1882

ARMAGOZA.—We are in receipt of a letter from Supt. E. L. Smith, formerly of the Los Angeles Company's works at Resting Springs. He is now managing the Armagoza mill, situate in the extreme northwestern part of San Bernardino Co., owned by the South Pacific Mining Co. of New York. The nearest postoffice is Ivanpah, located on the map way off to the southwest of the mines and mill. We believe some of the mines are located in this county, but the geography of the country, to pretty much the whole world, is about the same as the Greek language to a Hottentot. "Eb," an old friend and schoolmate about a century or so ago, promises shortly to write some general description and particulars of his new location in "the land of lizards, in Death Valley," as well as to send in some of their ore samples for the Independence cabinet.

GREAT REGISTER. — County Clerk Crough has received the big book in which is to be inscribed the names of all Inyo county voters. Through years of printing and copying from reprint the old one became not only cumbered up with the names of several hundred absentees, but contained many errors regarding regular citizens. When the first one was made up in '71 all the Missourians and New Jerseyites, with some others, were registered as having been born in the "United States." It is proposed to avoid this vagueness hereafter, and all parties should write out their names plainly, in full, and give their age at nearest birthday. Suitable blanks and instructions will be sent all over the county by the Clerk next week.

FIRE. — On Tuesday night last the dwelling house at the well known Fish Slough station was entirely destroyed by fire. The building, which was a roomy, well finished house, belonged to Phil Keough, and was occupied at the time by himself (his wife, fortunately, being absent) and Lou Schalton, both of whom had a very narrow escape from being burned to death. When they went to bed they left a big fire and a defective stove-pipe, and when roused up by a teamster from the outside, they had barely time to get out through the windows. The adjacent stables were saved. We can only estimate the loss, which may be safely put at $2,000. Mr. Keough will have the sympathy of many warm friends all along the line.

NEW. — Articles of incorporation of Inyoreka Mining Company, to work the claim known as "Eureka No. 2," have been filed in the office of the County Clerk in San Francisco. Directors—Hiram T. Graves, Francis B. Wilde, Charles P. Chesley, John W. Shaeffer and Wm. D. Johnson; capital stock, $10,000,000. Persons hearing this item read should not conclude that the mine is "in Eureka," Nevada; but its a case where Inyoreka (vengeance on the originator of such a name. The company's property is situated near Darwin, in this county, and consists of a mine which is said to show up a ten-foot ledge of solid ore.

GOING EAST.—Roy Cook, one of the owners of the Mountain Chief mine, located in Coldwater Cañon, twelve miles northeast from Bishop Creek, passed through Independence last Monday on his way to St. Louis. While here he exhibited several rich specimens of ore from the above-named mine which were literally filled and covered with free gold. His trip East is in the interest of the Mountain Chief and the adjoining property, the Valley Queen mine. Mr. Cook will be gone about thirty days, and when he returns it is more than probable that a five-stamp mill will be put up.

LOOKOUT.—Frank Fitzgerald returned to the Modock region from San Francisco on the 30th ultimo. He is still lessee of the entire property, and at present has a working force of fourteen men, which may be increased to fifty within ten or twelve days. Some 45 tons of ore were extracted, while he was in the city. Frank promises a visit to the valley as soon as he "gets things going."

BONDED.—Without being able to give the figures, we may state that the famous Kearsarge property has been bonded for four months to Dr. S. H. Squire, of Gold Mountain. It is understood that in the meanwhile the bonding party will carry on extensively the work of developing the mine, and at the end of the time has the privilege of buying it or not.

THE NEW CHURCH. — The M. E. church at Bishop Creek, is being finished off with a thorough coating of paint, inside and out. Church interests are looking up in that place, according to Mr. Willis, and he ought to know.

DON'T.—Don't read the delinquent tax list. It is much shorter than usual, and only published as a matter of form—to let those who havn't paid know that unless they pay they will be sold out on the day specified therein.

ST. VALENTINE. — Valentine day cometh, and the Postoffice store will be found the place to supply yourself with the missives—grotesquely comical or gushingly sentimental. They will be found too utterly too.

RELIGIOUS. — Rev. F. M. Willis will commence a series of religious services in Lone Pine, to-morrow, Preaching every evening during the week. A good attendence is solicited.

BIG PINE.—Read J. J. Moore's new advertisement, setting forth facts concerning his new and complete stock of goods.

TO MEET.—The Board of Supervisors meet on Monday next, in regular session.

Inyo Consolidated — Superintendent's Official Report.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT,
Inyo Con. Mining & Milling Co.,
Surprise Cañon, Inyo Co., Cal.
PANAMINT, Jan. 27, 1882.

To the President of Inyo Con. M. & M. Co.. Dr. J. H, Mott, 53 Broadway, N. Y.: DEAR SIR—I have but little to report since my last. Everything in and around the mines and mill continue to run and look well. Will ship 12 bars of bullion in a day or two, value about $12,000. Will ship entire clean up for the month of January on February 4th. I have a good force of men employed now, and my shipments will be much larger in future. As soon as mill is cleaned up will send you full statement of its workings. Yours, truly, THOS. B. PHEBY, Supt.

Our correspondent, with his copy of the Superintendent's letter, appends the following: Everything is running here splendidly, although the weather has caused a number of the old weather cocks of Panamint to predict that it would be impossible to run the mill at all. This successful run in the middle of Winter, with snow and frost to battle against is really astonishing. The mill is running steadily to its full capacity, and working the ores closer than has been done heretofore. Some time in the future I will give you figures. Nearly all the company's ore that was at the mill has been crushed. Will commence to-night on Martin Mee's and Judge Russell's ores. After that Messrs. Robt. Mitchell, J. A. Lee and Sam Wagner, will send through a number of tons of rich chloride ores, taken from some of their best claims. Their ore will no doubt work $300 per ton. The Deputy Recorder for this district has recorded about 40 claims since the 1st of January. A party of Eastern men are expected here to-morrow, who will look around and no doubt interest themselves in this camp. For the past few days it is not unusual to see from two to five men, principally prospectors, coming into our camp, eager to take chances and help develop this the great mineral region."

Railroad Action at Lone Pine.

At a meeting of the citizens of Lone Pine and vicinity held this 29th day of January, 1882, to consider the matter of the coming railroad, W. L. Hunter was elected Chairman, and C. Meysan, Secretary of said meeting.

After a long debate it was fully demonstrated by the meeting that, if the future railroad passes through the towns situated on the west side of Owens river, viz., Bishop Creek, Big Pine, Fish Springs, Independence, George's Creek, and Lone Pine, the benefit that will derive from the same in favor of the property owners in said towns, and the farmers in general, will be twice as much as if said railroad be constructed on the east side of Owens river. Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of three members be elected to attend to the matter, whose duty shall be

First, to inquire about the procuring of the right of way from the farmers, owners of the land where the railroad is susceptible to pass, and town lots for the depot, to be offered free to the company.

Second, to have at the first opportunity an interview with the representatives of the railroad company, and report to them the will expressed in this meeting, and also to use their best efforts to set before the said representatives all the advantages and interest of the railroad company in having their road built on the west side of the river.

Third, to submit a written report of their work at a subsequent meeting (a copy of which shall be sent to THE INYO INDEPENDENT) and to correspond with any and every committee in this valley, that has been or shall be organized for the same purpose.

And on motion, the following named persons were unanimously elected members of the executive committee, to wit; John Barnes, A. C. Harvey, and C. Meysan. Thereupon the meeting adjourned, subject to the call of said committee.

C. MEYSAN, Sect'y

LAND BUSINESS.—In the U. S. Land Office at Bodie, Jan. 25, Wm. O. Harrell filed a pre-emption declaratory statement on 160 acres in Sections 19 and 20, Township 7 South, Range 33 East. Patents have been received for the following named Inyoites, which will be delivered to the parties entitled thereto upon the acknowledgement of the receipt of the patent on the back of the Receiver's duplicate receipts issued at the time of entry: H. N. Gunter, T. J. Goodale, John Mullane, W. R. Tibbetts, Robert Hall, Albert Walker.

DARWIN HOTEL. — Charley Levy has taken charge of the Darwin Hotel, as will be noted by his card among the new advertisements this week. We predict that he will make a first-class landlord, and provide for the comfort of guests in the best manner possible in this country.

BUILDING.—Thos. Parker, Esq. has filled a gap on the west side of Edwards street, nearly opposite the Masonic Hall, with a fine large dwelling house. With his careful handiwork and attention it will become an ornament to the town.

BROWN MONSTER. — Alex. Clarke's contract of cleaning up the Brown Monster mill has been retarded by the cold snap, which prevented a run of water in the big ditch.

BORAX HUNTERS.—Billy Hedge and Wal. Phillips are off on an excursion to Saline Valley, ostensibly on a hunt for borax fields.

REX MONTIS.—Supt. Holt is engaged in putting the Rex Montis mill in perfect order for work during the coming season.

MORMONISM has some redeeming features. For instance, it doesn't throw the burden of supporting a husband on one woman.

A CLOSE CALL.

The Bodie Free Press gives a full account of quite a sensational shooting affray which occurred at that place last Monday. The shootist is the well-known newspaper man, W. W. Barnes, formerly of Columbus, Nevada, and Benton and Mammoth, in Mono Co., and his would be victim was L. E. Tubbs, an attorney equally well-known throughout all this section. We quote the full account, with a note from the same paper a day later:

About 1 o'clock Monday afternoon Mr. L. E. Tubbs, a well-known lawyer of Benton, was seen emerging from the Mono House, in his shirtsleeves and without his hat, exclaiming that he had been shot. His shirt was powder-burned, and his vest and pants showed bullet holes in them. He went to Dr. D. L. Deal's office, where an examination showed that a bullet had passed through about two inches of the fleshy part of the left leg. Mr. Tubb's watch, which he had at the time in his upper pocket on the left side of his vest, immediately over his heart, was broken from the chain and pretty considerably broken up by another bullet, which was found in the pocket with the broken crystal and other fragments. Doubtless to the presence of this watch Mr. Tubbs owes his life.

To a Free Press reporter who was present at the examination, Mr. Tubbs stated that he had been shot by Wm. W. Barnes, who was last engaged in Mammoth City in the publication of the Herald. He said that for a good many years he had been on terms of friendly intimacy with Barnes, had been an inmate of his family, and had loaned him very considerable sums of money to assist him during financial difficulties. He had been in Bodie several weeks stopping at the Mono House, during most of which time he had been ill of inflamatory fever. During his illness Mrs. Barnes had been kind enough to show him such attention, in the way of visiting and preparing articles of food and medicine for him, as were proper considering his relations to the family. He had contributed during the time, various sums of money to the sustenance of the Barnes family, who were in exceedingly straightened circumstances — in fact, in actual distress. Mr. Tubbs stated that he had at one time acted as attorney for Barnes in a foreclosure suit against the Mammoth City Times, Barnes acting as agent for Marder, Luce & Co., type founders of San Francisco. By the sale of this material to the Bishop Creek Times Barnes had realized on this transaction, including his attorney fee, and he had written to Marder, Luce & Co. about it, asking for his fee. They in turn had written a sharp letter to Barnes, which, he understood the latter had received this (Monday morning). Mrs. Barnes came to his room in the morning and was sitting in the only chair near the door, and he was sitting on the bed with his coat off, there being a bright fire burning, when Mr. Barnes came hurriedly up to the door. The catch had fallen down, but Mrs. B. opened it at once, when Barnes exclaimed: "I have got you!" and pulled a British bull-dog self-cocking pistol from his pocket. "Mrs. B. seized her husband's arm," said Mr. Tubbs, "and I jumped and grasped his arms from behind. We went scuffling through the hall towards the front door. I attempted to hold his arms that he could not shoot, but as I was feeble from my illness I could not do it. When near the foot of the stairs he put his pistol between his legs and shot me through the left leg, and a moment later when near the front door, he threw his arm over his shoulder, and getting the muzzle of the pistol over my heart, fired again. The ball hit my watch, but I supposed I was shot. I said 'you have shot me, and I hope you are satisfied,' or something of that sort, and let go his arms. He did not shoot again, and I went out in the street."

Immediately after the shooting Mr. Barnes surrendered to Sheriff Showers, and was taken to the branch jail. Mr. Tubbs lodged with Deputy District Attorney Lukens a charge against him of attempt to commit murder. A Free Press reporter called on Mr. Barnes at the jail during the evening, but nothing of interest was elicited.

Mrs. Barnes is a lady of education and refinement, and a sister of C. N. Harris, of Carson. She has five children, between the age of one and ten years.

W. W. Barnes, who shot L. E. Tubbs in the Mono House on Monday, appeared before Justice Phlegar on Tuesday, and after a brief examination he was held to appear before the Grand Jury. Barnes' bail was fixed at $1,000, but as he did not procure bondsmen he was sent to jail. The prisoner will go to Bridgeport and his case will no doubt come up at an early day, as a complaint will be made to the District Attorney. Mr. Tubbs wound is not troublesome, and he was on the streets Tuesday.

There will be a great many people in this section of the country, knowing both men, who will experience a profound regret that the shot didn't take the fullest effect. At all events, we trust that Barnes will come to no harm because of it.

CONGRESSMAN PACHECO has introduced a bill providing for forfeiture of the Atlantic and Pacific land grant. That company has probably failed to earn its grant, but the movement for forfeiture is incited largely by rival railroads. Mr. Pacheco is no doubt sincere in his action for the restoration of the lands to the public domain, as we do not think he would make himself a cats-paw for the other Pacific Railroad companies, but the effect of his bill would be to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for those corporations.

THE jury in the Guiteau trial made a quicker disposition of him than he did of President Garfield.

Dr. C. B. White.

As a matter which will be read with profound interest by all of the many friends of the lamented Dr. Charles B. White, Surgeon and Major U. S. A., we quote in full the following obituary notice from the New York Medical Record:

Dr. Charles B. White was born in New York City, September 12, 1837, and was the son of Dr. Ambrose L. White, who practiced here for 35 years. His alma mater, the College of New York City, conferred on him the degree of A. B. in 1854, A. M. in 1857, and he graduated from the Medical Department of the University of the City of New York in 1859. He then became house physician to Bellevue Hospital, 1860-61, and entered the United States army as assistant surgeon at the commencement of the War of the Rebellion in 1861. His first service was at Fortress Monroe, Va., where he remained until the Peninsula campaign, when he obtained field duty. On one occasion he and his horse were enveloped in dust and dirt by a shell, and were supposed to have been killed, but fortunately both came out uninjured.

After the battle of Malvern Hill, it was necessary for several surgeons to remain with the wounded, and volunteers were called for. Dr. White, observing hesitancy, was among the first to offer his services. At this stage of the war no consideration was shown for medical officers, and he consquently became a prisoner.

He returned to the Army of the Potomac, serving in the several actions, till after the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., when he took charge of the General Hospital at Pittsburg, Pa.

He afterwards served in the West and Southwest, and was made Acting Medical Purveyor at New Orleans, La., and during an epidemic of yellow fever at Jackson Barracks, he was a volunteer medical attendant.

What was to him an imperative duty was attended with, on this as on many other occasions during his service, great sacrifice. His conscientious ideas of personal responsibility was such, however, as never to deter him from either the dangers of the battle-field, the sufferings of prison life, or the ordinary terrors of pestilence.

Dr. White's condut at Malvern Hill and Jackson Barracks speaks volumes. His subsequent service in the army was respectively at Fort Schuyler, New York; Camp Independence, Cal.; Columbus, Ohio.

His last post was at the latter place. Here commenced the development of an ardeno-sarcoma in his left axilla, which eventually caused his death.

His friend, Dr. J. W. S. Gouley removed the growths from his left axilla, September 21, 1878, assisted by Drs. McParlin, U. S. A., W. T. White, Z. E. Lewis, and T. L. White. There was a marked indication of return of the disease toward the close of the past year. Last Spring he again presented himself to Dr. Gouley, who, after counsel with other skilled surgeons, in and out of the army, concluded it was unwarrantable to operate.

During the later months of his life he suffered the agonies of martyrdom, consequent upon the involvement of the nervous trunks in his axilla, but quietly, patiently, and resignedly he awaited the hour of his release, and died August 10, 1881, at his residence, Wilton, Conn. His widow, three daughters, and two sons survive him.

The type of an honorable gentleman, of a faithful worker in his profession, and of a christian, he has left behind him the enviable record of services which, in every sense, were "well done," with a single eye to the performance of the highest duties toward God and man, and he has his reward.

J. A. Robinson, F. P. Lee and others, to A. Winters, a borate and mineral deposit claim, situated in Death Valley Salt and Borax Mining District, Inyo Co., Cal. Consideration, $1.

A. Winters to W. T. Coleman, borate and mineral deposit, situated in Death Valley Salt and Borax Mining District. Consideration, $1.

GERMAN emigration in the year 1882 promises to become even more colossal than in the past year. Already about 14,000 tickets have been taken by vessels leaving Bremen alone in the early spring for the United States, and every day additional passages are being booked by that route. This does not include Hamburg, whence an almost equal number of emigrants will come to this side of the Atlantic.

MEMORY is not so brilliant as hope but is almost as beautiful, and a thousand times as true.

MELVILLE, of the Arctic steamer, Jeannette, has gone to the mouth of the river Lena to search for De Long.

From Gospel Swamp.

BISHOP CREEK, Feb. 1.

Last week two official gentlemen of Independence paid our town a visit. Both, I presume, were on official business. One came a day in advance of the other, and as he neared the limits of our town his first words of salutation were, "who wants to play bonanna." Failing to find any person willing to play the mentioned game, the hero contented himself during the remainder of his sojourn by challenging nearly everybody he met to run a horse race, but in this proposition he met with the same success as the first. The other individual arrived rather late on the next evening after the arrival of the first, and no sooner had he divested himself of his heavy baggage than he commenced quoting passages from "nature's poet, Bobby Burns." But he did not go on with many of his quotations, for he was interrupted by our fellow townsman—Uncle George, who informed the gentleman from Independence that he "wouldn't have it," that he was murdering their "mutual friend," etc. In this opinion Uncle George was backed by several citizens who offered to wager one thousand dollars that he (old G.) was correct in his statements. This silenced the poetical official, and during the remainder of his stay in Bishop he kept as quiet and looked as meek as a Spring lamb.

A very pleasant social party took place at the residence of Wm. O. Harrell, on last Monday evening. Dancing, games, etc., commenced early in the evening and was kept up until daylight next morning. Music was furnished by Glenn's string band, which is too favorably known throughout the county to need any recommendation from our pen. Supper was partaken of at 12 o'clock and was pronounced by all to be one of the very best ever given in the county. The whole affair reflects great credit on the managers; and it is to be hoped that such gatherings may be of frequent occurrence.

BRIEF MENTION.

Arly Mairs is spending a few days in Bishop visiting friends....Mr. Gelatt has arrived with his educated colts.... The civil suit of Levi Gerish vs. J. M. Horton is in progress in the Justice Court....The young ladies are very sad since Harry Fonticella went to Independence....Denny Hessian was in town yesterday. He informs us that the "Mighty Wade" is soon to be united in holy matrimony. "So mote it be." BILL.

[From the Herald]

Capt. Joseph Eudy, of San Francisco, arrived in this place last Tuesday evening, for the purpose of inspecting the Cortez mine, which he does at the request of its New York owners. Capt. Eudy has had much experience in mining, and is said to be one of the best experts on the Pacific Coast. He assays well as a gentleman, and we welcome him to our midst. We have not yet been advised as to his opinion of the Cortez, or any other of our mines, but doubt not it will be favorable.

We learn from T. H. Wells, superintendent of the Cortez, that Leonard Richardson, of New York, and he have just accepted a bond from Judge W. M. Seawell and Geo. W. Dorn, for a deed to that famous early day bonanza, the Utah mine, which adjoins the Cortez; the deed to be given on or before May 1st, 1882, on payment of $40,000, of which $5,000 is to be paid in eight days, and to be forfeited if the purchasers fail to pay the balance.

Superintendent Wells has sent D. W. Cutts, the company's blacksmith, to San Francisco, for the purpose of making out complete specifications of all machinery needed for a first-class 20-stamp quartz mill, and to obtain estimates of the costs thereof at that place. This will enable the company to compare cost here and in the East, and decide which is preferable.

Advices from Sweetwater are to the effect that a heater has been put into the new mill of Dr. Summers, and that with this advantage the engine was found fully capable of doing the work. Crushing is now in progress, and the report is that the pulp assays are high up, being no less than $300 per ton.

J. B. Hiskey is making a map of Silver Peak Mining District for the New York and Silver Peak Mining Company, and has made the survey of twenty-one claims for the purpose of securing patents therefor. This looks as though the district was about to boom.

The Carson and Colorado is beginning to carry out to the eastern towns and camps a great deal of lumber. This trade will constantly increase as the road is extended.

The Howell mine, Montezuma District, is producing more and better ore at present than ever before. Active operations are going on in the district.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

Munzinger, Phillipay & Co. have erected an ice house 14x16 feet and 9 feet high, in which they have packed about 50 tons of ice. The ice was cut in large cakes, 10 to 11 inches thick, and is as clear as crystal. Next Summer the patrons of the Bavaria Brewery will appreciate the enterprise of its proprietors.

J. L. Garretson has also put up 20 tons of ice at his ranch north of town.

Work in the Mexican mine has been suspended this week, owing to some disagreement among its owners. We understand, however, that everything has been amicably settled, and that work will at once be resumed.

We hear rumors to the effect that a Eureka horse, by the name of Silver Tail, is expected here shortly to run against Brown Abby. The race, if made, will no doubt be an interesting one.

IN some apparantly amiable natures there are unsuspected and unfathomable depths of resentment.

A Destructive Fire in New York.

In New York, Jan. 31st, a fire broke out in a building formerly occupied by the New York World, in the same block with the Times' building, but separated from it by an intervening building. The fire burned furiously, but the Times' building was saved though considerably damaged. It is stated that four bodies were recovered in Nassau street who were killed by jumping from windows. It is feared that the loss of life will be heavier than at first believed. The old World building was crowded with employes and very few could have escaped by the stairway. An old, gray-haired woman was seen in the fourth story of the building appealing for help. Her lips were seen to move but her voice could not be heard. All who saw her were horror-stricken. The flames raged about her, igniting her hair and clothing. She fell into the flames and was not seen any more. A young girl, wearing a blue dress, who was cut off from the stairs, ran to a fourth-story window on Park Row side and stood, hesitatingly, while the flames and smoke encircled her. "Jump, jump!" shouted the spectators, and she cast a frightened look below and threw herself out, fall-on the pavement below. When picked up life was extinct, her head being crushed beyond recognition. A few minutes later a negro woman appeared at the story window on Park Row side and also jumped to the sidewalk. She was badly injured and was taken to the Chambers' street hospital. Several saved themselves by jumping from windows in Nassau street. When the woman who was killed jumped from the window, there was two men hanging from the window sills by their finger ends. The ladders were too short to reach them and they were saved by firemen mounting on one another's shoulders, the men letting themselves downby their aid. When the occupants of the upper floors were making their escape the scenes were often exciting and touching. Men could be seen holding the hands of women evidently encouraging them to calmness. Three women ran on the roof and fell through the sky-light of one of the northern buildings, receiving severe injuries. A bootblack on the corner of Beekman street and Park Row, seeing some men tangled in the telegraph wires adjoining the burning premises climbed a pole and cut the wires, releasing them from their critical position. Several persons descended from the burning building on Nassau street by reaching the telegraph poles. One boy leaped from the fifth story and would undoubtedly have been killed but for the wires breaking his fall. He was hurt but not dangerously. An express wagon having a canvas covering drove up under the windows and several men who were about to leap to the ground were told by the driver to jump on his wagon which they did and escaped any serious hurts. One young woman stood up on the window sill of the fourth story until the firemen arranged a piece of canvas which they held at the ends and sides. When all was ready she threw her hands straight over her head and jumped. She fell upon the outstretched canvas and escaped injury. It is almost impossible to estimate the losses at this writing, but it is believed they will exceed $1,000,000. Among the occupants of the burned building were the Scientific American, the Scotch-American Journal, Turf, Field and Farm, Thompson's Bank Note and Commercial Reporter, and the following advertising agencies: S. M. Pentingill & Co., John F. Phillips & Co., Charles Meyer & Co., J. Walter Thompson, Nicola Monahisi, A. R. Thompson, Levi. A. Desbros and L. H. Corall. The top floors of the burned buildings were occupied by various manufacturers and by weekly newspapers which employed women as compositors.

One woman and two men are said to have been seen at a window on Nassau street and then to disappear in the flames.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4.....1882

DURING the French blockade by the English fleet, Napoleon established a maritime arsenal in Venice, where a number of vessels were built. One day a brig, upon which great expectations had been founded, left the port without having time for trial; but it sailed so slowly that it was captured by an English ship before it reached the open sea. The French crew was replaced by an English crew, which was soon disappointed at finding that it was almost impossible to move the brig. Upon examination it was suspected that the principal mast had been badly stepped. Carpenters were called, who gave the mast a greater inclination, and after spreading the sails anew, the brig was found to be a faster sailer than any other in the English fleet.

HIS CHURCH.

You see they just give me Columbia
And think I'm a sinner, I know;
I ain't just as good as I might be,
Perhaps I won't stand any show.
I don't go to church ev'ry Sunday,
Nor owe for the clothes that I wear,
I know that I drink pretty often,
An' also admit that I swear.

I tell you I've been through the mill, boys,
And I've seen some pretty tough sights,
But I never pitch into a fellar
Whos' gettin' the worst of a fight.
I've fed a good many poor critters,
That hadn't a crust to their name,
Although I don't always hold aces,
I'll risk, it will be all the same.

Whenever I meet a poor fellow,
I'll give him the best that I've got,
And give him a chance to do better,
Whether he does it or not.
I don't think this quite suits the devil,
That is, it don't please him too well;
And I'm almost persuaded to gamble
'Twill keep me from going to hell.

Perhaps now my lingo don't suit you;
I ain't college bred, you must know:
But the Lord won't use any big words,
I'll know when he wants me to go.
I may have to go second class though,
For you see I'm given to sin.
But I think when I knock at the door,
That the Lord will let me come in.

WADE.

A New Process for Ores.

Says the Denver, Colorado, Tribune: The Waitz Mining Company, with their principal office at Silver Cliff, claim to save 90 per cent. of the value of the ores treated. The closed furnace is built upon an incline and arranged in terraces, the ore, previously crushed to about the size of peas (as ore of this size is more readily heated than pulverized ore,) is removed from shelf to shelf by automatic scrapers. During the process of heating, said to be accomplished in from forty to eighty minutes, the base metals are completely desulphurized and oxidized. The latter takes place by means of the conditions under which the ores are treated, viz., in the absence of atmospheric air in the presence of oxygen and in the absence of nitrogen, the oxygen either evolved from the ores themselves, as in the Boulder and Buffalo Hunter (containing oxides of manganese and iron), or by the addition of some oxygenated substance, should such be lacking. The conditions under which the oxidization of the base metals takes place are not such as to oxidize the noble metals. After leaving the furnace the ore is pulverized preparatory to introduction to the amalgamator. Pulverization is now accomplished with less power and in less time than before heating, in consequence of the disintegration of the ore by that process. Any amalgamator may be used, though Prof. Waitz holds the patent to one consisting of two upright cylinders parallel to each other, and resting on a bed-plate. These cylinders are connected by pipes at top and bottom, the pipes of sufficient size to permit of the passing of the pulp from one cylinder to the other. Within each cylinder are Archimedean screws revolving in opposite directions at a high rate of speed; the quicksilver is placed at the bottom, reaching above the bottom opening; the pulp is placed in each on top of the mercury, so that as the screws begin to work they force the pulp up one and down in the other, and assisted by the vacuum, produce a sort of rotary motion continually changing the pulp from one cylinder to the other and through the body of quicksilver at the bottom, until discharged into the settler, from this point to be treated in the ordinary manner.

The Waitz process is said to be particularly applicable to the treatment of the sands of placer claims, and will prove an absolutely invaluable auxiliary where water is unattainable. No crushing is needed, the sands being simply put through the furnace and amalgamated and retorted. In reference to the subject a gentleman from Salida states as follows: "My attention was called to the Waitz process last Spring. I saw no immediate results in the tangible reduction of ores; but, as the Professor invested only his own money, sold no stock, nor desired so to do, I became somewhat interested, and visited the little mill at Rosita. I found it incomplete and inconvenient, but upon investigation could not but recognize its simplicity."

Stubs and Opium.

I ran across a cigarette factory the other day. Whew! I wouldn't write—or, rather, you wouldn't dare print what I saw. Dirty butts of cigars fresh from the filth of the muddy streets are the cleanest and nicest of the material used in compiling these precious rounds to ruin. I came down town on a Madison avenue car this evening and on the tail end there were three little chaps, the oldest about fourteen. Each smoked a cigarette and spat his little life away. I ventured to ask it they enjoyed the odor. They said they did. And the taste? Certainly. On inquiring I found they had a well-known brand of cigarette, noted for its "opium soak" and its terrible smell when burning. Poor little devils. They can't last long. They were pale and sickly, puny and offensive. What kind of men will they make? Men? They're men already in their own eyes. They and a majority of our little lads are full of the slang of the day, up in all the catches, and abundantly able to hold up their end of a conversation. I subsequently saw these three boys in Niblo's Garden. It would have done you good to hear them talk. A blind man might reasonably think he was listening to three old men. Nothing was new. They had seen it all before, and better done at that. Down went the curtain, out went the boys, but before they felt the first breath of fresh air from the street each puny hand held a cigarette to the vile smelling mouth, and puff, puff, they sickened everybody in their vicinity. This is an old grievance of mine, and I don't care to bore you with it, but I feel it keenly.

Day by day the vice grows stronger. There was a time when cigarette smoking was confined almost entirely to Cubans, who knew what good tobacco was and made their own cigarettes. Gradually the habit spread. Dealers followed suit. Makers became unscrulous. Little boys were sent to pick up cigar stumps. Other equally disgusting material was utilized. Opium was made to do service. Cheap paper took the place of rice paper. I wish those boys could see the stuff their paper is made of. Wouldn't it turn their little stomachs? I trow, I trow. The cheap paper, the old stumps, the opium and the chemicals used to make them "strong" deserves to be shown up. Parents have no influence over their sons. Why not? Because they smoke cigars or pipes themselves. The boys charge all the good advice they get to their father's desire to keep them down. There is but one way to deal with American boys. Reason with them through their eyes. If every nicotined stomach was made public, if every time a fellow died of too much cigarette the fact was made known, if the proud boys could be shown a rag factory and a stump grindery, it seems to me the cigarette business would be wound up very scon.—Philadelphia Times.

A Four-Cornered Earth.

The Revd. John Jasper, the colored minister of Richmond, who has become famous from his assertion that the "sun do move," when asked by a correspondent of the New York Sun if he knew that science is in conflict with his theory of the solar system, replied:

"Yes, I knows it, but they can't prove they're right. Notice what I say. In Revelation vii., 1, it is laid down: 'And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea nor on any tree.' So you see, we are living on a four-cornered earth which is fixed and steady in the sky. Now, as to the rotation of the sun around the earth (which is square and cannot roll) I have already told you the pints as laid down in the Ecclesiastes. Joshua made the sun to stand still, it is true, for a short time; but afterward it commenced to move round on its usual course, and has been moving on ever since. We have strict Bible authority to believe these facts I argues for. There is other pints about the subject referred to in the wars of Joshua with the Amorites, meybe stronger than the ones printed in the sermon, but I just quotes them when I gets up in the pulpit. As to science, it's all wrong where it's against the Bible. A friend of mine sent me down from Philadelphia the works of nine philosophers, and I looked over them and nearly read one through; but I got tired and didn't finish it. No two of them agree. One philosoper says the sun is distant from the earth 60,000,000 miles, another seventy, another eighty, another ninety (leaving out fractions), and one goes so far as to put the figures at 104,000,000. They know nothing about it; no one can, unless he gets it from the Bible. There is puzzles in the Bible for me, because I has to spell out all the big words, and some parts I would not read in the pulpit, because I don't want to be laughed at by the congregation. I am no grammarian, and got no learning except what I gave myself, but I can spell out all the texts here at home by myself, though I have to feel my way through the Bible in these parts just like a blind man do his way in the streets."

THE prospects are that the crops will not be extraordinarily large this year; but we are to have an election, and there is some comfort in that. Very few misfortunes are without compensating circumstances. Short crops would make times very dull next Fall if they were not offset by the stirring times incident to an election.

Try.

Try a newspaper over the chest, beneath your coat, as a chest protector in extremely cold weather.

Try planting sunflowers in your garden if compelled to live in a malarial neighborhood.

Try walking with your hands behind you if you find yourself becoming bent forward.

Try snuffling powdered borax up the nostrils for catarrhal "cold in the head."

Try a cloth wrung out from cold water put about the neck at night for sore throat.

Try taking a nap in the afternoon if you are going to be out late in the evening.

Try taking your codliver oil in tomato catsup if you want to make it palatable.

Try a hot flannel over the seat of neuralgic pain and renew frequently.

Try buttermilk for the removal of freckles, tan and butternut stains.

Try a wet towel to the back of the neck when sleepless.

Try cranberry poultice for erpsipelas.

Try clam broth for a weak stomach.

Try ginger ale for stomach cramps.

Try a sun-bath for rheumatism.

Try cranberries for malaria.

Try popcorn for nausea.

Prayer for Delinquents.

We offer the following prayer for the benefit of our subscribers who won't pay up. Some of you have "planked down" all right but the one who can and won't, may imagine us on our knees, praying thusly:

May he never be permitted to kiss a handsome woman.

May 2:40 nightmares trot quarter races over his stomach every night.

May his coffee be sweetened with flies, and his sauce with caterpillars.

May his boots leak, his gun hang fire and his fish line break.

May his best friend run off with his wife, and his children take the whooping cough.

May the famine-stricken ghost of a publisher's baby haunt his slumbers and hiss murder in his sleeping ear.

May his cattle have wolves in 'em, his mules the blind staggers and the pigs destroy his garden.

May a troop of printer's devils, lean, lank and hungry, dog his heels each day, and a regiment of infernal cats caterwaul each night.

May his cow give dry milk and his churn rancid butter, and in conclusion, may his daughter marry a one-eyed, hunch backed editor, his business go to ruin, and he go to———, Amen.—Missouri Exchange.

HOW TO KILL THE BLUES.—Generally speaking, if you are troubled with the "blues," and cannot tell why, you may be certain that it springs from physical weakness. Instead of lying on a sofa and courting painful ideas, if you are a desponding lover, a hypochondriac or a valetudinarian, you should be up and stirring yourself. The blood of a melancholy man is thick and slow, creeping sluggishly through his veins, like muddy water through a canal; the blood of your merry, chirping philosopher is clear and quick, brisk as newly broached champagne. Try, therefore, to set your blood in motion. To effect this don't go to guzzling down brandy-smashes, gin cock-tails or any of the other juggling compounds in which alcohol is disguised, for every artificial simulant will drag you down two degrees for every one it lifts you up. The devil always beats you at a barter. Try, rather, what a brisk walk will do for you; set your legs in motion on rough, rocky ground, or hurry them up a steep, cragged hill; build stone walls, swing an axe over a pile of hickory or maple; turn a grindstone, dig ditches, practice "ground and lofty tumbling," pour water into sieves with the Danaides, or with Sisyphus; "up a high hill throw a huge round stone,"—in short, anything that will start the perspiration, and you will soon cease to have your brains lined with black, as Burton expressed it, or to rise in the morning as Cowper did, "like an infernal frog out of Acherone, crowned with the ooze and mud of melancholy."—Christian Commonwealth.

THE troubles of the Union Generale must make the Rothschilds very sympathetic with that institution. It was started as an opposition against Jewish banking in France, and one of the Rothschilds who a short time ago undertook to bear its stock got badly worsted, and, though his losses were comparatively insignificant for a man of his wealth, he committed suicide. The Union Generale was strictly a Roman Catholic financial institution, and if its failure follows its suspension of payment, the Catholics of all Europe, of high and low degree, will be sufferers. It is said that even Pope Leo would be a heavy loser by the failure, a large portion of Peter's pence being invested in the Union Generale.

THE Nevada Transcript asserts that the agitation against hydraulic mining was started and is supported by land speculators, who, by creating a scare, are endeavoring to bear the value of farming lands in the valleys. From the character of the tactics employed in the fight and some of the men engaged in the onslaught, we are of the opinion that our Nevada contemporary is correct in its assertions.

THE Readjusters are still on the rampage. Mahone, in an address to the citizens of Richmond, says that those who side with him will be successful in the end.

THE "JEANNETTE."

The recent despatch from Lieut. Danenhauer gives some encouragement in regard to the party of Commander De Long. Danenhauer says that he has at last obtained definite news of the party, and ascertained the region in which he is supposed to be. He states further that the Russian search parties ars proceeding with great vigor and enthusiasm. The news about Lieut. Chipp's party, however, is as bad as possible. Dananhauer thinks that the third boat must have sunk in the gale which separated the crew of the Jeannette. Nothing whatever has been heard of her, and it seems doubtful whether her fate will ever be known now. Melville, however, proposes to go in search of her in the Spring with a steamer, if possible, and two officers are to be sent out from Washington on that service. Thus the latest intelligence warrants a hope that De Long and his men will be found all living, but it throws a doubt over the fate of the third boat, which is almost equivalent to knowledge of her loss. The presumption now is that not more than two-thirds of the Jeannette's crew will return to civilization. Danenhauer intimates that the expedition discovered some islands during the long drift of the Jeannette, and he states that she sprung her forefoot at an early date in the voyage, and that the pumps had consequently to be manned continually for eighteen months, when she was finally crushed in the ice, and the crew had to abandon her. It appears from this that she was virtually disabled at the outset of her voyage, for even had she succeeded in getting clear of the ice it is doubtful whether, after such an injury, she could have carried the expedition into port, and in any event it would have been necessary to give up the thought of further northern exploration. The Jeannette thus proves to have been singularly unfortunate from the very beginning, and considering all things it will be lucky if two-thirds of her crew succeed in regaining their homes after all.

FRANK HATTON, Assistant Postmaster-General, knows how it is himself. He therefore announces that a Postmaster will give cause for his removal if he delivers a subscriber's newspaper to a non-subscribsr, allows him to read it, and puts it back into the box. This will deprive the man who goes for the mail and sits on the sugar barrel to sponge the reading of his neighbor's newspaper of half his Winter's amusement.

THE Census Committee has agreed on 320 members of the House. The last House fixed the number at 319, but the Senate did not act on the bill. The new representative ratio is 154,285. Under it Florida, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont each lose one Congressman, and California gains two, who at the next election will have to be elected by the State at large.

THERE is evidently good ground for the anticipated flow of gold from this country to Europe. The exports of breadstuffs for the year 1881 were $52,000,000 less than for the preceeding year. The beef, pork and butter exports also show a large decline. The generally accepted explanation is the drouth of 1881, causing a shortage and high prices.

A RUSSIAN lady was sent into exile for life for the henious crime of playing a piano to drown the noise of an interdicted printing press, while a Russian officer received the light sentence of 16 months imprisonment for murdering a merchant in a restaurant for no cause whatever. There will be bombs and trouble while such acts of injustice exist.

ALL of the stock, amounting to several millions, that is necessary to build Lorillard's fast ocean steamers that are to cross the Atlantic in six days, has been subscribed. The scheme embraces a railroad speculation and a new harbor at the end of Long Island. It probably contemplates an enormous subsidy from Uncle Sam.

A WEEK ago the subscriptions received by the Cleveland Committee of the Garfield Memorial amounted to $92,988. The Committee desire to raise $250,000, but it looks as if it will have to be content with a less sum.

PACHECO has introduced a bill to prevent the unlawful occupation of public land. This is probably the bill devised by the California Emigrant Association.

THE Bar Association of Queens county, New York, leads off a move for a uniform law in all States to govern the subject of divorce and marriage.

IT may be a question among many as to whether Blaine's South American policy was the correct one or not, but there can be no doubt but that he defends it with all the tact, ability and argumentative shrewdness for which he is so noted. Among other things he says: "Chili is willing and glad to accept the mediation of the United States, if that mediation can be of use to induce Peru to submit quietly to destruction; but if the United States' Special Envoy cannot be used for that end, Chili will have no more to do with him, and he can pack up and come home in the meek and lowly frame of mind that would be fit for such returning journey. The demand of Chili is equivalent to the destruction of Peru, for the reason that it takes from the latter country the great guano body and all her nitrate beds, thus depriving her of her revenue resources. What Chili is taking from Peru is relatively a far greater loss to Peru than the loss of the eleven seceeding States would have been to the American Union — far greater than that. Greater, indeed, than if the Pacific coast had joined the rebellion and gone out forever. That would have taken all the cotton lands, all the sugar lands, and all the precious mineral lands from the United States, and would have destroyed our power and our very existence. Precisely that fate is to be inflicted on Peru, and Chili now permits the United States to mediate only on condition that she will promote this wholesale destruction of a friendly republic — a destruction as complete and as cruel as was the partition of Poland.

CONGRESSMAN COBB has proposed an amendment to the Constitution giving retiring Presidents $6,000 per annum pension, and making them and the Cabinet officers ineligible for election to the Presidency for the term following that during that which they had office. If to that he would add "And the salary of the President shall be $100,000 a year, and the salary of each Cabinet officer $25,000 a year," there might be some hopes of its adoption.

THE penalty for coin clipping in the United States is $2,000 fine and two years imprisonment. And yet the mutilation goes on. The business is carried on to a greater extent than most people think for. It must be patent to every one that even a very small hole punched in a four-bit piece would yield a large revenue from the silver thus obtained, were one to punch holes in coin all day. The only way to abate the nuisance is to refuse to take any that are mutilated in the slightest degree.

SOMEWHERE in Mississippi, on the 7th instant, a couple of muscular brutes designated as Sullivan and Ryan indulged in the intellectual pastime known as a prize fight, in which the latter got badly whipped in nine rounds; time, 26 minutes. The overland wires have been burdened with the particulars ever since.

A BILL has been laid before Congress to authorize the reclamation of the Potomac flats. An appropriation of $1,000,000 is asked for that purpose. The folks at Washington generally ask enough.

THE intelligence comes from Washington that Senator Farley is exerting himself to the utmost to push the consideration of the bills restricting Chinese emigration.

A SAN BERNARDINO paper reports that the snow fell to the depth of six feet at Swarthout cañon recently. The inhabitants were compelled to go about on snowshoes.

KERN COUNTY NOTES. — Although there is reason to believe that, for the balance of the season, there will be sufficient rain, it has come too late for cattle and sheep-ranging. This business has become so uncertain that cattle and sheep farming will probebly soon take its place, Feed must be made certain by the process of irrigated cultivation, and, so pursued, stock-raising is the most profitable business in this part of the State. It cannot be crippled by extortionate freight charges because cattle, sheep and horses can furnish their own locomotion to market. There are plenty of sheep-rangers in this country with means enough to buy land in the valley and grow feed extensively. Many are doing so and probably regret they had not taken this course sooner. Drouths are not so great an evil after all if they cause more attention to be given to the cultivation of the soil and the introduction of better and safer methods into one of our most important industrial pursuits.

It is the intention to cut and stack fifty thousand tons of hay on the farms of Messrs. Haggin & Carr, in this vicinity, the coming season. They only had about thirty thousand tons to tide over the drouth this season, and they propose to be better prepared for emergencies hereafter.

It is understood that the cotton crop at the Belle Vue was first-rate and has given profitable and satisfactory results. The area that will be planted next year has not been decided upon, but it will be of considerable extent.—Bakersfield Californian.

BY an explosion of gas at the Midlothian coal mines at Richmond, Va., February 4th, thirty-two miners lost their lives.

The Candelaria Branch.

[From the True Fissure, Feb 4.]

Within the present month the Carson and Colorado railroad will be running trains into Candelaria, and the realization of this much discussed project for a year past will be enjoyed by the people of this vicinity, together with those living to the west, south and east of it. Beginning at a point about four miles from Belleville the Candelaria branch leaves the main line, which continues on south, and traverses the hillsides to the southward, winding in and out to attain as near an even grade as possible. Ground has been broken along the whole of the distance from the junction to the dump of the Vanderbilt mine, about a quarter of a mile west of town. The grading on the line is now being completed and will be finished within two weeks over the whole route of the branch except that portion from the Vanderbilt mine to the Northern Belle, which will be the terminus for the present. The force at work along the line at present consists of about one hundred and thirty men, of whom one hundred are Chinamen and the balance white men. There are some fifteen horses and carts, two water wagons, which, with the drivers and the necessary cooks and men for odd jobs, make up the quota. All are quartered in tents pitched on the edge of the alkali flat to the north of the New York house. These tents are separated into four camps, which each of itself is a minature town, complete in many instances for living very comfortably away from the centers of civilization. The track has been laid to a cañon, about two miles out, which it has been decided to bridge. The chasm is two hundred feet across, its sides rising abruptly and affording good abutment foundations on either side. Active operations are now in progress on this trestle work by a good sized force of carpenters and laborers. About one-half of the structure is in place and all of this bridge will be finished early next week. One thousand feet, or nearly that distance, further on there is another cañon which is to be crossed in the same manner. There will be fourteen bents put in the cañon proper and ten or twelve more on the approaches. The bottom sill of each bent is made of 14x14 timbers and the uprights 12x12. These are firmly bolted together and tied to one another by 4x12 plank, also held in place by iron bolts with washers next to the wood. The greatest hight of the bridge will be fifty-two feet, and when all is in position will be nearly as intact as if it was solid earth. The progress of the grading has not been as rapid as was anticipated owing to the rocky nature of the ground along the line, to which might be added the low temperature of the past month. The Chinamen feel the cold air and wind very much and it is with the greatest reluctance that they can be induced to leave their tents in the morning. After an inch or two of dirt has been removed boulders are found of all sizes and in every conceivable position. These have to be blasted out with the free use of both black and giant powder. The bulk of the blasting is done at noon and at quitting time for the day, when the line of the grade at the point where it is going on presents a scene not dissimilar to a series or mud volcanoes, and the detonating noises, with the accompanying echoes from the hills across the flat remind one of the Fourth of July or a mimic cannonading concert at the time of the beseiging of a city. The station buildings will probably be erected at a point opposite the intersection of the stage road and the quartz grade, about ten minutes walk from town. A road will be built up to them for the accommodation of freight teams and other vehicles going to and from them. Owing to the great angle of the north side of the hill along which the road will run, the selection of the site for the depot has been a difficult one, that it might combine both nearness to town and natural advantages for the approach of large teams. The latter proposition is one which at first glance might appear unimportant, but when it is considered that Candelaria will now become the railway terminal point for all freighting to the south and east for an indefinite time, its importance becomes manifest. The probabilities are now very strong that a larger quantity of heavy freight, such as machinery, supplies, etc., will be brought here in the interest of mining than ever before, and the reduced rates on freight are a strong inducement to the further development of the numerous claims, which if persistently and properly worked would yield a fair and in many cases a large amount of low grade ore. The ore will soon be transported to mills where nominal prices for crushing are already offered, compared to those when the rates of freight were so high, and when the mills near the location of the mines were compelled to place the work of reducing at a high figure. A new era would appear to be dawning upon the chloride belt, and one which the railroad has been the means of producing.

CONGRESSMAN PACHECO would prefer to be Minister to Mexico, but he and his friends evidently concede that at present coveted position to some one else, (rumor has it, Eugene Sullivan, father-in-law of Senator Jones), hence many are endeavoring to secure for our respected Congressman and ex-Governor the position made vacant by the death of Gen. Kilpatrick—that of Minister to Chili. If the Republicans of the Fourth District can spare Gov. Pacheco (and it will be difficult to find so popular a candidate in the party), it would please all to have his claims for the diplomatic position recognized by the President. Educated in Spanish as well as English, genial and affable, always the well-bred gentleman, Gov. Pacheco would do the State and National Government credit as representative to a Spanish-American country. He has had sufficient experience in the politics of this State to afford him some insight into the intricacies of diplomancy, and although but little may be required of him in that line, no one will doubt that his presence as a representative in a foreign country would tend to popularize both himself and the Government he represented. — Sacramento Bee.

THE wool clip for California in 1881 amounted to 43,204,769 pounds.

Sensible Remarks.

In sentencing Guiteau to be hanged on the 30th of June Judge Cox used the following language:

Judge Cox then proceeded to pass sentence, addressing the prisoner as follows: "You have been convicted of a crime so terrible in its circumstances and so far-reaching in its results that it has drawn upon you the horror of the whole world, and the excitement produced by such an offense made it no easy task to secure for you a fair and impartial trial. But you have had the power of the United States Treasury and the Government in your service to protect your person from violence and to procure evidence from all parts of the country. You have had as fair and impartial a jury as ever assembled in a court of justice. You have been defended by your counsel with a zeal and devotion that have earned the highest encomiums of the country. I have done my best to secure a fair presentation of your defense. Notwithstanding all this you have been found guilty. It would have been a comfort to many people if the verdict of the jury had established the fact that your act was that of an irresponsible man. It would have left people the satisfying belief that the crime of political assassination was something foreign to our institutions and the civilization of our country. But the result has denied them that comfort. The country will accept it as a fact that this crime can be committed, and this Court will have to deal with the highest penalty known to the Criminal Code to serve as an example to others. Your career has been so extraordinary that people might well at times have doubted your sanity; but one cannot but believe that when the crime was committed you thoroughly understood its nature and its consequences."

CALIFORNIA produced 9,500,000 gallons of wine in 1881.

Belleville and Independence Stage Line.

For the present, regarding the change of route of travel on the Northern Stage Line, so far as to connect with the incoming railroad instead of via Aurora, we will only quote the following letter from the owner. It is dated at Benton, Feb. 8, and addressed to Messrs. Harris & Rhine: "I have changed my stages on the Belleville road, and I hope you will do what you can for me to help build up a trade this way. I have not succeeded in getting terminus of this route changed to Belleville. I have to continue the route to Aurora on horseback, until I get orders from Postoffice Department that the terminus has been changed to Belleville. The fare to San Francisco will be $40 or $36 to Sacramento. Tickets will also be on sale at the San Francisco ticket office over this route to Independence, Big Pine and Bishop Creek. Passengers will save $12 25 by buying a through ticket to Independence, and $8 75 to Bishop Creek and Big Pine. They will not have to lay over. We leave dvery day on the arrival of the train at Belleville. There will be no lay over from Independence; reach Belleville in the morning in time for the train connecting with the Virginia Express for San Francisco. It will be the best and most comfortable route to Southern Mono and Inyo counties.

Yours, truly,
S. L. McNAUGHTON.

CARP. — Supervisor Olds, Monday last, brought down from Mr. T. E. Jones' ponds at Round Valley some 28 young carp, consigned to John Kispert and A. C. Stevens. They were in a barrel of water, and appeared rather to enjoy the trip. Of the number was one who had reached the mature age of fifteen months, and had acquired a size of about that many inches in length, and a full, thick body. This particular specimen, with a smaller one, was sent to THE INDEPENDENT, and were added to Mr. Kispert's stock for his ponds. Mr. Jones has made an immense success in his enterprise, and a sight of the fish, together with some knowledge of the facts, is sufficient to to make any one enthusiastic upon the subject.

DIED. — Night before last, in one of the laundry buildings of Camp Independence, an old man named Michael Shimer paid the last debt of nature. Although a pioneer—having been interested in mining and ranching all through this section of the country since '62 — his disposition was so reserved that but few knew him. He was found alone in the house, almost insensible, the parties having to climb through the window to get to him. Dr. George, upon being sent for, attended him and pronounced his death to have been from natural causes. Coroner Thompson fully investigated the facts and left the remains to be cared for and buried by friends of the deceased.

CERRO GORDO.—Supt. M. A. Wheeler, of the Swansea Mining Company, paid Independence a business visit during the week. He is working the Nemesis and Original mines, properties formerly owned by Joe Diaz, situated in lower Cerro Gordo. As soon as they, in connection with the Palma, are sufficiently well opened to ensure twenty tons of ore per day—the early accomplishment of which work there can be no doubt—it is probable that the Hawley mill on the lake will be leased and run by the Swansea Company. As we predicted when the company bought the Palma, or "Gold Hill" mine, Mr. Wheeler will not allow the mines to lie idle.

THE "UNCLE ABE." — Capt. James Powning and Harvey Mills have secured from Judge Conklin a lease of the old Hitchcock, or Uncle Abe gold mine in Alabama District, together with the mill in Lone Pine Cañon, and will at once commence work. The mine is small, but the ore is immensely rich in free gold. The lesses are men of great experience in mining and metallurgy, and are confident of making a complete success of their enterprise.

SUIT DISMISSED. — In the Superior Court yesterday the suit of J. S. Rothschild v. A. R. Conklin et al., which was standing on a motion to transfer to the U. S. Circuit Court for California, was called up and dismissed by agreement. This action finally settles all conflict of title as between the Ygnacio, San Francisco and Greenly mines, Cerro Gordo, so far as interfered with by the Summit No. 2 mine.

THE "LONE PINE." — All the old timers of Southern Inyo will feel a pang of genuine grief, upon reading the information contained in the following brief note: "The high north wind on last Monday sent the stately old tree from which this village derives its name crashing to mother earth. The people feel the calamity as if an old friend had fallen. There is talk of preserving the old landmark by planting another in its stead."

THE WHITNEY.—We hear that Mrs. A. Stewart has again taken charge of the Whitney House, Lone Pine, and also that a grand ball and supper is to be given at that popular hotel on the next coming holiday—Febuary 22d.

RELIGIOUS.— A report states that the meetings at Lone Pine, conducted by the Rev. F. M. Willis and his able wife are very generally attended, and that much interest is manifested.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. Mr. Reynolds will hold divine service at the School House at the usual hour to-morrow evening. Our citizens should turn out and give him a good attendance.

THE County Auditor's statement elsewhere shows that a heavy reduction of the county indebtedness has been made.

Big Pine Business.

BIG PINE, Feb. 7.

The future of Inyo surely depends on the development of her many mines. But something more than mere prospecting is required to unearth the treasures that certainly exist in her mountain ranges.

At present, if a miner be fortunate enough to discover a lode, it will profit him but little, unless it is immensely rich. Only last week my attention was called to a specimen of silver ore from Deep Springs. It showed silver very plainly, as a specimen it was very beautiful. What is wanted mostly to open up these mines is capital. Labor without capital is as useless as capital without labor. To prosper they must go hand in hand. Nothing brings capital into a country as an easy means of communication. This means will be supplied, for it is now assumed as a positive fact, that the iron horse will soon breathe the air of Owens River Valley. These mountains were not packed here by the Creator merely as monuments or ornament. It will yet be proven that they are the "strong box" of California. And before long the trained and practiced eye of science will pick the lock, and scatter out the treasure to the world.

SHORTS.

When anyone gets into a difficulty in Bishop Creek, they stand by him if he is in the right....It is almost natural that a man, who receives a fat salary for looking after Government buildings, should kick when they are to be sold....J. T. Erwin brought in some fine specimens from his silver mine at Deep Springs....Messrs. Saylor and Riddle have gone to Waucoba, prospecting...."Bill of Bishop" couples the name of "Mighty Wade" with matrimony. He is either "off wrong," or fishing for cake....Who stole Payson's goose? Keep it dark, boys, for Lew will surely get even.... Young man, you are right, the head-sawyer's name is Bill....Calling on the members of the Times' staff, I missed the jovial Harry. However, it looks natural to see H. Julian at his post of duty.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

SALINE VALLEY NEWS.—Our Deputy Sheriff, Charles Hollenbeck, came in from Saline Valley on Tuesday last and reported everything in that section as looking well. He has eight men at work on the company's ditch which is to bring water for their new mill. The ditch is about completed and work will be commenced on the mill as soon as the mortar, wheel, etc., arrives. Mr. Hollenbeck came out to replenish their stock of provisions, which was getting low. He says there is about a foot of snow on the summit, and the weather is extremely cold.

MEXICAN. — This property now belongs to Mr. Elkeles, who has put five men to work taking out ore, and will resume work at the arastras within the next week. This is good news, for it will not only give employment to a number of men, but will also circulate a little coin. Mr. Elkeles is a live business man, and is doing much towards the mining interests of the country.

POLETA. — The drift running east is being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible, and if there is anything in that portion of the mountain, we can rest assured that Mr. Ford will find it, being a thorough miner and an experienced foreman. Mr. Wear, clerk for the company, is also stopping at the mine.

Deacon Giles has on exhibition at his saloon a very large ibex skin. It is of light dunn color, with heavy black mane. The animal was killed about a year ago at Long Valley, by H. J. Lent, and must have weighed when alive at least 300 pounds.

H. D. Gelatt "takes the cake" as a horse trainer. His performance here on Thursday was a decided success, "Daisy" and "Colonel" being well under control, and performing like old circus horses.

Johnny Williams has struck a ledge of good ore on his claim—North extension of the Mountain Chief.

ANXIOUS faces are to be seen on the streets of San Francisco, on account of the fear that Trescott will not be in time to assure Chile of the distinguished consideration in which the Republic is held by the United States, and that Chile will declare war and send an ironclad to destroy this city. The insurance companies are talking of canceling their policies if Trescott is not heard of within a day or two. The Chile weather so much feared in Washington and New York, is making the Americans shake in their boots.—Stock Report.

The Railroad Talk.

Pursuant to call published last week, the Court Room was on Wednesday evening filled with citizens generally, coming from Independence, George's Creek and Camp Independence. Upon the meeting being called to order, Dr. W. H. George was unanimously elected Chairman, and J. E. Parker Secretary.

The following resolution was introduced by the Secretary:

"That a Committee consisting of five citizens be appointed by the Chair, the duty of which Committee shall be to fully investigate the sense and desire of the people and property owners of this town and surrounding places as regards to the route of the Carson and Colorado railroad; to collect statistics, facts and arguments, and to present the best possible showing in favor of the said road being built through or near this town.

That the Committee so chosen is authorized to co-operate with any similar body selected by people on the west side of the valley, and to act with them in all measures necessary to determining the Railroad Company to adopt the route desired."

A general discussion of the subject followed. Mr. S. P. Moffat stated the general object of the meeting, and in remarks following made a stirring address in favor of the appointment of a committee to collate facts and present them to the Company. He called upon the citizens present to know if there could be anyone who would demand excessive payments for right of way, etc. Isaac Harris responded that for one, he would give all the land the railroad company wanted in town, for depot purposes or anythiag else. Mr. Walters said they might go through his land if they wanted to, but thought there was just as good a route on vacant lands to the west of his place. Mr. Vagt followed in the same strain, and referred to the fact that Camp Independence settlers had not, as yet, secured titles to their homesteads. Mr. Bell thought that about a mile east of the Fort was a natural air-line route, where there could be no possible objection; the other side of the valley was undeveloped and had no population or present inducements as compared to this. Supervisor Meysan made the best speech of the evening, in saying "Any man who objected to a railroad on this side goes against his own best interests;" he said that Lone Pine had appointed a similar committee to the one proposed, with the intention of a general co-operation. Supervisor Robinson said that he didn't propose to tell the Railroad Company what he would do till he found out what they wanted, but intimated very pointedly that he would throw nothing in its way. Mr. Laird argued that it would be better to build up established centers of population than to make new ones in the desert.

The resolution was adopted unanimously, whereupon the Chair appointed as members of the Committee the following: J. E. Parker, J. C. Irwin, Isaac Harris, J. W. P. Laird and A. N. Bell. Subsequently, on motion of Mr. Irwin, the Chirman, Dr. W. H. George, and S. P. Moffat, Esq., were added to the Committee. Meeting adjourned.

The Committee is called to meet at Mr. Moffat's office on next Monday evening.

HER TOUR.—Having finally arranged her programme as to route, and secured a supply of posters, tickets, etc., Mrs. Sarah Stevens Heenan is about starting southward on her professional tour, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mollie Stevens. In reference thereto, the lady writes an interesting letter, whereof we can make no more interesting account than to copy a portion as follows: "The title of my new (and in part original) entertainment is "A trip to Bermuda" or Evenings at Sea." It is a sketch of travel, written by a well-known writer, to which I have added various personal reminiscences of travel, anecdotes, recitations and song, the whole forming a "Melange of Anecdote, Poetry and Song, Fact, Fancy and Fun." If I receive my posters in time, I shall give it here on Saturday, 11th instant, and if not then, probably early in the following week, leaving for the other side immediately afterward. I venture to enclose some notices of myself, printed soon after my return to the stage after so many years absence that I have forgotten the exact number. I did not play (with the exception of two brief tours in England and one engagement of six months in London) till after Mr. Heenan's death. Since then, besides playing with Mr. Brougham, I have been three times to Europe for pleasure—played a brief season as leading lady of John E. Owen's Company, and (the year before coming out here) as leading lady with Ada Cavendish. Hoping to return to Inyo Valley sometime during the Spring or early Summer ensuing, and with many thanks for favors rendered me by THE INDEPENDENT, I remain,

Yours, very truly,
SARA STEVENS HEENAN."

The small volume of press notices of Miss Stevens' success upon the stage is collated from many Eastern and Southern journals, all of which united in according her the highest praise for "dramatic talent, handsome face and magnetic voice—both judiciously used." The estimable lady deserves, and we hope will receive, a warm reception from the general public on the other side, in acknowledgement of her abilities as an elocutionist and actress.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE.—Mr. H. D. Gelatt, in charge of Camp Independence, rashly rushes into print in the Times, in regard to this paper and Congressman Pacheco's bill donating the property for school purposes. The only matter worthy of notice in the whole is his objection to the establishment of a school—a subject which will be considered next week, probably after the receipt of important news concerning it.

PAUL W. BENNETT is back from his trip to the East. During his trip he was in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and other Eastern cities. He returns fresh to his duties here.—Bodie Free Press.

N. G.—The change of route on the Northern Stage Line, whereby the mail comes in about 7 o'clock P. M., instead of at 12 M. as heretofore, deprives THE INDEPENDENT of the opportunity of giving the latest Saturday's news. No good. However, until contemplated changes are effected in the Southern route publication hour will remain the same.

THE great double-deck double-track railway and highway bridge over the Hudson river at Albany, N. Y., was formally opened to the public on the 24th ultimo, by Jose F. Navarro of New York, President Bleicker Blanks and Chief Engineer A. P. Boller. It is 1,400 feet long, has in it the largest draw-span in the world, and was built in the short space of eight months, at a cost of about $1,000,000, exclusive of damages for land taken.

CALIFORNIA flour is now competing with the Illinois and Missouri mills in the Memphis, Tennessee, market. This is regarded as an indication of the value of the Southern Pacific and Texas Pacific railroad lines across the continent to the Southern States, and inspires the expectation that the whole Southwest is hereafter to carry on a large trade with California.—Baltimore Sun.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11.....1882

THE Salt Lake Tribune is justly indignant at the course pursued by the New York Times in regard to the Mormon question. Says the Tribune: The New York Times is a very beautiful specimen of a jack-Mormon. It is edited by a burly English brute, and he never puts his pen to paper to discuss the situation here without revealing the fact that, in his secret soul, he wishes that every double-necked scoundrel in America could have a private harem. We suspect that he is proud, after a fashion, of this English kingdom here in the West, and that if appealed to for his personal opinion, he would own that this kingdom, while not nearly so perfect as Her Majesty's, is still a vast improvement over the Republic of the United States. He insists that it is impossible to wipe out polygamy by law; but when a proposition is made to strike directly at it by putting things under a commission here, then he squirms and cries out that it must not be; that "the resources of the law-making power have not been exhausted against the polygamists." He talks about the efforts being made for the suppression of Mormonism. He knows a great deal better. He knows that no one cares what god his neighbor worships, but the complaint here is that under the name of a creed men are committing outrageous crimes against decency, and are bringing to shame the sovereignty of the Republic, and that it is against these features alone which the people are making war.

SLOSSON won the billiard match in Paris, making a total of 3,000 to Vigneaux's 2563. The Frenchman refused to shake hands with the American and he was heartily hissed by his countrymen.

Junipero Serra's Grave.

Quite a ripple of excitement was caused on our streets last Tuesday when it was reported that the long-lost and much sought-for grave of Father Junipero Serra, the illustrious founder of this city and the San Carlos Mission, had been found in the latter place. For the following particulars we are indebted to the Rev. Father Casanova, parish priest of this place, who has always taken a deep interest in the matter: Some time since Casanova ordered workmen to clear away the rubbish, which was from two to three feet deep, from the floor of the church, so that a strict search could be made for the graves of the priests and other dignitaries buried within the walls of the Old Mission, and especially that of Junipero Serra. Believing that the grave of Serra was situated in the Sanctuary, from a document in the possession of Father Casanova, which locates the spot, the workmen commenced operations as near as it was possible to tell, right over Serra's grave. After digging down about three feet through accumulated dirt and rubbish, the pick in the hands of the workman struck a board, and immediately surmising that this was what he sought, he went to work carefully and uncovered several redwood boards set in evenly, and immediately over stones, which evidently covered a grave. The coffin had been placed in a narrow tomb, which was covered with stone slabs, and over the slabs were the boards struck by the workman while digging. One of the stone slabs at the foot of the grave was broken, and the weight of the dirt and rubbish above had forced the board covering the slab to give way, filling the foot of the coffin with earth. The upper portion or head of the coffin, and contents, were in a splendid state of preservation considering the fact that they had been there for upwards of a century. Father Casanova says he is fully convinced that it is the grave of Junipero Serra, as its location coincides exactly with the document mentioned. A thorough examination and disinterment of the remains was not attempted at the time of the discovery, as Mr. Casanova intends to go on with the work and to have the entire floor of the Mission cleared of dirt, when the other graves will be opened the names of each silent sleeper ascertained. When this is accomplished, notice will be given, and the public will be admitted to view the remains of the immortal Junipero Serra. It was reported at the time of his death, and believed by many to this day, that the remains of the eminent father were taken to Spain and there buried. But Mr. Casanova disputes this, and has many reasons for his belief that Junipero Serra was buried in the sanctuary of the Mission his own energy and perseverance had caused to be built. The report that his body had been sent to Spain was circulated at the time, to deceive the Indians, who desired his body, and who would have taken it by force had they believed it was buried in the Mission. — Monterey Argus.

A RECENT brief visit to a portion of the southern territory of the State convinces us, very much against our will, that the lands of that section, not irrigated, will be almost useless for crop-raising the coming season. The fruit growers of Los Angeles county, having a well matured system of irrigation, will suger no inconvenience or loss from the drouth, but the lands not irrigated will fail to raise the supply of cereals and provender for animals usually produced in this county. A week's rain, even now, would materially change the grain and hay prospect of this section, but we fear that it is too late to hope for such a streak of good luck. A like condition of drouth exists, also, in Kern, Tulare and Fresno counties, as well as in the entire lengthy expanse of the San Joaquin Valley. Where irrigation is not the ground is as dry as a volume of Patent Office reports, or a powder-flask minus the powder. Kern, Tulare and Fresno counties are well irrigated, as is also a portion of San Joaquin county—Fresno taking the lead.—Alameda Encinal.

Slavery in the Far West.

Paul Boyton, in his trip down the Missouri, has run across a curious matrimonial custom that the Government should look into. One night he was entertained by a rancher named George Mince. A comely squaw presided over his household, and three pretty half-breed children called him father. To his guest he confessed the fact that he had bought this woman at Standing Rock Agency for a horse. He purchased her as a substitute for his Indian wife, whom he had purchased several years ago, married, overworked, and maltreated until she ran away. The squaw is kept hard at work, and the husband or master does not allow her to sit at the same table with him, and beats her whenever he pleases. What Mince has done is a common thing among his neighbors. "This system of female slavery," says Boyton, "is much more extensive than the public generally supposes. Scores of white men are accumulating wealth from the physical labor of these poor women and their children." Boyton says that a few years ago a white woodcutter bought a twelve-year-old Indian girl for $150 at the Berthold Agency, and it was regarded there as an ordinary business transaction. As all the half-breed children are entitled to rations and clothing from the Indian agencies, the importance of this immoral slavery, as to mere matter of governmental economy, is self-evident. This is a phase of the Indian question which is kept in the background, but it is a fruitful source of evil and misery which demands immediate attention.—St. Paul Press.

THE Stockton Mail describes a curious mine as follows: Two years ago at a mine operated by William Utter, at Campo Seco, near Milton, water came in and work stopped. To keep the large iron-bound and iron-baled bucket used to hoist rock from drying up and falling to pieces it was let down into the water. Next season when it was drawn up, lo, a miracle! It was copper-bound and copper-baled. From this has sprung quite an industry and the mine has been sustaining itself from ore water ever since. The water contains an acid which has the property of taking into solution the particles of iron thrust into it, and it has also copper in solution which is let go particle by particle as the iron is picked up. It is a simple chemical exchange, and this mine may make another profit still if it will get another chemical into the water which will make the acid lay down the iron which, as a black flood, the water carries down into the Stanislaus river. The copper industry consists in taking bundles of scrap iron and old tin to the mine, where it is all thrust into vats of water caught up, in which the metals are changed into copper, the residue of the iron taking the form of a black stream and flowing away. To make sure of making the water swap all the copper for iron, which it is glad to do without boot, one vat is placed below another down the bank to the river, and when the water escapes it has eaten its full of iron and left pay for its meal in genuine copper.

DURING last July a gentleman hailing from Pennsylvania, at that time living in Leadville, purchased a burro for the purpose of sending the animal back to his daughter in Monongahela county, Pennsylvania. The animal was placed in a crate which was marked quite plainly: "I am a Leadvillian going to Miss ——, Alleghany City, Monongahela county, Pennsylvania. Please give me water and food." The express bill was made out and the canary started toward the Orient. Everything went merry as a marriage bell with the traveler as long as he was among people who knew him, or at least until he crossed the Mississippi — there his troubles commenced. The express messenger in looking over his through bills found one for a "burro." Not having confidence in the Leadville office clerk to spell some words he took it for "Bureau," and commenced to search for the missing household article. Not finding it upon his arrival at the City of the Lakes, the following dispatch was sent back to Leadville; "Minus one bureau, plus one jackass; what shall I do?" The answer was: "Change places with the jackass."

THE increasing cost and scarcity of tie timber are calling attention to the question of using iron as a substitute. Although this material has been successfully employed in Europe for some time, the first iron ties ever rolled on the American continent were, according to the Railway Age, turned out at a Western mill the other day. The ties weigh 70 pounds, are six feet long (though they can be made any desired length), and in shape are much like the letter U, or a trough with a flange at each end. It is believed that they can be manufactured for about $2 each.

THE following rough joke on the poker players is related by the Pioche Record: A new kind of greenback has made its appearance here, in the shape of advertising bills. These bill are in size, color and character like a genuine greenback, but are simply an advertisement. The poker players won a couple of them. They are not happy.

IN Candelaria faro games are run but half a month. They are opened 24 hours before pay day and run as long as "the tiger" is fed. The beast absorbs all the nutriment to be had in fifteen days and then retires to its den until the "bhoys" have the wherewith to again pay for its exhibition.

NEVADA has about a million acres of salt land, and could supply the whole earth if necessary.

A Spiritual Impostor Exposed.

Mrs. Sawyer, a "materializing" humbug, who has practiced her alleged "spiritual" charlantry in San Francisco for many years, notwithstanding frequent exposures of her tricks, has finally been brought to such a measure of grief as to compel her to repair for a while to the springs for rest and recuperation.

On Sunday night last a profane spectator, on the appearance of a gauzy spirit in the doorway of her cabinet, leaped over the table and caught the charming etherealization in his arms and held on with the tenacity of grim death. The light was at first extinguished, but was immediately relighted, and behold spectator and spook, the latter minus her outer dress, enveloped in gauze, and proving herself nothing more nor less than the medium herself. She begged them not to hurt her, owned up to the trick, and asked permission to retire to another room to dress herself. Some twenty persons were satisfied of the fraud, and signed a card to that effect.

WE learn from R. E. Doran, Superintendent of the White Mountain Water Company, that the pipes are laid to the reservoir at Pickhandle Gulch, about a mile from Candelaria, but as yet the water is running into the reservoir on Miller Mountain, a point eleven miles from the fountain head, pending the laying of the necessary pipes to the several hoisting works on Candelaria Hill and into the town of Candelaria which will be accomplished some time next week, when the water will be run into the reservoir at Pickhandle Gulch and thence to the town and mines. Mr. Doran informs us that the spiral riveted pipe, of which so much has been said in connection with the State Line mine at Gold Mountain, has proved a decided success, and will stand even more pressure than was claimed for it by the manufacturers, Messrs. Abendroth & Root, New York. The Superintendent says the lowest pressure along the line is 300 feet, while at one point it is subject to a pressure of 800 feet, and yet this immense strain does not cause a leak in the pipe. By measurement, 250,000 gallons of water can be emptied into the reservoir at Pickhandle Gulch every day, should that amount be required to supply the demand of Columbus Mining District and the town of Candelaria.—True Fissure.

AN examination of candidates for night watchman at the New York Custom-house, recently, revealed some phenomenal ignorance. One man when asked to give the names of ten Presidents of the United States, responded with this hit: "Conkling, Sargent, Bayard, Mitchell, Cornell, Cameron, Edmunds, Voorhees, Randall and Potter." In geography equally gross blunders were made, as Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore were given among the five cities on the Hudson river. The climax was capped by one candidate when he struck the question in arithmetic, "if one pound of coffee costs 33⅓ cents, what will ninety-nine pounds cost?" He got up, clapped on his hat and sailed out, remarking that "he didn't know that a man had to go through college to be a night watchman." And the man was right. If the examination had been confined to his moral character, his physical condition and his general intelligence, satisfactory answers to these would, we should think, have been all that were necessary to fit him for the humble position of night watchman.—Los Angeles Express.

REPORTERS.—At the recent Chicago Press Club banquet John Ritchie made a witty speech on the newspaper reporter. We have space only for a brief extract: "A good news gatherer must be a walking encyclopedia; his city editor may at any moment steer him against a society the short word in whose vocabulary is 'hypsianthropoidan;' or he may be asked to take in a discussion on the ascent of a monad. Now, there is nothing in nature so refreshing to a reporter as looking on the struggles of a well-regulated monad raising himself in the world, but very few care to track him through the underbrush of protoplasm and several other asms, until he reaches the solemn dignity of a monad, but still less does the reporter desire to chase him through the successive stages by which he becomes a by-pedal anthraphid. Yet, with all this erudition vibrating along the wires of his mental apparatus, the news gatherer is coolly dispatched to supervise a rooster dispute or a 'scapping-match.' "

ON Tuesday last Judge R. M. Briggs of the Superior Court of Mono county, Department No. 2, rendered a decision in the case of the People ex rel. R. L. Peterson, vs. Wm. O. Parker, District Attorney, finding defendant guilty of willful negligence of his official duties in connection with the recent attempts at enforcement of the Sunday law, dismissing him from the office of District Attorney, and rendering judgment against said Parker and in favor of the informer, R. L. Peterson, for the sum of $500, and for costs, such as were allowed in civil cases. Immediately thereafter petitions were circulated in Bodie and Bridgeport in favor of the appointment, to fill the vacancy, of R. S. Miner, J. C. Murphy and J. C. Bray.

IN Virginia City a prominent local politician was on trial for stealing chickens. The Constable who arrested him testified that when he searched the prisoner's house and found the chickens there, the man's wife said: "What in the world did you take those chickens for and disgrace the children. Why didn't you steal something worth while?"

A DUN.

Just at this time THE INDEPENDENT feels like addressing a few words to its patrons under the above significant heading. We presume they will be taken kindly, and hope they will be acted upon all around. Coming direct to the point, this paper and office needs the money due it, and needs it badly. Those knowing themselves indebted, and some one hundred or more do, are respectfully requested to make immediate remittances, as during the coming week important obligations must be met. All amounts received will be properly credited and promptly receipted for. During the past two months the mechanical work entailed upon the office in supplying county officials with blanks, books, and forms, together with multifarious other matters incidental to a newspaper and job office, has caused the neglect of the most important item—to us—about the business, the matter of collections. By the 1st of next month, however, all persons owing the office will find their accounts presented, while those having demands against the concern will find us ready to settle up in full very shortly thereafter. But for the immediate present we ask all who know that they owe to remit at once.

THE latest railroad rumor is to the effect that the Central and Union Pacific railroad companies will soon effect a consolidation of their roads and interests. The late Gould-Huntington consolidation of southwestern roads has, it is thought, paved the way to further and more important compromises, and it is not unlikely that there will ultimately be a consolidation of the two great transcontinental lines. The fact that Superintendent Towne is on his way East on important business in connection with the Central Pacific would seem to give color to the rumor referred to. But if any consolidation of the kind occurs it is about certain that California will have the entire management of the Consolidated Central.

IN pursuance of a dispatch received by Charles Crocker from L. Stanford and C. P. Huntington, who are now in New York, he has given out a contract for the immediate construction of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, situated at the head of Mohave Desert, eastward to the Colorado river. Mohave station is exactly 100 miles from Los Angeles, and is now the depot for the Cerro Gordo mines, in this county. It lies to the 35th parallel, which the Atlantic and Pacific will follow. The point at which the railroad shall cross the Colorado river is left open, to be designated and agreed upon by officers of the Southern Pacific and the Atlantic and Pacific railroad companies.

THE Chicago Tribune has made a compilation, showing from the census tables the actual number of those who are supposed to be benefitted by the tariff, and finds that it is just about nine per cent. In other words ninety-one per cent. of the American people have to pay from 40 to 80 per cent. extra for a number of the necessities of life in order to "protect" the other nine per cent. from the competition of foreigners. Surely nothing could be more absurd and unjust than such an arrangement as this, and it is only surprising that it should have been suffered to exist so long.

A MICA mine in Deadwood is said to have been sold for $37,500. It has an immense ledge, and over 10,000 lbs. have already been shipped. There are many dozens of mica mines in this State, but no one even made $3,750 out of one, much less $37,500. The North Carolina mine, which produces such excellent mica, yields enough to supply the United States. As one company has a monopoly of the handling of this product and owns this mine, there is not much encouragement for others to open mines. It is only first-class clear mica, which comes in large sheets, that can be marketed.

THE new funding bill authorizes the issuance of 3 per cent. bonds which shall not be called in or paid, "so long as any bonds of the United States, heretofore issued at a higher rate of interest than 3 per cent continue, and which shall be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States, shall be outstanding and uncalled," but such bonds shall not be issued in greater amount than $200,000,000.

HENRY C. HANKS, State Mineralogist, has sent a communication to the Board of Education inviting the Board and the teachers to avail themselves of the privileges afforded by the State Mining Bureau.

THE RAILROAD ROUTE.

As it seems to be an established fact, that the C. & C. R. R. is to be constructed through this valley, it becomes a matter of prime importance to its inhabitants as to the choice of routes, that is, whether it be upon the east or west side of Owen's river.

Among the citizens of the valley there can be but little, if any, diversity of opinion. It therefore behooves them to take such action in the matter, by the collation of facts and their presentation to the management of the road as will cause them to see that the interests of the road would be best subserved by its being constructed upon the west side of the river, in accordance with the general, and almost universal wish.

To our citizen especially, it is a question of the utmost importance, and nothing that can be done should be left undone, to secure the construction of the road where it will accomplish the greatest good to the greatest number. A united and earnest effort on the part of the inhabitants should be had, to the end that all the facts may be clearly presented to the company, together with the reason why it would be to the advantage of the road as well as to the citizens that it should run through or near the settlements from which it is to draw its support. Among the reasons which most readily take hold upon the mind are the following: The inhabitants are on the west, as well as all—or nearly so—of the agricultural grounds; pure water can be had at any desired point without the necessity of digging for it or pumping it from the river. An avoidance of drifting sands, such as have proved of such frequent injury to the S. P. R. R. on the Colorado desert. Also, resulting from some of the above reasons, would be the greater amount of local traffic between the various towns and settlements, or in other words—from station to station. The frequent and natural intercourse of the inhabitants of the towns would add no insignificant sum to the aggregate earnings of the road, which would be inevitably lost should the line run upon the east side, distant from three to five miles from the towns of Bishop Creek, Big Pine, Independence and Lone Pine.

With the road contigious to the towns named, that local intercourse would be greatly increased, and to such an extent as to become an important factor for the company to consider before it permanently locates the line of the road.

Therefore let the people be active in the matter, using all honorable means to bring about that which best insures the success of the enterprise. So far nothing but a spirit of the utmost liberality has been expressed upon the part of our citizens, as regards the right of way through the properties most likely to be on the line of the road in the event of its being located upon this side.

In the towns where stations would probably be rquired, the same feeling exists, and there is every assurance that lands sufficient for such purposes will be freely and gladly donated. It is certainly to the interest of the citizens from one end of the valley to the other to act in concert in this matter, and to have available an array of facts sufficicient to induce the company to see that in consulting the interests and wishes of the people of the valley it will best subserve its own interests. For the purpose of collating such facts, would it not be well for the citizens throughout the valley to cause a meeting of representative men from the different sections to be held, at such time and place as may be agreed upon to consider the matter, and present such facts and arguments as will be most likely to accomplish the desired result? To the towns herein named it is especially important. Should the road run upon the opposite side of the river, stations would be established that would surely grow into rival towns—diverting to themselves the business of what are now flourishing places upon the west side of the river. Neither is it of less importance to the intermediate settlers and farmers, as it would add no inconsiderable item to the expense of marketing the produce of their farms. Therefore let such a meeting be held, that all sections may act not only intelligently, but harmoniously and effectively in the matter.

IT is announced that Stanford and Huntington, who are in New York, have telegraphed to their associate, Charles Crocker, to begin work on the "cut-off" of the Southern Pacific from Mohave to the Colorado river. This will save about 100 miles in distance, avoid "the loop" and the great elevations thereabouts, and will carry the through trains a long distance away from Los Angeles.

UNDER all the speculations and schemings of the men lie the great and unequaled mineral resources of this country, some time to be utilized when production shall be the motive, and use becomes the object of intelligently directed mining enterprises.

THE RAILROAD AND MINING.

For years we have had the same abiding faith, the same unbounded confidence in the mines of this county, and every year it has seemed certain that the time was near at hand for showing to the world the mineral wealth that lies buried in our mountains. And at last we are promised what we have so long needed, a railroad. Inyo is in a position to claim close connection with other parts of the country, and make itself felt in the markets of the world by its contribution of the precious metals. The development of a number of our mines has been carried to such an extent that we can speak with confidence concerning the quantity of ores the mines can produce, and also the after treatment.

The bulk of the ores in the Inyo range are strictly smelting ores. They are of high grade, and are remarkably free from antimony, zinc, and other impurities. It is not enough to know that lead ores, charcoal, limestone, and iron oxide are essential to the smelting process. Almost any novice can produce slag, but only the well trained metallurgist knows the secret of properly combining the waste portions in such a manner as to save the most valuable constituents of his ores. There is of course in the Inyo districts, as in all other mining districts, large quantities of low grade ores, and the character of these ores especially adapts them to concentrating, without which they cannot be economically treated. Properly constructed concentrating machines with skillful manipulations will prepare these ores for market, or a smelter, at small cost, at the same time increasing their value ten fold by transforming them into high grade ores. While we believe that smelters will find an abundance of argentiferous lead ores, and while there are men competent enough to overcome all the metallurgical difficulties, we have not heretofore been able to mine, smelt, and transport bullion or ore to a market at such a cost as to afford a reasonable profit. Cheaper mining and cheaper freights means greater profits to the works as well as to the miner. These desirable advantages are coming to us with the building of the Carson and Colorado railroad through Owens River Valley. The future will be prosperous, provided only, that investors will exercise due caution, and undertake no scheme that has not the recommendation of skilled metallurgists, after a rigid examination of the ground. There is an increasing belief on the part of those most familiar with our mines that silver-lead will constitute the most staple of our silver bearing minerals, and as they are generally of a high grade, it is probable that the higher grades of ore that are deficient in lead will be used to increase the value of the bullion produced by the smelters.

The promised railroad will enable us to secure good markets for ores and bullion, cheapen the cost of building and running reduction works, and increase ultimate returns on investments. Machinery can be transported in one fourth the usual time it has formerly taken, and at one-fifth the cost. Mining work will be better done, more quickly, and at less cost. Many of the mines are now developed to such an extent as to be ore producers, and bullion can be handled and shipped cheaply enough to leave a handsome handsome profit to mining companies, which will be the direct result of the building of the railroad.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18.....1882

WINTER. — The season has certainly been a remarkable one for its long, dry cold weather. So far, scarcely a drop of rain has fallen upon this part of the valley, and the snow-fall upon the mountains has been confined to two or three slight storms. During the week we have had strong winds, hurling clouds of dust up and down the country, which was followed by considerable snow on the Sierra and Inyo ranges. The snow comes most too late in the season to last during the Summer, so as to string out the water supply necessary for irrigation. However, the fruit trees have refrained from rashly budding out this month, as usual, and will not have to take the chances of getting the ordinary set-back in March. The foothills will be bare of bunch grass unless a heavy rain sets in, which looks improbable now.

MAIL CONTRACTS.—Government contracts for carrying local mails have been let as follows: Bishop Creek to Round Valley, $519, and Lone Pine to Cerro Gordo, $730. Big Pine to Oasis, $539, and Caliente to Independence, awarded to R. D. Thomas for $21,000. This latter arrangement illustrates the complete stupidity or else culpability of the Government officials concerned. In the face of the protests, maps and statements of facts, they persist in sending the mail twice across the mountains and about one-third farther than to take a direct route to Mojave, the nearest railroad station. The contractor will have simply the mail (and very little of that) to carry and nothing else, as under such arrangements passenger travel will take the northern route.

RETURNED. — Billy Hedge and Wal. Phillips returned last week from Saline Valley, after a rough trip across the Inyos, through several feet of snow on the summit. They found an inexhaustible deposit of what is claimed by many to be borax, or the "pure tinkle," as George Storey described it. In a forge the samples brought make a fine flux, and serve to weld steel perfectly. After a thorough analysis, however, Mr. Woodhull pronounces the substance to be sulphite of soda, or what is called "Glauber's salt."

THE NORTHERN STAGE. — The advertisement of the Belleville and Independence Stage Line, now making direct connection with the Carson & Colorado, the Virginia & Truckee and the Central Pacific railroads, will be found elsewhere this week. The distance between this point and Belleville is 120 miles, which is made in 22 hours, the through time to San Francisco being 51 hours. The announcement referred to explains itself.

THE 22D. — According to the authorities George Washington was born on the 28th of February, 1732, but as the world has it, next Wednesday, the 22d, will be observed in honor of him "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen"—the man whose immortal career is revered in the hearts of all true Americans, and indelibly associated with memories of a cherry tree and his little hatchet.

CO-CLAIMANTS. — "Where a lode claim has been located by several pertons jointly, and thereafter the required expenditures have not been made, the claim may be relocated by one of the former claimants to the exclusion of his co-claimants. — Landowner, Vol. 8, P. 3." The foregoing quotation has been given in these columns before, but is reproduced now by request.

PANAMINT.—With the balance of the bullion from the month's run of the big mill at Panmint, amounting in all to about $24,000, Supt. Pheby has gone to San Francisco. Our correspondent has neglected to furnish the official report. The Company is still working the Wyoming mine and has leased several others to chloriders, who are getting out rich ore for another run.

THE JEANNETTE.—Harry Wright and Henry Malone have been working an old gold ledge near Fish Springs, and are elated over the developments. An incline 28 feet deep from the tunnel shows a strong ledge, containing stratas of silver and gold ore. Specimens of the latter show lots of fine gold, plainly visible.

MODOCK CONTRACTS.—A notice interesting to teamsters and packers will be found among the new "ads" this issue, inviting proposals for transporting ore, wood and coal for the Modock furnaces. The amount involved will probably reach some $5,000.

FOR WAUCOBA. — W. L. Fuller and Wal. Phillips are about setting out on a prospecting trip in search of new properties between Waucoba and Beveridge Districts, on the east side of the Inyos.

BALL.—Mrs. A. Stewart is preparing for the enjoyment of a big crowd at the ball to be given at the Whitney House on the 22d, and no doubt it will be a fine affair.

COUNTY CONTRACTS. — The advertisements for proposals for the care of indigent sick and for boarding county prisoners appear this week.

RELIGIOUS. — Rev. F. M. Willis will preach in the Independence school house on next Monday evening, the services to commence at 7 o'clock.

A CHANGE.—The Black Rock Sawmill force has been augmented by the admission of Mr. H. T. Thompson as a member of the co-partnership.

ASSESSMENT. — The Modock Mining Co. has levied an assesment of 30 cents per share, delinquent March 28th.

NONE. — Since the Company's teams drew off, no freight has as yet arrived at this place from Mojave.

HONEY.—By reference to Mr. Muth-Rathmussen's advertisement it will be seen that he is now prepared to furnish liquid or candied honey, as customers prefer. Although the granulation of honey is always a proof that the article is pure, whereas liquid honey may have been "doctored," as it is to a great extent in the large cities, many people, either from want of knowledge in the matter, or because they do not want to take the trouble of melting it, will have only liquid honey or none at all. It is indeed but very little trouble to melt the candied honey, as all that is required is to place the can in a vessel of hot water on the stove, and loosen the cover to prevent the can from bursting. The honey is, however, liable to granulate again if exposed to cold for some time. Mr. Muth-Rathmussen is now melting honey in the above manner, but where it has to be sent off some distance he prefers to send the candied article, from which there is no danger of leakage, as the honey is dry and solid and can not get out of the can, even if the cover should come off.

PERSONAL. — Frank Fitzgerald, of Lookout, spent several days in town during the week....Mr. C. S. Van Epps, of Bishop, passed through toward home yesterday, from an extened southern visit....Mr. Chas. Anthony, of Panamint, is in town....S. L. McNaughton, of the northern stage route, was here fixing matters for the new programme....Mr. J. S. Rothschild returns to San Francisco next Monday....H. H. Scott, the well-known San Francisco broker, paid a visit of inspection to the Montezuma mine last Monday....A. Huntoon and lady, M. Huntoon, Chas. Taylor and Wm. Hanlon, of Bridgeport, were registered at the Blaney House yesterday, en route from Bakersfield home.

THE COMMITTEE. — The Committee appointed by the late meeting of citizens, authorized to promote the adoption of the west side of the valley as the route of the Carson and Colorado Railroad, met at Mr. Moffat's office last Monday. Sub-committees were chosen to examine probable routes from Big Pine as far south as George's Creek, and to confer with land-owners along the line. Mr. S. P. Moffat, the Secretary of the Committee, was authorized to correspond with the leading citizens of other towns with a view of securing the organizations of similar committees therein, and securing a general unity of action. Adjourned to meet next Monday evening.

SALE. — The sale of property delinquent for taxes of 1881 will begin next Friday.

A BAKERSFIELD dispatch, under date of the 20th instant, conveys the following valuable information. The indications are that the officers, doctors, etc., down there have about as little to do as those of this county. The telegram says:

Billiard matches and footraces are becoming epidemic; even the county officers are becoming enthusiastic. Yesterday a three-ball carrom game of billiards was played between Assessor Harding and W. Gilbert, 60 points, for $40. The Assessor won by one point. About $100 or more changed hands on the game. A fifty-yard footrace between Supervisor Tay and School-Superintendent Wallace, succeeded the billiard match. The man of figures was a little too active for the Supervisor, and beat him by a small majority. Another billiard match, 60 points, for $250 a side, was made for to-day, between County Clerk Lightner and Dr. Stern. It is understood that the winning in this case is to be devoted to charitable purposes. The champion footrace of the season will come off tomorrow, between Howard Crow, weighing 215 pounds, and Walter Bull, weighing 255 pounds. The distance is 40 yards, for $100. After this race a man named Higgins will run both winner and loser, giving the first five and the second ten feet. There are probably $2,000 up on the fat men's race.

THE RAILROAD. — Active work still continues on the Candelaria branch of the Carson and Colorado railroad. The larger trestle work will be completed for the passage of trains to-day, and the construction train will cross it tomorrow, when track-laying will continue for three-quarters of a mile to the second trestle. The work of putting up the second trestle will probably commence on Monday or Tuesday next. As it is to be much shorter and of less hight than the first one it will be erected in a limited time. A full force is still engaged along the end of the road towards town, principally at the point where the station is to be. A quite extensive excavation is being made for the site of the buildings, allowing for large teams to approach and load, and for the two tracks. The grading to the ore dump of the Northern Belle has been commenced and will continue to completion.—True Fissure.

A MORTGAGE for $5,000,000, given by the California and Nevada Railroad Company to the Central Trust Company of New York, has been filed in Alameda, Cal. The mortgage is dated Dec. 31, 1881, and is secured by 5,000 bonds of $1,000 each. It is payable thirty years after date, and bears interest at six per cent., payable on the first day of July of each year. The mortgage is upon the road now being built from Emory Station, Oakland, to Bodie, a distance of 250 miles, and includes the franchise, the right of way, line of track, rolling stock, stations, wharves, warehouses, shops and all their property, personal or acquired. The railroad was incorporated in March, 1881. The proposed road will run through the Livermore and San Joaquin valleys, will penetrate the timber lands of the Sierra, and will make a connection with one of the projected railroads of Nevada.

CONSIDERATION of the Mormon question is about to receive a fresh impetus in Congress. Every impetus of this kind seems to keep the question further from solution.

The Great Desert of Sahara.

In a paper which Dr. Oscar Lenz contributes to the Zeitschrift of the Berlin Geographical Society, he gives an authentic account of the results of his journey across the Sahara, from Tanger to Timbuctoo, and thence to Senegambia. The real journey was begun at Marrakesh, at the northern foot of the Atlas Mountains, where Dr. Lenz laid in his stock of provisions and changed his name and dress, traveling further under the disguise of a Turkish Military surgeon. He crossed the Atlas and the Anti-Atlas in a southwestern direction. The Atlas consists, first, of a series of hills belonging to the Tertiary and Cretaceous formations, then of a wide plateau of red sandstone, probably Triassic, and of the chief range which consists of clay-slates with extensive iron ores. The pass of Bibauan is 1,250 meters above the sea level, and it is surrounded with peaks about 4,000 meters high, while the Wad Sus Valley at its foot is but 150 meters above the sea. The Anti-Atlas consists of Palæozoic strata.

On May 5, 1880, Dr. Lenz reached Tenduf, a small town founded some thirty years ago, and promising to acquire great prominence as a station for caravans. The northern part of the Sahara is a plateau, 400 meters high, consisting of horizontal Devonian strata, which contain numerous fossil.

On May 15 Dr. Lenz crossed the moving sand dunes of Igidi, a wide tract, where he observed the interesting phenomenon of musical sand, a sound like that of a trumpet being produced by the friction of the small grains of quartz. But amidst these moving dunes it is not uncommon to find some grazing places for camels, as well as flocks of gazelles and antelopes. At El Eglab Dr. Lenz found granite and porphyry, and was fortunate enough to have rain. Thence the character of the desert became more varied, the route crossing sometimes sandy and sometimes stony tracts of sand dunes, with several dry river beds running east and west between them.

On May 29 he reached the Salt works of Taudeni, and visited the ruins of a very ancient town, where numerous stone implements have been found. Here he crossed a depression of the desert only 140 to 170 feet high, while the remainder of the desert usually reaches as much as 250 to 300 meters above the sea level, and he remarks that throughout his journey he did not meet with depressions below the sea level. The schemes for flooding the Sahara are therefore hopeless and misleading. The landscape remained the same until the wide Alfa fields, which extend north to Arauan. This little town is situated amongst sand dunes devoid of vegetation, owing to the hot southern winds. Four days later Dr. Lenz was in Timbuctoo, whence he proceeded west to St. Louis.

During his forty-three days' travel through the Sahara Dr. Lenz observed that the temperature was not excessive; it usually was from 34° to 36° Celsius, and only in the Igidi region it reached 45°. The wind blew mostly from the northwest, and it was only south of Taudeni that the traveler experienced the hot winds of the desert. As to the theory of the northeastern trade winds being the cause of the formation of the desert, Dr. Lenz remarks that he never observed such a wind, nor did his men: it must be stopped by the hilly tracts of the north. Another important remark of Dr. Lenz is what he makes in respect to the frequent description of the Sahara as a sea bed. Of course it was under the sea, but during the Devonian, Cretaceous, and Tertiary periods; as to the sand which covers it now, it has nothing to do with the sea; it is the product of destruction of sandstones by atmospheric agencies. Northern Africa was not always a desert, and the causes of it being so now must be looked for, not in geological, but in meteorological influences.—Nature.

The Bursting of the Rocks.

At 5:45 o'clock last Monday morning the inhabitants of Lundy were startled by a rumbling noise among the cliffs to the north and almost overhanging the central portion of the town—a noise similar to that produced by a heavy train of cars passing over a covered bridge, except that the rumbling sound was occasionally broken or drowned by a loud and sharp report, as of timbers crashing, while the whole earth for the radius of more than a mile trembled from the concussion. It was not yet quite daylight, and on looking up a dense black cloud was seen hovering about the brow of the cliff, 2,000 feet above, and from this down almost to the rear end of the Arcade saloon on Main street stretched a streak of fitful flame. The first impression was that it was a volcanic eruption, and those living along the base of the unconsolidated breccia piled up against the foot of the cliff took to their heels without taking to their clothes, and made good time, barefooted, over the snow. Harry Sullivan, Joe Nelson and Joe Townsley were occupying a small cabin at the foot of the Moraine, and as the huge blocks of granite came thundering down, striking fire every time they struck the solid rock or the detritus near the cabin, the two first named gentlemen "struck out" on the double-quick, but Townsley stopped to slip on his shoes, pick up his clothes and boots, and light his pipe—by which time the affair was over. The cloud of dust above, the streak of fire and the noise were produced by an avalanche of rock, the run continuing about ten minutes. For three or four days the weather had been sufficiently warm to melt the snow on top of the cliff, filling the crevices in the rock with water, and Sunday night the cold was so intense as to freeze this water solid, and the consequent expansion burst the rock asunder and sent it thundering down the cliff. This is one of the phenomena technically termed "weathering of the rocks," and thus by her own agencies are the proud monuments of Nature leveled.—Homer Index.

THE Grantsville (Nev.) Bonanza, in a report of the services of the churches of that town, says that the rendition by the choir of that beautiful hymn "Mary Kelly's Beau," gave the sacred melody a freshness and beauty that lifted the souls of the congregation to a higher and purer sphere.

White Mountain District.

WHITE MOUNTAIN,
Inyo Co. Cal., Feb. 13.

If you can find space in your valuable paper, I desire to lay before your many readers a few facts in regard to a mineral zone or belt, of which little, if anything, is known among the mining men of the Pacific coast. I do not make pretention of being a mining expert, or newspaper writer, but simply state what I know to be facts, and what any one can see by visiting the country. Many of your readers are engaged, more or less, in mines and working minerals, and ores of every kind in which this county abounds. But such interests in this county are only in their infancy. There is more precious metal to be found on the surface in this county than any other to be found on this side of the Rocky mountains. If the White Mountains could be placed just as they are to-day in New Mexico or in Arizona, there would be a general stampede for the country. The newspapers would have a boom, and millions of money would be made in less than two years. Music sounds the best afar off, when heard.

Now, about this mineral zone or belt of argentiferous galena ore. It is situated on the eastern slope of the White Mountains, about four miles southeast of the summit, facing Deep Spring Valley and about seven miles west, up Wyman Creek; Crooked Creek at the north, and Birch Creek south. It is about five miles in length, and three-fourths miles wide. The formation is lime and slate. We will start above the old stone cabin on Crocked Creek and follow the main mother ledge of this belt. Where we strike the outcrop of this mammoth lode is about one-fourth mile south of the creek, on a small round hill of solid formation. We find a shaft sunk on the vein some 14 or 15 feet, and from 20 to 30 tons of first-class smelting ore on the dump, chlorides, carbonates and galena; vein four feet between walls; the ledge crops out about 300 feet. Here we cross a dry ravine and shortly we find another shaft down 42 feet, and about 40 to 50 tons of ore on the dump. The vein is about 2½ feet, of splendid ore. I was told the average of this ore as it comes from the bottom of the shaft assays $89 58 in silver, $21 30 in gold, and 48 per cent lead. This is also located in a permanent hill, and has slate foot and lime hanging walls. This mine is situated on the north side of Coalburner's Cañon. About 200 yards above, west and up the cañon is a valuable spring of fine water, which runs some six inches in the dryest season. I was also told that the spring was claimed by the mine owners. This I consider a fine property. Here we leave Coalburner's Cañon and go south, following the main belt to Wyman Creek. On our way we find three locations that look well, all showing more or less mineral and of good grade. On this main fissure vein, which extends through this belt from Wyman Creek to Birch Creek south, there are 35 locations made, all showing veins from 12 inches of solid metal up to six feet of fine chlorides, carbonates and galena ores. To describe this section and why this country has been kept in the background is what I propose to show to your readers. To do so in this letter will take up too much space. Next week I will give you a slight idea of the country from Wyman Creek to Deer Creek, and from there to Birch, where all of the most valuable mines are situated. Wood, water, timber and the facilities of reducing ores.

SAM.

Geology and Juries.

It is a very common thing in the trials of mining suits for a mass of testimony to be introduced regarding the cause and manner of the formation of mineral veins or deposits. In doing this a few experts are enabled to air their geological knowledge, bring forward their pet theories, and endeavor to prove that because the Lord Almighty made one or two mineral veins or deposits with which they are personally familiar, in a certain way, all other mineral veins or deposits must be also made in the same way. If they are not made in this way, then they are not mineral veins or deposits, but something else not known to geology, and therefore not to be considered.

The technicalities of any profession are confusing to any one not of that profession. We can scarcely, however, conceive anything which would be more confusing than a geologist's description of geological features to a set of men with no knowledge of geological terms. Yet juries have to stand hours and hours of such talk when even the lawyers hardly understand.

That a great deal of time and talk is wasted in trials of this sort, there is no doubt; and that it does much good is also a subject of doubt. It has remained for an Arizona judge, however, to officially discountenance the practice, by stating that the jury have more to do with with the veins themselves than with theories as to how they were formed.

In the recent Contention-Head Center suit at Tombstone, the defendant asked Judge Stillwell to give the following instructions to the jury:

"If the jury find from the evidence that after the porphyry dike existed, a fissure was made in the dike and adjacent rock with defined walls and clay vages, and that the fissure was filled with ore of gold and silver, and that from this fissure at certain points the adjacent porphyry and shale was mineralized, they should find this fissure a vein, lode or ledge within the meaning of the Act of Congress."

And the Judge on giving his charge to the jury, said:

"I cannot give you that instruction, gentlemen, for the reason that I am not of the opinion that it makes much difference as to when or how the fissure was formed, and your opinion and verdict better be based upon what miner's consider veins, ledges and lodes when they find them, than upon a theory or conjecture as to when or how it may have been formed."

SERGEANT MASON is the man who fired a shot into Guiteau's cell. But little was heard of him while the Guiteau trial continued. The public mind was too much absorbed in that event to think of inquiring after him. Now, however, that Guiteau has disappeared from the public gaze, the name of Sergeant Mason has come to the surface. He is in the hands of the military, by whom, it is said, he will be brought before a Court-martial in a few days.

MAGEE's Real Estate Circular of San Francisco says: "Large sums of money will be made within the next ten years from real estate purchases in interior towns with a certain future, like Sacramento, Stockton, San Jose, Los Angeles and Eureka. Purchases of improved property in those towns now pay 10 to 18 per cent. net per annum, against 5 to 8 per cent. per annum here."

MINING differs largely from other industries and business operations, in regard to its product. Mismanagement, delay, ignorance, or dishonesty may waste and destroy the property and value of every known enterprise; but the mineral in a mine, indestructible—patiently waits to be utilized to satisfy the needs of mankind.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18.....1882

WHILE Gen. Tom Thumb reclines in a wrinkle of his lounge, tells his friends about his travels and urges the claims of spiritualism, to which he is a recent convert, Capt. Martin Van Buren Bates and his wife, at their farm house at Seville, Ohio, go in and out of doorways ten feet high, ride in a gigantic wagon drawn by six stout Norman horses, and sleep in a bed as big as a wheat-field. In their sitting-room is an ordinary piano, but it is mounted upon blocks two feet high, so that a person of normal size, who perches before it, looks as absurd as little Mozart did when he had clambered up to play the big organ.

IT is a notable fact that France is expending vast sums of money in improving and extending her inland system of transportation. The country is gridironed with railways, and yet the canals have plenty to do and are the people's favorite highways. The local traffic which passes over them in the course of a year is immense, and whatever railway development may take place in the future, it is not likely that the people will ever be willing to part with this cheap system of provincial communication.

TWO Cornish miners from Virginia City took a room together at Reno Monday night, blew the gas out, went to sleep, and never woke more. The same night a man in Virginia City who had turned the gas down by the same process was rescued just in time to save his life. The density of ignorance exhibited by persons who thus invite death makes it questionable whether their taking off ought to be cause for regret to anybody.

LETTER FROM ARIZONA.

GUNSIGHT MINES,
Western Pima Co., A. T., Feb. 12.

It has come down in history that the Governor of North Carolina said to the Governor of South Carolina that "it was a mighty long time between drinks." What made him make such a remark is of no consequence at this late day, except that it serves to convey an idea of our benighted condition here as to what the great, wicked outside world is doing—in other words, it is a mighty long time between mails. Ten days, ending on Tuesday last, came, stayed, each day seemingly 36 hours long, and went, yet no news—no letter, no paper, no nada! That gave ample time for cogitations, but cogitations have no marketable value, and we can but feel that time was lost to us. You see, there are no regular lines of communication into this region, more especially when rains have softened the roads, so that freight teams can make but little or no headway, as has been the trouble. However, this condition of things is soon to change for the better. We are to have a

RAILROAD AND TELEGRAPH,

Both soon, if present plans do not miscarry. Chiefly, if not solely, through the energy of Mr. B. F. Bivins, a company for each of those purposes has lately been fully organized in Tucson, and the survey has been already begun. It is to run from Tucson, via the Gunsight, to Point Lobos on the Gulf of California, a total distance of about 220 miles. This road, when completed, will revolutionize the transportation business of this country. Point Lobos will become the port of entry for supplies of every kind needed in this vast region, and very likely also a leading point in all transcontinental transportation. The certainty of one if not both of these facts, however, may prove fatal to the enterprise, simply because it becomes competition to that great incorporated and corpulent swine, the S. P. R. R. Already, the said swine has its nose into the mess, either to root it entirely out, or to gobble all into its own insatiable maws; which, remains to be seen. As now constituted and intended, the new enterprise is wholly a local and independent corporation, and assured of abundance of capital to put it through and operate it as such. But among thirteen Tucson Directors of a new and competitive railroad, some one or more, is likely to prove weak and to fall down, and to make the others think they will get left. So it comes that the aforesaid S. P. R. R. has kindly sent its own engineers into the field to make the survey free of expense to the local company. So endeth the opening chapter. I shall have but little to say this time about

MINING MATTERS,

Mainly because all of such within my ken are of things prospective. In general, however, it may be safely asserted that this is destined to be an immense field for mining operations, provided, always, that any considerable number of the thousand and one big ledges already located should turn out ore of a moderately fair grade. There would be but little or nothing to apprehend in this point but for another thing — the scarcity of water. As stated heretofore, there are no running or surface streams in any part of Western and Southern Arizona. There is no question but the needed element can be found almost anywhere in sufficient quantities for domestic and live stock purposes; but to find enough for extensive milling operations is quite another thing. The few wells already dug along the roads are supplied by mere seepage, and will not do to depend upon when a large and continuous supply is required. In view of this fact the Gunsight Company is sinking a large three-compartment shaft, complete in all its appointments as any on the Comstock, designed both for a working shaft as well as a means of reaching water sufficient to supply a 40-stamp mill on the ground. It is altogether likely that within the first five hundred feet this latter hope will be realized. This failing, then the ores of the district must be transported 70 or more miles for reduction; and in that case, as any one may see, the said ores must prove "highly metalliferous," else dividends must prove distressingly Hibernian in character. It will take a year, possibly several years, to determine these matters, and, until so determined, no matter which way, things will move glibly, boomingly, constantly on, and on a wide and widening scale, during which those who have the knack, tact and cheek in sufficient amount can make money in various operations and lines of business. (Note—The writer hereof, be it known to his creditors, possesses none of these qualifications, therefore expects in a few weeks to resign his place in the Territory to anyone who does.)

GEOLOGICAL.

Knowing nothing of this science, I may be able to offer a valuable observation in relation to the same. At the first glance, the common observer would say that the country rock generally is tough and elastic granite. The better informed though, will make it plain that it is not granite, since it contains no mica, but is a "porphyrite syenite," therefore a rock especially adapted to mineral bearing, deep and lasting quartz veins. Such, in reality, these veins seem to be; at least, they crop out in great width and in great length, and are unquestionably permanent institutions. In many localities, the earth is precisely like that found in the best placer diggings of California, and I have no doubt, placer gold could be found in many of the gulches. But placer diggings, except they be very rich indeed, can't amount to much when forty miles or more from water. Whatever may be the final outcome of milling operations in this portion of the Territory, there is hardly a doubt but that

COPPER MINING

Will prove a practicable and profitable industry, there being many ledges bearing from 20 to 50 per cent. in copper ore being located and opened up. This class of mines is eagerly sought after, especially by English capital. The ore is far easier to smelt and with less expensive "plants" than the silver-leads of California and Nevada; fuel of a good quality, and enough for a many years, and plenty of water for steam purposes is found near these copper mines and success in that industry can be set down as assured.

METEOROLOGICAL.

The Chinamen's thermometer, or system of weather measurement will do very well to determine Arizona Winter weather — it is rarely or never more than "one jacket cold" — pleasant and balmy as any one could desire, save, of course, when it rains, which, until lately, it was hardly ever known to do at this season. Even then, it is only the wet that makes things disagreeable, the mercury standing at between 40° and 50°. But the Chinaman's mode won't answer for measuring Summer heat, since no part of a jacket or any other article of clothing can be taken as a suitable unit by which to express the heat, especially following a Summer rain and thunder storm, when the sun blazes nearly all vitality out of the gnat-filled, sultry air. Then is when the waytarer in the desert feels that he was born a mistake, and is likely soon to die without mistake. Such, anyway, is the picture old "residenters" drew for my edification, and, in that desire, very likely overdrew it somewhat. The Winter weather is superb, and Summer has not come yet, so lets not take on its heat till it does come.

ARCHITECTURAL.

The architecture in these outlying camps is not of a kind to inspire profound admiration or to induce a sense of unalloyed comfort. As a rule, the dwellings are small rectangles of stones piled up without mortar or mud, and roofed over flat with piles of crooked sticks, and thorny bushes and finished off with dirt ad libitum, the whole supported with one or more upright posts where the joinings of the short timbers overhead make it necessary. These are claimed to be just the thing for this climate — "keeps out the heat in Summer, you know." On the contrary, I should think the thick walls would be just the thing to store up the heat of the day, not only for the succeeding night, (which is moderately cool out of doors) but also to last well into the following Winter. These mud roofs keep out the water of the comparatively brief showers of Summer, but when it comes to the old soakers of Winter, such as we have lately had, they become filters that continue operations for many hours after all out doors becomes serene. Then is when the proprietor spends his time out in the fresh air. A more modern style of building is now coming into use in this camp. In fact, the Company's office and boarding house is a stone building roofed with shingles, and is a good structure. Others of like character, all of lumber, are soon to be erected for company purposes. Besides that building, Gen. "Pie" Allan, an enterprising old gentleman, has now quite a large and pretentious building of lumber nearly ready for business, which business is as a hotel, store and gin mill combined, all of which is likely to be extensive and profitable. Board, $10 per week; drinks, two bits.

SOCIETY.

At present, the community comprises about sixty persons, all of male persuasion and general characteristics of the same. Soon, however, a lady and her daughter are to take charge of the General's boarding house; then comes a change over the spirit of the lonely miner's dreams, also orders for boiled shirts.

BIRDS AND ANIMALS.

Deer, antelope, jack and cotton-tail rabbits flourish throughout this section in considerable numbers, while in many places the common quail are quite plentiful. How they manage on the water question is more than I can figure out. In places, though, rain water collects in what are called "tanks," being reservoirs, both natural and artificial, in clayey ground; some of these tanks furnish water for weeks at a time. There is here a first cousin to a California mocking bird, which first cousin is without a peer as a singer; there is music and cheerfulness in his every note, and variations in his songs such as to render him worthy of the highest praise. One of them in his peculiar line is worth a dozen chattering canaries. On the summit of a neighboring hill, two immense owls have held possession from time immemorable so far as now known. These birds command a respect because of the belief that they put in a great deal of time after tarantulas and things of that sort. But this respect is greatly modified when it comes to his vocal efforts. As compared to the loud and distinct hoots of his species back in the Mississippi bottoms, this Arizona owl is a failure, though, personally, he is very much larger and stronger, and more persistent in making himself heard. His opening note is always the same, the ending ditto, and no part but is flat and of a flattening character. But he is not a success as a hooter.

APOLOGETIC.

The intent of this epistle was to tell your readers something of the practicabilities of this Territory, of its chances for businesses, and so on. But I have got switched off somehow, and claim no credit except as a "space filler." And come to think about it, I don't see much chance to offer anything of practical value in the required sense, so next time, will touch upon some things that strike me as peculiar if not valuable.

CHALFANT.

WYMAN CREEK, Feb. 20.

I wish you to go with me to the northern slope of Chastine Hill, situated just above and west of Mr. Berry's cabin, on Wyman Creek, following the fissure vein or ledge (I told you something about it last week) to Deer Creek, and from there to Birch, about four miles. Bring your gun, for there are sage hens all along the route, and now and then a deer. No snow, the weather fine and the atmosphere bracing. We climb the hill and get near the summit, east side, and at the first location south of Wyman Creek or cañon, on the main ledge that extends through the country from Crooked Creek to Birch, is named the "Chastine." Here is a large outcrop of fine smelting ore, chlorides, carbonates and galena, and the vein at this place is 6½ feet between walls. The average assays across the body of mineral is $112 58 silver, $19 80 gold, 52 per cent lead. Five holes have been sunk on the ledge in different places, none of them more than 15 feet deep, but all show well-defined bodies of mineral. We follow the ledge along until we come to the Gitchell claim. Here the vein crops out for four or five hundred feet. It is from four to five feet wide, intermixed with chloride and galena; very little work done. It looks well and promising on the surface, and it is nearly in the center of this bed of mineral I am telling you about. We proceed along the lode in a southerly course and come to the "Ida." This has been opened by a cut on the ledge and a shaft about 10 feet deep. The ore body is 3½ feet of chlorides and carbonates and a little galena; the walls are somewhat broken. This is located on the ridge of the mountain between the two creeks and the south slope of Chastine's Hill. Looking down and south you see Deer Creek cañon. From this location to the cañon there are two more locations on the same vein, showing good ore; very little work on either. Down the hill we come to Deer Creek spring, the headwaters of the creek. Some two miles below there are three large springs which forms the creek,—the owners of which have put in a good and substantial dam and turned the water into a well constructed ditch and also located a millsite at the mouth of the cañon. They have improved the trail up the creek and intend building a road the coming season, which will be the most convenient way to get into this country. Going up the cañon about 200 yards west and then south about the same distance, we are on the main fissure vein. Here is a location called the Fairview. At this place we have a fine view of Deer Spring Valley. An incline shaft is some 15 feet down in the ledge, which shows 18 inches of splendid ore. We go along on the cropping and find the Coin. With a little capital and muscle this mine would turn out thousands. The vein is four feet, nearly all solid galena of fine grain. Below the ledge, on the side of the mountain is flat boulders the size of a small mule of solid argentiferous galena. We go south a short distance and we are at the divide between Deer Creek and Birch, and stand upon the immense croppings of the Birch Creek ledge, (the same we have been following from Wyman). Here we can see the basin at the head of Birch Creek. The croppings of this ledge is shown for three locations, or 4,500 feet. At places along the vein it crops out 15 ft. above the surface and 6½ feet across the top. It is mostly quartz of a reddish cast mixed with galena, carbonates and sulpherets. Knock off any of it and you can get an assay of $34 56 silver, $21 30 gold and 29 per cent. lead. At the south end of the Riffle claim there has been a tunnel 15 feet run in on the ledge. At the face to the surface is about 10 feet. The quartz is decomposed; I tried some in a horn spoon and got 28 colors of fine gold. At the extreme south end of the Battle location the vein makes into a mountain of white, loose formation, where the country rock changes. It has never been found on the south side of the mountain, which has been prospected for miles and no trace of it found. The country is badly broken; the formation changes from slate to granite, lime, porphyry and a kind of talc. Standing on this mountain or hill and look north as far as the eye can reach we can trace this one continuous vein of croppings. Down the cañon, less than 1,000 yards are five large and valuable springs, which form Birch Creek, and flow 12 inches of water. Southwest and not more than 400 yards the mountains are thickly studded with fine large timber, very convenient to get at.

I have been engaged in mines and mining, and particularly in galena, for 18 years on this coast, and will say that this is the best proposition for a good company to take hold of that I ever met with. Still, this immense property is lying idle — not a tap of work being done on it, and thousands of money in sight. I am incompetent to give the reader anything but a very imperfect idea of the vast amount of mineral in sight along the line of this belt and the various ledges or veins that run parallel with the main fissure that we have been tracing. (If any of your readers do not understand what a fissure vein is, I will refer them to Prof. Standbarger's works on Mineralogy). Leaving Birch Creek cañon and going northwest about 2½ miles we are at the head of Deer Creek cañon and on the divide. Looking west we see a good natural road leading in a southerly direction from Wyman up into immense forests of pine timber, reaching nearly to the summit of the mountains, which will make the best of sawed lumber and mining timbers. Cast your eyes in a northeasterly course, nearer to the foothills, and you will see timber covering a large scope of country. It is nut pine, which makes the very best of coal for reducing and smelting galena ores. Coal can be burned in this section of the country for less money than any other on the Pacific coast. We go to the road and follow it down about two miles and come to the upper fence on John Chastine,s ranch. Above and west about 100 yards is a valuable spring of water, which is capable of affording a thousand people with all the water they want. Here we go through the bars and find an area of land which is nearly one mile in length and from one to three hundred yards wide, level as a billiard table, nearly as smooth, and fully as green in Spring. This cañon, or Wyman Creek, runs in an easterly course into Deep Spring Valley. We go down four or five hundred yards and come again to Mr. Berry's cabin, the starting place in the morning. Just below, a few hundred feet, is the mammoth spring of the country, owned by John Chastine. It forms Wyman Creek and has a continuous flow of not less than 35 inches, miner's measurement. Wet or dry seasons have no effect upon it. Here is a fine meadow, some 50 or 60 acres inclosed. Some half mile below this meadow is where Chastine cuts his hay. The last named spring is situated less than one-fourth mile from some of the most prominent mines of the belt of mineral described.

If ever nature designed a country for a mining camp this will be one, and at no distant day. A half mile from this spring takes us down to Chastine's house. He meets us with a smile and invites us in (as the sun had hid itself behind the hill). Dinner, luncheon and supper all in one, is smoking on the table, and a fine big pot of beans stewing and quarreling among themselves in front of the fire. We accept, for we will not have it laid to our charge that we are backward when beans are cooked, and cooked to tickle the palate of the Queen or any other man.

JAMES E. PARKER.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Virginia Chronicle makes a good point on the subject of artesian wells. He says: I would suggest that the Chronicle urge upon the attention of our representatives in Congress what the interests of our State demand above all other. It is useless to ask for appropriations to defray the expenses of boring artesian wells in Nevada by the Government, for Congress has always been opposed to helping the early settlers of any new country. The people will get nothing until they can get so they can help themselves. Then they can get anything they ask. What Nevada wants, and the only thing that will help the State, is for Congress to pass a law granting, say a section of land to persons who would be willing to risk their own money in boring for water. In asking for this we are only asking the privilege of trying to improve that which is entirely worthless to the State or general government, and will remain so until the end of time unless some effort is made to improve it. * * In making the grant of land I speak of, the Government will lose nothing, as the desert lands, under the present condition of things, is only of use for one thing, and that is to perform its part in helping to hold the globe together. So it is plainly to be seen that there will be nothing lost in trying the experiment. In such a case Congress would stand in the same light to the people of Nevada that the man with the big apple did to his friend. He ate the apple and gave his friend the core. All we want is the core, and we will plant the seeds.

THE London Times estimates that 100,000 Jewish families were made homeless by the late riots against this class in Russia, and that property of Jews to the amount of $80,000,000 was destroyed. In Southern Russia the riots extended over an area between the Black and Baltic seas equal to the British Isles and France combined, and that the outrages consist of robbery, rape, murder and the burning of buildings with their inmates by whole blocks and streets. If the Government did not encourage this wholesale persecution of an unoffending race, it failed to apply its power to suppress the outrages, and will stand condemned in the judgment of all civilized nations.

PARTICULARS have been received of the massacre of the inhabitants of Bisco by Peruvian soldiers. Col. Mass, with six hundred troops from Ica attacked Villaencanceos, routed him, and with the aid of his men, proceeded to sack Bisco. One thousand pipes of wine were distributed among the men, who burned the houses and murdered the inhabitants. Imprudent foreigners who attempted to resist were cut to pieces. Three hundred were killed, including the French Consul. The total number of victims is estimated at 1,000. It is said that Col. Mass has been shot by Garcia Calderon's troops.

EX-GOVERNOR HENDRICKS has confided to a reporter his reasons for not wanting to play second fiddle in the Democratic orchestra in 1876 when Tilden and he were nominated on the Presidential ticket. He did not want to sit idle as the President of the Senate. "The Senate," said he, "is a peculiar body. It governs itself, and Senators have a deep-rooted prejudice against the sound of a gavel. The prospect of four years of inaction was anything but pleasant, you may well imagine. It was on that account I did not want to go on the St. Louis ticket, and not because I objected to Mr. Tilden."

THE Supreme Court of California in a case taken from San Joaquin county, has declared that the following instructions, given by the Court below, was proper:

Every riparian owner upon a stream has a right to use, in a reasonable way, the water of said stream for domestic purposes, for the irrigation of his land. or for propelling machinery, if the quantity of water will warrant such use above the amount required for domestic purposes.

THE first piece of gold found in California was worth 50 cents, and the second $5. Since that time one nugget has been found worth $43,000, two $21,000, one $10,000, two $8,000, one $6,500, four $5,000. Twelve worth from $3,000 to $4,000, and eighteen worth from $1,000 to $2,500 have been found and recorded in the history of the State.

THE Stalwarts promise never to hear the last of those medals to be given to the faithful 306 who stood firm at Chicago. The Eastern paragraphers are full of gibes at these momentoes of a touching instance of political devotion, and the man who got up the scheme probably wishes he had never been born.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH LINES.

It is the duty of a government that carries the public mail to give to the people all the advantage in economy and speed that science and good management ofiers. Thus the mails were taken from the stage road and put on the railway, and thus they should, for special purposes and at different rates, be taken from the railway and put upon the telegraph wires. This subject is interesting and we hope that by the time the railroad and its necessary adjunct, the telegraph wires, shall have reached this country, the experiment of Government postal lines will already have been under way. When a Government undertakes to do anything, it should strive to do it in the best and quickest manner. With this end in view, Ford, member of Congress from Missouri, has introduced a bill to establish telegraph lines in the United States. This bill empowers the Postmaster-General, in accord with the Act of July 24, 1866, to appoint two appreisers, who, in conjunction with two to be appointed by the telegraph companies, shall appraise the value of such lines of telegraph as the Postmaster-General may desire. They shall each separately and for himself consider and make return: 1. What would be the actual cost to the Government of erecting new lines of equal value of those appraised? 2. The value of said lines as a means of earning dividends, regarding a stock which will earn regularly ten per centum on all proper expenditures equivalent to par? And the average of the above modes of appraisement shall be the true basis of value; and thereupon the Postmaster-General is authorized to contract for the purchase of said property for the purposes of the act, and he shall thereupon and thereby establish and set in motion a telegraph system in connection with his department. It may here be said that to do this would not cost a dollar. Telegraph bonds could be issued in payment and the rates for service so regulated that the income would maintain the lines and pay the bonds at maturity. It is now quite probable that this could be done, and yet reduce the tariff in the beginning from 25 to 50 per cent.

THE Scientific American came out of the late fire in New York, like the fabled Phœnix, with renewed life. The subscription lists, account books, patent records, patent drawings, and correspondence were preserved in massive fire-proof safes. The printing of the Scientific American and Supplement was done in another building; consequently the types, plates, présses, paper, etc., were unharmed, and no interruption of business was occasioned. The new Scientific American offices are located at 261 Broadway. The new building fronts towards the City Hall, the Court House, and the new Post-office—a magnificent structure, which cost eight millions to build. Nearly opposite, and a few hundred feet distant from the Scientific American offices, is the entrance to the great Suspension bridge over the East River, between New York and Brooklyn, which required ten years to construct and $20,000,000 to pay for. In front, also, of the Scientific American is the City Hall Park and Printing House Square, with its statue of Benjamin Franklin, and the homes of eminent editors and newspapers, such as the New York Tribune, Times, Sun, World, Herald, Mail and Express, Zeitung, and others. In addition to the issuing of their interesting publications, Messrs. Munn & Co., aided by trained examiners and draughtsmen, prepare specifications and drawings for American and Foreign patents. If any of our readers should happen to make a discovery they will have only to drop a line to Munn & Co., who will reply at once, without charge, stating whether the invention is probably novel and patentable. A handbook of instructions, with full particulars, will also be sent, free. Messrs. Munn & Co. have had over thirty-five years experience in the business, and in our business with the old firm, we have always found it up to the highest notch as to reliabilty and the promptest action.

COL. PRESTON, Secretary of the Immigration Association of California, has received a letter from Messrs. Forstall, Ross & Clayton, agents at New Orleans for the French Steamship Transportation Company, stating that the company will start running their steamers between Havre and New Orleans in the month of April, and that special attention will be given to immigrants. The steamers, seven in number, have accommodations for 1,200 immigrants each. In view of the approaching opening of the direct rail route between New Orleans and California, the letter further states that the Immigration Association and the company represented by them might be of mutual use to each other in encouraging the movement of immigrants to California.

THE "Old Farmer's" almanacs of the future will set opposite to June 30, "Guiteau hung."

JOHN FORSTER, more widely known as Don Juan Forster, died Feb. 20th at his residence, at Santa Margarita, in Los Angeles county, aged sixty-seven years. The deceased was one of the oldest pioneer settlers of Southern California, having landed at San Diego from an English ship in 1836. He became an American citizen, and acquired American citizenship by the treaty with Mexico. He was at one time owner of the National Ranch, and afterwards became possessor of the great tract of the Margarita and Las Flores, the largest ranch in Southern California, and probably the largest under single ownership in the State. He was for years one of the largest cattle-raisers of the country. At his home on the Santa Margarita he dispensed the hospitality of the olden time to all visitors. His death is widely lamented.

THE resolutions of the Mormon Legislature of Utah plainly was intended to gain time and postpone Congressional action directed against the suppression of their peculiar institution. It cannot be that they supposed that such utterances from them would carry any moral weight. Their action in protesting against anti-polygamy measures, when polygamists in the Utah Legislature for years have nullified the laws of the National Government by refusing to make appropriations for judicial expenses, shows an assurance that is simply colossal. They went back, too, a good way in English history for a name on the strength of which to plead with Congress for licentiousness—the Declaration of Rights. The Declaration of Independence would have suited their purpose, and it is less remote.

Decimation on the Panama Canal.

The construction of the Panama Canal, provided that it ever is constructed, will involve the loss of a great many human lives. The Panama Railroad could not be constructed with white labor. It was found necessary to import negroes from Jamaica and Carthagena. The number of lives sacrificed in the construction of that road was never officially stated. But the number was just enough to give origin to the saying that the bones of deceased laborers would pave a roadway across the Isthmus. It is stated by telegraph that already one thousand laborers have already lost their lives on the Panama Canal. The statement does not tally with De Lessep's account, recently given. It is not likely that the mortality would be less in the construction of the canal than in the construction of the railroad. The canal will require eight or ten years for completion, and possibly longer, for the real work of excavating has hardly begun. It is well settled by the railroad experiment that white men could not stand the exposure. The climate for such is as deadly as any part of Africa. Perhaps the Chinamen could stand the work better, although that class of laborers would all have to go through the process of acclimation. Negroes whose habitat is in a tropical country, have thus far been found the most satisfactory laborers where deadly fevers prevail. De Lesseps has already established hospitals, and it is no part of his policy to have the world understand that he is called upon to encounter the obstacle of one of the most deadly climates in the world. The Nicaragua route is said to be healthy. But the turning up of the soil anywhere so near the equator is attended with great risks to white men. No life insurance company in good standing would take risks on the lives of white men who were to spend years as laborers on the Isthmus. Sanitary precautions will go a great way, and these will probably be of the most perfect kind. But it may be assumed that white men connot perform the labor of constructing canals or railroads on the Isthmus unless there is constant succession of fresh laborers to fill the vacancies made by death. The report of mortality on the Panama Canal is only preparatory to greater lists of mortality hereafter. Even in the construction of the Suez Canal it was found necessary to employ natives or those who were acclimated in adjoining countries.—S. F. Bulletin.

THE public is occasionally allowed to observe the occupation of retired statesmen. Thus we have lately seen Mr. Hayes in nankeen trowsers and Panama hat raking dead leaves in his front yard and gossiping about the fire in the country store in the afternoon. He claims to be poor, but it is shrewdly suspected that he is salting away his cash for an old age of solid comfort. Old Bill English is another man who has given up politics. He owns 500 houses in Indianapolis, and is as fond of adding to his bank account as Girard or Michael Reese ever were. Uncle Sammy Tilden also has as strong affection for coin as for cipher telegrams, while Grant's studies in civil service reform don't prevent him from acting as the figurehead of any new scheme that will pay him a fat salary. The influence of politics seems to be to make our retired statesmen speculators or misers.—Chronicle.

A NEW YORK paper says that "the market for common pig lead has ruled quiet, no important business having transpired in round lots. Values are, however, a little firmer than they were, and sellers have been asking 5.15 to 5.20 for spot lots, according to brands. The demand has been almost wholly of a jobbing character. At the West, there have been sales of corroding at 2⅛ cents. There have been sales of foreign lead to arrive to a limited extent at 5⅛ cents.

THE recent prize fight took place in the town where that retired patriot, Jefferson Davis, vegetates and dreams of future confederacies. He was not present at the mill, however, as no historian has recorded that he was ever fond of witnessing or taking part in a fight.

A Speck of War.

A litte circus occurring down in Virginia is thus described in a press dispatch from Fredericksburg, Feb. 20th.

For the first time in the history of Virginia the oyster pirates who have for so many years been terrorizing the shores of the Rappahannock have been surrounded and captured. A fleet of twenty well-armed vessels has been defying the officers and citizens for months, and has been having everything pretty much its own way. The owners of oyster beds dared not molest them or make any attempt to preserve their own rights, for showers of slugs from several guns was the only answer they received. A tug has arrived here bringing the intelligence of the successful advance of the State forces, under the command of Gov. Cameron, upon the oyster pirates. About 12 o'clock on Friday morning the steamers Louise and Victoria, which carried the Virginia troops, wheeled with full speed into the mouth of the Rappahannock and surprised seven vessels of the contraband fleet engaged in oyster stealing. Four howitzers on the Louise were brought to bear upon the fleet, and Gov. Cameron, standing in the bow of the steamer, called upon them to surrender in the name of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Six of the pirates surrendered without a struggle, but the seventh, a low, rakish looking craft, known on the coast as the Daring Devil, and manned by twelve of the most desperate men in the business, hauled up anchor and attempted to run the blockade. She was immediately cut off, and when the muzzle of a howitzer, loaded with grape, was brought to bear on her, the captain signaled that he would surrender. Three cheers were given by the State troops at the first signal of victory. Seven vessels and sixty-one men were captured. Under the laws of Virginia the vessels and their cargoes are the property of the captors, and Gov. Cameron now has seven vessels valued at $3,000, besides their cargoes, which are heavy. The victorious troops have arrived in Norfolk with their booty and oysters of every variety are plentiful. It is supposed that this will put an end to the oyster pirating business which has cost many peeple on the Rappahannock their lives. The expedition under Gov. Cameron owes its success to the very fact that it was gotten up quietly and was actually on its way before its mission was known.

Test for Gold.

There is a simple method for the detection of gold in quartz, pyrite, etc., which is not generally described in the mineralogical text books. It is an adaptation of the well-known amalgamation process, and serves to detect very minute particles of gold.

Place the finely powdered and roasted mineral in a test tube, add water and a single drop of mercury; close the test tube with the thumb, and shake thoroughly and for some time. Decant the water, add more and decant repeatedly, thus washing the drop of mercury until it is perfectly clean. The drop of mercury contains any gold that may have been present. It is thereafter placed in a small porcelain capsule and heated until the mercury is volatilized, and the residue of gold is left in the capsule. This residue may be tested either by dissolving in aqua regia and obtaining the purple of Cassius with protochloride of tin, or by taking up with a fragment of moist filter paper, and then fusing to a globule on charcoal in the blowpipe flame.

It is being shown that gold is much more universally distributed than was formerly supposed. It has recently been found in Fulton and Saratoga counties, New York, where it occurs in pyrites. It has also been discovered in the gravel of Chester Creek, at Lenni, Delaware county, Pa. In one of the Virginia gold mines wonderful richness is reported, $160,000 having been taken from a space of three square feet.

FROM the Homer Mining Index: R. S. Miner, a learned and talented young lawyer of Bodie, has been appointed District Attorney of Mono county. The appointment gives great satisfaction in this part of the county, where Mr. Miner is well known and has a lucrative practice.

Joseph Pothast, foreman of the Tower mine near Benton, and a scientific and practical miner of ripe experience, has discovered some very rich and extensive deposits of iron in Indian District, analyses showing 93 per cent. peroxide of iron or hemitite and seven per cent. slicon—nearly equal to pig iron.

The physicians of San Francisco state that there are at least 5,000 cases of measles in that city.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 25.....1882

SUPERIOR COURT.—So little business has been transacted in Judge Hannah's Court of late that it is somewhat discouraging to bother its clerk by inquiring after it. However, on the 10th the case of Rothschild vs. A. R. Conklin et al. came up before his Honor for hearing and was dismissed, the costs being assessed to the plaintiff. (This was in accordance with agreement, finally quieting title and settling conflict of interests to the Ygnacio and Summit No. 2 mine, Cerro Gordo.) On Monday, February 20th, the case of A. Parker vs. J. J. Moore was called; S. P. Moffat for plaintiff, Reddy & Conklin for defendent; on motion of counsel for defendant nonsuit sustained. J. B. Hoover vs. J. M. Horton; assumpsit; trial set for March 13, 1882. People vs. H. Lufkin; on motion of counsel for defendant the case was continued for the term. Thos. J. Goodale vs. Rafael Diaz; argument of demurrer set for yesterday. Millie H. Badger vs. Geo. H. Badger—action for divorce; order for publication of summons entered on the records.

KEYNOT. — Since the resumption of active mining by the Keynot Company, under Supt. Fuentes' direction, late reports are quite important. It appears that the San Francisco experts — the doubting Thomases, who have been inspecting the property so frequently of late—had discovered a mare's nest, so to speak; they saw, or pretended to, that the ore breast at the end of the lower tunnel, 130 feet in, was in ore, but that said ore was not rich as that mined out before. Some of the owners were apparantly of the same mind, rendering it somewhat difficult for the Superintendent to induce them either to go ahead with the work or abandon the plan of selling the mine. The work of opening out the ledge, however, has progressed some fifteen feet further, and the result has been the opening up of an ore chute or body three feet wide which averages from five hundred to one thousand dollars per ton! It is a case calling for a renewed examination by these so-called San Francisco "squirts."

FROM CALICO.—W. T. Grant and J. McDonald reached Independence last evening, on return from the new excitement at Calico Mountains, in San Bernardino, our adjoining county to the southward. A letter from the boys is published elsewhere, giving some of their notes concerning the country. Grant exhibits the richest and most astonishing specimen of silver ore which ever came under our observation, something akin, except as to size, to the masses of pure, native silver which the books tell about as having been found in Mexico and Peru. The piece, having been polished on the surface, shows fully three-fourths of its substance to be white, shining silver; the matrix is hard baryta. The mass of the ledge from which it came is of the same character, some pieces showing horn silver, but the most of it is like ordinary brickbats. The boys declare their intention of going back there forthwithly.

GOLDEN STAR. — The Cartier Bros. have just completed the annual assessment work on the Golden Star mine. The ledge cuts across a foot-hill of the Inyos, some six or seven miles distant across the valley from this place, and has been opened in two places—on the top of a hill by a shaft 104 feet deep and further down the hill, on the ledge line, by a shaft 50 feet deep, the difference in the elevation practically prospecting the vein to a depth of 180 feet or more. The ledge matter, by measurement is three feet wide, containing 20 inches of gold quartz. A few inches in the center shows fine, free gold, no magnifier being necessary for anyone to see it.

A CHANGE. — Mr. V. G. Thompson has been, by appointment of Quartermaster- General M. C. Meigs, intrusted with charge of Camp Independence property, vice H. D. Gelatt. Singularly enough, also, Mr. Thompson can't see the propriety of devoting the buildings for high school purposes, specially, but says that if this county could get the property for general school benefits it might be all right.

BIG PINE.—An occasional correspondent perpetrates the following: "Big Pine takes the cake, for good whisky and pretty babies. If you doubt the whisky part sample it, and if in ten minutes afterwards you succeed in picking an eel out of a bag of snakes, you do well. Suffer little babies to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of Big Pine. ALFALFA."

REGISTRATION.—So far but 105 of the "good and true" voters of Inyo have authorized the County Clerk to put their names regularly upon the Great Register. The several localities have been supplied with all necessary blanks for the purpose, and it would appear that the names should be sent in with somewhat more rapidity, or speed, as it were.

HURT.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull was unfortunate enough to sustain a painful, if not serious, injury to the left leg the other day, by falling into a man-trap leading to the cellar of the building in which he has his office. He manages to navigate somewhat ungracefully on crutches, however, and expects to be able to resume work in a few days.

RETURNED. — One of Inyo's old-timers, who knows the ins and outs of this county, as well as those of a great many others, reached this place last night from old Calaveras county. It was Dan Macarter, and he comes back with the general impression that for the general chances this Inyo county is equal to the best of them.

TAX SALE.—The sale of property advertised as being upon the delinquent tax list, began to-day, and will probably be continued until Monday, or until the matter is disposed of.

Real Estate Transfers.

Following are the transfers of real estate filed and recorded by the County Recorder since our last report: J. B. Sanchez to O. T. Stacy, 100 feet of the Sanchez mine, Bishop Creek District; consideration, $1.

H. T. Walker and C. H. Schuman to J. H. Holt, one-third interest in the Return quartz claim, Bishop Creek District; consideration, $1.

S. S. Hall to P. P. Keough, 40 acres of land in Township 7 S., R. 32 E.; also, water-right connected with said land; consideration, $500.

Minnie Berwick to Chas. Anthony, lot in town of Darwin with saloon and improvements thereon; also, lot in same town; consideration, $500.

A. W. Eibeshutz to W. H. and Jas. Jenkins, 160 acres of land in Township 13 S., R. 33 E.; consideration, $1,000.

W. H. and Jas. Jenkins to A. W. Eibeshutz, mine known as the Summit mine No. 2, situated in Cerro Gordo District; consideration, $1,400.

John R. Hughes to M. A. Wheeler, all the right, title and interest of the party of the first part in and to the Gold Hill mine, Cerro Gordo District; consideration, $1.

MOUNTAIN CHIEF. — This property is about ten miles north of the Poleta and lies in the same range. Although but a prospect as yet, it is attracting a great deal of interest and attention and bids fair to become one of the richest and largest mines in the State. The main shaft is down about 71 feet and is in a large and well defined ledge which shows free gold in all parts. We have samples from the extreme bottom—which was taken out recently by W. J. C. Gill, of this place—and in many of them the gold can be seen with the eye. M. L. Cook, a fourth-owner, is now East, where he has gone to procure capital to erect hoisting works and work the mine on a large and scientific scale.

There is considerable interest manifested by our citizens regarding the management of the Poleta. Now that Mr. Irwin has accepted the superintendency of the Standard, in Bodie, it leaves a question as to whether or no there will not be a change in the Poleta. If there is to be a change, we should like to see our genial friend Storey prevailed upon to accept the appointment, as we are certain that under his management our mines will be speedily developed.

Main street presented a lively appearance yesterday morning, the excitement being occasioned by the vigorous snowballing that was kept up all the forenoon. Anyone who was unfortunate enough to move along the thoroughfare was obliged to "run the gauntlet as best he might."

We hear that a change has been made in the superintendency of the Tower mine, near Benton, Mr. Tarpy retiring and Mr. Wm. H. Lent being appointed in his stead.

It is reported that W. A. Irwin, Superintendent of the Poleta mine, has superceded his father in the superintendency of the Standard mine at Bodie, the old gentleman having resigned.

Bill Gill has challenged ——— McBride to run Brown Abby against Red Oak, the Carson horse, catch weights, for $500 a side, the race to be run on Jack Horton's track.

TO MEET. — By the regular notice elsewhere it appears that the County Board of Education will hold a regular meeting on the 15th proximo, when those desiring teacher's certificates for the ensuing year should be in attendance.

DARWIN. — The Defiance furnaces fired up on the 25th of last month, and run continuously up to the 20th inst, when a failure in the coal supply caused a "shut down." The furnaces will resume operations on the 5th proximo.

TEAMS.— Several of the independent freighting teams arrived in town yesterday, from Mojave — the first of the new system, or lack of system, all bringing full loads,

LODGE.—On Saturday night next occurs a stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., at the hall.

CALICO.

CALICO MOUNTAINS,
SAN BERNARDINO CO., Feb. 19.

With a great deal of bashfulness we proceed to comply with our promise to write you our opinion of the Calico Mountain country, and as many acquaintances wished to know how the country stood in our estimation, we conclude that through the medium of your paper we can kill two birds with one stone. Well, to begin with, Calico is in Grape Vine District, San Bernardino county, California, seven miles from the Fish Ponds, north of the Mojave river, and nine miles from Grape Vine Station, which is kept by Messrs. Adkins & Miller, where both man and beast can get the very best accommodations, and all information those gentlemen can give, both being old settlers and interested in some of the principal mines. As for Calico, we think it has a bright future, as they have an abundance of very rich ore as far as prospected. True, there is but little developments made thus far, the greatest being the tunnel on the Silver King mine, which is in about 150 feet, with drifts on the ledge each way 50 or 60 feet, showing a body of ore from 15 to 20 feet that will average $40 or $50 per ton. As for the formation, we are not scientific enough to say, but if it is not conglomerate we do not know what it is; anyhow, it looks like a duff, we have seen the miners make up north, filled with currents, raisins and things.

However, those I met in the country said it was a species of porphyry. The country looks very much like the mountains down about Haiwai Meadows and is one that an old time prospector would never think of going into, and should he get in there and see the mines we do not believe one in a thousand would even think of making a location. The mineral seems to be in heavy spar or baryta. That is the richest of the ore. The ledges generally are large, the balance of a heavy iron ore mixed with a decomposed ore resembling the fire rock around and throughout the volcanic regions of Inyo—in fact, the ore looks very much like a brick-bat. As for the citizens, but few ever saw a mine or know the first principle of mining; they must belong to God's chosen, as they are asking fabulous prices for their property, from fifty to three hundred thousand dollars is demanded, and in some instances there is not a scratch in the ground—only surface prospects. The facilities for working are rather poor, as it is seven miles to the river. As for wood it is scarce, and only cottonwood and mosquite at that. However, that is easily obviated, as the railroad is to run within three miles of the proposed millsites. There is a dry lake two miles from the mines, and they have sunk a well 75 feet and are supplying the town with water at 5c per gallon. Hay is worth $65 per ton, barley 5c per pound, and is all brought from San Bernardino, 80 miles distant. Only twelve men have employment for wages in the Calico mines, and about the same number at the Waterman mine, which is nine miles west of Calico, and is owned by our old Corro Gordoan, J. L. Porter, together with Waterman. It is beyond all doubt a fine mine. Several old Inyoites are at work in this mine, among whom are Bob Gribbin and the Hoskins boys. We were pleased to meet our old Inyo acquaintance, Judge James Walsh, of Cerro Gordo, who has bought in connection with Garnet and Earl, of San Francisco, several mines, paying therefor the handsome price of $40,000. They all look well. The Judge appears to be well pleased with his purchase, and is going to erect a 20-stamper immediately. In conclusion let us say that it is no place for men to get employment, as there are enough already here to fill all requirements, and wages only three dollars per day. As for prospecting it is out of the question without a wagon and team to haul both water and feed, there being not a bunch of grass for 20 miles square. We can truly say that in our opinion the time is not far distant when San Bernardino county can boast of the best chloriding camp on the coast. Yours, truly,

MCDONALD & GRANT.

WE learn from good authority that negotiations are being made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company with the Central Pacific for the purchase of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe from Deming to Kansas. Commissioners have gone East from the Southern Pacific Company to complete negotiations, and we understand that a cash offer has been made. The Southern Pacific, if it makes this purchase, will virtually control two through lines from this end of California to the Atlantic States.—Los Angeles Express.

PROF. E. C. PICKERING, of Harvard College, says that in undertaking to measure the intensity of the light of the sateleites of Mars he had occasion to need an extremely small hole. Among the artisans who essayed to furnish what was needed was one who had succeeded in making a hole edgewise through an old fashioned three-cent piece, and another who had pierced a needle through from end to end. A hole about the 25-100 part of an inch in diameter was finally secured.

Demand for Copper.

Six months ago ingot copper sold in the New York market at 13½c per pound. Now it sells for 20½c per pound. Perhaps it may be at least useful to attempt to find some good reason for this sudden and large increase in prices, and also to take a cursory glance at the copper fields of the world, with a view to discover the sources from which a supply of this valuable metal will be drawn in the future. It will be well to also furnish as exact a statement of the present production of metallic copper throughout the globe, as our available sources of information will afford. And lastly, to mention more especially the resources of the United States, and the probability of our being able to furnish a supply for home use, as also a supply for the balance of the world, should there be a demand and market for it. There can be but one cause assigned for the present rapid advance in the price of metallic copper, namely, the intense activity in electric science, and its rapid practical application to man's uses and wants. This practical use of electricity was doubtless furthered more by Dr. Franklin than by any other scientist, at least, of his day. Previous to his day it was more of a study of experiment, known to but a few scholars and students of nature's laws. And now, in our day, it is reasonable to believe that to Edison, another countryman of ours, the world is and will be more indebted for giving form, force and direction to this wonderful and powerful agent, stored in inexhaustible supply in earth's atmosphere for man's use, than to any other.

THE following circular has been issued by Director Burchard, of the Mint Bureau, regarding the purchase of mutilated silver coins at the Mints of the United States: The Superintendents of the United States Mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco, Carson and New Orleans, have been authorized to purchase mutilated silver coins of standard fineness, at the rate of $1 per ounce, troy weight, when presented in sums of $3 and upwards. Coins can be forwarded to these mints by registered mail, or by express (charges prepaid), and the value will be returned, at the seller's risk and expense, by express, registered mail, check or draft. Persons sending full-weight United States subsidiary silver coins would receive, at the rate authorized, eighty cents per $1 of their face value, but for mutilated coins, a less amount, proportioned to their deficiency in legal weight. At the rates paid, mutilated silver coins will be worth at the Mints: Per ounce, troy, $1; per ounce, avordupois (about) 91; per $1, face value approximately, 70 to 76.

THE Virginia Enterprise having advocated the introduction of the nickel into Nevada, was attacked by the entire press of the State and accused of going back on the traditions. The Enterprise, which is always apologizing for something, apologizes by saying that it merely imagined they might come handy in meeting the cupriferous demands of Eastern tourists.

WHO wouldn't be a Washoe Indian? One of the customs of that tribe is that when a buck gets sleepy or drunk while out on a promenade with a squaw, he throws her down and uses her for a pillow. This convenient unconventionality is denied a white man by the restraints of a civilization that as it increases our culture lessens our comfort and happiness.

The Angora Goat.

Mr. Joseph P. Devine, a stock-raiser in Texas, writes as follows to the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.:

There are millions of acres of rocky, hilly undergrowth of live oak in Western Texas and other States also, that will not support one sheep to twenty acres, one cow to forty acres, or one horse to fifty acres; in other words, that are utterly worthless for any use on God's green earth except for goats. Now if there is good and sure sale for mohair, there is no doubt but the common goat can be made to produce, in five or six removes, a fleece equal nearly to any pure blood hair in luster and length, and in weight far more, by breeding from a pure bred billy every time and always. To sum up the advantages of goats over other stock, they can be herded with perfect safety and to advantage in flocks of 2,000; for I now have one herd of 2,050 graded Angoras, herded by one Mexican. They can be located in Summer eight miles from their watering place, and drink once in three days, returning to camp same day — a great item in this dry country; they can be raised and thrive best on land worth fifteen or twenty-five cents an acre; they are subject to no disease whatever, that I know of; they will protect themselves, that is the grown, against wolves or dogs; and last, but not least, they come home five times in six, if lost on the range. Then there is not a more agreeable or pretty pursuit in the world than raising Angora goats. That you may not think I am too partial to Angoras, allow me to say that I am breeding cattle, horses, and have 3,400 head of Merino ewes; and if I had a little more encouragement as to the future of the Angora, namely, regular sale and fair price for hair of first quality, I would, if forced to give up all my interest in stock except one, keep my pretty, intelligent, and valuable Angoras; and let sheep, hogs, etc., go to grass.

Marvels of Electricity.

Who knows but the day, or night rather, is near when we can see and hear our favorite actor by staying cosily at home. Just read this from the current number of the Electrician: By aid of the disoscope, an ingenious instrument brought to public notice during the Parisian Electrical Congress, patrons of the drama will be henceforth able to see as well as hear their favorite operatic and histrionic artists without moving a yard from home. The apparatus consists of a small "objective" lens, fixed in a position commanding the stage of some theatre, and connected by an electric wire with a diminutive white glass plate, which may be framed and set in the panel of a private drawing-room, however distant from the playhouse in question. Total darkness having been obtained in the room furnished with a dioscope, a perfect picture of the stage, its scenery, actors, and so forth, faithful in color and absolutely reproducing the whole performance, will become visible on the glass plate. Supplemented by a telephone communicating with the theatre, the dioscope will, therefore enable its owner to spend his evening at the opera in dressing-gown and slippers, seated at home in an easy chair.

IT is perfectly astonishing to reflect what trifles some people insist on making a fuss about. A young man in Boston is now suing an oculist of that city on account of a little mistake. The young man had some dangerous disease of the eye, and was told that if one eye was destroyed the other might be saved. He was placed under the influence of choloform and the operation performed. When he came to, he found that the oculist had taken out the wrong eye. Although the operator offered to take out the remaining eye without charge, the blind man is now suing for $50,000 damages, at which rate the entire patient would come very expensive indeed. Some people never can take a joke, somehow.

Sociability.

"Speaking about the sociability of railroad travelers," said the man with the crutches and a watch pocket over his eye, "I never got so well acquainted with the passengers as I did the other day on the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad. We were going at the rate of about thirty miles an hour and another train from the other direction telescoped us. We were all thrown into each other's society, and brought into immediate social contact, as it were.

"I went over and sat in the lap of a corpulent lady from Manitoba, and a girl from Chicago jumped over nine seats and sat on the plug hat of a preacher from Locrosse with so much timid, girlish enthusiasm that it shoved his hat clear down over his shoulders."

"Every body seemed to lay aside the usual cool reserve of strangers, and we made ourselves perfectly at home.

"A shy young man with an emaciated oil-cloth valise left his own seat and went over and sat on a lunch basket where a bridal couple seemed to be rustling with their first picnic. Do you suppose that reticent young man would have done such a thing on ordinary occasions? Do you think if he had been at a celebration at home that he would have risen impetuously and gone where those people were eating by themselves, and sat down in the cranberry jelly of a total stranger?

"I should rather think not.

"Why, one old man who probably at home led the class meeting, and who was as dignified as Roscoe Conkling's father, was eating a piece of custard pie when we met the other train, and he left his own seat and went to the front end of the car and shot that piece of custard pie into the ear of a beautiful widow from Iowa.

"People traveling somehow forget the austerity of their home lives and form acquaintances that last through life."—Laramie Boomerang.

An Angel's Touch.

One evening, not long ago, a little girl of nine or ten entered a place in which is a bakery, grocery and saloon in one, and asked for five cent's worth of tea. "How's your mother?" asked the boy who came forward to wait upon her. "Awful sick, and ain't had anything to eat all day." The boy was just then called to wait on some men who entered the saloon, and the girl sat down. In five minutes she was nodding, and in seven she was sound asleep, leaning her head against a barrel, while she held the poor old nickel in a tight grip between her thumb and finger. One of the men saw her as he came from the bar, and asking who she was, said 'Say, you drunkards, see here! Here we've been pouring down whisky when this poor child and her mother want bread. Here's a $2 bill that says I've got some feeling left." "And I can add a dollar," observed another. "And I'll add another." They made up a purse of an even $5, and the spokesman carefully put the bill between the sleeper's fingers, drew the nickel away and whispered to his comrades, "Jist look a there—the gal's dreaming!" So she was. A big tear had rolled down from her closed eyelid, but her face was covered with a smile. The men tip toed out, and the clerk went over and touched the sleeping child. She woke with a laugh, and cried out: "What a beautiful dream! Ma wasn't sick any more and we had lots to eat and wear, and my hand burns yet where an angel touched it!" When she discovered that the nickel had been replaced with a bill, a dollar of which loaded her down with all she could carry, she innocently said; "Well, now, ma won't hardly believe that you sent up to heaven and got an angel to come down and clerk in your grocery".—S. F News Letter.

IMMIGRATION.—L. H. Washburn, a lawyer residing at Muscatine, Ia., visited the office of the Immigration Association of California Saturday and stated that he intended to establish colonies in the southern part of the State, and for that purpose intended to open an agency at Los Angeles. He intends to go back to Iowa next month, where he will advertise as suitable for colonies the lands he may select during his stay. There are a large number of families, some seventy in the neighborhood of Muscatine alone, who are anxious to immigrate and settle in California. Mr. Washburn expects to arrange excusion trains next Fall to bring immigrants to the colonies at reduced rates, at the same time providing for those who do not wish to stay in returning in the same way to their old homes. He has spoken to Mr. Goodman, Passenger Agent of the Central Pacific Railroad, in relation to the matter, and that gentleman has promised that in case his scheme meets with success he will facilitate matters as much as possible. —Bulletin.

THE Southern Nevada Mining Company, whose stock was recently listed on the San Francisco Board, have brought suit in the United States Circuit Court at Carson against the Northern Belle Mining Company to recover $600,000, the value of ore alleged to have been taken from the Southern Nevada's ground. The new company have, by stipulation of attorneys on both sides, had official surveys made by competent surveyors, and claim that they can prove to a certainty that over 10,000 tons of ore have been taken within their lines. Their claim at Candelaria was formerly known as Chief of the Hill.

IT is reported that the Madrone mineral springs, situated a few miles north of Gilroy, will be purchased by a company at Oakland for $8,000, and that $12,000 more will be spent for improvements.

Identified.

After a lapse of three days the mystery regarding the human remains found in the abandoned shaft by the Free Press reporter is partially explained, thanks to the faithful work of an intelligent Coroner's Jury. A great mass of testimony has been given, and the outcome so far is satisfactory in a measure. On December 8th, Mary E. Turner, a married woman, aged 19 years, died, was buried in the Bodie cemetery on the 9th. The finding of human remains, and a general discussion of the same, led Mr. Turner to suspicion that they might be those of his wife. Wednesday morning he and a few friends went to the cemetery and opened his wife's grave. Before reaching the proper depth things did not look right, and when the coffin was reached it was found to be empty. The husband's feelings can be better imagined than described.

The Coroner's Jury, after a long and tedious examination of obstinate and unwilling witnesses, traced the remains to Dr. Blackwood, who either dug them up himself or hired the disagreeable work done. He rented a vacant house on Fuller street for the purpose (it is believed) and dissected the body of the late Mrs. Turner. The skull found its way to Dr. Jones' office, and a competent lady friend testified that she recognized the skull as that of Mrs. Turner by the teeth, which were remarkably even and handsome. One witness testified that he frequently accompanied Dr. Blackwood to the dissecting room, and saw him use a knife on the remains, cutting away flesh and performing other work in that direction. The man who so testified was one of the unwilling witnesses, but the circumstances were such that he was forced to disgorge a portion of his knowledge regarding the affair. Dr. Blackwood testified that he knew nothing whatever about the remains, and then jumped the town and has not yet been overtaken. The resurrecting of the body and subsequent disposition of the same was a miserably executed job, and will reflect lasting disgrace upon those directly interested in the affair. — Bodie Free Press.

S. LEFARGE, an old resident of this place, but who left here about four years ago for the purpose of prospecting in the mining regions, was here last week. He is now living in Inyo county, where he has some claims which promise to yield well. Some rock which he brought down with him are beautiful specimens, and from assays made it will run into the thousands of dollars per ton. He has had considerable work done on his mines in sinking shafts, etc., and we may expect to hear of some of his claims yielding well before long.—Bakersfield Gazette.

SATURDAY, MARCH 4.....1882

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE President has nominated Sargent to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Germany. He has also nominated Conkling as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. Mr. Hunt, the retired Justice, was from New York, and the lawyers of that State have so urged the President of the importance of giving that State the same representation that it had before, that Mr. Arthur has got his mind made up and decided to send in the name of Conkling for the place. The nomination of Conkling made quite a stir in the Senate, as it was entirely unexpected, and Senators freely expressed their surprise. Sargent's nomination surprised some of his friends, who maintained to the last that he would be Secretary of the Interior. Kirkwood's friends have been working industriously in his behalf of late, though he has not made a single move for himself. There is talk of a probability of Conkling's declination, as it is said he was not communicated with on the subject, and it it believed that if he declines, Edmunds will be appointed. The nomination of Sargent is regarded as having settled the fact that Kirkwood will remain at the head of the Interior Department.

THE new apportionment, making the membership of the next House 325, will undoubtedly become a law. From a partisan standpoint it is an unusually fair measure. The total membership is increased by thirty-two, of whom, supposing no change in the relative strength of the two parties, the Republicans will secure sixteen and the Democrats fifteen — leaving one seat in New York doubtful. Should the new district be located in the Republican end of the State the Republicans would have seventeen and the Democrats fifteen of the new members. In any event it is not probable that the increased apportionment will play any important part in deciding which party shall control the House which will be elected next Fall.

IT looks as though the Fitz John Porter case was to be fought over again. The General's friends claim that new evidence, strongly in his favor, has been discovered, and that it would have been a physical impossibility to have followed Pope's orders, even had they reached Porter in time. The man who is to demonstrate this is the telegraph operator at Pope's headquarters. It would be interesting to know where this man was dug up. One would fancy from his silence that he had been on an Arctic exploring expedition.

SENATOR MILLER having stated his willingness to accept a modification of the westerly boundary of the proposed Sequoia reservation in Tulare, the Bord of Supervisors of that county have suggested boundary lines which would include about twenty townships, taking in parts of Mounts Whitney and Tyndall and omitting the fine timber region around the headwaters of Kern river.

THE Legislature appropriated $100,000 to rebuild the State Normal School building destroyed by fire. This, with the insurance on the former building, $50,000, was deemed sufficient for the work. The cost came within the appropriation, and the Trustees have a margin of $1,063. In these days of contract jobs, this is deserving of a high place among the political phenomena.

THE fact that two Congressmen-at-large are to be chosen in California this year will be the means of healing several widening breeches and harmonizing conflicting interests. It is expected that the election will be well contested, and there is a large opinion abroad that the Democrats have whatever advantage there is going.

THE House Committee on Militia has agreed upon a bill to amend the militia law, in accordance with the petitions of the National Guards, to increase the annual appropriation to $1,000,000, and to distribute it among the States in proportion to the number of militia they maintain.

THE Oakland Sentinel favors the establishment of the whipping post or the rack in this State for wife beaters. Senator Roach once tried to get this mode of punishment established, and his bill was passed, though it was found that it would not work.

CONGRESSMAN BERRY has received a number of letters from prominent Democrats in various parts of California, requesting him to enter the field as a candidate for Governor.

THE bill to place Grant on the retired list of the army, with the title of General will no doubt become a law.

UNSETTLED AS YET.

CARSON & COLORADO R. R. Co.,
GEN'L SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Carson City, Nev., Feb. 25, '82.

J. E. Parker, Esq., Independence, Cal: MY DEAR SIR—I am just in receipt of your esteemed favor of the 23d instant, with inclosed letter from the Independence local "Railroad Committee,"—all of which has been read with much interest.

In reply I beg to say that I cannot give a positive answer as to which side of the river our line will run — we have not decided — and won't do so until we have made a more thorough examination of the country and the possibilities of either location for the largest volume of business, and you know that's what we are after. Although, I am free to confess that in the final location of our line we have every desire to meet the wishes of your people, work with them hand in hand and do all that we consistently can—that is to say, without positive and permanent injury to ourselves, in the advancement of their interests. We want to see the agricultural and mineral interests of your section opened up to their fullest extent, and we are anxious and willing to do all we possibly can to that end. You can state this fact to your people and also say that from the kindly and generous assurances we have already received from them, that we confidently count on their aid and assistance in these important matters, and in that I feel we shall not be disappointed.

To-morrow I leave for Candelaria, and shall have a further consultation with our Chief Engineer and Superintendent of Construction over the location of the line through your valley, although I think it certain that we shall soon pay you a visit and have a general consultation with your people before a final decision is arrived at. I shall make it a point to write you in advance of coming. Thanking you and your friends for the hearty interest evinced, I remain, yours, very truly,

H. M. YERINGTON.

Through the advice of the Independence local Railroad Committee, THE INDEPENDENT quotes the foregoing letter in full.

It is written in the kindliest tone, and in the main suggests exactly what this paper has advocated from the start, i. e.: a complete understanding of the matter amongst our citizens, and action taken by some representative and organized body. Such Committee should prepare itself with all facts bearing upon the proposition, and be ready to meet the railroad men when they do come.

The object of securing the road on this side of the valley is a matter of the most material importance to all of the present property owners and general population.

To that end, in order that all necessary measures may be taken, a meeting of representative citizens, or authorized delegates of local committees from the towns of Olancha, Lone Pine, Independence, Fish Springs, Big Pine and Bishop is called to meet at the Court House on Saturday evening next, March 11th.

Let us, through the attendance and general spirit manifested, thereby test public sentiment regarding the movement, and if possible evolve some plan to accomplish the general purpose.

A BILL has been introduced into the House of Representatives that a bureau to be known as the "Bureau of Mines and Mining," be established in the Department of the Interior and connected with the Geological Survey heretofore provided for by law. The purpose and object of the bureau is to gather statistics and acquire information respecting the mines and mining operations of the United States, and to report such statistics and information annually, through the Secretary of the Interior, to Congress for use and dissemination. It also provides that there be at the head of said bureau one chief, who shall be skilled in the knowledge of minerals and mining, to be appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, at a salary of $3,000 per annum; one assistant mineralogist, at a salary of $2,000; one chief clerk, at a salary of $1,600; two assistant clerks, at $1,200 each; and four mining experts, at $1,600 each. Doubtless great good would be accomplished by the establishment of the bureau referred to in the dissemination of accurate and official knowledge of the status of our mines and mineral resources, and thereby more readily secure capital for their development.

THERE is a great flood in the Ohio and Mississippi rivers—real destructive floods that stop all railway travel, inundate whole districts, and carry destruction wherever the waters go. Compared to these, the California floods are but freshets. Indeed California has never seen such a flood as that is, or such as they experience in the Eastern States and in Europe. And, judging from the outlook for a dry Summer, an ordinary California flood now if caused by rain would be gladly welcomed by all the people.

THE so-called "remonstrance" against the donation of Camp Independence for the benefit of education, published in the Times last week — signed neither by Smith or any one else — is utterly beneath contempt.

SMELTING LEAD ORES.

Some well informed mining man of this region has been writing a lot of interesting facts to the San Francisco Mining and Scientific Press. Although quite lengthy, we reproduce the following:

To use an oft-repeated phrase, Inyo county has a black eye as far as its mining interests are concerned. Many efforts have been made during the past three years to dispose of really valuable mining property, some as prospects only, and some as partly developed mines; but with one or two exceptions all efforts have failed to induce capital to take hold. The word has gone forth that there are no mines in Inyo county. Now we are prepared to dispute that assertion, and not only dispute it, but claim that Inyo has more and better prospects than any other in California. Why is it said that we have no mines? But very few mining men will come here to see if we have or not, and most of those few come prejudiced. They make up their mind before they come that there is nothing here worth looking at, and when they get here they will not take any pains to go around and see what we have to show them for fear that they might see a good mine, and have to change their minds. "There are none so blind as those that will not see."

It is true there were a number of failures here in mining ventures some twelve or fifteen years ago. Two or three mills were built at great expense before any mines were found to furnish them with ore. Smelting furnaces were erected by parties who were totally ignorant of the smelting process. They made disastrous failures, not through a want of ore to smelt, but through a lack of skill in handling it. Bad management and extravagance finished the business, and the spectral wrecks of old mills and furnaces stand here to-day as former failures. These failures occurred at a time when but comparatively little was known of milling ores, and much less of smelting. It is no wonder that men who never before saw a furnace, and knew absolutely nothing metallurgical operations and the chemistry of ores, should make complete and utter failures of their attempts to smelt ores. Of course the fault was charged to the ores, or want of ores. They could not be smelted, or there was none to be had after the furnaces were built. And so Inyo got a black eye from which she has never recovered.

Smelting lead ores is now reduced to a simple process. Any ores can be smelted if they contain from 35 to 50 per cent of lead. The skillful smelter knows the cempositions of his ores, and he makes the combinations necessary to produce the desired result. As an instance of how smelting works were conducted here a few years ago, the works at Swansea on Owens lake are a good example. In the first place, the furnace was built in a hole, or on the lowest spot of ground to be found in the locality. There were no slag dumps; it had to be wheeled on the level ground and piled up. A large quantity of ore was put through the furnace, and considerable bullion shipped, notwithstanding the rude way in which the whole business was managed. The interesting remains of the Swansea smelting works now consists of the slag pile. Paobably three thousand tons of this material is now lying near the old works, which the writer has examined a number of times, taking samples and making assays of several different kinds of this slag. The result of these investigations shows percentages of lead from 15 to 50, average about 30; and in silver, from 15 to 70 ounces, average about 30 ounces per ton. There are besides in this slag pile tons of bullion in the shape of nuggets of lead weighing from 200 grains up to 1lb. each. Comment is unnecessary.

In almost every case where mines in the Inyo range have been developed to any considerable extent they have proved to be permanent and valuable. The Union Con. Mining Co., of Cerro Gordo, have run out of their furnaces over $13,000,000 worth of bullion, and there is good authority for stating that when the company stopped work large bodies of ore were left standing in the mine, which had reached a depth of 900 feet. The famous Ygnacio mine now shows thousands of tons of high grade ore. The San Lucas is another of the same class, and still there is not a half dozen picks being struck in the whole district. The place is nearly deserted and dead. A very few of the old timers who hold interests still "stay by the pot," and hope for better times.

In the Beveridge District, which adjoins Cerro Gordo on the north, the rich Keynot gold mine was discovered about a year ago. It has turned out over $125,000 worth of gold, with a little 5-stamp mill, and the mine still improves as it is opened. Several mining men have been here to look at this property, but as it was in Inyo county they concluded that it was not a safe thing to invest in. The Brown Monster mine, in the Russ District, which has reached a depth of 500 feet and has a vein of gold quartz 6 to 8 feet in width which averages $25 per ton is also in Inyo county, and for that reason it cannot be of any value. The Hirsch mine, in the same locality, is another valuable gold ledge. These two mines are most conveniently located for working and have a splendid water power, furnished by the Owens river, within three miles of the property. These ores can be mined and milled at a cost of $4 per ton.

The Union district, adjoining the Russ on the north, shows a great number of splendid prospects for smelting ores as well as milling, gold and silver ledges. But little work of development has been done in this district, except short shafts and tunnels of from 20 to 100 feet in extent. The Union is the most accessible and open of any of the mining districts in the Inyos, and with every facility in the shape of wood, water and good roads that could be desired. The great drawback to this district is that it is in Inyo county. Bishop Creek comes last on the north, with its Poleta and other rich gold mines. The Poleta was sold a few months ago to San Francisco parties for $30,000, and the work of development has been going on ever since. A depth of 340 feet has been reached, and the shaft shows rich ore from top to bottom. The districts of Darwin, Lookout and Panamint, in the southern part of the county, have not been mentioned, as the object of this letter is more to show the mineral wealth of the Inyo range from Cerro Gordo north. X.

LETTER FROM ARIZONA.

GUNSIGHT MINES,
Western Pima Co., A. T., Feb. 22.

It will be observed by those who take the trouble to observe such trifling matters, that the undersigned still dates his letter from the Gunsight, as above written. It is likely that such will continue to be the case for four or five more weeks yet, since the said undersigned is receiving a regular stipend as a master mechanic, but don't find himself much of a "master" after all, a full-blown brother, in charge of the extensive works taking it upon himself to do all the bossing over the only "sub" now under his control, to wit, yours truly. He, however, is equal to the emergencies, such as arise in the erection of hoisting works, buildings of various kinds connected with the same, shaft timbering and general engineering. And if he wasn't, the writer hereof knows a gentleman who is, but modesty forbids the mention of his name.

WAGES.

As a general thing, miner's excepted, wages in this Territory rule somewhat lower than in the Inyo country. Carpenters, blacksmiths and other mechanics do not as a rule receive over $4 per day, often times having to board themselves. But I could name one or two now working for this company whose pay is equivalent to $6 50 per day. Miners receive $4, as in California and Nevada, boarding themselves; board here being $9 per week. A new boarding house is to open here soon under command of Gen. Pie Allan, and the General threatens to raise grub rates to $10 per week, which is liable to cause a bit of a ruction among the "byes." The same gentleman has his gin mill in fair running order, and already it has made several of the prospectors in this vicinity feel that they are "bullionaires," and no mistake. But that feeling seems not of a lasting character, though well developed while it does last. Speaking of

PROSPECTORS,

They are found here as elsewhere, all owners of vast ledges, all "highly metalliferous," but greatly needing capital to show what these component parts are. As a matter of fact, though (taking hearsay as the only authority), there are very many really valuable prospects in this district, and among them some that are likely to make their locators richer than they now are. Moreover, capitalists are sending their ambassadors all through this country, empowered to buy good mining prospects wherever they may be found. There are a number of such sales now pending, but none actually consumated within my knowledge, since my arrival in these parts. But owing to the lamentable fact that our only means of regular communication with the outer world is by means of a freight team, which only comes and goes once in about eight or ten days, all the

OUTSIDE WORLD GO AWAY,

And we unfortunates not find it out for perhaps two or three weeks after. So it has been, and so it will be for some time yet; and while such conditions exist, we shall hold ourselves in no way responsible for the conduct of the outside world. And hence it comes that the expectant bullionaires before referred to, remain long in the dark as to the result of pending sales upon which they have builded high, even top lofty, hopes. But let us pass mining matters this time.

A HINT TO STOCK RAISERS.

The no-fence advocates of California may be pleased to learn how the Mexican population of this country manage the fence question, as far as hogs and dogs are concerned. As raising dogs is rated as the more important industry of the two, these useful animals are allowed to run at large—as is usual most everywhere for that matter. But it is different with the hogs. They are all and severally picketed out by the hind leg, which plan not only solves the vexed fence question to some extent, but subserves another useful purpose, namely: every pig is tied out where he will do the best good in family economy; is so trained that he permits nothing whatever that contains, or that ever did contain, a suspicion of nutriment, to go to waste. The inventors and users of this labor saving method seem to be totally ignorant of the fact that it may be patentable.

ARIZONA "TIMBER."

It is written that Arizona, especially the northeastern part, contains fine forests of pine and other valuable timber. No doubt but that is true for that part, but it does not apply to any part of this region bordering on the Gulf of California, say for two hundred miles inland along the entire length of the Gulf. But while there are no forest trees, the country is really quite well timbered in a certain way. The mesquite grows almost everywhere, and is equal if not superior to piñon for fuel, and, in short lengths, is an excellent substitute for hard wood; it is said, even in wagon building and the like. It is a very good timber, and a growth worthy of more than common commendation for its general usefulness, but it is hardly the sort to make good wagons out of. Next to mesquite comes ironwood, or Arizona mahogany. This tree attains a growth similar to that of the mesquite, and like the latter, is said to produce quantities of beans or nuts highly prized as a staple article of food by natives of the soil and for stock feed. These trees, often a number from the same root, grows twenty or thirty feet high, and would attain forty or even fifty feet if they would grow straight up. Once in a while one will try this for three or four feet, but then goes to angles and curves again, and becomes spoiled for most uses, other than for fuel. The larger ones will measure sometimes a foot or more in diameter. If the ironwood or mahogany could be found up to this, or even a much smaller size, perfectly sound, it would be an exceedingly valuable wood for many purposes. It is full as rich in colors and full as pretty every way as the regular Honduras mahogany, and will take even a finer polish. It is easily worked in the green state, but when perfectly seasoned is as hard on wood tools as marble. Besides these two, we have the palo verde (green tree), which is far the most showy every way than either of the others. But the palo verde is a fraud in every way. Rots before it becomes fairly dry, and though it will burn fairly, while doing so, it emits a spoiled ammonia odor, as to put everybody but an old-timer all out of sorts—and it is pretty tough on the old-timers, too, though they profess to rather like it than otherwise. These three trees constitute the timber resources of this part of the country— and many are far worse off in that particular. The most notable or noticeable growth in this country is the cacti, of which there are many kinds, and among them some giants. We will let the cacti go for the present. The

AN ACCIDENT

Quite out of the usual course, one, and but one copy of THE INDEPENDENT has reached me at this place. For once even its able advertisements were read with positive interest, far more so than its old time editorials and poetic effusions ever were. In fact, I would feel disposed to compliment it generally, but will hold that matter under advisement until I see how badly its Arizona correspondence is butchered up. The number in question was dated Feb. 11. Blow up some P. M. anyway, and oblige. CHALFANT.

THE wreck of the steamer "Brother Jonathan," which was lost upwards of fourteen years ago off the coast of Del Norte county, is reported as having been discovered. Parties have been in search of her for the past two years, and it appears that their efforts have at last been crowned with success. When the steamer was lost she had on board a large amount of treasure and about two hundred passengers, only about twenty-five of whom were saved. A considerable portion of the money was in specie, and the remainder in greenbacks put up in water-proof cases, and the opinion has been expressed by those who prepared them that they are still in a state of preservation.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal has declared in favor of woman suffrage. This ought to be encouraging to the energetic ladies who have for so many years been vainly demanding the ballot. There is no reason why any woman who wants to vote should not be permitted to do so. The chief obstacle in the way of the advocates of the innovation is the differences of women themselves. The average woman knows nothing about politics, doesn't want to know anything about politics and wouldn't take the trouble to go to the polls if the privilege to do so were given her.

THE sacking of Pisco by one of the numerous gangs of Peruvian troops, so called, was a horrible affair. The drunken wretches are reported to have killed a thousand persons, of whom three or four hundred were foreigners. One of the victims was the French Consul, resident in the city. France will undoubtedly exact ample satisfaction for this outrage, and the governments of other countries, whose subjects were slain will be prompt to take steps for atonement.

A ST. PETERSBURG correspondent writes that Great Russia, or the Central portion of the Empire, is the only part that remains loyal to the Czar. The population of the provinces that are not true to him amounts to 50,000,000, or just half of the population of the Russian empire. Therefore the Czar has to turn one half of his people into soldiers, policemen and spies in order to watch over the other half to preserve his authority.

THE tree after which the town of Lone Pine is named fell prone to the earth a few days ago, much to the grief of the oldest inhabitants. THE INYO INDEPENDENT, whose editor was born in Limerick, says that "there is talk of preserving the old landmark by planting another in its stead."—S. F. Stock Report.

Partner, the Hibernianism quoted in the above was perpetrated by a preacher who was born in the bogs of Illinois. Don't lie about us that way any more.

THE Mormons are circulating a petition among their young people to make them deny that the polygamy practiced by their parents is not just what they desire, and that they never objected to it. Those who refuse to sign are cut off from the Church. The majority of the young people refuse to sign, and say that the sooner the institution of Mormonism and polygamy is wiped out the better.

WE doubt whether Conkling can afford to be shelved in the Supreme Court. He has held too conspicuous a place in the public eye and been too active in politics to consent to this kind of decent entombment.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 4.....1882

THE SCHOOL. — The Independence school, for the term commencing Sept. 5th last, closed yesterday. From the teacher's report we glean the general facts that the school is graded as grammar, in which there were seven pupils, and 39 in primary grades. He has taught 24 months in this school, and six months during this year; salary $90 per month. He takes the Pacific educational journal, and didn't attend any County Institute, seeing that there was no such racket. The teacher's credentials consist of a diploma, May 19, 1879, and a first grade certificate of 1880. The County Superintendent paid the school two visits, of an aggregate duration of three hours. No. of volumes in school library, 90. After affirmatively answering a series of questions as to legal requirements, etc., the teacher says that the school has sufficient grounds, but that the same are not suitably improved. We condense from the report the following average totals for the whole term: No. days taught, 118; No. days attendance, 3,850; No. of days absence, 195; No. of tardiness, 123; No. boys enrolled, 20; No. girls enrolled, 26; total, 46; average number belonging, 34.3; average daily attendance, 32.7. Yesterday was a gala-day, as it were, in the school, closing examination, declamations, compositions and all that being in order, graced by the presence of a room-full of the parents and friends of the pupils. Last evening the residence of the teacher was thronged with a surprise party gathered to do honor to a practical, honored and successful educator — Mr. Dan Crough, and they had a good time, too.

FATAL ACCIDENT. — Coroner V. G. Thompson was called to Lone Pine on the 1st instant to hold an inquest upon the remains of John Lewis, a teamster who was killed at the Lone Pine bridge by the upsetting of his wagon. From the testimony adduced it was shown that no one was present at the time; that the body was found doubled up under the overturned wagon. His death must have been instantaneous, the unfortunate man's neck having been broken. The body and team were first found by J. R. Turner, who sent word to Lone Pine and several parties from there went immediately to the scene. Their testimony is all to the same effect, and the verdict rendered was to the effect that the deceased came to his death by the accidental upsetting of his wagon, about 2 o'clock on the afternoon of February 28th; and that no blame could be attached to anyone. The unfortunate victim, it appears, was but little known, but is given a thoroughly good character by those who did know him. He was a native of New York, aged about 45 years.

A TRAINED TEAM. — Mr. Eibeshutz, who has just returned from an excursion to Bishop, avers that Johnny Stoutenborough's brag buggy team, "Prince" and mate, have been put under better training than Gelatt's exhibition horses. Mr. Stoutenborough has devoted himself to the work, and within four or five days reduced the intelligent animals to perfect docility and obedience.

NEXT. — The new announcement of L. Lasky, the popular merchant of Lone Pine, will be given in advertising shape next week. "Mike," the resident representative of the concern, has gained a general success in his business.

LEFT US.—After having picked type and kicked presses at a successful rate for the past month, Mr. Harry Fontecilla left day before yesterday en route to Candelaria. Good luck attend him, but he should "bevare of the vidders."

RE-APPOINTED. — Judge A. R. Conklin has received from the M. W. Grand Master of F. & A. M., of California, a commission of re-appointment as Inspector and Deputy Grand Lecturer for this district—Inyo and Mono.

A TREMBLER. — At 9:30 P. M. last Thursday Bishop Creek experienced quite a rattling earthquake. It was not noticed here. Must have been the echo from one of Mr. Yerington's railroad trains.

EXIT WINTER. — And now the fruit trees and willows begin to bud and bloom again. Due and timely warning is hereby given that odes to the beautiful Spring are declined in advance.

TAX SALES.—Out of the 142 pieces of property advertised as delinquent, the Tax Collector managed to sell four—the balance reverting to the State under the absurd law of the case.

SUPERVISORS.—The Board of Supervisors will meet next Monday, to receive proposals and award county contracts for the care of indigent sick and the boarding of prisoners.

SUPERIOR COURT. — In the Superior Court, February 28, Anna M. Banker was granted a decree of divorce from Henry Banker, with "absolute alimony" of $100.

POSTMISTRESS. — Mrs. M. B. Horton has been appointed P. M. for Round Valley. She will be the pioneer lady government official of this side of the Sierras.

OF INTEREST.—Some important facts in the way of mining matters can be gleaned from our Big Pine and Bishop Creek correspondence this week.

IN TOWN. — Harry Burt, Henry Grover and a lot of other Big Piners were scattered about Independence to-day.

TO BEVERIDGE.—Geo. Storey is upon another visit of inspection to the Keynot.

LODGE. — Regular meeting of the F. & A. M. lodge at the Hall to night.

IN ORDER.—Trimming trees is in order just now.

BISHOP CREEK, March 1.

One of the most pleasant and enjoyable of the many parties held in Bishop the past few months took place last Monday evening. The occasion was the celebration of the eighteenth birthday of one of our most estimable young adies, Miss Josie Hughes. The attendance was unusually large and represented people from all the surrounding towns, including Lone Pine, Independence and Big Pine. Dancing was indulged in at Hutching's hall and supper was partaken of at Swearingen's Hotel. I will not attempt to do justice to the supper with my pen, but those who saw me will bear me out in the assertion that I did so with a knife and fork. The young lady received the congratulations of her many friends, and all expressed the wish that she may live in joy to celebrate many birthdays. The festivities were kept up until four o'clock, when the tired participants retired to their respective homes.

A large load of provisions, hay, etc., left for Beveridge last Tuesday, consigned to the Laura Mining Co. This company is putting up a 5-stamp mill on the Laura mine, and they expect to have it completed in about three weeks. One of the interested parties who was in town several days this week exhibited numerous specimens of very rich ore, and reports an abundance of the same kind in sight. A contract has been let to a party of Indians to build a road from Waucoba to the mine, for six hundred dollars, and as soon as it is completed a much larger force of men will be put to work on the mine.

W. A. Irwin, superintendent of the Poleta mine, arrived in town last Sunday and returned to Bodie yesterday. Work upon the Poleta has been entirely suspended, at least for the present. This sudden shutting down of this mine has caused a feeling of disappointment to spring up among the residents, who expected great results from that source as soon as Spring opened. However, many are of the opinion that the suspension of active operations is only temporary and that work upon the mine will be resumed again with renewed vigor in the near future.

The preliminary arrangements are completed for a match race between the well-known local flyers Black Harry and Brown Abby. The race will be for $200 a side, distance 440 yards, to be run on the first day of April. Black Harry is under the skillful training of James Moraty and the wants of Brown Abby are cared for by her old trainer Jim Ross. The race will undoubtedly be one of the most exciting that has taken place in the valley for many months, and it is expected that considerable "yallar money" will change hands.

STRAY GATHERINGS.

Mr. Julian has challenged the county to play whist... Eggs retail at 25c per dozen, while chickens are not to be had at any price....It is said that Paul Myrtengreen has found an old tunnel in the White Mountains that several parties have been hunting for for fourteen years....Mr. Will Davis, editor-in-chief of the Times, takes the "cake" as the best-looking man in town .... We have got the boss private detective. He recently found out that 3783 chickens were stolen the last month.

BILL.

Big Pine Business.

BIG PINE, March 1.

MONTEZUMA.

Big Pine is at present somewhat despondent. The Montezuma mine has suspended operations. Various reports are in circulation as to the cause; there is one truth, the mine has "shut down." Bishop had her Poleta, Big Pine her Montezuma. The result is contrary to all public expectations, with the exception of a few professional croakers who knowed that would be the way. The hope still remains that some enterprising company will develop the mine and realize profit for their pains.

BASE BALL.

The young men here have organized a base ball club, with Crittenden Hampton, President, Chas. O'Connor, Secretary; Richard Hessian, Treasurer. According to the Times the Bishop Creekers propose to take the conceit out of this club. They are welcome to all the conceit they can take, for they will not get much of that commodity, even if they take it all.

MINIMS.

Who is Innocence? Well go on old boy, but I'll find you out yet....Arly Mairs passed through town to-day.... A reliable person from Bishop informs me that Tom Crough is to be married Sunday, March 5th....Cris. Engle has returned from Saline Valley. He says he has not seen even an empty bottle since he left Big Pine....Grub away boys! It will limber up your muscles for base ball .... When, oh when, will you give us lessons?....'Heavyset' got lost last week in a boot, causing considerable anxiety to the boys. He says the boot was a big one.

WADE.

THE case of W. W. Barnes, charged with assault to murder L. E. Tubbs, was brought up before Judge Briggs on Monday. District Attorney Miner and L. E. Tubbs appeared for the prosecution, and G. N. Whitman and J. L. Greeley were assigned by the Court to conduct the defence. Out of a venire of twenty-five jurors, but eleven were found qualified. The Court ordered a special venire of thirty-five returnable on Wednesday at 1 P. M., to which time the case was continued. — Free Press, Feb. 28.

THE first through train of the Carson and Colorado Railroad ran into Candelaria March 1st, at 8.15. Over three hundred people were at the depot to greet it. Much enthusiasm was manifested and as the train reached the depot cheer after cheer was given with such hearty will that the sides of old Candelaria hill fairly reverberated. The town was excited and the successful advent of the railroad and water is the topic of the hour.

Deep Springs Siftings.

The Half Dollar boys are vigorously prospecting their mine, and she is looking well. Experts from Nevada examined the property last week. John T. Erwin is superintending the work. Sam Chalmers declares that the railroad will ere long unearth the treasures of the Trade Dollar. Mr. Fuller, formerly from Vermont, is assisting in the development of the Half Dollar mine. M. J. Byrnes is lingering at Gilbert's. N. Gilbert is no longer a Government official, the postoffice at his place having been discontinued. Mr. Elisie, of the noble Bourbon house, is still prospecting the Mayrock mine. Maurice Burke comes to the front, saying that he has discovered another Golconda, with millions in it. May your shadow never grow less, pardner! Mr. O. K. Berry is exploring the bowels of Mother Earth on Cottonwood. Messrs. Greenly & Broder are in the enjoyment of fine health. Jordan and Black are extracting some fine ore from the Oriental.

With the approach of Yerington's steam wagons, this great mineral belt of the White Mountains will before long become the favorite field for mining investments. BASALT.

Feb. 25, 1882.

THE appointment of Sargent to a foreign mission will not be looked upon by his friends as a very successful outcome to his claim for a seat in the Cabinet. There is no doubt that Arthur greatly desired to place him at the head of the Interior Department, but the adverse pressure was too severe. Sargent may be satisfied with the fine plum of the Berlin mission thrown to him, but the logic of his failure to receive a Cabinet position unquestionably shows that he has come out of the contest discomfited. We are of the belief that the President promised Sargent a Cabinet portfolio, and in our opinion a better selection could not have been made for Secretary of the Interior, notwithstanding the newspaper howls which so weakened the Executive.

UNDER the decision of the Postmaster-General it is understood that all mail contracts in California for which Boone, Salisbury and Cabell, members of the straw-bond ring of contractors, were the lowest bidders, will be withheld and readvertised or awarded to the next lowest responsible bidder. Contracts were not awarded until March 1st. All of these men were indicted for straw bond frauds. Between them they have nearly 100 routes in California, besides several thousands in other States obtained in the same way. The department holds that their bonds are worthless. The Aurora and Independence contract, let to Salisbury for $10,300 per annum, is among those thus busted out.

WE are in receipt of the Weekly Standard, published at Santa Ana, Los Angeles county, by T. S. Harris. The publisher was years ago an employé of THE INDEPENDENT, manager of tnd Panamint News, proprietor of the Darwin News, and subsequently of the Bodie Standard — consequently well known throughout this region. His present paper is admirably gotten up, editorially and as to typographical appearance. In a leading article the editor makes a pertinent point wherof we know only too well—that the demands upon time, work, worry and attention of a job printing office in connection with a country journal causes the newspaper part of such business to suffer in various ways.

IF the complaint made by Sergt. Mason—the guard who tried to kill Guiteau—be true, some of the authorities at Washington are apt to get themselves very much disliked. Mason says that he has been confined in a dark, rat-infested cell since last September, and he is naturally at a loss to understand the Government's discrimination in favor of the assassin, who has been entertained like a retired prince ever since his cold-blooded murder. Mason didn't kill anybody, but Guiteau did; and it may be that the former is being punished for his shockingly bad marksmanship. On that score perhaps he deserves, after all, a little harsh treatment.

SMALL-POX has been declared epidemic in the United States. It appears to be very widely distributed, and of a malignant type. A quarantine station has been established on the Central Pacific Railroad, to protect California as much as possible. This is one of the times when it is no misfortune to be a little away from the great lines of travel.

A FATAL dispute occurred at Haverly, Neb., on Sunday evening over the spelling of a word. If incorrect authography is to be a cause for indiscriminate slaughter, nine-tenths of us had better emigrate.

THERE is not a single vessel under construction in any of the ship yards on the St. Charles, Quebec, this season. It is almost the first time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant that such a thing has happened.

THE Northern Pacific Railroad Company will, in the Spring, have one or more light-draught steamers on the Yellowstone.

A COUNTRY must be pretty well to do that can buy between eight and nine million dollars worth of diamonds and precious stones per annum. The importation into the United States has now reached that magnitude, against less than two million and a half per annum ten years ago. The fact is significant as showing not only the increase of the national wealth, but also the development of luxurious tastes on the part of a portion of the people. The only trouble is that the more the national wealth increases the more unequal is its distribution. While a few of the people of the republic are able to import diamonds by the handful, the great mass of the population is finding it harder and harder to make a living, and in every city of the Union there are occasional deaths from starvation. The people who do the work that creates the weath are not those who import the diamonds.

THE end of the track of the Carson & Colorado Railroad reached the point where the station is to be Monday last. The main and side tracks have since been laid to the Vanderbilt dump and a trifle further for use when switching. Material for building the warehouse, offices, waiting-room and round-house is rapidly arriving. The scene about the station is one of considerable activity, and some rapid work is being done putting up the buildings above mentioned. There is quite a coincidence attached to the first locomotive which came here, it being the Candelaria, the same one which has been used in the construction of the entire road from Mound House. Trains will begin running regularly on the first of next month. Freight will arrive for delivery and be received for shipment as soon as the warehouse is finished.—True Fissure.

MANUFACTURING monopolists have had their own way in the United States for twenty years, and have amassed vast fortunes at the expense of the people; but they are by no means willing now to surrender their special privileges. Their advocates in Congress are willing to sacrifice every interest but their own, and now, when a high tariff is no longer necessary to provide for the expenses of the government, they are trying to reduce the taxes on whisky and tobacco, rather than give up the imposts which bear so hardly on the people. Protection robs everybody for the benefit of a few. The few, however, have managed to make a good many people believe that it is a blessing to be robbed for their benefit.—Virginia Chronicle.

THE water of the White Mountain Water Company began running through its pipes Feb. 25th. The people are jubilant at the assured success of this gigantic enterprise. Its influence will be very materially felt in Columbus Mining District, the near advent of the Carson & Colorado Railroad assisting such feeling in a great measure.—Bodie Free Press.

SATURDAY, MARCH 4.....1882

Bishop Creek Items.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

Things are at present very dull in and around town, in fact, dull enough to please the most chronic croaker, who is always teiling about the town going to the dogs. When we take into consideration the amount of money that has been drained by taxes, the lethargy and apparant stand-still of business is easily accounted for. In the course of a few weeks this will no longer be felt, and then we shall have some brisk times.

Tom Jones, of Round Valley, was in town last Tuesday. Speaking of his carp, he said one year ago last Sunday he made the first "plant" of fish in his ponds. It was only an experiment then, but has proven to be a successful one, for he now has many thousand of them. Fish that was six inches long one year ago are now eighteen inches in length, Next year Tom will be able to supply the whole country with fresh fish.

Thursday night about 12 o'clock, as a Spaniard was walking on Main street, he was fired upon by a man standing in the alley between Van Epps' store and the restaurant building. He quickly drew his pistol and fired two shots at the attacking party, but it is not known whether he was hit or not, as he ran away. It is supposed that the object of the attack was robbery.

Hall & Kinkead are purchasing a number of horses to take to New Mexico. John Clarke sold them thirty-nine in one lot. They have also purchased Black Harry, the race horse. They expect to take two hundred horses and start in two weeks.

Curt Ober says he killed sixty-nine quail in less than four hours near Big Pine last Saturday, one at a shot. George Storey, who was present when Curt related the above, insisted on swearing him.

H. M. Yerington told Paul W. Bennett that he was going to blow his whistle in Bishop before the 1st of September, and that the road was sure to go on the west side of the river.

Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Clarke immersed two young ladies who have recently embraced the Baptist faith. The ceremony was performed at the creek near town and was witnessed by a large number of people.

There is rumor in circulation that a 20-stamp custom mill will be erected on the river east of town before long.

THE important mining decision rendered by Justice Miller in the Circuit Court for Colorado, was recently referred to as having reached the point of final review by the United States Supreme Court, is to the effect that no mineral land patent can be legally issued for more than 160 acres, and that if a number of original locations have been consolidated into one claim, each of the locations must be treated as a distinct claim and advertised and proved up, with proof of separate work upon it. This decision, if sustained by the Supreme Court, would, it is said, destroy two-thirds of the patents heretofore issued for mining claims, and make the securing of patents for most of the old claims impossible, because of the impracticability of making proof of old locations, and because in most instances, separate work has not been done on the old locations which have been consolidated into larger claims. Thus a shaft sunk into a consolidated claim has been held for work done in every part of it, but the Circuit Court judgment overthrows that principle. The appealed case has been twice argued in the Supreme Court and its forthcoming decision is awaited with great interest.

A FEW days ago, while the fly-wheel of the Winchester Arms Manufactory was revolving so rapidly that the spokes were indistinguishable, the engineer noticed a white blotch revolving with it, but supposed it was merely sunlight revolving with it, he at first made no investigation. Two hours and a half later he noticed that the white streak was still there, and having stopped the engine, he found to his amazement that the apparition was a substantial white cat which had been clinging to one of the spokes since the wheel started. She was very much exhausted, and the numberless revolutions had made her cross-eyed.

A GENTLEMAN from Sutro informs the Gold Hill News that times are very dull there. A number of families are moving away. Others remain only in hopes that at the annual meeting of the Tunnel Company, which occurs March 6th, orders will be issued to drive the tunnel through Mt. Davidson. Should this not be done, two-thirds of the inhabitants of the place intend leaving.

THE experiment of manufacturing furniture from the wood of the blue gum tree is being made at the State Prison. If the wood is found to answer the purpose, ihe blue gum forests of California, will gain in value immediately. At present the blue gum is used for fire wood only. A gum tree ten years old will cut into fire wood worth from $10 to $12.

THE proposed extension of the Sutro tunnel westward is still being discussed. Should the tunnel be carried further into Mount Davidson, it is not impossible that discoveries might be made which would upset present mining theories, and cause a "west-ledge" excitement on the Comstock.—Stock Report.

AN Irishman wrote thus to his wife of a sick brother: "If Jamie isn't dead yet, remoind him of the twenty shillings he owes me on the pigs, and if he is, tell him not to give himself any consurren about it."

IN Virginia City the stores accept deposits of mining stock as security for accounts of goods. A man can draw a sack of beans against five shares of Alta, with interest at two per cent. a month.

Show Your Mine.

My friend, if you own a mine and want to dispose of it, for anything like a respectable figure, open it up. You may be as poor as an Arizona editor, but if you have health and strength you have the capital which nature gave you, and which you can always apply. Don't you forget the pertinent fact that because you have discovered a ledge and sunk a "pot hole" on it it is a mine. By no manner of means. Unless it shows extraordinary richness it is a proposition of very indefinite value; and even a merchant, looking at the matter from a business point view, might object to advance a sack of flour and take it as collateral. But if you should use a little muscle and go down 80 or 100 feet, you might strike something that would enable you to patronize two-bit saloons, go to "Yurrup," and move in the very highest circles for the rest of your days.

Remember that you've got to eat grub while in camp, and that a little exercise polishing the head of a drill, will give you a good appetite. But above all things, remember that you can hardly give away a prospect in the Eastern market. If you think you have got a mine open it up, and our word for it, if you can show a fair property, with reasonable development, you will not have to wait long for a buyer.

Therefore, we advise our mining friends to give up the insane idea which some of them possess, of selling prospects for thousands of dollars. You can't do it; and you might hang on to them till you see the century out, before you will find any man who will give you a small fortune for a coyote hole. We have some experience in that line ourselves, and reliable data from the mining centers of the East enables us to assert as sample facts, what we have here written. So, boys, pitch in; develop your mine and muscle at the same time, and in the days coming, when the "solid man" from the East comes to look at your claim, you can show him a mine and not a gopher hole. —[Prescott Miner

THE man who finds something in a newspaper that doesn't suit him, and straightway concludes he will break it down by withdrawing his patronage, had his attention called to the following bit of philosophy, which is floating about on journalistic high seas: "There is nothing speculative in a well-established newspaper property. A newspaper is hard to build up, but it is proportionately hard to pull down. It is an aggregation of atoms, and its segregation, under the most favorable circumstances, takes years and years. The fact that it depends on thousands of customers for success is its protection. No two groups of men think alike and what displeases one set pleases another. Even imprudent management cannot seriously injure a newspaper, so long that it does not tread on the toes of too many of its readers at the same time. Where it loses in one direction it gains in another."

Shooting at Royalty.

As the Queen of England was entering her carriage on the evening of March 2d, a man who gave his name as Roderick McLean, deliberately fired a pistol at her. There was a large crowd of spectators awaiting the Queen's arrival at Windsor. The Queen walked across the platform of the railway station to a carriage which was in waiting to take her to the castle. John Brown had already ascended to the seat behind the carriage when a man standing at the entrance of the station yard, among the spectators, pointed a pistol at the carriage, and fired. To judge from the report the pistol was not heavily loaded. The Queen, who was probably not aware of what had happened, was immediately driven to the castle, but before she passed the man had been seized by the Superintendent of the Borough police who was standing by. He was also violently seized by the crowd and only rescued when three or four policemen came to the Superintendent's assistance. The pistol was captured by one of the crowd. McLean, who was miserably clad, was taken into High street, and thence conveyed to the police station in a cab.

THE press of California is unanimous in expressing the opinion that Judge Rosenbaum of San Francisco is mainly responsible for the cause which led to the shooting of attorney Murphy in his Court; and at the same time all the papers deprecate the bad habit which, through the slackness of the Courts, has become a custom among shyster lawyers—that of badgering, abusing and insinuating that witnesses are swearing to a falsehood, or that their characters are not such as to justify any one in believing them; and they all express a hope that the Courts will inaugurate and forever maintain a reformation in this regard. The public have often been disgusted with the imbecility of Judges who allow such wrong-doing in their Courts, and if the bad practice is not put an end to the public itself must work out the reform by refusing to re-elect any Judge who does not protect witnesses from the abuse of these poor little lawyers who have resource to the shameless trick.—[Sacramento Bee.

DR. HUGH J. GLENN, of Princeton, Colusa county, who only has a small farm of 80,000 acres fronting twenty-five miles on the Sacramento river and extending back five miles, 60,000 acres of which are in grain, principally wheat, the present season, finding his operations restricted through an insufficiency of land, has rented and intends to summer-fallow the Montgomery tract, in Tehama county, consisting of 10,000 acres, twenty-five miles distant from his little home place. In addition to grain raising the Doctor is planting out 300 acres of grape vines, but whether for wine or raisin making purposes we are not informed. Everything on the ranch works with clock-like precision under Pike Gupton, the general Superintendent, with H. J. Hite as foreman. Those of our Hamilton township ranchers who have been plowing with their reams on the ranch the present season speak in high terms of the management of the extensive farm as well as of their treatment while there.—[Butte Register.

IN considering the size of the proposed Miller Park it was observed that Tulare county is consideradly larger than the State of Connecticut, which naturally leads to the subject of large counties. Nye county, in Nevada, according to a recent authority, is the largest county in the United States, containing 24,000 square miles. Next comes San Bernardino county in California, with 23,000. This State is reported to have four other counties each as large as Massachusetts; three, each larger than Connecticut; and fifteen others each larger than Delaware. It doubtless seems a rather big thing to the Congressmen from these diminutive States to quietly vote a park of the proposed size.

INCREASED mining excitement is observable all through the New Mexican mining camps, and mining machinery and supplies are crowding all the thoroughfares leading to them.

Heat in Silver Mines.

If there is to be found anywhere in the world, says the Virginia "Enterprise," a set of human salamanders, we may claim the credit of having them on the Comstock. What would scorch men who live wholly on the surface, chills the miners who are inured to the lower levels. A miner who has been for some months past working in one of the hottest sections of the Comstock, a few days ago gave an "Enterprise" reporter his experience of the heat which miners are often called upon to encounter. He says that in working at points where the thermometer marks a temperature of 115 to 120 degrees great thirst is experienced. No ice water is too cold to be swallowed with a relish. Men go to the water-barrel, in which huge chunks of ice are floating about, and will take their picks and chop up the ice in order that the water may be rendered cooler by being filled with small fragments. Often this does not satisfy them, and they chew up and swallow the ice. The natural temperature of the human body is about 97 deg., Fahrenheit. Therefore, when a man remains in a hot place for an hour, or even half an hour, his blood and even his whole body becomes heated to a temperature of 115 deg., 120 deg., or whatever the temperature of the place where he is at work may be. It is then that the miners begin to pour down the water and eat ice. The strangest thing about the business is that it does not hurt any of the men. Often they swallow such quantities of ice-water that their stomachs will not retain it, and in vomiting it up it will feel cold in their mouths and against their teeth. All they do on such occasions is to swallow some more, but more cautiously.

JUDGE E. R. PORTER, of Rhode Island, in declining to hear the Sprague divorce suit, wrote: "I wish to say now that if either party chooses to ask for divorce on any ground affecting the moral character of the other, some other Judge must hear it, and the parties must be at the trouble to secure his attendance, as I have long been a neighbor and acquaintance of both."

ONE of the miseries of journalism was illustrated last week. A Nevada paper printed a balmy editorial on the advent of Spring, and before bedtime that night the thermometer dropped to twelve degrees.

RELOCATIONS.

The late decision of Chief Justice Waite, of the United States Supreme Court, regarding the law of re-locations, in a case in error to the Supreme Court of Montana, has attracted much attention from miners and others interested. It is too lengthy for publication, but the gist of the matter is, that a location or a re-location made before a former claim becomes forfeit, under the United States Mining Laws is invalid, and that it does not become valid by reason of the subsequent forfeiture of the ground by a previous locator. It has been the custom among some of the mining districts in this county to re-locate mines before former locations on the same ground had become forfeited, the re-locator assuming it for granted that his claim would become valid in case the former location subsequently became forfeit. It will be seen from this decision, that no amount of labor or expenditures applied in subsequent years can make a valid location out of a relocotion that was invalid in the first inception. If we are not misinformed there are several valuable mining claims held in Beveridge and Cerro Gordo districts by re-locations that are invalid under this decision, the Hidalgo and Oceola mines for example.

LAST Saturday, made a legal holiday in this State by the Governor's proclation, was the occasion of great mass meetings in all the principal cities and towns throughout the coast, effecting a grand and unanimous anti-Chinese demonstration. It was certainly a notable expression of public sentiment—and some of the ringing resolutions and stirring speeches made will pass into history as mementoes of America's struggle for life at this epoch. It is gratifying to note the energy and commanding ability of our Coast Senators, in the Congressional fight, over the effete theorists of Massachusetts and thereabouts. Senator Hoar ought to be domiciled in a Chinese wash-house or opium den for a while — not too long, but just enough to learn him a little practical sense concerning "the universal brotherhood of man."

IT is to be hoped that in the coming State election the two political parties may chose the right kind of candidates. Of the score of aspirants for the Governorship, there are two men standing out most prominently as thorough anti-monopolists and able statesmen. On the Democratic side we refer to Gen. Stoneman, of Los Angeles, and as to the Republicans to Morris M. Estee, of San Francisco. Either one of these gentlemen, without having the other to contend with, would sweep the State. But were both nominated there would be general rejoicing, and everybody—except Stanford & Co.—would be satisfied whichever way it went.

THE people livtng on tne banks of the Mississippi below Memphis are to be pitied. The river has flooded their lands for hundreds of miles, and the destruction of stock and loss of property, as well as the loss of life, are terrible. The poor are starving, and those who can are escaping from a scene so harrowing. It is a genuine year of calamity with the people living on the lowlands bordering the Western and Southern rivers.

IT speaks well for the Chinese bill that it has found an advocate in Senator Edmunds of Vermont, recognized as the ablest lawyer in the Senate. He is conservative and wishes to reduce the time for restricting immigration to ten years, but he recognizes the justice of California's demand that a non-asssmilative people be excluded from her shores.

THE declination of the vacant place on the Supreme Bench by Senator Edmunds followed close upon that of Conkling. It keeps off the Bench a very able lawyer and an upright man, who is at the same time a bitter partisan. All in all, it will be well if as good a man gets the place.

MOVED by the tremendous stories told of the mineral weaith of New Mexico, a correspondent suggests Baron Munchausen for Governor, and Eli Perkins fos Sebretary of that Territory.

NEARLY 50,000 persons are believed to be destitute, owing to the floods along the Mississippi.

AN Indian outbreak at Taos Pueblo, N. M., resulted in two Deputy Sheriffs being fatally wounded.

OUT of thirty-three men who sailed on the Jeannette only thirteen are known to be living.

IT is rumored that the U. P. and C. P. railroads are to consolidate.

AN OLD PROPOSITION RENEWED.

We give place this week to a communication from P. W. Bennett, Esq., one of Inyo's oldest and best known citizens, who was among the organizers of this county. It will be perused with much interest, as it lucidly sets forth some of the reasons why a most important change should be made in the the political fortunes of this part of the State of California, especially as to Alpine, Mono and Inyo counties.

A little history in regard to this matter, which we propose discussing at length in the future, may not be out of order now. The writer was intimately associated with the State officers and members of the Legislature of Nevada at the time of the inception of the idea of the segregation and annexation of this territory, and subsequently participated in an action upon the subject by the California legislative session of 1873-4.

December 18, 1871, the Governor of this State received the following joint resolution from the Legislature of Nevada, which was unanimously adopted by that body March 2, 1871:

WHEREAS—In the establishment of boundaries naturally and geographically defined lines are generally preferable, and should be adopted rather than artificial ones, in the separation and erection of communities into independent governments; and,

WHEREAS—Manifest and great injustice is done by the adoption of artificial instead of natural division lines between States, especially when the latter are well defined, as in case of a river, or mountain range; and

WHEREAS—So much of the State of California as lies east of the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains belongs, as it were, naturally to the State of Nevada, and the people inhabiting such territory are accustomed to the transaction of their business abroad chiefly in this State and would therefore be better accommodated if such territory were annexed by cession to this State; and,

WHEREAS—The Act of Congress of March 2. 1861, organizing the Territory of Nevada provides that the boundary line between Nevada and California may be established by the Legislature of the latter State, on the ridge separating the waters of Carson Valley from those which flow into the Pacific Ocean;

THEREFORE, Resolved, by the Senate and Assembly of the State of Nevada, conjointly, That the Legislature of the State of California be, and is hereby most respectfully requested and urged to cede to the State of Nevada, all the territory of said former State lying east of the summit of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Resolved—That His Excellency the Governor of Nevada be, and is hereby requested to forward a certified copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution to each, the Governor of California, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the Assembly, immediately upon the meeting and organization of the next Legislature of said State.

The foregoing, duly attested by the proper Legislative officers and signed by the Governor and Secretary of State, were received by Gov. Haight and transmitted to the Legislature of 1871. December 19th the matter was referred to the Senate and House Committees on Federal Relations, and was there buried for that session. In the one following, during Gov. Bradley's presence at Sacramento, Gov. Booth submitted, February 9, 1874, the resolutions quoted above. On this occasion the Speaker referred them to the several delegations of the "border counties," consisting of Nevada, Placer, El Dorado, Alpine, Mono and Inyo.

There was sufficient strength in the argument then to accomplish at least one point in favor of Inyo and Mono—that of gaining for ourselves one joint Assemblyman, in order that this isolated region of California might thereafter be properly represented, although then lacking nearly 5,000 of the necessary population to so entitle us under the Constitutional requirements.

However, about the close of that general Dolly Varden trouble, a majority of the delegations submitted a report from which we extract the following:

"That they have carefully considered the subject matter set forth in the preamble to said resolution, and fully concur with the same, so far as relates to the preference of natural boundaries over artificial lines, in the separation of communities into independent governments; and that great injustice is often done by the adoption of artificial instead of natural division lines between States. But your committee cannot, so fully, concur with the views of the Legislature of the State of Nevada, to the effect that it will inure to the great benefit and accommodation of any considerable number of the citizens of the State of California to change the fixed boundary line between us and our sister State, to the uncertain meanderings of the summit of the Sierra Nevadas. And when we take into consideration that the present boundary line has become well understood, a change, in the opinion of your committee, would only tend to confusion and prove detrimental to the public good. We therefore recommend that no further action be taken in the premises."

To this was submitted a supplemental report, which, in the light of the developments of the past eight years, appears to have been a little too too. It is here reprinted; however, to make the record complete:

"As the memorial under consideration was submitted to the present Legislature mainly at my suggestion, it having received no due attention at the hands of the previous one, I deem it not improper for me to supplement the report of the delegations to whom the matter was referred, by one relating more particularly to the counties which lie entirely within the territory in question, and which I have the honor to partly represent—Inyo and Mono.

In the Constitutional Convention of this State, the boundary question was the most hotly contested one of the entire session, the debates thereon occupying more than a week's time. It was repeatedly declared that the summit of the snow-line of the Sierra was the undoubted natural western boundary of the proposed State. But the ascendant political issues of that day somehow seemed to dictate the formation of a State line much further west than that finally adopted, which was agreed to as a compromise.

Upon the admission of the State, Congress left the matter open to the further consideration of the Legislature. Since, however, by the formation of Nevada, the National Congress has, by authorized surveys, twice fixed the boundaries as they now stand.

In the opinion of the underigned, a fair majority of the people of the two counties desire the change, but the question has never been agitated sufficiently to excite a well defined expression. A tenable reason for a change has been that hitherto the people have been practically unrepresented in this Legislature, but such will be no longer the case under the operation of the new apportionment.

The chief and only exports of the counties are the mineral products, and bullion is heavily taxed by Nevada.

Considering that no such tax is imposed by California, in a business point of view there can be but one conclusion, i. e., the inconvenience of isolation and other disadvantages not necessary to recapitulate at length, can be better borne by said counties than they can assume political and geographical place within the Silver State.

Our State government of the future can but rely on the immense natural wealth of the counties in question for a considerable proportion of her revenues, and from this standpoint, the proposed cession would be too ill advised to be seriously contemplated."

The reports, of course, settled the proposition adversely. Subsequent to that, the passage of the bill chartering the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad Company left some hope that this section would eventually become a part, through commercial intercourse, of Southern California. But after the investment of a million or more dollars (by Nevada men) in the enterprise, it was foiled by the apathy of Los Angeles cent. per cent. money sharps and the overpowering Central Pacific monopoly. It then remained for these counties to join Nevada, where they naturally belong, as evidenced now by the steady approach of a Nevada railroad. Under the workings of the new Constitution an insane war has been wraught against capital and mining, to the detriment of Inyo and Mono and other mining counties, as regards their special and chief interests.

Though not now yielding dividends, the Comstock is not "played out," and the vast mining resources of the southern counties of Nevada, Esmeralda, Nye and Lincoln are known to be like Mono and Inyo, simply waiting for development. They can be best developed by joining a State the interests of which require no clashing laws. Even if Nevada is small as to population and variety of resources, we would "rather be the head of a mouse than the tail of a lion."

Referring again to Paul Bennett's communication, we would say that the subject is one of great interest and quite a debatable matter. Let the public hear about it from all sides, through these columns.

The Outlook.

All the indications point to the coming Summer as a period of extraordinary activity in the rich mineral region of which Homer District is the central gem. Negotiations are now pending, and with a certainty of success in some cases and a flattering prospect for all, for the transfer of no less than thirteen mines and groups of mines in this district to the hands of capitalists abundantly able and willing to open them at once and work them all the year round. This will involve the erection of one large and certainly three and perhaps five small mills and one reduction establishment the exact nature of which is not yet known here. Several new arastras are also talked of, while all those now in existence will be actively worked. A great deal of work is planned for the season in both the hydraulic and quartz (copper and silver) mines of Jordan District, three miles east of us, while Tioga, our big neighbor on the southwest, will be literally swarming with men engaged in mining, prospecting, putting up and running machinery, building roads, manufacturing lumber, etc.—Homer Index.

THE railroad, having shortened up the length of the stage route the distance of the eight miles between Candelaria and Belleville, changes the dedeparting time for Columbus to half past eight o'clock each evening; or, in event of the train being late, the stage will leave half an hour after the arrival of the train. Passengers for the south and southeast will arrive here at eight o'clock each evening, and those intending to take the train will have to remain over night.—True Fissure.

THE Piutes of this section take a great interest in the approach of the railroad. Recently one of this tribe traveled from Gold Mountain to Belleville for his first view of a train of cars. After taking a ride on the Carson and Colorado he returned home, and when questioned about his trip became very much excited, giving a glowing account in Indian fashion, winding up with, to him, a knock-down, closing argument: "Him beats hoss."—True Fissure.

DIVISION AND ANNEXATION.

BODIE, CAL.,
March 4, 1882.

To the Editor of the Inyo Independent: DEAR SIR—The summit of the Sierra Nevada mountains is the natural boundary between the States of California and Nevada, and it appears to me to be a matter of the greatest importance to the residents of California on the eastern side of the Sierra Nevadas and north of Walker's Pass to have the actual boundary line between the two States established on the summit of the Sierras.

It must be apparent to all that the portion of California which lies on the eastern side of the Sierras and north of Walker's Pass is cut off by nature from the remainder of the State. Situated as we are geographically we are entirely isolated from the balance of the State, and much the largest portion of our people can only reach Western California, or California proper, through the State of Nevada. For this reason alone, if for no other, our interests would be subserved by severing all the territory east of the Sierras and north of Walker's Pass from California and annexing the same to Nevada.

But there are other and much stronger reasons why we should seek to be severed from California and annexed to Nevada. Our interests are not the same as those of the people of California on the eastern side of the Sierras. That section of the State has become essentially an agricultural section, while our section of the State in entirely a mining section, for all the agriculture we have is dependent on the mines, and without the mines our agriculturists would be entirely without a market. The State of Nevada is chiefly, and I might say almost entirely, a mining section, and her interests and ours are identical. It cannot have escaped the notice of the most casual observer that the tendency of legislation in California for many years past, and especially for the last five or six years has been strictly to foster the farming interests of California, and to crush, hamper and load with onerous burdens the mining industries of the State, or to ignore such industry and its interests entirely. The farming and cow counties of the State being populous have absolute control of us and our interests, and legislate for us, and do so in every case to our injury and for their own benefit. They are unfriendly to us and to the industry we depend upon almost exclusively for our support. They have forced upon us a constitution that cripples us and causes us to be unfairly and unjustly taxed and controlled. We are without a representation in the State legislature of any practical value, for our population on the eastern side of the Sierras entitles us to but one representative in an Assembly consisting of eighty members, and we practically have no representation at all in the Senate, for invariably our Senator is a joint Senator with counties west of the Sierras, and resides in the agricultural region and knows nothing concerning us or our interests, and is controlled entirely by the interest that is adverse to ours. There is no possibility of a change for the better, in respect to legislative representation in the future; but, on the contrary, there is every probability that the representation to which we will be entitled will be less, for California west of the Sierras increases in population faster than in our section. If our section of country, consisting of Inyo, Mono and Alpine counties and that part of Nevada county east of the Sierras was annexed to the State of Nevada, we would have a representation in the legislature equal to about one-sixth of the whole State, and would then be able effectively to take a part in making the laws of the State. If we were annexed to Nevada we would then have a system of taxation of mining claims based on the proceeds of the mines, which would allow prospecting on non-productive claims to be carried on. Under our present system such prospecting is crippled by means of taxation of claims that have nothing but a speculative value, that represents nothing but the hopes of their owners. We would also have a judiciary system which would have all the good points of our present system without its curse of a Court always in session, the only purpose of which is to keep up a continual litigation and harass jurors and the public generally. One Court in session for six months in the year in either county is ample to dispose of all the business in the county. If we were annexed to Nevada our Supreme Court and United States Court would be at Carson City, within easy reach from any part of our section of country, thus saving us much time and expense in attending on the Courts at Sacramento and San Francisco. Our interests being the same as the balance of the State of Nevada would always be safe and we would never be in any danger from legislation adverse to us. It may be conceded that Nevada is poor and not populous, and being conceded, it affords the stronger reason why we should unite with her, for we too are poor and our country sparsely populated; joined as we are to the rich State of California, we are powerless to help ourselves, and must be submissive slaves to the people of the agricultural counties and be governed by them. I am entirely in favor of a union of our section of country with the State of Nevada, and cannot find any nutriment in the vain-glorious boast that we are a part of the great State of California. What advantage is it to us to be a part of California? Are we anything but serfs obedient to the will of our masters on the other side of the mountains? We can by joining Nevada be as free and independent as any part of that State, having a voice as loud as any in the making of the laws, and can obtain a better system of government in many respects, and at less cost to us than at present. If there is any way in which we can sever from California and join Nevada shall we not do so, if we wish to act wisely? I have stated but a few of the good reasons why we should do so. It appears to me that a great majority of the people must see that it would be of great advantage to us. If we wish to leave California and join Nevada, I believe that it can be accomplished if we work with unanimity of effort. I shall not at present indicate in what manner in my opinion we should proceed, but if it appears that the mass of our people view the proposition as I do, I will in a future communication outline a proposed course to be pursued by us in order to effect a change.

I apply to you as the pioneer news- of our section of country to present this matter to the people, and to publish this communication in your paper. Yours, respectfully,

P. W. BENNETT.

Unexplored Nevada.

The Reno Gazette, in speaking of a recent trip of Dr. Waggoner through Southern Nevada, says he went from Candelaria to Armagoza in a buckboard, as there is no communication with it at all. It lies 135 miles southeast of Candelaria, and has no mails, no hotels, nothing but a few prospector's cabins. From Candelaria to Lida Valley there are a good many people. From Lida Valley down there is nobody till the Armagoza Valley is reached. There are four or five prospectors there. There are good roads with no hills to get over. He found good prospects, but nothing more than assessment work had been done. Water is found sufficient to make good stations. The borax deposit he went to see lies at the mouth of Furnace creek, in Death Valley, which lies over the Armagoza mountains, west of the Armagoza Valley. The valley is overrun with prospectors looking for borax, etc. He found that the deposit he was after had been picked up by W. T. Coleman, of San Francisco, for a song. He will have to wait for future developments before he can get it into market, as there is no railroad within two hundred miles. Dr. Waggoner has other good prospects in view that he is going to see. Death Valley is 150 feet below sea level. It is about one hundred miles long and forty miles wide, running north and south. It gets its disagreeable name from the great number who perished there in early days. It has no surface water, but by digging three or four feet anywhere, water is plenty. There is no vegetation at all. The Panamint range lies west and the Mojave desert south of it.

IT is confidently expected that Patterson Mining District will in the near future produce more bullion and have more population than Bodie, and the indications point strongly in the direction of Pattersonville, its town. The Summer's mill is producing $1,200 of fine silver bullion per week, and this from five stamps and one pan, on ore scratched from the surface. Two more pans are to be put in, which will increase the yield.—Bridgeport Chronicle.

PERSONAL MOVEMENTS.—Hubert D. Gelatt left for Los Angeles last Monday. Herb Wells, with six horses ahead of Gelatt's Concord coach, engineered that institution, which was "loaded to the guards," while Gelatt drove along with his fine buggy team. Vale....W. T. Grant, somewhat better known as "Billy Grant," has set out on a prospecting trip to Calico....Judge Duncan Campbell returned from Los Angeles the other day, after a months absence in that country. He has put out some 10,000 vines on his place there; and intends making that county his permanent home .... Mr. Richard and Denny Hessian, of Big Pine, are on a trip to Darwin and Lookout....County Surveyor Seely is in from a trip to Beveridge; he has his opinion of traveling on foot through the unusually deep snow which lies on the summit of the Inyos....Assessor Irwin is off to the northward, armed with three thousand poll and property tax receipts, statements, etc., with the fell intent of inflicting them on the people....C. McVicar, the Bishop Creek jeweler, is "taking in" Southern Inyo....Dr. C. C. Wainwright, from the Bishop Creek swamps, was in town for a day or so. ....Geo. Storey, it is said, has rushed off to Calico, having joined Grant en route....Messrs. McKnight and Coldren, returned the other day from Bodie, looking up their mining matters. Isaac Harris, of Messrs. H. & R., started this morning for San Francisco, by the Northern route.

THE GOLD MINES.—We condense the following information, obtained at a late hour to-day, into one item: In the old Palma mine at Cerro Gordo, recently purchased by San Francisco parties, Supt. Wheeler has opened out a compact ledge of from three to five feet of splendid ore. It will be remembered that this mine is one of the oldest gold properties in the county, and has yielded yellow nuggets. An assay of average looking ore went $1,127 per ton. The work of hauling the first 50 tons to the Hawley mill on the Lake has been commenced....The Keynot new strike has set the owners on their financial pins again. Three or four miners have taken out about 150 tons of very high grade ore, and a train of sixty pack mules has gone over to keep up supplies and transport the rock to the Taylor mill. County Surveyor Seeley is authority for stating that the ore will average $500 per ton, some of it going much higher in free gold.... Oscar Stickney, this morning, brought in a quantity of gold rock from his claim on Badger Flat, near the summit of the Inyo, opposite Chrysopolis. It shows free gold and "horns out" well. He has opened the mine—the Muskingham—by a shaft 70 feet deep, which he intends to run 30 feet more before crosscutting the ledge, which is 20 feet in width.

OLD INYOITES. — V. A. Gregg, Esq., after circulating about from Inyo to Kern and Arizona, has located at 434 California street, where he is engaged in law practice. In a letter under date 6th instant he gives the following interesting personal notes: "I notice Mr. Reddy at work in his office, 330 Pine street. Mrs. Reddy looks quite young. They stop at the Lick House. Mrs. Rhine and family are well. Mrs. R. looks as young as she did eight years ago. Wingard is getting well of his broken leg, and will represent some capitalists opening up the mine near the Brown Monster this Spring. You may look for him in April. Mining men talk of a bright future for Inyo mines and mining investments; talk of it being the coming mining section. Railroad making it attractive. Judge Reed has an office at 402 Montgomery street. Judge Griffith, of Alpine, is with him in business."

MINING VISIT. — Supt. Jas. Cross, formerly of Mammoth, at present in charge of an extensive mining work at Candelaria, accompanied by Mr. Andrews, another experienced mining man, were in town yesterday. They took a look at some mines across the river and will probably inspect several other properties before returning home. Mr. Cross gives positive assurance that the Carson and Colorado railroad management intends to push the road to and through this valley with all practicable speed, and says that the work is going on now as fast as possible. It is a pleasure to note the visit of such a practical man as Mr. Cross, and to add that he was specially interested in Mr. Woodhull's cabinet of Inyo county ores and minerals. The party went north yesterday.

THE WEATHER.—Just at this outlook it would appear that the entire season is to pass without a drop of rain or snowflake to fall upon the valley lands hereabouts, rendering the ploughing business difficult and doubtful of accomplishment in time. The fruit trees look as if astonished at things generally: and have concluded to leave out blossoming until they leave out green, sometime next Summer. During the last day or two the Sierras received a white snow coat, and on the summit it is reported to be very deep.

ILL.—Dr. W. H. George, we are sorry to record, is having a very serious time of it with a very severe attack of inflamatory rheumatism. The disease was contracted while he was in the army, years ago, and at times during the present attack he has been unable to move in bed, and suffers intensely. He is cheerful, withal, and now claims that he—or his medicine—is getting the best of it.

FISH. — John Shepherd received last Monday a lot of fine fish from the carp ponds at Round Valley, to stock a pond on his place. In a year or two the Shepherds and Kisperts at George's Creek and the Stevens place at Lone Pine will be popular places to visit—and eat fish.

For each patient in excess of the average per head per day $1 25. And in all particulars to conform to the published notice inviting said proposals. TEHACHIPA, March 1.

After leaving what we imagined to be the last place on the habitable world and traveling some 200 miles along the Owens River Valley through Lone Pine, Cartago, Olancha, Hay Wee, (Morning Dove), Meadows, and Little Lake, we stopped at most of the important places, especially at Pap Walker's. I suppose you have heard of Pap. Well, Pap's a brick; 'tis needless to say more. Remained at Mohave two days on account of bad weather. From thence we made tracks in the direction of Calico mountains, but failed to connect. However, we stopped at the old Buck Horn ranch, in a densely populated settlement bordering on one of the finest lakes you ever saw, especially about 10 o'clock, A. M., when the sun chauces to shine. Then you see almost anything the mind may imagine. The lake is some twelve miles in length and about six in width, and lying some twenty miles east of Mohave. I had almost forgotten to mention that the inhabitants of this vast and extensive plain are coyotes.

Mohave at present has a prosperous appearance, being full of railroads and railroad men, surveyors, graders and track layers. In fact, all the various branches of the different railroads are being prosecuted at the same time. Two more roads are branching in the same direction in an easterly course, both intent on reaching the Needles in Arizona. The Atlantic & Pacific have a great many men employed surveying through the different passes among the mountains, the A. & P. running through the same pass as the S. P. northerly to the summit; thence in a westerly direction through Cummings Valley. From thence through Tejon and Rancharia cañons, passing through the Big Monte on the Beal reservation. The average grade is 90 feet to the mile, while the grade of the Southern Pacific has a grade of 118 feet to the mile. The grade is much easier, and has one of the finest views of Kern Valley that can be imagined. The view appears from the heights near Chenaco, near Tejon cañon, the route passing within twenty feet of an almost perpendicular hight of 2,000 feet, where you have a beautiful view of Tulare, Kern and Buena Vista lakes. These facts I learn from G. O. Newman, one of the engineers of the Atlantic & Pacific road

The mining interests of Kern county are looking bright. Those of Judge Colby have been purchased by the Hirshfield Bro's., of Bakersfield and Tehachipa. In the Long Tom mining District, some 25 miles northeast of Bakersfield, on Posey Creek, they have a 10-stamp mill, which is running under the supervision of Mr. Webb, an old resident of Kernville. The ore pays $40 per ton, and there is about 400 tons on the dump. There is a contract unlimited for more ore at $4 per ton, timbering the mine included. The price paid for the mine in the way of trade was $100,000. The Yokum mine that there was much trouble about a few years ago, when Tucker and Johnson lost their lives, is being worked with good results. Also some new mines lately discovered are developing fairly. Take everything into consideration, the Owens River country has a fair rival in the Posey District in the way of mines. The farmers are still hopeful. A very little more rain will give them fair crops and outside pasturage will be fair. The entire country in and about Bakersfield and surrounding mountains is overrun with sheep. C. A. P.

SENATOR FARLEY has reported from the Committee on Commerce their recommendation of the passage of the bill erecting our harbor into a port of entry. The bill will probably pass, and our facilities for the transaction of foreign commerce will be greatly increased.—L. A. Express.

MESSRS. BENNETT & REDDY, the well-known attorneys of Bodie, have let a contract for the repairing and fixing up of the building adjoining the Court House, now occupied by W. J. Vernon as a carpenter shop. It will be used by them as a law office during terms of court.—Aurora Herald.

Letter from Bishop Creek.

Many are the ludicrous incidents that take place in the Justice courts of this State, and in all probability our Justice court of Bishop Creek has more than its share of such incidents. In a recent case that was being tried, one of our attorneys assured the Court, that in case a certain proposition was decided against him, he would speak for three hours on the very next question. The Court informed the deciple of Kent that he would not allow such prolonged arguments, but was assured by the attorney that he would entertain the Court in such a forcible manner that he would not think of attempting to stop him. However, the attorney did not have an opportunity to forcibly entertain his Honor, but after the case was dismissed was himself forcibly entertained by a pugilistically inclined granger, whom the said attorney had bullyragged while on the witness stand. For this unlawful act the amateur pugilist tendered ten dollars to the Court, which was refused. He afterwards plead guilty to "battery," and was fined in the sum of $25.

From Chas. Hollenbeck, Superintendent of the Laura mine, I learn that the mine is looking well and that the mill is being completed as rapidly as possible. An extra force of 20 Indians have been put to work on the road now being constructed from Waucoba to Saline Valley, and as soon as it is completed work will be commenced upon the rich extensions of the Laura.

BIG PINE, March 8.

The friends and acquaintances of Mr. Steve Gregg and wife, assembled last evening to do honor to the tenth anniversary of his wedding. A large assembly were present, and various were the momentoes of tin ware that added brightness to the already joyous occasion. Dancing was commenced at an early hour, and kept up in good earnest till daylight. To do justice to the ladies, the supper was truly excellent. The dancers seemed unwearied in keeping time to the melodious strains of the string band, led by Curt. Ober, a skillful violinist. All seemed to enjoy themselves and were reluctant to bid adieu to the nicest dance of the season. Now, Steve, all your old friends join me in wishing you and your wife well-being in the time to come. We all hope that the tin in forty years of future may mellow into gold and prove a happy golden wedding.

"May freedom, harmony and love,
Unite you in the grand design,
Beneath the Omnicient eye above,
The glorious architect divine."

EYE-TEMS.

The Big Piners offered the Bishop Creekers a chance to take the conceit out of our base ball club. We sent them a challenge to play for a purse of $25, a ball and bat. They quietly backed down and surrendered their laurels. "Big Pine against the world." ....Johnny Irwin was caught carrying off two pie plates, and a tin handkerchief. We will attend his tin pan wedding some of these days. He awoke this morning dreaming that the angel of resurrection was blowing in his ear with a tin horn....He said he would take sugar in his'n, and he took some. ....Yes, my dear young man, raspberry syrup is intoxicating.

Bishop Creek Items.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

The Big Pine water ditch is nearing completion, and after one month's more work upon it will be ready to receive its water. The ditch was commenced four years ago by an associated company of ranchers, who have devoted their spare time during the Winter months towards its construction. The ditch takes its water from Owens river, some five miles north of the settlement, and will furnish the ranchers in the southern part of the settlement with water. The ditch is two feet in depth, six feet wide at the bottom and twelve feet at the top, with a fall of eighteen inches to the mile. Several years ago it was thought by many that Big Pine Creek had sufficiwater to supply all demands for years to come, but the growth of the settlement and extent of cultivation has been so rapid that the farmers have been compelled to draw upon the river for an additional supply. They deserve and no doubt will reap a rich reward for their enterprise.

A race has been made between Black Harry and Brown Abby, two of our local racers. John Hall is backing the former and Bill Gill the latter. The race is to be a quarter of a mile dash for $200 a side, to be run over the Horton track, April 1st, each party to ride his own animal. One-half the money is already up as forfeit, the balance to be put up the day of race. The horses are receiving the very best of training, and the race, no doubt, will be an exciting one.

The ball given on the 22d ult. by the employés of the Indian Queen M. & M. Co. was certainly the grandest affair ever given this side of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and will long be remembered as such by those who participated. Hawthorne, Candelaria, Benton, Independence and Bishop Creek were all represented.

A very heavy shock of earthquake was felt Thursday evening at 8:45, lasting about ten seconds, and frightening a great many out of their houses.

Levi Garrish has left for Benecia, where he has been offered a good situation by his brother who is a contractor at that place.

IT may not be generally known, but cotton is successfully raised in the southern part of Nevada. The raw material is sent to St. George, Utah, where there is a factory. The valley of the Muddy river, in Lincoln county, is well adapted to growing cotton. On the Virgin river, a tributary of the Muddy, it does well. All the cotton fabrics worn by settlers on the Virgin river are woven by the St. George mill, from cotton raised by the farmers themselves.—Carson Index.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 11.....1882

A LADY of Little Rock, well-known here as highly reliable and truthful, has written a lady of this city a statement certainly the most wonderful on record. It is in substance this—that a lady of her acquaintance in the same city — young, newly married and beautiful — gave birth to her second infant when the first was only nine months and two weeks old. In six months more a third was born, and bnt a month later a fourth also appeared among the living. The lady writes that the children were all full grown and healthy, and that the mother and children were objects of singular interest, attracting many visitors. Four children at four separate births, treading on the heels of each other with sixteen and a half months. The lady and her connections are among the most respectable of the citizens. We give it up, Arkansas can take our hat. We shall hereafter have to confine ourselves to bragging on quality and not on quantity. If Napoleon was right, when, in answer to Madame D'Stael, "who is the greatest woman on earth?" he replied, "she who raises the most soldiers for France," then, we think this lady is the greatest of all in the South, if not in Arkansas, and deserves a larger pension than any other. Let the Arkansas Legislature look to the pension. — [New Orleans Times.

A ONCE prominent railroad has gone out of sight. Work has been suspended on the Eureka and Colorada railroad, and will probably never be resumed. We have an idea that this road was part of Gould's system in his bluff at Stanford, Huntington & Co., and his differences with these parties being healed, the construction of the road has been abandoned. For the present, the Utah system and the Carson and Colorado Railroad will fill all the needs for north and south lines connecting the Southern and Central Pacific Railroad systems. Thus does White Pine county, Nevada, see its railroad boom vanish into thin air, and the sage-brush ranches of that section, that were to make their owners rich when the railroad reached them, will now revert to their original possessors, the jack-rabbit, the coyote and the Shoshones and Goshutes.

AN interesting point of law is likely to be involved in the discovery of rich carbonates by the graders of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, on Battle Mountain. The contractors claim the right to the mine on the ground that the laborers were in their employ, while the laborers themselves claim that they were simply to grade the line, and that the prospecting done was on their own account. Perhaps the railroad company itself will put in a claim, on the ground that the contractors make theirs; and if so, the arguments adduced by the contractors in defence may also serve the purposes of defense for the graders. On the whole, should the strike prove a mere "pocket," the actual profits will be likely to be absorbed by the capacious pockets of the lawyers.

A DISPATCH from Salt Lake represents the Mormon leaders as very much frightened over the action of Congress on the polygamy question. John Taylor is no such man as Brigham Young. Brigham, instead of appealing for mercy, would have taken the pulpit in the Tabernacle and defied the Government to do its worst. He would have quietly remarked that Congress was the spawn of hell and told his people that all the Federal hounds this side of that locality could not harm a hair of the head of one true Saint; for the Lord would interpose and do battle for his chosen people with a flaming sword and other ancient weapons. Taylor is more politic than Young, and plays Uriah Heep instead of the bully.

IT is 227 miles from the Needles, on the Colorado, to Mojave station. The proposed railroad extension will pass through an immense mining region, of vast extent and richness, and will open up the borax leads of San Bernardino, besides mines of silver, lead, gold and copper.

THE Chinese invasion is commencing in active earnest. The Oceanic arrived Wednesday night from China bringing 1,062 coolies. Two other vessels are expected to arrive within fourteen days with 1,800 of the servile laborers.

THE ice on Washoe lake is so thick that between it and the mud on the bottom there is hardly room for the catfish to wiggle their tails.

A NEW YORK correspondent of the San Francisco "Post" has the following to say regarding parties who arrive in New York with mines to disposo of: Every door is closed against him, or slammed in his face and in some offices a notice is stuck up alongside of "no peddlers allowed," "no matches wanted," "no mines wanted." For a man to arrive at a hotel with a valise and a bag of specimens is to insure his being looked at askance by the young gentleman with diamond studs and sand-papered head, and be put under the roof or in a dark closet of a room, with the coal scuttles. His bill is presented at the end of the week with great promptness, and if not as promptly paid is fired out. In some of the hotels, the Sturtevant particularly, the accumulation of quartz samples has led Louis Leland to think seriously of erecting a 10-stamp mill in the subcellar, and try to pound out the bills of the millionaires who left them as "collats."

IT is stated that a movement is on foot to amend the mining laws of New York so as to permit shares of mining organizations to be assessed.

A BABY in Ohio that was fed on elephant's milk gained twenty pounds in one week. It was the baby elephant.

ARIZONA, it is estimated, will output 15,000,000 pounds of copper during the present year.

ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF LAST FEBRUARY the undersigned stocked a pond with young Carp, measuring from 3 to 5 inches long. Those fish, within ten months, have attained a length of from 15 to 18 inches. Some spawned early, while others spawned late in the season, and the result is a lot of YOUNG CARP, varying in length from 1 to 8 inches.

The old Carp, also the small fry, are reserved for the present (having lately stocked five ponds myself), while a limited number of young fish, from 5 to 8 inches long, are for sale at the following prices:

The Panama Canal.

A correspondent of the New York "World," writing from Panama, gives a very unfavorable account of the condition of the canal works. Death has been very busy with the engineering staff, as well as with the laborers, and the feeling among the contractors is depressed. There has also occurred a serious hitch in the pecuniary arrangements, and it has been found necessary to discharge most of the workmen, though the engineers are still drawing high salaries and doing nothing. There is much dissatisfaction as to the progress of the financial management. The second instalment has not been paid in yet, and the prominent banking firms which were to have been connected with the enterprise are showing a disposition to draw out of it. In fact, the general state of the undertaking is so bad that its collapse would surprise no one who has watched its progress so far. The genius of M. DeLesseps seems to have failed him at the pinch. Possibly the recent heavy drain upon the purse of the speculative French public may have given a "set back," but that alone will not explain a languishing condition. It is evident that there is not sufficient European confidence in its future to cause the shares to be taken up briskly, and us the outlook does not grow brighter with the lapse of time it is quite possible that the gigantic project may after all have to be abandoned or at all events suspended.

Old England.

England is the monarchial bulwork of Europe. Other thrones, principalities and powers crumble or change; but old England goes on like the march of time. She has been a place of refuge for many and many a crowned head. A recent writer, in commenting upon this fact says that at this moment the Empress Eugenie finds a home there, and so does Don Carlos. Louis Phillippie and Louis Napoleon died there. The present Emperor of Germany, in 1848, found it convenient to stay there, and when Bunsen's daughter placed an armchair for him at the table, pushed it aside, saying that humility was the order of the day, and took an ordinary chair. Ex-Chancellor Count Andrassy taught music in London, often not knowing where the next meal was to come from. Victor Hugo found an asylum in Jersey, Guizot in London, Count Saffi at Oxford, and Louis Blance at Brighton. Bismark has not yet found himself an exile, but as it is notoriously the unexpected that happens, it is worth his while to have a near port of refuge always open.

THE London "Times," in its obituary of Auerbach, mentions as one of his greatest achievements "the translation into German of the complete works of Schopenhauer."

OSCAR WILDE is said to have been completely carried away with Niagara. This will be cheering news to thousands of American homes.

The Diamond Drill.

The diamond drill is now one of the best and most useful tools used in our mines. All Pacific Coasters will remember the howl that was raised when the diamond drill was first taken into the lower levels of the Comstock. Indeed such a row was kicked up about it that the drill was secretly taken into mines and run on the sly. In those days the miners themselves (for reasons of their own) were not very friendly to the diamond drill. It was then thought to be a great thing for use in finding out ore bodies, but it was not long before not a few discovered to their cost that the drill for such use was very unreliable.

The great use of the diamond drill is now acknowledged to be not in hunting for ore, but guarding against water. When the drill has been run ahead and the ground to be passed through probed for the distance of 150 to 250 feet, the miners feel perfectly safe in banging right along on a drift.

In most of our leading mines such great depth has been attained that it is very dangerous to push on into unexplored ground with a drift. Bodies of water are liable to be reached that stand under such pressure that the whole face of a drift may be forced in and a torrent of scalding water poured out. In the event of such an accident occurring the men could only run for their lives to the nearest shaft or winze. In not a few situations loss of life would be almost inevitable. Suppose for instance, that the men drifting on the 2,700 foot level of the Ophir or Mexican should tap a flood of water, what would become of the men at the bottom of the winze on the 2,900 foot level? The men out in the drifts on the 2,900 foot level would be scalded to death—cooked by the hot water and steam—almost as soon as the flood began to tumble down into the winze.

But for the fact that they know that the ground into which drifts and crosscuts are being thundered with huge blasts of giant powder have been thoroughly probed with the diamond drill, there are many places in all our mines into which it would be almost impossible to induce men to go. When a man has descended a winze 200 or 300 feet, then has moved out in a drift from the bottom of said winze 500 to 700 feet, it is not pleasant for him to think that by a blunder made on a level above a small river of scalding water may suddenly be seen pouring down and cutting off his only means of escape.

It would be impossible to get along in our mines at their present depth without the diamond drill, as all mining men know. Miners know this as well as do superintendents and feel just as friendly toward the diamond drill, once such a bugbear and by so many considered a swindling tool invented either by Jim Fair or the devil.—[Virginia Enterprise.

JUDGE MAJOR of Kentucky recently related the following story of Santa Anna, the Mexican dictator. "Did you ever hear," he said, "that he was a Kentuckian?" I confessed that I never had. "Well, that is believed by many old people about Frankfort; I have heard it from boyhood. It is believed that Santa Anna, afterwards President of the Mexican Republic, was an illegitimate son of one Nat Sanders of this county. While a youth he went to New Orleans on a flatboat, and was never afterwards heard from. When captured at San Jacinto in 1836, he was brought through this place on his way to Washington, and was recognized by the Sanders, who recognized him as their long lost relative.

"He did not deny it. He spoke English with a Kentuckian accent. One of the Sanders had determined to kill him, on account of the death of a relative in the massacre of the Alamo, but abandoned his purpose when he was convinced that they were blood relatives. The mother of Evan E. Settle, of Owenton, was a Sanders, and he bears a marked resemblance to the pictures of Santa Anna. Larkin F. Sanders, representative from Carrol county in the present General Assembly, belongs to the family, as did the noted G. N. Sanders, who figured so prominently in politics during the administrations of Pierce and Buchanan."

An Item in Cable Work.

The following is taken from the "Times of India": "During the repairs of the telegraph cable near Bombay, the steamers Chiltern and Great Northern were about half a mile apart, the former having hold of a shore end cable; the latter having hold of a sea end, and so was in telegraphic communication with Aden. The Chiltern desired the Great Northern to splice on to the cable end held by the latter, and pay out three-quarters of a mile of cable, and this was communicated by wire from the test room of the Chiltern, passing through all the coils of cable in her hold and on to Bombay, whence it was sent on to Aden, and back from Aden to the Great Northern. Thus, as a speedy means of sending a message half a mile, it was forwarded by a route four or five thousand miles long. The following morning, when the vessels were within a quarter of a mile of each other, communications passed between them constantly in the same way."

A MAN was once before the late Judge Kent, of Maine, on a charge of having burglariously entered a lumberman's camp and stolen clothing and money. The witness for the Government testified that he saw the prisoner's head, right arm and shoulder thrust through an opening that he had made in the cabin, and that the stolen articles disappeared with them. Here the prosecution rested. Whereupon the prisoner's counsel went to the jury gravely protesting that there was no case, that to make out a charge of burglary the prosecution must prove the entrance into the room of the whole man — at least the larger part of him; the feet as well as the head must have been within the cabin. Judge Kent instructed the jury to return a verdict of guilty to the extent which the evidence would warrant. After a brief absence the jury returned a verdict of guilty against the prisoner as to his right arm, right shoulder and head, and the Judge sentenced the arm, shoulder and head to the State Prison for two years. The prisoner might do with the remainder of his body as he pleased.

IN its primary aspect a painting has no more spiritual message than an exquisite fragment of Venetian glass.—[Oscar Wilde.—Indeed, a "fragment of Venetian glass," well shaped, can hold a "spiritual message" that would put any painting to the blush.

SATURDAY, MARCH 18.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY JAMES E. PARKER.

IT will be well known, of course, to all of our readers ere this, that the anti-Chinese immigration bill has passed the United States Senate, by a decided vote of nearly two to one. The record shows only one Democrat voted against it, and only eight Republicans in its favor. In the shape in which it goes to the House it provides that after the lapse of ninety days after its passage until the expiration of twenty years the coming of the Chinese laborers to the United States shall be suspended. It prescribes a penalty of imprisonment, not exceeding one year, and a fine of not more than $500 against any master of any vessel that shall bring any Chinese laborer to this country during that period. It further provides that the classes of Chinese excepted by the treaty from the prohibition (such as merchants, teachers, students, travelers and diplomatic agents) and Chinese laborers who were in the United States on the 17th of November, 1880, shall be required, as the condition of their admission, to produce a passport from the government of China personally identifying them and showing that they individually belong to one of the excepted classes. It is provided also that no Chinaman shall be naturalized by any Federal or State Court. The entire Pacific Coast delegation in the House are endeavoring to unite upon some plan to force the measure to an early vote, with some prospects of success. The outcome of the matter is fraught with immense results, for weal or woe, of the people of this State. We believe that white supremacy will be maintained at all events, but the people have been patient and hope for legal relief by the passage of the bill.

CANDELARIA has recently been put in communication with the world at large through the medium of another telegraph line. The last one is that of the Western Union Company, which was completed to the depot of the Carson & Colorado Railroad on Monday afternoon. Though the end is too far from town for immediate use, yet it will command a considerable amount of business, such as goes beyond the end of the Nevada and California Company's line. An office will probably be established down town, and then competition will be open between the two lines mentioned.

IF the reports are not exaggerated the floods in the Southwest are the most destructive known for years. A situation more deplorable than that of the small planters of Arkansas and Mississippi cannot be imagined. Helena, Ark., has been converted into a tented field, and is the refuge of thousands who have been driven from their homes and who are on the verge of starvation. Fortunately, supplies may be dispatched to their aid with little trouble and it is to be hoped that the waters may soon subside.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says: Senator Jones' speech, which was wholly extemporaneous, is universally regarded as one of the ablest Senatorial efforts of recent years. It was listened to by a full Senate with close attention from beginning to end. At the conclusion, Jones received an ovation of congratulations and compliments from the Senators on every hand, including even Hoar of Massachusetts, who had been made to suffer the most from his quickly showered blows of relentless logic and good natured attack.

A SUCCESSION of earthquakes occurred at Merced Monday, February 6th. They continued a number of seconds, and were so heavy as to cause an unceremonious adjournment of the Superior Court, in the midst of an important criminal trial, the judge, jury, attorneys, officers and prisoners rushing pell-mell down stairs and out in the court house yard. At 1:57 two quite severe shocks of earthquake were felt at Santa Cruz, lasting several seconds. Shocks were also felt at Gilroy, Monterey and Watsonville.

ACCORDING to a report in the Virginia Chronicle it is proposed to lay another water pipe from Marlette lake, in the Sierras, to Virginia City, a distance of 28 miles, to supply the deep mines with pressure for pumping by the hydraulic system. It would cost about half a million dollars and such an enterprise being undertaken does not go to show that capitalists have altogether lost faith in the future of the Comstock.

THEY think now that Sammy Tilden would make a good run for the Presidency, as he can run up and down stairs without being fatigued. The old man has his good eye on Washington while the other is cast on the country at large.

GOLD AND SILVER.

It would probably be difficult for a just body of legislators to give a satisfactory reason for the discrimination that is made between the gold and silver mining interest. A miner may go on a placer claim and, with the primitive implements of his profession, a shovel and a pan, wash out ten thousand dollars in gold. Another miner may locate on a silver vein, and after expensive and tedious work, succeed in opening a mine. Costly machinery and buildings must follow; at last, he secures ten thousand dollars in silver bullion. Both miners travel together to the United States Treasury. The miner with the gold is presented with a check for $10,000 in gold coin, and makes an even exchange of $10,000 in gold dust and nuggets for $10,000 in gold coin without any expense. In other words, his gold is coined free, and returned to him. The miner with the silver presents his bullion and learns that he cannot get it coined, nor will the government purchase his silver. He is compelled to sell it where he can find a purchaser for about $8,600, or at a loss of about $1,400. The government then purchases of the dealer, this same silver, paying $9,000 and coining it, sells it to the people for $10,000. These are substantial facts that cannot be gainsaid, and it would be exceedingly difficult to find any justice or equity in such a manner of procedure, which is authorized by a Government of intelligent people. The use of the costly and expensive machinery and force of the mints of this great Government, are given to the gold miner free of cost, while the profits, to the mints, on the coinage of silver, up to the present time are given at $10,000,000, which has been paid by the silver miner. Add to these outrages on the silver miner, the fact that the Government practically refuses to receive again the silver which it has coined at a profit, and sold to the people the demand to increase this scheme of robbery by taking twelve or more grains of silver, in addition to the present excessive weight to make the dollar which is then, to all intents and purposes, excluded from the currency, and some idea of the burden under which the silver mining industry of this country has been developed, may be comprehended.

THE Boston Transcript's financial article of March 10th says: The Boston stock market opened this morning with great strength and sharp advances in all popular securities. Atchison stock, which sold yesterday at 79, opened at 84. Sonora railroad bonds, which were 84 yesterday, and closed last night at 89, opened to-day at 94; and Mexican Central bonds jumped up 3 per cent. These advances imparted a strong tone to the entire bond and stock market. The cause of these sudden changes in the market was the consummation of railroad negotiations affecting all Boston railroad interests in the Southwest and Mexico. After two days negotiations the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company has purchased the Sonora Railroad, and secured an independent line to the Pacific. The contract of sale provides that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe shall guarantee the interest on the first mortgage 7 per cent bonds, and issue one share of the Atchison stock for two shares of the Sonora stock. This gives the Atchison road a valuable property as guaranty upon the bonds, provided the subsidy is fully paid. The subsidy paid and to be paid to the Sonora road amounts to $2,608,200 in gold, while the Atchison road gives but $2,700,000 in stock at par for the Sonora stock. This purchase gives the Atchison system an independent Pacific coast outlet, and completes the longest continuous line of railway in the world.

SPEAKING of the numerous strangers now paying visits to Los Angeles, the Express says they find "that it is impossible to find a vacant store; difficult to rent a residence of any kind," and "almost a hopeless task to find a vacant room anywhere." In the next column or two is a dozen "loud" advertisements — "For Sale or Rent;" "Rooms to Let," "House and Lot for Sale," with some "Lovely" ones in the market besides.

THE events of the last few weeks have put beyond doubt or question the policy of the acting President. He is an avowed candidate for a nomination and election to the office he now occupies. All the energies of his administration will be exerted to compass these ends.

THE engines on the Bodie and Mono Lake Railroad are named Mono, Inyo and Tybo. Now, let them complete the extension and put on the Como, Coso, Yolo and three or Fomo'.

DAVID DAVIS, the heavy weight Democrat, has climbed the golden stairs. At least he can not run for President down here. He voted against the Chinese bill.

SUNDAY LAW.

The Supreme Court has passed affirmatively on the constitutionality of the so-called Sunday law, which compels observance of the Sabbath, to the extent of suspending all secular business on that day. It would seem that there is nothing left but to obey, or incur the penalty of violation; but the fact nevertheless remains that the law can not be enforced. For years it never has been fully carried out even in old Connecticut, and can hardly be enforced in a State like California, where people like to do pretty much as they please, believing that days were made for men and not men for days. In San Francisco and Los Angeles the respective Chiefs of Police have given notice that they will promptly arrest all parties who violate the law. If it is proposed to enforce the law at all, it is much better that the officers take the business in hand than for citizen or set of citizens to undertake the enforced reformation of others. In any case, it will result in much work for the Justice's Courts and the lawyers, worriment of witnesses and annoyance of jurymen. It will become so obnoxious as to secure a certain repeal of the statute by the next Legislature.

THE finding of the Court Martial of Sargent Mason, who shot at Guiteau last September, was made public by an order of Gen. Hancock. The Court Martial finds him guilty and pronounces the sentence as follows: To be dishonorably discharged from the service of the United States with a loss of all pay now due to him, and then to be confined at hard labor in such penitentiary as the proper authority may direct for eight years. The order was issued and states that the finding has been approved and that the sentenee will be duly executed. The penitentiary at Albany has been designated as the place of Mason's confinement. Petitions are springing up spontaneously all over the country, praying for Mason's pardon by the President. It is not for a moment believed by any one that he would have been found guilty by any jury, and the sentence is regarded as severe and unjust in the extreme.

THE Supreme Court of this State held, in a recent case sent up from Napa, that Superior Courts have no jurisdiction in cases of petit larceny. It held that according to Section 2 of Article VI. of the Constitution the Legislature was given power to establish Justice's courts and to fix by law the powers, duties and responsibilities thereof, and that the case in question properly came under the jurisdiction of the Justice's Courts. In fine, it was held that the indictment charging the petitioner with the crime aforesaid was unauthorized by law and that he was in consequence entitled to be discharged from custody.

A PUBLIC reception was given at Prescott, Arizona, on the evening of March 12, to F. A. Tritle, the new Governor of Arizona, which was attended by a large audience. The Twelfth Infantry band, from headquarters, furnished the music. The meeting was presided over by the Mayor of the city. Hon. C. C. Beam introduced the Governor in a neat speech. Gov. Tritle responded, pledging his hearty support to the interests of the entire Territory and predicting a brilliant future.

A WRITER in the Esmeralda Herald takes up the division and annexation question under the head of "Under Which King," in which is forcibly expressed the idea that Nevada is willing, but urges the people of the counties to agitate and discuss the question, and wants to hear from Inyo, Mono and Alpine.

THERE is a man in New Orleans, according to one of the papers down there, who hasn't an enemy living—he has killed them all, some sixteen or seventeen. The Sacramento Bee observes that it would require several very large cemeteries, at this rate, to place some of our California citizens on a footing of popularity.

EX-SENATOR SARGENT arrived in San Francisco from the East, March 13th, and was received by his friends at the Oakland Point with an artillery salute and another fire on his arrival at the wharf. He will remain here but a short time, to settle his personal affairs, and then leave for his post at Berlin.

THE Supreme Court has decided that Superior Courts have no jurisdiction over Sunday law cases, and that all such must be heard and determined in Justices of the Peace Courts, the maximum fine for violation of the law being $50. The decision was rendered in a case sent up from Yolo county.

SENATOR JONES' speech on the Chinese question (the last one) was an excellent production. It was sound and had a good effect on the Senate. Jones is one of the ablest men that have gone from this coast in many years.

Expenditures on Mining Claims.

The following is extracted from a decision filed Feb. 25, in the case of Du Prat vs. James et al., in Department Two of the Supreme Oourt of California. It covers several very important points to prospectors, locators and mine owners:

This is an action to recover possession of a quartz mine. Judgment was rendered for defendants, and plaintiff appealed.

It is contended that plaintiff was lawfully in possession when defendants made their location on the mine in question. and that defendants had no right to locate when their locations were made. It appears from the finding of facts, that the parties under whom plaintiff claims, properly located the mining claim or claims in question prior to the 10th day of May, 1872, that the defendants entered upon and located the claims or mine partly on the 1st day of January, 1881, and partly on the 2th day of January 1881; and that they filed for record with the proper Mining Recorder, the notices of these locations, as required by the rules and regulations of miners, within 30 days from the date of such notices. It further appears from the findings, that the defendants made such locations on the ground that plaintiff had failed to perform the labor required by the Act of Congress of May 10, 1872, and the acts amendatory thereto.

The Court found that plaintiff failed to perform the labor or make the improvements thereon as required by law during the year 1880, commencing on the first day of January, 1880, and ending on the 31st of December of the same year; that it was open to re-location on the first and fifth days of January, 1881, on which days defendants made their locations.

It is argued by counsel for appellant, that the location on the first day of January, 1881, was premature; that he had all that day to perform the labor or make the improvements required by law.

The question is not free from difficulty. The act of 6th of June, 1874, extends the time to the first of January, 1875. In Bradley vs. Rice, 13 Maine, 201, in the construction of a conveyance of land, which described a tract of land as running to "Flying Pond," the question was whether the tract ran in to the pond or was bounded by the waters of the pond; the Court said: "To, from and by are terms of exclusion, unless by necessary implication, they are manifestly used in a different sense." The tract of land was held to extend to the pond, excluding any portion of it.

The Court finds that the plaintiff performed the requisite amount of labor on the mine during the years preceding 1880. The finding as to the year 1880 is, that plaintiff "caused three days work to be performed in and upon said claim," but does not find the value of the work performed. We cannot see that the work did not amount to $150 in value. It is not found whether this work consisted of labor performed or improvements made on the claim. Non constat, but it may have been improvements made on the claim worth $150. This Court cannot know judicially whether this work consisted of labor or improvements. For the failure to find as to this worth or value which was in issue, the judgment must be reversed, and the cause remanded that the worth or value of the work may be found by the Court below. In this course, we pursue the practice adopted in Billings vs. Everett, 52. Cal., 661.

Judgment reversed and cause remanded to the Court below, with an order to the Court to find on the said issue on the evidence taken or on such other evidence as may be adduced as to said issue, and thereupon to proceed to render judgment in accordance with the views expressed in this opinion. So ordered.

GEN. FREMONT'S claim to Alcatraz Island is based on the purchase of the same from Francis Temple, in Los Angeles, in 1847. Fremont had then assumed supreme control of Alta California in the name of the United States, and made the purchase in behalf of the Government, on the ground that the island was a necessary military point for the defence and protection for the harbor of San Francisco. The price to be paid, when funds for that purpose should be sent him from the U. S. Treasury, was $5,000. But intsead of sending funds, the Government ordered Fremont home to be court-martialed for mutiny. He claims that he subsequently paid the purchase money himself, and he now insists that the island is his property of right. As the Government has spent more than $8,000,000 in fortifications and improvements on the island, it will probably compromise with Fremont for his title, if it is found to be valid.

FROM Panama intelligence has just been received of an appalling earthquake in Costa Rica. The advices thus far received state that four towns have been destroyed. These are Alajuela, Sauramor, Greece and Heridice. In Alajuela alone several thousand lives were lost. Those left alive there are homeless. The loss of life has been something fearful. Thousands of inhabitants were swallowed up and the destruction of life is widespread.

NEVADA is now the possessor of an Insane Asylum, the Commissioners having accepted the new building from the contractors. The new asylum is the most handsome piece of property in the State, and the total cost to the State will not reach the sum of $70,000. It can safely be said that no public building of its kind has ever been constructed in any State in the Union for such a low sum of money.

PROVISIONS OF THE SUNDAY LAW.

The scope and provisions of the Sunday law held by the Supreme Court to be constitutional, are set forth in the following three sections of the Penal Code:

Section 229. Every person who, on the Christian Sabbath, gets up, exhibits, opens, or maintains, or aids in getting up, exhibiting, opening, or maintaining any bull, bear, cock or prize fight, horse race, circus, gambling house, or saloon, or any barbarous or noisy amusement, or who keeps, conducts, or exhibits any theatre, melodeon, dance house, or other place of musical, theatrical, or operatic performance, spectacle or representation where any wines, liquors or intoxicating drinks are bought, sold, used, drank, or given away, or who purchases any ticket of admission, or who directly or indirectly pays any admission fee to or for the purpose of witnessing or attending any such place of amusement, spectacle, performance or representation, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 300. Every person who keeps open on Sunday any store, workshop, bar, saloon, banking house, or other place of business, for the purpose of transacting business there, is punishable by fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50.

Section 301. The provisions of the preceeding sections do not apply to persons who, on Sunday, keep open hotels, boarding houses, barber shops, baths, markets, restaurants, taverns, livery stables, or retail drug stores, for the legitimate business of each, or such manufacturing establishments as are usually kept in continued operation.

Homer District.

[From the Index, March 11.]

The Lundy and Tioga telegraph line, recently constructed and owned by the Great Sierra Con. T. Co. of Tioga, is the highest telephone line in the world. The line is abont nine miles in length, ascends 4,245 feet from Lundy, crosses Mount Warren divide at an elevation of 12,250 feet above sea level, descends 3,750 feet to Lee Vining Creek, and again ascends 800 feet to Bennett City, which is 9,300 feet above sea level. It works to a charm, every word over the line being clear and distinct, even when the most furious storms are beating against the wire along the lofty divide over which it runs. Government officers connected with the Signal Service are moving in the matter of establishing a signal service station at the Great Sierra shaft on Tioga Hill, an elevation of 10,520 feet, from which point a fine view may be obtained of the San Joaquin Valley and Mount Diablo. The line will be extended to the shaft early in the Spring, and doubtless on to Yosemite, where it will connect with telegraph lines.

THE Mono Lake Hydraulic Mining Company, which had partially susdended work for a few days to repair pipes, etc., resumed active operations again Tuesday. It is expected a clean-up will be made shortly after the return of the Superintendent, who is at the Bay attending to business of interest to his company. In addition to washing, a shaft is being sunk by this company in the moraine just below and east of the mouth of Mill Creek Cañon, which is now down 97 feet, and it is believed the bed-rock will be reached at a depth of 150 feet, where, unless all indications fail, wash gold in large quantities will be found. It is expected that this company will prove an important feeder to the bullion stream which will flow from this camp the coming season.

THE ponderous machinery for the great Sierra Tunnel was snaked up the steep mountain from Mill Creek to the mouth of Lake Cañon without accident. Here the mules employed were withdrawn, and it was decided to use capstans. Two of these engines were constructed, and by the use of block and tackle (double and single blocks up the steeper and two single blocks up the easier grades) the machinery was snaked up to the bridge acros the Lake Cañon Creek, near the coal camp, when the heavy snow storm of Thursday night put a stop to operations for the present. The workmen are comfortably quartered in the toll-house near by, and Manager Kemp thinks he will be able to move forward in a few days.

A New Bee Journal.

INDEPENDENCE, March 16.

Enclosed I send yon a specimen copy of the California Apiculturist, a new paper for bee keepers, which commenced its existence on the 1st of February. Please notice it in THE INDEPENDENT, that bee owners may become aware of the existence of such a publication in their particular interest on the coast. As the first number contained only eight pages, you will observe that it has already been enlarged, and the publishers promise to use a better quality of paper in the future. The California Apiculturist should be read and supported by every farmer who keeps bees, whether on a large or small scale, as he will be certain to learn something from it, and keep up with the times on this subject. Respectfully, WM. MUTH-RASMUSSEN.

THE engines of the narrow gauge road are being overhauled — being repaired and fixed up for the coming busy season. There are three of them, the Mono, Inyo and Tybo. The big mill will start up on or about April 1st, and the saws will be busy till late in the Fall. There is a great deal of work ahead. The extension of the road to Benton and the southern country will necessitate the cutting out of a large number of ties, to say nothing about other lumber required. And the mines of this district will call for lumber and wood. Altogether the outlook for a busy season is good.—Bodie Free Press.

THE Bodie Free Press, in proportion to the town's population, is the best daily paper on the Coast. It has just entered on its sixth volume, prospering all the while.

Attention, Kickers.

A correspondent, having read a few days since an article in these columns from the pen of a young lady, in which the word "kicked" was used, sends the following communication: The use of the word "kicked" has become general in nearly all classes to express dissatisfaction and opposition to any given proposition. It is not generally known that the expression "kicked" has its origin in holy writ. The term is more in use among hoodlums, and was probably brought to public notic through that element. It will not, however, possess the former charm when it is known that verse 15, chapter xxxii., of Deuteronomy, contains the original application of the term in these words: "But Jeshurun waxed fat and kicked." Jeshurun was the name by which the children of Israel were called by Moses, and he uses that expression to convey the idea that Israel having been so prosperous, grew proud and insolent, and "kicked" against the power that had led them out of bondage into a land of plenty. Thus it will be observed that the old prophet was the author of one of our present day phrases. Some of our gospel sharps may "kick" against the interpretation; if so, and there is any substantial "kicking" to be done, we don't propose to work in the lead.—Record-Union.

FORTY men were put at work on Monday morning on the ditch for the line of pipes intended to supply water to the different hoisting works, the towns of Metallic and Candelaria, and the railroad company. Rapid work is being done, the men having advanced from the reservoir past the Lucky Hill, Metallic, Equator, Holmes, Chief of the Hill and Northern Belle mines to a point nearly opposite and above the powder house of the latter company, where a T will be put in. The men are nearly opposite the Enterprise Tunnel Company's buildings this afternoon and will push on to the railroad tank as speedily as possible, leaving the ditch for the water main down into town to be finished later. Pipe laying will be commenced as soon as some blasting is done on the south side of the hill.—True Fissure.

ON the 9th, the trial of W. W. Barnes for an assault to murder L. E. Tubbs, commenced in the Superior Court, Department No. 1, Judge Briggs, presiding. The following was the jury: Thomas Kirkwood, W. T. Elliott, Moses Huntoon, C. H. Crocker, P. G. Hughes, D. C. Evans, J. W. Pew, E. Manton, R. Chapman, H. Given, T. J. Obenchain, and John E. Summers. On Thursday last, after being out three hours, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. — Bridgeport Chronicle, March 11.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, MARCH 18.....1882

THE INDEPENDENCE SCHOOL. — The State school law requires each district to keep up at least a six months' term, whether it may happen to have money enough apportioned to it or not, or else forfeit its apportionment of public school money for the year following. In several instances the Independence school has had to be supported by private subscriptions, to comply with this provision. At present the apportionment is made upon the basis of actual attendance, and not entirely upon the school census of the district, as heretofore. The law further provides that when money is apportioned to any district sufficient in amount to maintain a school for the period of eight months it must be so continued. Under these requirements, and the fact that the Independence district, for the first time in its history, appears to have on hand more money than is necessary for the six months' term, the school will be opened again one week from next Monday, the 27th inst., and will probably continue for six weeks or possibly two months more. Mr. Dan. Crough will continue as teacher, and it will be in order to say right here that all the work necessary to bring about such a condition of affairs is due to Dan himself, as through his own labor and popularity among parents and pupils the school attained such a high percentage of attendance and consequent apportionment of State and county moneys.

SALINE VALLEY. — The well-known salt beds in the low valley just across the Inyos seems to have suddenly jumped into public notice. From the County records we ascertain that one party, headed by Surveyor J. B. Treadwell and J. Wal. Phillips have located and recorded 18 claims of 160 acres each, each claim being taken by eight individuals or company owners. Also, Judge H. Caleff—a former Inyoite generally known throughout this section—has recorded notices of location to the number of seven, each covering the same number of acres and having the same number of joint owners. The latter represents a company formed at Wadsworth, Nevada. The locators claim all sorts of saline properties for the vast deposits of the valley — borax, potash, sulphate of soda and rock salt in inexhaustible quantities. There are found certain indications of nitrate beds, which, if found to be the case, will at least go to show that the Government did not after all waste public moneys in having Saline Valley officially surveyed.

SCHOOL FUNDS. — Following is given the apportionment of the different school funds to the several districts, made by County Superintendent Symmes on Saturday last:

Amount of State School Fund to apportion.....$2,924 95
Amount of State Library Fund to apportion.....248 09

THE MODOCK. — During the past ten days the amount of ore delivered by Robinson's pack train to the Modock furnaces at Lookout has been as follows: From lead mines 43 tons of galena; from Black Warrior mine, 22 tons, and from the Modock mines 77 tons—making a total of 142 tons delivered so far. The car samples average 73 ounces silver. The Modock ore is being hauled in carts. During the next week at least 120 tons more will be out and sacked for shipment. Frank Fitzgerald, the lessee, has twenty-seven miners steadily at work, and says that the mines are all looking better at all points.

CALICO. — Supt. J. L. Porter, formerly of the Union Con. at Cerro Gordo, and who has been successfully running a mine and mill in Calico District, has been lying very ill in San Francisco. Mr. J. D. Hudgin, well-known hereabouts in connection with the Rex Montis and some Deep Spring properties, has gone to San Bernardino to take Mr. Porter's place.

NEW TIME TABLE.—The C. & C. Railroad has changed the running time of trains at several stations, and two new ones, Junction and Candelaria, have been added. The table, as corrected up to the present arrangements will be found on the first page.

IN NEW YORK. — John Ely, we learn from a private letter, is now in New York City. We presume his principal business on hand is that of negotiating the Reynold's gold mines, situated across the river, which he has under bond.

PERSONAL.—Mr. W. F. Davis, of the Bishop Creek Times is scattered about Lone Pine somewhere. He is reported to have had some dainty dimity in charge, and so far has neglected the customary "editorial call."

DULL. — We were about to remark that the town and county generally is duller than the dullest, and money scarcer than the scarcest, so to speak—but the fact is too well-known to require elaboration.

NEW STORE.—It is said that E. Pizer and one of the Cohn Bros., both formerly of Cerro Gordo, are about opening a new store in the Cohn building at Lone Pine.

ARRIVED.—According to the way bill of the Southern stage last night, Supt. Pheby of the Inyo Con. and Mr. Waterman have arrived at Darwin.

IN MEXICO. — The many friends of Dr. P. G. Gelcich will be glad to learn, through a letter to Mr. V. G. Thompson, dated at Hermosillo, Sonora, Mexico, Jan. 30: The doctor says he had a long, tedious journey, beset with many hardships and privations, but his family got there in good health, while his own was improving. We extract from his letter the following: The multitude of parents and relatives disseminated over a vast area, have kept us on the move all the time, visiting over half a dozen villages and old settlements, the best of which is this semi-city, built of unsightly adobes and flat roofs. Houses to rent very scarce, or none at all, and with the best help of many relatives who are looking sharp to find me a house, I am still unsettled, which is very annoying, These people now begin to realize the vigorous push of progress, and if the railroad does not disturb their apathetic slumbers, I do not know what will! The climate and temperature just now are delightful, but the general complaint is that the long summer weather is suffocating and almost insupportable, which is rather discouraging to me. For a California family it is very hard to adopt these customs of life. Time may work a change, but it will be tardy and long. The ferocious Apaches have returned to their bloody feasts in the district of Sahuaripa. The State militia is after them, and they have disappeared in the mountains for a while. The cost of living is four times as high as in California, and the resources are far from being in comparison in any trade or business, with the exception of mining, of which there is many promising districts in the State. As for my future, I would rather go back to California's Southern counties, where I can educate my children and live easier than here.

SOME WEATHER.—That mythical personage commonly designated as "the oldest inhabitant" has become a chronic kicker at the idiosyncrasies of the weather clerk employed for this season. According to the o. i. the long, dry and cold Winter is altogether unwarrantable. He says that at this time last year the peach trees were loaded with fruit large as marbles, whereas the buds are scarcely swelling now. However, it is not supposed that the trees have been injured, but that there will be an abundant crop yet. Ploughing has been greatly retarded and but little of it done, but there is time enough, by crowding things, for that yet. Sunday night last there set in a light rain, which continued at intervals for three days, when not interrupted by the severe cold winds. For about four days and nights there was a continuous and heavy snow fall on the mountains, to the depth of three feet as low down as the Rex Montis mfll. The Inyos are white down to a low snow-line. There will be no lack of water for irrigating the established ranches, provided it don't come down all at once and flood things. The heavy storm must have been quite general, to the extent of blockading the Central and Southern Pacific Railroads, since no through mails have reached here for the past two days. It is cold, clear and pleasant this afternoon, but the aforesaid o. i. will not assume the responsibility of prognosticating what it may be to-night.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The County Board of Education met Wednesday last. There were present A. R. Conklin, President, J. W. Symmes, ex-officio Secretary, and Messrs. Daniel Crough and A. B. Hagerman. But one applicant for teacher's certificate, Mr. C. E. Lindsay, presented himself for examination (at present in charge of the Darwin school), which he passed satisfactorily and was granted a second grade certificate. The Board made a selection of books for the school libraries, and yesterday adjourned to meet June 17th, at which time it will determine upon the further adoption of text books.

FINAL PROOF. — Andy Dell, with his witnesses as advertised, were in town to-day making final proof upon his land location. The Superior Judge, County Clerk and the attorneys interested in such matters are annoyed at the negligence and indifference of the officers of the Bodie Land Office, in not supplying the necessary sets of blanks for making such proofs, etc. So far as we know, no forms of the kind are published outside of the Government office, and it would appear to "a man up a tree" that the Register should keep the County Clerks supplied with them.

A VISIT.—Capt. J. M. Keeler, of the Owens Lake M. & M. Co., is in town from the mill on the big lake. He reports the lease of the mill to Supt. Wheeler, who is busy getting in a large amount of ore from the Palma gold mine, at Cerro Gordo. Capt. Keeler is prosecuting some work on adjacent property, and is getting made a number of assays of the ore found, at the Independence assay office.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—So far as noted, yesterday, the "Seventeenth of Ireland" was celebrated only by "Irish Tom," who was gaily decked out in green sashes and hat ribbons. He seemed to take in the situation with considerable enthusiasm and celebrated the picnic with due gravity. It may be proper to add that Irish Tom is an antiquated Piute Indian, of the male persuasion.

COURT. — The only business, outside of making orders in probate matters, transacted in the Superior Court this week, was on Monday, when the case of Hoover vs. Horton was set for trial on the first Monday of the next regular term—April 3d.

AT AURORA.—The Herald is in receipt of a note from Messrs. Bennett & Reddy stating that they will open an office there about the first of the month for permanent occupation and attention to business in the line of their profession.

PREACHING.—Rev. F. M. Willis will hold divine services at the school house on Monday evening next, commencing at 7:30 o'clock.

A Little Racket.

BISHOP CREEK, March 11.

I know THE INDEPENDENT would like to have the latest news, and fearing this item might possibly be omitted by your regular correspondent, I write you that this town was thrown into great excitement by a terrible assault committed upon our Justice of the Peace by a man who heretofore has been noted for his mild and congenial temperament. This man is familiarly known as the kind and congenial "Bob," and from the oldest inhabitants this is the first encounter that he has had that they know of that might bring down the execrations of his fellow man upon his heretofore peaceable deportment. I fear you will think that I never will tell you what has happened. Well, Bob, while attending to his duties in the saloon (Jack Horton's place) this Justice of the Peace entered, and not in the mildest terms started in on Tom Hutch, (a Piute Indian) and found fault with him for shaking his door and disturbing his slumbers so early in the morning and perhaps interfering "mit utter little bizness," whereupon Bob, thinking and knowing that this Piute was an innocent party, interfered and ordered the Justice to desist. The Justice reminded Bob that if he would not be a good and peaceable neighbor he would make him, and placing his hand in his rear pocket in a very threatening attitude. Then Bob, in the quietest manner possible, placed the nose of the aforesaid Justice between his thumb and forefinger and gave it a gentle twitch, at the same time remarking that if he did not retreat in good order he would be very apt to break him in two pieces. The Justice did retreat in good order and saved the disagreeable termination of which he was threatened.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

Thursday afternoon a fire (which had been started that morning by Joseph Rowan to burn the dead grass off of his meadow) was carried by a high wind to the adjoining farm of I. P. Yaney, burning up his barn, a few tons of hay and corn, two saddles and a calf, besides a number of minor articles. Mr. Yaney, on discovering the near approach of the fire, rushed out and began battling with it. In his excitement he permitted the fire to encircle him in a complete mass of flames, through which he had to dash, coming out badly scorched, though not seriously injured. The smoke and flames, though half a mile north of town, soon attracted the attention of many of our citizens, who turned out en masse with buckets, shovels, etc., to assist in saving the property. The dwelling house, a large two-story building, just erected, escaped, though not more than thirty yards distant from the barn which burned to the ground. Mr. Yaney estimates his loss at $500; no insurance.

If all the good mines of the White Mountain and Inyo ranges were located in some central locality, no doubt their value would be more apparent, and an excitement would spring up that would eclipse all others. However, Nature has been pleased to scatter her hidden wealth over a large space, and we must abide by it. That the present movement towards the development of our mines will be kept up for years to come, we are well assured. Not only will the movement be kept up, but mines will be placed in a paying condition and large amounts of precious metals produced, and the whole country and all branches of business will prosper.

HERE. — Mr. A. H. Griswold, who has for some months been developing the big Montezuma mine opposite Big Pine, is in town, on business connected with some Deep Spring property. We are glad to note the fact that, under Dr. Middleton's skillful care, Mr. Griswold has entirely recovered from his late serious affliction. Griswold is a "good Ingin." He is as experienced in mining matters as the best of them, and swears by Inyo county clear through.

THE first excursion train from here, over the railroad to Belleville, left last evening just after the arrival of the regular passenger. There was upwards of fifty in the party, this number including the Candelaria brass band, which played some lively airs at the depot and on board the train as it moved out of the station. After arriving at Belleville the band serenaded the office of the Northern Belle mills, Harry Coffin and R. K. Gamble's residences, being served with a bountiful lunch at the latter.—True Fissure.

SATURDAY, MARCH 18.....1882

DEDICATION:

TO MR. AND MRS. STEVE GREGG ON THE 10TH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING, MARCH 7, 1882.

Ten years, and God has spared your life:
Ten years you've lived as man and wife.
The day returns, of wedded bliss,
Some members of your home you miss:
But they by God above were given,
And they by Him were called to heaven.
You live to love each other, yet
Remember joy, but grief forget.
For hand in hand you've struggled through,
And lived unto each other true.
The storm has howled above your home,
The thunder laden cloud has come,
But light shines through the bars of heaven,
And light breaks in and hope is given.
Though you have grieved with tearful eyes
You'll meet them there, in Paradise,
Then bid the heart again be gay,
And banish all dull care away.
God will be just; till life is past,
Preserve your hope until the last.
Firm as those snow-capped mounts above,
As firm may be the course of love:
Pure as the snow their heads enfold,
As endless as the rings of gold.
Your friends who've known you all these years,
Including Inyo's Pioneers,
All wish you a long, long life
As loving husband, faithful wife.
While seasons roll around again,
May God your little home defend,
And lead where sorrows ne'er invade,
The good, who happy there are made.

CRITTENDEN HAMPTON.

The Mount Etna Observatory.

The Municipality of Catania, in Sicily, has just completed the erection on Mount Etna of an observatory at the hight of 9,671 feet above the sea level. It is believed that in the Etna observatory spectroscopic results will be attained which are impossible at all the previously existing astronomical stations throughout Europe. The site of the observatory has been so selected that, in case of an eruption from the crater; a stream of lava would be divided above the building, and would pass it without injuring it. The structure surrounds an enormous pillar, which supports the great refractor, and the telescope is covered by a movable iron dome. In addition to the telescope the building is furnished with a collection of meteorological and seismological instruments. From the summit a lovely view is to be had of the half of Sicily, Malta, the Lipari Islands, and part of Calabria.

As many of our readers do not understand the meaning of the term, tribute mining, we will explain that it is of Cornish origin and that it means a system of mining wherein miners, instead of being paid regular wages, are allowed a percentage on all ores they extract. Often the tributer is compelled to do a great deal of work to find ore, and men may work for months, or even years without making living wages, but if they happen to strike a body of rich ore, they can realize small fortunes in a short time. There have been numerous instances in which tribute miners have realized from $10,000 to $40,000 in a few weeks, and on the other hand, there have been instances where men have worked at tribute mining for years and scarcely made grub. It is as fair for one as another, however, and many miners prefer to take chances on it than working for regular wages.—[Stock Report.

THE wonderful snow sheds—tunnels—on the Central Pacific Railroad are of two kinds, one with very steep roofs and the other with flat roofs. They cost per mile from $8,000 to $12,000, and in some places where heavy masonry was needed the cost reached $30,000 per mile. They are firmly constructed to support the great weight of snow and to resist the great rush of avalanches. Fire precautions are very thorough. Corrugated plates of iron separate the buildings into sections, and in the great ten mile section there are automatic electric fire alarms. At the summit is an engine and tank always ready to flood the ignited spot in a moment. These sheds shut in the view of the great Sierras, but without them travel would be impossible. Sometimes five feet of snow falls upon them in a day, and often thirty feet lies on the ground at one time, and in many places snow accumulates to the depth of fifty feet above these great wooden arches.—[Engineering News.

REPRESENTATIVE BEDFORD has introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives reciting the miseries inflicted upon the Jews in Russia, declaring that the people of the United States protest against the spirit of persecution revived in Russia, asserting that the Hebrews are loyal citizens, and requesting the President to submit to his Imperial Majesty, the Czar, the friendly assurances of the United States and request him to exercise his power for the sake of humanity and protect his Jewish subjects from the violence of their enemies.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cheyenne "Leader" says of Leadville: A drive about the town shows many reminders of the fact that Leadville's palmy days have gone by. On some streets store after store lies vacant, and off the principal street the mark of the receding fever are apparent. There are a few fine buildings. Notably so, are two public schools built of brick and stone, and large and ornamental. There are several fine business blocks and churches, but on the whole there is a very transient air about the town. This of course will be outgrown as the mining camp gives way to the business town; but it is very evident that the mining camp has done more than the town will ever experience.

THE House sub-committee on Naval affairs have recommended the immediate construction of eleven vessels at an estimated cost of $9,000,000; this fleet to comprise one cruiser of the first class of 5,000 tons or over, and an armament of four eight-inch and twenty-one six-inch rifled guns; four cruisers of the second class of 3,000 tons or over, with an armament of four eight-inch and fifteen six-inch rifled guns; two rams; one armed torpedo boat, capable of steaming twenty-one knots an hour; and two harbor torpedo boats to steam seventeen knots an hour. The cruising torpedo boat to be armed with one ten inch rifled gun.

A YOUNG man, the son of a well-known Austin family, recently returned home after a protracted absence. A friend met him shortly after his return, and asked him: "Where have you been this long time? I havn't seen you for more than a year?" "I havn't been nowares, exceptin' to a grammar school." "What else did you learn there except good grammer?" "Perliteness, you darned, bandy-legged, no-account whelp. That's what else I learned, you-low down cuss."—[Texas Siftings.

Native Copper.

The native copper is found on Lake Superior in veins, in large masses, or scattered more or less uniformly in small quantities, in certain beds, which are neither amydaloid or conglomerates. The former are softer and more easily worked, so that a lower percentage of copper will yield favorable returns, while the latter are harder, and it requires a richer rock to admit of profitable working. In Keweenaw county, as yet, mass mines and amygdaloid beds only have been worked, with the exception of the Conglomerate Company, which is now testing those deposits on a large scale. The mineral range of this country is characterized by a broad belt of greenstone, which has a northerly and northwesterly dip. Both north and south of it, are numerous amygdaloid beds, which are crossed by nearly vertical fissure veins at almost right angles. The latter vary in width from one to three feet, and have been found to contain those enormous masses of native copper the size of which has never been equaled elsewhere in the world, and which have made a few of the mines working these deposits so prosperous. The most productive parts lie directly south of the greenstone belt, and neither north of it nor at a greater distance south of it in a well-known parallel copper-bearing range have they proved rich.

The most famous of the mass mines of this district is the Cliff, two-thirds of the product of which were obtained in masses. Work began in 1845, and to 1858 the mine continued to be highly productive; but with greater depth the ground became poorer, and finally in 1870, the mine was sold to the present company for $100,000, which is still working it. The whole amount of capital stock paid in was $110,905; and from 1848 to 1870, the Cliff mine not only paid the expenses of the company, but returned to the stockholders the net sum of $2,627,660, after over half a million dollars had been expended to bring the mine to a dividend paying point. The wonderful richness of the Cliff, of course, stimulated the enterprise of those who had, then, every reason to hope for similarly brilliant results; but of the many who opened the veins in the expectation of finding such a continuous series of masses, only one in Keweenaw county, the Central, ever rivaled it. This mine, working on a 20-inch vein, paid from the time of its discovery, 1854, and has since been a steady producer, the total receipts to January 1, 1881, having been $6,932,247 25, and the total dividends $1,500,000, on a capital advanced by the shareholders of $100,000. The product in 1880 embraced 286 masses, weighing 1,254,901 lbs., 249,979 pounds stamp work, and 387,685 pounds of kiln work, the total yield to the close of that year from the opening of the vein having been 14,510 tons, against 18,956 tons from the Cliff.

Black Diamonds.

Though precious diamonds in Brazil have been so long known, a variety which has of late years become valuable in many branches of the arts has been fully appreciated only lately. We refer to what has been called "carbon," which, on trial, was found to be pure carbon, excepting from 2.07 to 0.27. This is the "black diamond," which is now exclusively used for the bits of diamond drills. We were recently shown a large number of various sizes and shapes by Mr. S. Dessau, of this city, who largely imports them, and to whom we are indebted for some details concerning their peculiarities and the mode of their occurrence. "Carbon" resembles in appearance certain meteoric stones of a blackish-brown hue and crystalline structure. It is by no means uniform in "temper," varying in hardness, and occasionally breaking when first subjected to use, while other pieces, apparently similar in all respects, will last for a very long time. The selection, therefore, is a very delicate matter, and, notwithstanding, all care will not guard against accidents.

Carbon was first brought into the London market nearly fifteen years ago, and an unlimited supply was offered to a merchant at a very low rate. The Amsterdam cutters, to whom it was submitted for trial, reported unfavorably on it, however, and it was not until later that its value was recognized. Thus far it has been found exclusively in the province of Bahia, Brazil, and is obtained either by negro divers from the bed of the San Francisco and other rivers, or from certain gravel beds, into which mining is prosecuted for a depth of from 20 to 60 feet. The bed is overlain often by 12 to 15 feet of clay. The carbons vary in size very considerably, the largest found having been 400 and 700 carats. These large specimens are not, however, uniform, and only a portion of the mass is available for practical purposes. The size in which they are generally used is from one to five carats.—[Engineering Journal.

THE old-time, genuine prospector feels thoroughly equipped for the season if he possesses a slab of bacon, a few pounds of flour, a little sugar, coffee, tobacco, and an old pick and shovel. If he has a pack animal, all right; if he hasn't all right. And thus outfitted he scales the mountains, swims rivers, and skims the plains for months, happy as a stuffed goat. And it's his pluck and bone and sinew that brings to light the mineral wealth of mother earth. But there is another prospector of quite different characteristics, who is met with too often in this country. It costs all of three hundred dollars (or more) to properly outfit him. He requires a thoroughbred horse, two pack animals, a mattress, two pair of blankets, a feather pillow, dressing case with toilet soaps and perfumery, a gold chronometer, magnifying glass, chemicals, library of scientific works, silk stockings, five gallons fourth proof brandy, two silver-mounted revolvers and a needle gun, fishing tackle, half dozen cheviot shirts, cameo cuff buttons and studs, etc., etc. And thus rigged, he spins out the merry Summer time prospecting along streams where fish bite the best, sinking holes only where trees cast a cooling shade, and always found waiting for the water to fall so as to ford the flood without wetting his feet. He returns in the Fall without having discovered anything of course, but knows just where to strike it next season.

OUT of the seventy-six members of the Senate, but forty-four voted on the Chinese question on the 9th, leaving thirty-two not voting. If such inattention to duty on the part of Senators is shown in the most important piece of legislation of the session, what is to be expected when the little private bills and jobs come up? Nothing but that they will be all slipped through when there is just a quorum in attendance and the Senators present are more anxious for an adjournment for dinner than for the welfare of the country.

No less than three large parties of Eastern capitalists are making preparations to visit Homer and Tioga districts at an early day.

THERE was a time in the history of California when one of the disadvantages of residence was that frequently harped on in the East was the danger of the occurrence of earthquakes. There have been some lively shakes in this State in times past, but never anything since its settlement amounting to a calamity, and the most severe earthquake ever known in California is insignificant compared with the terrible convulsion of the earth that recently devastated Costa Rica. Of late years the fear of earthquakes has passed out of the minds of the people of California, as during the past fifteen years earthquakes have been of infrequent occurrence and harmless in their effects. The last heavy shock in this State was in 1868. By some scientists the absence of heavy shocks of earthquake during the past fifteen years is attributed to the presence of the railroad tracks, it being claimed that an earthquake is an electrical disturbance and that the railroad tracks carry off and scatter the surplus electricity which, if accumulated, would cause earthquakes. However this may be, it is supported by circumstantial evidence consisting of the fact that since the completion of the Central Pacific railroad there has been no serious shock of earthquake in California, while before that time such shocks were not unfrequent.—[Ex.

A FIRE broke out in the shaft of a deep coal mine at Canton, Ill., and the miners made a wild rush for the elevator, crowding the cage and fighting for places. Five trips of the cage would carry them all up, but it looked as though the flames would quickly close the exit, and in the fright and confusion all struggled to be first. Tom Lucky, the cool and muscular boss of the gang, drove them all aside, and then called out the names of as many as could be hoisted up at once. In making the selection he chose those who had large dependent families. When the cage came down he filled it with those who had fewer relatives, and next time with husbands who had no children. It was not until the fourth lift that unmarried men were given a chance. The fifth carried some almost worthless bummers and Lucky himself, with the fire scorching their clothes. When praised for his act he carelessly replied: "Oh, that wasn't anything. If I hadn't got those fellows out of the way I would have been burned up, don't you see."

SATURDAY, MARCH 25.....1882

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE Bodie Free Press of March 21st. publishes a graphic description of the fatal disaster at Mill Creek, and its attending circumstances, from the pen of that able journalist John I. Ginn, who was an eye-witness to most of the scenes described. In reading it one can well imagine that the people of the apparently doomed town of Lundy have suffered the most intense anxiety from Wednesday night, when the four men were buried, until the present time. The town is situated in a deep canyon, walled in on either side by precipitous mountains. During three days forty avalanches, of greater or less extent, thundered down the sides of these mountains, each one threatening death and destruction to the town. The men rendezvoused at three different points, so that in the event one body were buried the others would be able to dig them out. At different times fifty persons were buried in Lake and Mill Creek canyons, and at Tioga. If anything could make a man's hair turn white in a single night, or drive him to insanity, it would seem that such an experience as that of Christian Habletzel would lead to such a result. Nineteen hours he was buried beneath eight feet of snow, unable to move any portion of his body save one arm, with which he dug away the snow within reach. There seemed hardly a chance but that he would die of suffocation before relief could reach him. The poor fellow was finally rescued, but his life is despaired of. This is but one of the many situations which have tried the souls of those of our friends who have survived the storm at Lundy.

PUBLIC opinion forced Congress to pass Edmunds' anti-Polygamy bill. The vote was reached Tuesday in the House, resulting in 199 ayes and 42 nays. It will bring sorrow to the Latter Day Saints that practice polygamy. The provisions of the bill renders any polygamist living in any Territory under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, subject to a fine of not more than $500, or to imprisonment of not more than five years, and he shall not be entitled to vote at any election in such Territory, or be eligible for election or appointment, or entitled to hold any office or place of public trust, honor or emolument. Soon as it becomes a law, most if not all the offices in Utah will become vacant. Lively times among Zion's cooperative flocks may be looked for. The passage of this bill must of necessity let Cannon out of his seat as a delegate to Congress.

CANNON, the Mormon mouth-piece, whiningly declares that the Mormon polygamists "are being persecuted for religion's sake," and that it will rebound upon its authors. Referring thereto, the Salt Lake Tribune retorts that "for more than thirty years the Mormons have been persecuting poor women, forcing young girls to marry old brutes; breaking the hearts of wives under a superstitious terror, and it has been done under the name ot religion. The atrocities which have been committed, the cruelties which have been perpetrated; the shame and degradation which have followed in the wake of this accursed fraud and swindle can never be estimated or conceived. We believe that the rebound is about to come."

THE extent of the present disaster along the Mississippi river can hardly be comprehended by a person who has never been over the ground. The surface of the river is usually higher than the surrounding country, and when during a great rise as at the present time it bursts the feeble barriers of its levees, it sweeps a mighty path of destruction and death in its course. The river is said at the present time to average forty miles in width from Cairo to its mouth, a distance of over a thousand miles. The condition of the unfortunate inhabitants along the shore of the mother of waters must be most pitiable.

THE lead market is dull and weaker in consequence of the sale by a prominent Western operator of 500 tons of Richmond lead at 5c. The market is somewhat demoralized in consequence of this transaction, which some hold was to produce an effect on the Western market. Buyers, however, take advantage of the fact, and will not bid more than 4.90c., while some holders ask from 5 to 5⅛c. for common. In refined nothing has been done, and we quote nominally 5.20 to 5.25.

A SNOW slide at Genoa, Nevada, reported by the Journal of that place, resulted in the death of ten persons and the destruction of a large amount of property. The storm throughout the mountains was of most extraordinary extent and severity, dealing out death and destruction all around.

THE GARFIELD LETTER.

What purports to be the letter of Gen. Garfield to Salmon P. Chase in 1863, and which seems to have exercised Rosecrans so much, is published. There is nothing in it which any friend could not have written of another with the utmost kindness and propriety. In it he complains sorrowfully of the inactivity in the Army of the Cumberland, an inactivity which had been much more severely commented upon by higher military authorities than Garfield. With 65,000 arms against Bragg's 41,000, Rosecrans refused to move forward, and at a council of war Garfield was the only one firmly opposed to a plan of masterly inactivity. The entire pith of the letter purporting to have been written by him is contained in these lines:

Thus far the General has been singularly disinclined to grasp the situation with a strong hand, and make the advantage his own. I write this with more sorrow than I can tell you, for I love every bone in his body, and, next to my desire to see the rebellion blasted, is my anxiety to see him blessed. But even the breadth of my love is not sufficient to cover this almost fatal delay. My personal relations with Gen. Rosecrans are all that I could desire. Officially I share his counsels and responsibilities even more than I desire, but I beg you to know that this delay is against my judgment and my every wish. Pleasant as are my relations here, I would rather command a battalion that would follow and follow and strke than to hold back while such golden moments are passing. But the General and myself believe that I can do more service in my present place than in command of a division, though I am aware that it is a position that promises better in the way of promotion or popular credit. But if this inaction continues long, I shall ask to be relieved and sent somewhere where I can be a part of a working army.

THE Bodie Free Press says that its Nevada exchanges take very kindly to the suggestion that Mono, Inyo and Alpine counties belong naturally to that State. They are quite willing to take provided our people wish ta go and the balance of California is willing that we shall go. The Virginia Enterprise says upon the subject: Of course, "a scientific rectification of the frontier" can never be accomplished, unless the two States interested are willing—the one to give and the other to take. Nevada, though the third largest State, territorially, in the Union, could certainly offer no objection to the aquisition of the counties named. California, though, would be very apt to decline dividing any portion of her domain. If Mono, Inyo and Alpine counties are ever to to succeed in divorcing themselves from California, their people will have first to bring the necessay influence to bear upon their Legislature. We shall welcome their annexation.

An examination of certain authentic returns shows that the acquisition of said counties would add to Nevada 12,250 square miles of territory, or about equal to the combined area of Esmeralda and Lander counties. It would give us an accession of 10,500 population, increasing the total to about 75,000. Politically, as parties stand, annexation would not impair the strength of either. At the last Presidential election the three counties gave Hancock 1137 votes, Garfield 1302 and Weaver 22. Alpine county is in the Second Congressional District, which gave a majority for Page of 2883. Inyo and Mono are in the Fourth Congressional District, which elected Pacheco by 111 majority. Under the present apportionment the Republicans would be reluctant to surrender Mono and Inyo, which, in a close district, gave a majority of only 140 votes to Garfield. But, as California is to have two new Congressmen under the last Apportionment Act, new districts are to be carved out, and this consideration need have no weight."

THE most serious labor strike that has ever been known in this country, except the Pittsburg riot, has agitated Omaha for the last week. Workmen on a railroad grade struck for an advance from $1 25 to $1 75 per day. The contractor offered $1 50 but they refused it and quit. Other laborers who were glad to get the $1 50 per day, took the deserted work and went on. The strikers re-enforced by other members of the labor union, forming a force of 4,100 strong, marched to the grade and drove the laborers off by violence, wounding several and hurting also several policemen. The mob then threatened to sack the depot and destroy the office of the Omaha Herald. Federal and State troops were called out and Mayor Boyd sternly and firmly did his duty. The mob was bravely resisted by Dr. Miller, of the Herald, who seems to have led the decent and law abiding sentiment of the city with that high hearted courage which is a great element in the character of the best and truest citizen of a city whose other journalists seem to have been either cravenly submissive to or in active alliance with the howling mob.

THE latest thing in neckties in Arizona is hemp. Three desperadoes were presented with these tokens of regard recently without expense to the county.

"DIVISION AND ANNEXATION."

LONE PINE, March 18.

The communication of Mr. P. W. Bennett, published in your issue of March 11th, entitled "Division and Annexation" has been read carefully by the undersigned, who finds many objectionable points in the same.

The readers of THE INYO INDEPENDENT and particularly Mr. P. W. Bennett will excuse my expressions. Being a carpenter by trade, I am not well versed with the technical expressions inserted in the Codes and used by attorneys-at-law, but my feelings are not at all altered by this vacuum of elocution, and there being a project of such importance as to annex the county of Inyo to Nevada, I feet anxious to know the profits that could be derived from such change, to the tax-payers of Inyo county.

The two points given in said communication in the first and second paragraphs are as equivocal as the summit of the Sierra Nevada itself, failing to give by figures the great interest in question, and in regard to the third paragraph I am surprised indeed at the assertion of Mr. Bennett when he says: "That the tendency of legislation in California for many years past and especially for the last five or six years has been strictly to foster the farming interests of California, and to crush, hamper, and load with onerous burdens the mining industries of the State."

Has Mr. Bennett forgotten that as to Inyo county five-sixths of the electors are living on a farming country, representing nine-tenths of the whole amount of the assessable property in the county, and a lawyer of his ability ought to see that the point above given by him, being a charge against all the farming counties in the State, is also a charge against the farmers of Inyo county, who are the judges of said charges and appreciate the same for what it is worth.

And he further says: "The farming and cow counties of the State being populous has absolute control over us, and our interest, and legislate for us, and do so in every case to our injury and their own benefit."

Here, Mr. Editor, seeing that Mr. Bennett takes so much interest in the matter I will ask him:

First, How many bills has been introduced during the period above mentioned by our representatives in the Legislature and acted upon in the negative?

Second, What were those bills asking for the great benefit of Inyo county?

Waiting for a reply I will in the meantime mention to Mr. Bennett some of the bills which were introduced by our representative at the State Legislature which were acted upon in the affirmative.

First, The bill to increase the salary of the County Treasurer from $600 to $1,000.

Second, The bill to increase the fees of the County School Superintendent from $200 to a salary of $400.

Third, The bill to increase the salary of the County Assessor from $600 to $1,500. This last bill was passed favorably by the Assembly, but not having a direct Senator from Inyo county to sustain the bill in the Senate it was reduced by the Senators from the cow counties from $1,500 to $1,200. This last act of the Senate must be one of the great griefs alluded to by Mr. Bennett against our Legislature, as being to our injury and for the benefit of the cow counties. He further says: "They have forced upon us a Constitution that cripples us and causes us to be unfairly and unjustly taxed and controlled."

Mr. Bennett swerves more and more from the cause which he intends to serve, sinking into the depths of illogical and extravagant argument.

Since the admission of the State of California into the Union it has been the aim of the people to improve our institutions. Our Legislators are elected by the people and therefore represent the will of the people. The majority of the two houses of the Legislature were in favor of amending the Constitution, the question was set before the people to vote for amending the Constitution, "yes" or "no." The people unanimously voted "yes." Members of the Constitutional Convention were chosen by the people and said Convention represented the most intelligent and ablest statesmen of the State. It almost unanimously adopted a Constitution, which was ratified by the legal electors of the State. This is, according to Mr. Bennett's statement, the instrument imposed on us. Here I will borrow the expression of Mr. Bennett, and will say: "It must be apparent to all that," Mr. Bennett places himself as to intellectual capacity and legist higher than than the Legislature of the State of California, higher than the State Convention, higher than the majority of the legal electors of the State, and that he is entirely out of the way when he says that, "The new Constitution causes us to be unfairly and unjustly taxed," for the new Constitution does not contain a single word about the mines; the new Constitution differs in a good many points from the old one, which, if impartially interpreted are great improvements. I will mention a few of them:

The growing crops are exempt from taxation, because if taxed it would be a double tax on the product — one before the harvest and another after the harvest. A mortgage is taxed because it represents the full cash value for which it is assessed. Cultivated and uncultivated land, of the same quality, and similarly situated are assessed at the same value, because the land and improvements thereon afe separately assessed. And it promises that the Legislature shall not pass local or special laws where a general law can be made applicable. This is a great improvement, because it was by virtue of the special laws that the salaries of our county officers were increased as above specified.

And when Mr. Bennett says that "we have no representative at all in the Senate, for our Senator is a joint Senator which knows nothing concerning us or our interests." If Mr. Bennett is willing to give justice to our joint Senator he will say: "A bill was introduced by our direct representative in the House of the Assembly in conflict with the wishes of the people of Inyo county to increase the salary of a certain county officer from $600 to $1,500; which was sanctioned by said Assembly and our honorable joint Senator in concert with his honorable colleagues noticed that the assessable property of Inyo county was very limited, the rate of taxes very high, the county heavily indebted, the revenue very light, and insufficient to pay such exorbitant salary, reduced the sume to $1,200' which still remains too high."

I am not acquainted with the revenue law of the State of Nevada, therefore cannot discuss with Mr. Bennett how the property is taxed there, but I know something about the taxation of our mines in Inyo county, and having the honor of being a member of the County Board of Equalization I certify that no application has been made to said Board in the year 1881 for the reduction of any assessment in the county, and all owners of mining claims are satisfied with their assessments. I further state that if the proceeds of the mines of Inyo county had been assessed as they are assessed in Nevada the county would have received more from the mining claims than it has received by the present mode of taxation.

Mr. Bennett, having no good ground to work upon in favor of his cause, attacks and depreciates our judicial system, as if we had no knowlede of the one we we had before the present system. Instead of being impartial in the proposed change in bringing light before the people to solve the problem of high politics and how to do it, he takes the ground upon which he depends to inflame and excite the public in favor of his own cause, and against the interest of the people in general. As Mr. Bennett finds many defects in our system of government, why has he not employed his erudition to the redress of said wrongs in setting forth before the people the reforms required? Then the people would have sent their instructions to their representatives and would have had a chance for redress, and Mr. Bennett would have deserved and gained the esteem and gratitude of the people of Inyo county.

Instead of that we have some equivocal and very contestable denunciations, giving no remedies to it, except that he employs his best eloquence to influence us to abandon the positive substance for the shadow. It is not very glorious to Mr. Bennett for him to say that "We are nothing but serfs, obedient slaves to the will of our masters on the other side of the mountains," for he has been living with us since the organization of the county and he has never attempted to point out the defects or done anything to better the position.

In conclusion I will say that our county has been very heavily indebted and for that reason the rate of our taxes has been very high. The total indebtedness of Inyo county was in July 31, 1875, $92,212,06, interest not included. Since then the indebtedness has been reduced, (with the interest paid on the same) to $57,540 59. Mr. Bennett, seeing that we will get out of debt before many years, is trying to induce us to contract a new indebtedness, for if our county be annexed to Nevada we will have to set aside all the books belonging to the county, and be compelled to buy a new set for each and every county, township, and district officers, such as Codes, Statutes, Records, Registers, Reports of the Supreme Court, and seals, and besides the said cost, especially as to the records of the county, would create many litigations unforeseen. Every scholar of our public schools would have to throw out their school books and buy a different set, and lawyers who are not already supplied with the Nevada law books, would have to procure the same.

For the above reasons I am against the proposed annexation; and apply to you, Mr. Editor, to publish the same as a very important public matter. Very respectfully,

C. MEYSAN.

LIEUT. MELVILLE writes to his wife that he has no hope of DeLong, and his comrades who were known to have landed with him, being found alive. While it must be admitted that the chances are very much against the wanderers, still it is possible that they may have fallen in with some of the natives of the region about the mouth of the Lena, and may yet be restored to their families. Even in that bleak and ice-bound country there are people who manage to live in comparative comfort throughout the Winter, and if the explorers succeeded in reaching one of the villages of these people they are doubtless safe and sound. The difficulty of traveling in Northern Siberia in Winter might reasonably account for the fact that no word has been received from them. It is a slight thing on which to build a hope, but on the principle that "no news is good news," it will be clung to by a good many to the last.

DURING the month of February, as shown by the railroad statistics, some 400,000 grape cuttinge were shipped from St. Helena, Napa county, to various parts of this State, and one large shipment was to Casa Grande, Arizona. Gov. Stanford's little vineyard in Tehama county is completed, and covers eleven hundred acres. Who can say that the Pacific coast is not fast becoming the world's vineyard?

JOHN CLARKE has wagered Budd Doble, the well known race horse, against a fine mare belonging to Bill Gill, on the coming contest between Brown Abbey and Black Harry. The race is creating much interest in sporting circles and considerable cash will change hands on the result.—Bishop Creek Times.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, } ss.
County of Inyo. }

On this Twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, personally appeared before me, Joseph Schalten, a Justice of the Peace in and for said County of Inyo, S. G. Gregg and William McDonald, whose names are subscribed to the annexed instrument as parties thereto, personally known to me to be the same persons described in and who executed the annexed instrument as parties thereto, who duly acknowledged to me that they executed the same freely and voluntarily, and for the uses and purposes therein mentioned.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my private seal (having no seal of office), the day and year in this certificate first above written.

JOSEPH SCHALTEN, [SEAL]
Justice of the Peace.

Big Pine Letter.

BIG PINE, March 22.

A reliable report comes from Deep Springs this week. The Half Dollar mine is assuming a very favorable appearance. They are down in the lode about ninety feet and find good ore in the bottom, assaying from $140 to $227. A crosscut has been commenced and still more favorable results are expected as soon as the foot-wall is struck. The assaying was correct, as I saw the certificates in the hands of J. T. Erwin, signed by a reliable assayer.

BIRTH DAY PARTY.

The friends of J. J. Moore and wife assembled Monday evening with the intention of enjoying themselves, and there is no doubt but that they fulfilled their expectations, judging by the number of "sleepy heads" the next morning. Every one was there till the "peep-o-day."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Passed of somewhat quietly. Whisky inflamed a few to exercise their lungs. Luckily it did not act on the muscles of the arm.

POETRY.

No Spring poetry has appeared in Inyo's papers. Some of our would-be poets must certainly follow some such recipe as Anapestic, Dactylic and Trochaic feet, take an equal number. Stir up thoroughly and spread out in verses to suit, rhyming the last words. The task is easy. Even a child, who is able to read, can manufacture poetry in this way. Try it. WADE.

FIRE.—From only general reports, too vague at this writing for us to be able to give any important particulars, we learn that the fine new resibence of Wm. O. Harrell at Bishop Creek, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. There was but one man on the place at the time, and the granary, barn, and a large lot of hay was consumed. The building had hardly reached completion, and was the finest and most costly residence in either Inyo or Mono, so far as our knowledge extends. No reports have as yet reached here explaining how the fire originated. There was an insurance upon the grain of $1,000, in the companies represented by J. S. Rothschild & Co, here, and also a comparatively small amount upon the house, in the companies for which A. K. Briggs is agent. It is safe to put the loss at $5,000, and "Bill" Harrell will have the most thorough sympathy of every one in the country.

AFTER THE "WANGDOODLE."—One of the Bishop Creekers lately here hunted the drug and other stores for some strata-gum. He wanted it, he said, to catch the "What Is It" or Bishop Creek "Wangdoodle" that John Clarke and others were organizing to capture. He didn't know exactly what strata-gum was, but knew that it was used to catch elephants, for he had read that owing to the great strength of elephants much strata-gum (stratagem) had to be used to secure them. Would take half a pound and try it, as it might work as well on Wangdoodle as on elephants.

THE FISH LAW.—On the 1st of April it will be lawful to take brook and salmon trout and all the other kind of "speckled beauties" that inhabit our lakes and streams. Now is the angler busy at work examininig his rods, and reels, and lines, and fly-hooks, and waiting impatiently for the happy day when he may sally forth to "try his luck" in the waters of the rushing mountains torrents. Of all the forms of amusement which human wit has devised to "drive dull care away," we believe there is no one cheaper or more healthful and innocent than angling.

THE MODOCK.—Our report under date of March 23d, states that the usual amount of ore is being extracted from the lead mine, and about seven tons of silver ore is being stoped out per day from Confidence No 4. Extracting from the Lookout was suspended on account of having to put in timbers. Up to date of writing the furnace had received 207 tons of ore. The furnace will start up as soon as enough coal, which is ready for hauling, is delivered by the teams.

TO CLOSE.—Messrs J. H. Stoutenborough, A. K. Briggs, George Stephens, J. H. Bulpitt, Elkeles & Lasky, R. Fred. Brooks, S. G. Sneeden, H. F. Rediker have agreed to close their places of business on the Sabbath, beginning March 19, 1882.

DARWIN.—The Defiance furnace closed last Thursday. In the last short run of eleven days 1,000 bars of bullion were smelted out.

TO MEET.—Saturday evening next will occur the regular stated meeting of Inyo Lodge No. 22, F. & A. M., for April.

THE House devoted four hours more, March 21, to the Chinese bill, hearing two speeches in favor of it as it stands, and three in favor of the bill generally, but in opposition to the clause fixing the limit during which no Chinese can come at twenty years.

Hooker of Mississippi, the first Democrat who has spoken against the bill in the House, was among those who made speeches. On that account his address was of more than ordinary interest. Pacheco accepted the chair as during the previous days of the debate.

THE snow blockade on the Central Pacific is serious this year, and causes an interruption which is severely felt in business circles in the northern part of the State. The great superiority of the Southern route over the Central Pacific is demonstrated by the snow blockade, and we have no doubt that hereafter the great bulk of the overland traffic will be done in the Winter over the Southern road.

COME TO THE FRONT.

In July in '75, we believe, the workmen engaged in excavating the cellar of the Centennial Brewery at Lone Pine threw out a curious specimen of an ancient ornament or utensil, which was a puzzle or mystery to all in this region. When submitted to Prof. Hanks for examination by the Academy of Science, it was summarily disposed of as indicated in the following letter, and an account of the matter published at the time.

While having no doubt as to the authenticity of the report then made, we annex the following letter for the purpose of getting the attention of all who know of the facts regarding it then, and to request them to furnish written statements and proofs of the finding as stated. The facts were vouched for then by V. Von Briesen, Louis Munzinger, J. H. Dodge, Charley Begole and others of Lone Pine. If they, or any other parties who remember the circumstances, will peruse the following and forward to this paper their statements regarding it, the same will be appreciated:

OFFICE STATE MINERALOGIST,
San Francisco, March 16.

To the Editor of the Inyo Independent: More than a year ago a stone lamp (?) of undoubted Chinese origin, so determined from the mineralogical character of the stone of which it is made, was sent to this Bureau, with a statement that it was found 8 feet below the surface in digging a well at Lone Pine. At the time I did not give the matter much attention, as I thought some Chinaman living in the town had thrown it aside and it had fallen, accidentally, into the well. Since that time several very curious proofs of Asiatic inhabitants in ancient time in California, Oregon and Arizona have been developed and I have thought best to write you to make careful inquiry as to the truth of the statement.

Scientific men, and those investigating such matters, are considered by some persons to be the legitimate target for practical jokes, and I will ask you to protect this institution from any possible effort of this nature. If the find is genuine it is a very important feature in the ethnological history of the Pacific Coast. Very truly,

HENRY G. HANKS,
State Mineralogist.

WHEN a nice warm rain comes after a long dry season, we often hear the remark that the rain is worth a million dollars to the State. In some cases a great rain is worth many millions. The crops of Illinois last year were short of the previous year by about $100,000,000, and the deficiency was caused by a lack of moisture. The wheat crop of 1880 was 56,000,000 bushels, and that of 1881 only 22,000,000. The corn crop suffered quite as severely. As California ranks with the first three or four States in point of wheat production, the partial failure of a crop is but little less severe to us th n to Illinois. Two weeks ago our crop prospects were below the average, but now, thanks to the generous rain of the past week, there is no apprehension from lack of moisture. If the crops are not good, the cause must be looked for elsewhere. It is difficult, therefore, to place a limit upon the value of the last ten days' rains to this coast.—S. F. Call.

THE inhumned bodies of a woman and child have been unearthed at Pompeii. The woman was one of rank. as is attested by the jewels about her person. She carried the child—a boy about 10 years old—whose emaciation shows him to have been ill at the time of the eruption. In the course of other excavations some thirty bodies of human beings have been found, one of them grasping a purse containing gold and silver coins.

THE Democratic State Central Committee met in San Francisco on the 15th instant, and fixed upon San Jose as the place and the 20th of June as the date of the next State Convention. Each county is to get one delegate and one additional for each 200 votes cast for Hancock. Mono is to have five delegates, and Inyo two.

Sad Incident of the Flood.

Alexander Jasper, an old man from Crittenden county, arrived in the city last night, bringing with him his wife and two boys. He seemed to be in great distress, and when questioned by a "Gazette" man he told the following sad story: "You know," he said, "that the whole country is under water. I am one of the sufferers of the flood. I lived in the Mississippi bottom, not far from Madison. I settled there a few years ago and opened a small farm. I had heard of high water, but I did not feel any fear. Well, high water came repeatedly, but it never reached me. Night before last while myself and family wefe at supper we were startled by a terrible roar. I went to the door and looked out but could see nothing. My wife suggested that the noise might be made by the water, but I did not pay much attention to the remark, for I did not see how water could break through with such force. While I stood listening there came a mighty rush and the whole country was flooded with water. I called to my wife to help me secure the children. The house was full of water. I seized one little girl and my wife seized the other. The house moved. The lamp fell and was extinguished. I called to my little boy and received a strangled reply. I rushed into the flood toward the place from which I thought the sound came, and called again, but no reply. The house went to pieces. I seized my wife and struggled with her to a slight elevation. The roar was deafening. We remained there until morning. When light came, a rushing torrent swept over the site of our home. My little boy was gone."—[Little Rock Gazette.

JUST at the present time when iron manufacturers are calling for the raw material so rapidly as to threaten an iron famine, it seems strange that a new use for the metal should be projected, and one which, if adopted, will require an enormous amount. It is reported that a large number of cotton dealers in the South are seriously considering the feasibility of adopting it as covering for cotton bales in place of the hemp and flax at present used for this purpose. This material, which is used simply because it is cheap, admits moisture and sand, and is therefore the cause of considerable waste in cotton in course of transportation, and it is thought that the use of sheet iron will prevent this waste. The story goes that the projectors of this proposed new departure are investigating the matter and have sent North for quotations on sheet iron of suitable size, weight and shape. If the answer is satisfactory and the system is adopted, the requirements of the trade will be enormous. Each bale will require a sheet measuring 76 inches long by 44 wide, and weighing 22 pounds. The annual cotton crop is 6,000,000 bales and by a simple calculation it will be seen that the yearly requirement of iron will be 132,000,000 pounds.

THE Maine girl, tall and ruddy, kisses as though she were taking an impression in the chewing-gum of her native State. The Massachusetts girl kisses in the Greek style, flavored with brown bread. The New York girl goes at it as if she were dabbling in a Wall street speculation. The kiss of a New Jersey girl is fiery as a taste of applejack, better known as Jersey lightning. Little Delaware's girls are as soft as the peaches that grow there. A Maryland kiss is rich and juicy as a terrapin stew. In the Old Dominion you are met with a genuine hospitality; the girls kiss as though they wanted you to stay. The Ohio girl is described as possessing the comprehensive qualities of the Ohio man—she wants all she can get and gets all she can. A Lousiana kiss is said to be like eating sugar cane, while North Carolina girls stick like tar.—[Atlanta Constitution.

IT is no easy matter to plug up a diamond-drill hole from which there is a strong flow of water, frequently under great pressure. When a hole is to be plugged there are forced into it small bags of beans and flaxseed. The plug—made of dry pine and from ten to fifteen feet in length—is driven in after these bags and forces them forward in the drill hole. Also, a hole is also bored in the end of the plug, which hole is filled with flaxseed. The flaxseed and beans are caused to swell to such an extent by the hot water, that the hole is as compactly filled as though closed with molten lead.—[Virginia Enterprise.

The Game Law.

The enforcement of the law prohibiting the killing of game at certain seasons of the year has heretofore been very lax, but the organization of sportsmen's clubs will probably result in a due observance of the statute, as the members are determined that as far as they are able, the law shall be strictly enforced, and all violators prosecuted to the fullest extent. The following is an abstract of the sections referred to:

Every person who, in any of the counties of this State, between the 15th day of March and the 15th day of September, in each year, hunts pursues, takes, kills or destroys quail, partridge or grouse, or any kind of duck, or rail or marsh hens, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Every person who, in the State of California, between the 1st day of January and the 1st day of July in each year, hunts, pursues, takes, kills or destroys doves, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Every person, who, at any time, takes, gathers, or destroys the eggs of any mallard, wood or summer duck, red-head, teal, gadwell or gray duck, or any other species of wild duck, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Every person who shall have any of the aforesaid game, or any male deer or buck, or any female deer or doe, or any antelope, elk, or mountain sheep in his possession at a time when it is unlawful to kill the same within the county wherein the same is found, shall be prima facia evidence in any prosecution for a violation of any of the provisions of this section, that the person or persons in whose possession the same is found killed, took or destroyed the same in the county wherein the same is found, during the period when it was unlawful to take, kill or destroy the same.

Section 631 of the Penal Code is amended so as to read as follows:

Any person or persons who shall at any time, net pound, weir, cage, or trap any quail, partridge, or grouse, or who shall take from any net, pound, weir, cage or trap any quail, partridge, or grouse, retain in his possession, or sell or give away the same, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

THE town of Evansville, Ia., is in great danger of being left inland by a strong current in the Ohio, which threatens to transfer square miles of the sacred soil of Kentucky to the north side of the river, thus leaving the city many miles from water. It is proposed to ask Congress to stop the transfer and keep the river in its old bed by rip-rap works, or sinking barges of stone, as was done above St. Louis some years ago.

THE Bakersfield "Californian" says that during the late storm in Kern county the force of the wind was such that the surface of the plain, over an extent of many hundreds of acres was blown completely away and left as bare of any sign or vestige of grass as the streets of a city.

Cost of the Survival of the Fittest.

It has been calculated by a recent writer on vital statistics, that of ten children born in Norway a little over seven reach their twentieth year; that in England and the United States of America somewhat less than seven reach that age; that in France only five reach it, and in Ireland less than five. He tells us that in Norway, out of 10,000 born, rather more than one out of three reaches the age of seventy; in England one out of four; in the United States, if both sexes be computed, less than one out of four; in France less than one out of eight, and in Ireland, less than one out of eleven; and he adds this significant computation, based on what may be called the commercial view of the vital question: In producing dead machinery the cost of all that is broken in the making is charged to the cost of that which is completed. If we estimate by this same rule the cost of rearing children to manhood, if we calculate up the number of years lived by those who fell with the years of those who passed successfully to manhood, there would be found between the two extremes presented in Norway and Ireland—both, be it observed, unnatural—a loss of 120 per cent greater in the first year of life, 75 per cent greater in the first four years of life, and 120 per cent greater in the years between the fifth and the twentieth, in Ireland than in Norway. In Norway the average length of life of the effective population is 39 and rather more than a half years, in England 35½ years, in France not quite 33 years, and in Ireland not quite 29 years. Thus, again comparing the best with the worst of a scale of vitality, in which both are bad, in Norway the proportion of the population that reaches 20 survives nearly forty years, or four-fifths of the effective period, to contribute to the community, while in Ireland the same proportion survives less than 29 or considerably under three-fifths of the effective period.

An Underground River.

Mete Green, not long since while out with his cattle, made a most startling discovery and one that may possibly take its place among the grand wonders of Idaho. He was riding along early in the morning on the divide between Indian Creek and Snake River, when his horse sprang aside, snorted, and otherwise gave evidence of having seen or heard something unusual. The spot was on a little knoll on the comb of the ridge, and Mete, who had been almost asleep, taking a sweep around with his eyes to learn the cause of his horse's behavior, finally rested his vision on what seemed to be a hole in the ground a faw paces distant. Dismounting he was soon looking into a funnel-shaped orifice fifteen or twenty feet deep by ten or twelve at its rim in diameter. At the bottom of this funnel—the soil giving out there—was a rift in the rock two or three feet in width by four or five in length, which seemed to open into the very bowels of the earth. Through this aperture came up from the depths below a terrible roaring, as if a leaping cataract, a mighty rush of waters, tumbling over rocks. The ground trembled, and the subterranean noise continued uninterruptedly. Mete remained some time, and the longer he listened the more convinced he became that what he heard was running water, but how far down to the stream he could not even conjecture—it might have been a few feet or half way to China. And as the fissure was large enough to take him in should his foot slip or "head swim,' his observation was not an extended one. The principal thing he did while there was to listen low and strong and think loud—at a safe distance from the brink of the hole.—[Idaho Democrat.

IT takes a pretty good assayer to get a seventy-dollar assay out of a seventy-cent rock.—Grantsville Bonanza. That's nothing. Some of the most prominent assayers in the mining regions have made two-thousand dollar assays out of two-cent rock, and only charged five dollars a whack for doing it.

Dreams and Their Conditions.

Dreams are night thoughts, unchecked by the judgment and uncontrolled by the will. It is not true that we do not reason in dreams, that the exercise of the judgment is wholly suspended and that the will is entirely powerless or ceases to act. These faculties are not altogether in abeyance, but they doze while the subordinate powers of the mind—those which play the parts of picture carriers and record binders—ransack the treasures of memory and mingle together, in the direst confusion, old things and new. Imagination is not active, but it remains just enough awake to supply the connecting links which give seeming continuity to those parts of the phantasmagoria which we chance to remember on recovering self-consciousness, and which, being remembered, we call "dreams." No one remembers more than one dream, unless he has roused from sleep more than once. This experience has led to the inference that dreams only occur at the moment or in the act of awaking. There are dreams which take place in the process of returning to consciousness—for example, those instantaneous scenes and spectacles which are suggested by the sound or feeling that rouses the dreamer; but, in result of a long and close study of the subject with a view to discover the nature of dreams and the laws of dreaming, for medical purposes, in connection with the treatment of sleeplessness, I am pursuaded that dreams occur in the course of sleep and are wholly forgotten.

That they do not and cannot take place in deep sleep is probable, because deep sleep is general sleep, and when this state prevails the subordinate faculties are sleeping, and the pictures and records which compose dreams are not disturbed. To understand dreams we must understand sleep, and it is because the two phenomena have not hitherto been studied together that so little is generally known about either.—[Popular Science Monthly.

THE point has been raised, and meets with the approval of some of the best legal minds of the country, that there is no power in a militany Court-martial to sentence a prisoner to the penitentiary in time of peace. The function of such a proceeding is claimed to rest entirely with the civil Courts, and an effort on this account, is being made to have Sergeant Mason released from imprisonment on habeas corpus. In the meantime, the strong effort made to secure his pardon by the President may relieve both military and civil tribunals from further responsibilty in the matter.

JOHNNIE SKAE, says the Carson "Appeal," who manipulated the big Sierra Nevada deal three years ago and subsequently got broke on it, seems to have boen taken under the protective wing of the bonanza firm again. Last week he was elected Director of the Utah Mining Company. It is also said that within the past six months he has cleaned up $250,000 on Arizona and New Mexico mining properties. It appears that in place of being born with a silver spoon in his mouth he must have had a golden tea service in his stomach at that time.

ACCORDING to Lord Desart, Lord Hartington wrote to Lord Spencer the other day to consult him in the matter of a pair of horses. The latter, without reading the postscript forwarded the note to a friend in the Carlton, whom he considered qualified to decide the question asked by the Chief Secretary for India. The Tory, however, happening to turn over the page, found, to his infinite entertainment, the following P. S.: "When will this d—— Government be out!"

UNDER the decision of the Supreme Court, about $1,500,000 of duties exacted from sugar importers will have to be returned by the Government.

SATURDAY, APRIL 1.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE provisions of the Anti-Polygamy bill may be succinctly stated. It reaffirms that polygamy is a misdemeanor which, upon proper conviction, shall be punished by fine and imprisonment. It excludes from jury service polygamists, whether practically or theoretically such. It makes ample provision for amnesty, at the hands of the President, for past offenses, upon proper conditions. It legitimates the issue of Mormon marriages born before the 1st of January, 1883. It disfranchises all polygamists or bigamists. It debars them from holding any office or place of public trust, honor, or emolument in any territory under the jurisdiction of the United States. It provides for a Board to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice of the Senate, which shall canvass all the votes at elections, and issue certificates to such persons as shall appear to be lawfully elected. The members of the Board are to be drawn from not less than two political parties. The first powers of the Board are unavoidably large, but they witl become smaller after a reformed Legislature can properly provide by law for the reorganization of the Territory.

THE S. P. R. R. has three miles of track laid and ten miles graded, on the thirty-fifth parallel, from Mohave station to the Needles. At the Needles they will connect with the Atchison & Topeka end, leading from Santa Fe and Albuquerque to that point. The road is being pushed with energy, and the iron horse will probably reach Calico some time in July, which point will be about 480 miles from San Francisco, thus enabling contractors and others who purchase their supplies and machinery in San Francisco to receive them in Calico via this route as cheap, if not cheaper, than by the Los Angeles route. The line will run through near Black's ranch, passing near the Wells, a distance of two miles from Calico mountain, at which point Messrs. Earl & Garnett propose to sink a well and pump the water to the foot of Calico mountain, where a 20-stamp silver mill will be constructed at once by those parties.

ACCORDING to the Arizona papers it is not difficult to sell mines in that Territory. Such is not the case in this city. A well-defined ledge, sixteen feet in width, free milling ore, in permanent formation and going sixteen thousand dollars per ton, pulp assay, could not be sold here for as much as one ton of the ore would yield, unless you made the customer a present of a ton for a sample and paid for the reduction yourself; and even then your customer might think it would be safer to put the coin into United States bonds.—S. F. Stock Report.

Kerect! We are glad to see the Stock Report confirm our expressed opinion regarding San Francisco mining operators.

IN the strict sphere of its use as currency, there is no more reason that a piece of silver should bear an intrinsic commercial value, than that a two-dollar bill should be twice as large as a one dollar bill, or that either should contain paper sufficient when sold by the pound to bring a dollar in gold. We take without hesitation a piece of worthless paper, marked one dollar, because others will receive it from us at the same rate. It is used as a medium of exchange, not as a product to be bought and sold in the market.

WE are indebted to Senator Jno. F. Miller for a copy of his great speech on the anti-Chinese immigration bill, which was certainly a great effort. There is a growing uneasiness now about the President's delay in approving the bill, and fears are expressed of another executive veto. It is always the unexpected which happens, but if it does so happen, it will make things hot on this Coast.

IN a brief mention of the question of annexing Inyo and Mono to Nevada, the millionaire backers of the San Francisco Examiner say, simply, "Not much." That settles the business, and we presume people are hereafter estopped from discussing the matter at all.

IT is said that the telephone refuses to work in the deep mines on the Comstock. The magnets rust in a few hours so that nothing goes through. Some were tried in the Sutro tunnel, inclosed in air-tight boxes, but they failed to operate.

GALENA and copper ores are just now attracting more attention than any other there being a great demand in that direction.

INYO County matters are in statu quo, pretty much, but the railroad is making good headway in this direction.

MINING PATENTS—THE COST.

About every other day the question is asked, "How much does it cost to obtain a mining patent?" We will assume that the required $500 worth of labor has been expended upon the mine, and proceed to answer as near as may be as follows:

The advance fee for office work in the U. S. Surveyor General's office in San Francisco on each and every claim is $40. The fees of Deputy Mineral Surveyor may be averaged at $100. Such would be the charge for surveying a single claim, or it might be reduced one half where there were several to make in one locality. We believe such charge is made upon the basis of $20 per day. The fees of the Register and Receiver of the local land office amount to $10, the cost of advertising will average say $40, depending entirely upon the length of the description, which may be long or concise. The cost of posting notices on the mine and the affidavits of witnesses may be set down at $20. In most cases an attorney will have to be employed, whose fee should not exceed $100 for all clerical work. Then add the final Governmeni charge for the land at $5 per acre for a quartz claim. One 1500x600 feet contains a fraction over 21 acres, and consequently costs say $107. Thus we have the sum of $417 as a fair and average estimate of the cost of securing a Government patent, and a perfect title to a full sized quartz claim. Whatever a mine may be worth in the market its value is doubled when thus protected against cloudy titles, black-mailers or jumpers.

LETTER FROM ARIZONA.

GUNSIGHT MINES,
Western Pima Co., A. T., Mar. 20.

The most striking object in the flora of Arizona is the giant cactus, known as the sahuaro—that is, that's the way its name is spelled, but so near as I can find letters to indicate, it is pronounced Sa-waur-ah. Viewed from a distance, these sahuaros look just like a scattered forest of trees broken short off half way to the top, and for the most part, every branch gone—simply a lot of stumps, a foot or more in diameter, and from thirty to forty feet high. At closer range, they don't look that way at all; more like a gigantic tobacco or tomato worm standing erect, its head forty feet or thereabouts in the air. Its body is a pale green, in parts merging into a dark purple, and, as described by some writer, with flutings like a Corinthian column. These flutings reach to a depth of about two inches, with intervening ridges of exactly corresponding shape, and running from near the ground to the top with wonderful regularity and perfect symmetry. At regular intervals, though nearly touching each other, are bunches of small, white thorns, situated on the crest of the ridges, but not elsewhere; each bunch or "rosette" of thorns maintaining a size proportionate to the surrounding parts, all of which gradually enlarge for about one-third the distance up, there gradually diminishing to the top, where the flutings converge to a common center, leaving the top itself as round as a ball, and about as large as the body near the ground. This bristling summit bears, sometime during the early summer, a pear shaped fruit, which, with the natives, ranks as tip-top "hogadie." Its taste is said to resemble that of the fig. There is not a leaf or twig on any part of the trunk; and for the most part, not even a branch of any kind; occasionally, however, one is to be seen with one or more branches, springing straight out from the main trunk at any convenient point, curving up or down or sideways, as the case may be, and, in cross section, built exactly like the parent stem, size excepted. These branches, by their peculiar shape often remind one of the horns of a Texas steer; and are as often described as "standing out like a sore finger." Altogether, the sahuaro is a most unique institution; repulsive as it is striking. In the main, its body is composed of a fleshy substance, not unlike a green pumpkin; half way toward the center a circle of woody ribs is found, running parallel to each other, from root to top. These ribs, when rotted out, are much used in native architecture, fencing, and the like. It is a notable fact that during the hardest rains, tha moisture is absorbed as fast as it strikes the plant, and in that way, it is said to "make its living" independent of the earth in which it takes root. The largest of these attain a diameter of about two feet; generally about two-thirds that size. There are several varieties of this giant cactus. One of these, though short in stature, is the bisnaya, or which is greatly valued because it supplies a refreshing drink at times and places where no other drink is to be had. But ahead of all stands the mescal, which furnishes the natives not only with food much like cabbage, and drink, stronger than any "old Bourbon," but also material for cordage and coarse fabrics; sugar, too, is made from its juices. The most abominable of the native Arizona outfit of cacti—and their name is legion—is spelled but pronounced cho-yea. This grows four or five feet in height, branching to about the same width or diameter; in color, a greenish white, contrasting nicely with the dark green of other growths; its branches run a few inches in one direction, then at right angles in another, interlacing with the others into a perfect mat of sharp thorns, the mass being especially suited to the needs of the Apache when he has an enemy in hand for torture. Then thorns grow in separate bunches, or balls, the points standing in all directions. When the main stem decays, these balls of thorns become scattered far and near, ready to penetrate anything, even a boot, that comes in contact with it. They are got up on the same principle as the quill of the porcupine, barbed and can hardly be withdrawn at all. As

"WELL OF THE DESERT,"

"CHOLLA"

A STORY FOR THE VERY LITTLE FOLKS,

It must be related that the Con. G. M. & M. Co.'s half-grown Thomas cat, surnamed Maginnis, came in one evening, all stuck up with bunches of chollas. As them got up, bristling all over with thorns, Maginnis could have taken a leading part in any village cat fight and got off without a scratch. But his system for a defensive war was not satisfactory, since one set of the points were working on himself while holding the opposite ones ready for outside attack. And it took some heroic surgery, and considerable cat fur to remedy his mistake on that point. It was his own mistake, for there was not a small boy in fifty miles to aid in the matter. Animals of all kinds soon learn to keep an eye out for the chollas.

A very beautiful member of the cactus family, if it belongs to that family at all is the ocho tillo (o-co-tee-yo), but I shall attempt no description, other than to say it grows in clusters of small poles, with short thorns two or three inches apart, with a bunch of small leaves and a purple flower for each thorn—as it now appears, a wreath of green and purple, and white and black, the bark being striped with the two latter.

GRASS AND WATER.

The most valuable grass of the country is the granna—a bunch grass, which attains a hight of two feet or thereabouts, branching wide from a single small stem. Some portion of the straw or blade is always green and growing, though, casually viewed, the whole appears dead and worthless. It is considered quite equal to timothy for horses and cattle. Haying, with those who need a daily supply of hay, goes on the year through, Winter and Summer alike.

The only mowing machine used or needed, is a heavy "nigger-hoe" with which the separate bunches are cut off at the ground; in this manner, one man may gather a wagon load in half a day. The granna or some other grasses suited for stock, is found everywhere throughout this region. There is no mistake about it, but this whole section is well suited for grazing purposes—that is, for large numbers of horses and cattle, but not for sheep, the last excepted because of stickers on certain grasses, as well as chollas and other thorny growths. The scarcity of water is the principal, if not the only drawback to it as a stock country. Water can be had, no doubt, for large herds, by digging, but it is pretty safe to say that every such well may cost from $500 to $1,000 or more. And it also safe to say that no stock-man should think of driving his herds into this region until after he makes a personal survey, especially in reference to water, both en route and for a range. To sum that up, there is an abundance of feed and wide ranges for stock in this part of Arizona, and a wide market in easy reach for beef cattle in particular, but, until water is first artificially provided for it is no plan at all to bring stock.

AS TO MINING MATTERS.

Since rather important developments have recently been made in two or three mines within a mile or so of the Gunsight, and, in general, the outlook for the district may be considered as quite flattering. It is clear, though, that its future depends almost altogether upon the solution of the water question. A well being dug in the valley near by has reached a depth of 120 feet and no water yet. To find a sufficiency of that element is a leading object in sinking the Gunsight shaft, since the mine itself may now be considered as developed in itself, though the shaft is needed for advantageous working, even if a supply of water could be had without it. The chances are that several months must elapse before a reliable supply is reached in this shaft.

HOW A MINING SHAFT IS SUNK.

There are lots of people, even in a mining locality, who know but little of the modus operandi of sinking a mining shaft; hence the following, as referring to the way it is done on the Gunsight shaft. To receive the timbers of a three-compartment shaft, like this, a hole 8x20 feet or thereabouts has to be blasted out, requiring the removal of about ten tons of rock for each vertical foot. When the rock breaks "under," as it often does, owing to the way the seams run, two or three tons more may be added. To properly timber up such a shaft, including the large amount of lumber and square timbers cut up into short lengths for wedges, blocks, etc., so as to firmly secure the lagging and timbering proper, some 25,000 feet of lumber is required for every 100 feet depth of shaft—at $80 per thousand, is not a trifling item of cost of itself. A shift generally comprises five men; four to work in the shaft, drilling, shoveling, etc., and one or more on top to attend the windlass, supposing that primitive machine to constitute the hoisting works, as it generally does, till after a sufficient depth is attained to permit the use of other machinery without risk of damage from the blasting below. When but "two shifts" are worked, each shift works ten hours; when "three shifts" are put on, the working time of each is eight hours, in which case, of course, the work goes on every hour in the 24. When the debris of previous blasts is all hoisted out, the work of drilling for the next blast begins. Except in special cases or positions, each of the four men holds and strikes his own drill, which system is known as "single-handed" drilling, in contra-distinction to the older and once most common method of "double-handed," where one man held the drill for another, or perhaps two or three others, to strike with double handed sledges. There is no material difference in the aggregate of work accomplished as between the single or double-handed work, but as there are a great many "I told you so's" among miners, as well as among other people, single-handed drilling is preferred both by miners and employers; each man can use his own judgment as to where to drill, and that sort of thing, and there is no one to tell him "I told you so" when results of the blast fall short of expectations. Single-handed hammers weigh from four to five pounds each; the handles rarely exceed ten inches in length. Once started in to drilling, the men seem to vie with each other in the force and effect of their blows upon the drill head and rock, as also in the grunts that seem to be needed to give the proper emphasis to the whole operation. Drilling goes on continuously till near the close of the shift. As soon as one hole is drilled to a sufficient depth, generally from one and a half to two or more feet, another is begun. As a rule each man will drill an aggregate of four feet during a shift, after clearing out the debris left by the one preceeding. To accomplish that amount, he will dull from forty to eighty drills, according to the nature of the rock he may be cutting. It will be noticed from this that it takes several hundred drills constatly on hand, and being resharpened, to supply the work for each day and night. About half an hour before the close of the shift, the station tender is ordered to "send down the powder," the number of "sticks" (of powder) being stated. Soon a box containing the required amount of powder, caps and fuse, altogether, is carefully lowered. The powder looks much like new "link sausage," and apparantly not a whit more dangerous. Every tool and implement of whatever description, tamping rods excepted, is first sent to the top, and the work of charging the several holes begins. The fuse is cut to proper lengths and capped; the paper covering of the powder is slit open from end to end; then rammed home so as to completely fill the full diameter of the hole. From one or less to three sticks of the explosive, each eight inches in length, may be used to charge one two-foot hole. Ramming this powerful compound compactly down is a dangerous operation, though miners deem giant powder as less dangerous than the common black powder. After the fuse, with its treacherous copper cap of dynamite, is quietly pushed down on the charge in place, a stick or part of a stick of the giant is run down upon the cap, that the explosion of the latter may be made more certain. The hole is then filled to the top with sand, clay, water or other tamping at hand. The work of charging the holes goes on rapidly, yet carefully, as if every man fully realized that he was engaged in a very delicate business, one that permitted no foolishness of any sort. This done, two of the four men are hoisted to the top. The remaining two, after placing rawhides over the entire bottom to prevent the flying rock from destroying timbers overhead, light a piece of candle for each hole to be fired, placing one near, but not in contact with each projecting fuse. One of these two is then hoisted to the top. The one yet in the shaft, which we will suppose to be say forty feet deep, after being assured that the windlass is double-manned, and all ready for hoisting, rapidly places each blazing bit of candle in contact with a fuse; Viewing this operation from above, one might think that this miner there by himself far below, lighting death under and all around him must be a brave man indeed; yes, even fool-hardy, as he stands, after each twinkling light is in place, even after first one fuse and then another begins to "spit," calmly scrutinizing each in turn, the while as if he were a priest performing some mystic ceremony—all this, before singing out, "hoist away!" This signal given, he is run to the top as fast as two strong men can do it, working with might and main; but the speed is like the snail's, as the miner can but feel as he notes the little lights just below, knowing that in a few seconds more, they will start a veritable earthquake that must inevitably send him to eternity should he be that many seconds too slow in getting out of this crater of his own creating. He can but see that by this time every fuse is spitting, and spitefully, too. Suppose any one of the eight or ten should be defective! Habit changes natures; still, I fancy habit never can change a man so that when he stands as here described—creeping at a snail's pace up from certain destruction at his feet, alone, as it were, and utterly helpless if solely dependent upon his own powers to help himself — habit can never drive wholly from his thoughts the fear that pending possibilities may bridge that dragging moment into one of eternity! But, after all, the "last man up," never seems to think it worth while speaking about; and maybe, it isn't. As soon as his head appears, he, or some one, sings out as a warning for all in hearing: "Fire! Ten holes!" (sometimes it is as high as fourteen holes). Even old Nanny goat and her two kids, whose memories turn back to the days of the flying rock of surface blasting—even old Nanny, likewise the untutored Papago Indian, yaping around for a chance to steal something, each and all understand the danger signal, and go without regard to the order of their going; and so far as Nanny is concerned, with but precious little sense as to what way she ought to go to be safe; but she goes all the same. A few seconds pass, sometimes half a minute, and the first report from the depth is heard; perhaps two or three together, then an interval of a dozen or more seconds, comes another and another deep, wicked and tearing boom, one after another the very sound denoting a force that literally shakes the earth like an earthquake. The shots are carefully counted, but often with uncertain results, as when two or three shots occur at the same instant. One, perhaps, two holes have made no report. A little more time than usual is given before descending the smoking shaft. Search is made for the "live holes." The fuse may have been blown out by one of the other explosions. In that case a portion only of the tamping is carefully removed, another charge is placed in the hole, and, in due course, is fired: this top charge, generally, by its concussion, being sufficient to explode that remaining at the bottom. Oftener, the bit of candle has been knocked away before igniting its fuse, the latter remaining intact. This simplifies the case, as it only remains to repeat the original operation, signal and all, this time the signal being "Fire, one hole!" but demoralizing old Nanny, the kids, et als, just the same as if it were for a dozen holes. Then again, the miss may be a "stinker." (CAUTION.—The compositor must not pervert the last sentence by using a cap. M.) This name is properly applied in cases of the kind under consideration, because of the foul smell occasioned by the slowly burning giant powder. A "stinker" means that the black powder of the fuse has failed to explode the fulminate of the cap, without which the giant powder can rarely be exploded, yet at the same time has ignited the latter, which will then slowly burn like dry, rotten wood, the smoke (and smell) finding vent through the fuse, continiung for two hours or even more, before it is entirely consumed. The smell has often been the means of saving the anxious miner from destruction, especially in workings without free circulation of air. But for that smell those not acquainted with the danger of the operation would naturally attempt to extinguish the burning mass in the hole by pouring in water. To do this, as I am assured by experienced miners, is to invite destruction, since the effect of the water is to instantly cause an explosion of the remaining giant powder, just as if it had been produced by the cap itself. Why this is so may be but a chemical theory, but the fact is given as a curious fact, as well as a warning to all miners who may have to deal with "stinkers," yet have not learned their dangerous character.

What with falling rocks, caving ground, danger of being blown to atoms; of breaking ropes and machinery; of danger constantly above, around and beneath him, saying nothing of his hardest of toil, the miner richly earns his daily four dollars, and let no "bloated stinker" of a mine owner forget it.

CHALFANT.

Life in the Snow.

LUNDY, March 16.

We have been experiencing such a particularly h— of a time and not knowing what may happen in the next 24 hours I thought it best to post you on some of our little episodes; but, if you get this at all, it will be several days on account of blockades in every direction. The cause of all this trouble is snow—simply snow; the like of which was never dreamed of here. We were congratulating ourselves that we did not live in the Mississippi bottoms, when Providence concluded to try the patience of an honest community and has succeeded wonderfully in the past 48 hours, during which time it has been hurling avalanche after avalanche of snow at us from every concievable direction. Eight days since the storm commenced and the snow began to descend with a regularity and persistence that will not admit of comparison. Yesterday afternoon these avalanches, comprised of hundreds of tons of compact snow, began to boom down the mountain sides and sometimes striking rocky benches or other impediments would rebound from a hundred to a thousand feet high in the air and in the next instant land, as it were, from the clouds in the deep and rugged canoñs. Massive pine trees 300 feet high or a log cabin would not resist the terrible force of one of these prodigious snowballs one whit more than would a paper toy-house. Slides would start with a rapidity simply astounding and glide thousands of feet down the precipitous mountain sides with a swirl and hissing noise carrying everything before them. The first one we experienced in town jumped a gorge and came down from the clouds far out in the little valley fully a quarter of a mile from the face of the mountain like a shower of frozen thunder bolts, demolishing three houses and burying many more that were situated on the margin of the slide. Stalwart men were soon on hand forcing their way in making a trail up the street through six feet of snow and soon rescued women and children—some of whom escaped serious injuries with the fatality incident to such catastrophies. Soon after another slide occurred directly above town on the west side, but, striking an immense barrier of rocks on the margin of a bench, it was entirely broken up into a fine mist of snow which showered down upon us amidst the cries of danger and the shrieks of women. The light of day was almost obscured for several minutes.

Again, last night, with the everlasting snow still falling heavily—the darkness almost inpenetrable and the weird mass of white on every side—a substantial log cabin on the east side of Chicago Avenue was knocked into a shapeless heap. Three men occupied the place. Two brothers, named Bagby, were sleeping together—one of them heard the racket, and as he raised up, the snow, accompanied by a vast quantity of debris, shot between the men, forcing one out and the other down into or under the ruins. The third man, named Isabell, was made a prisoner, being wedged in between moderate sized saw logs. About noon to-day came the most appalling news. A man living in Lake Cañon above town brought the startling intelligence of a big slide coming from near the May Lundy mine, and after a run of about 1000 feet, struck the hotel known as the Trumbell House, carrying away the the roof and second floor and completely demolishing the remainder of the house. Six men were sleeping in the house and all were buried—but one escaping and another saved subsequently by the relief party 17 hours after the occurrence. The relief party was at first composed of nearly all the best men in town, but, on attempting to climb the first ascent—900 feet—into Lake Cañon, all but about six, who were supplied with snow-shoes, were obliged to return. These half dozen brave men, headed by Dan Cameron—an old time Inyoite—pushed on as it were in the face of death. Slides were running on all sides of them: any one of which would have, in the right direction, engulphed the whole party. On arriving at the scene it was discovered that the man, named Steve Trumbell, who escaped, had been carried 100 yards or more and had landed on his feet, which position enabled him to extricate himself and call for help. But one neighbor lived near and he came to the rescue. The party then set to work with a will and were soon rewarded by hearing the moans of one of the victims. A man known as Frank Hablitzel was brought to the surface and resuscitated with a little whisky. He had lain on his back perfectly helpless for 17 hours. A vigorous prosecution of the work brought forth three bodies—cold in death—and were recognized as Robert J. Trumbell, owner of the house; Alex. McKeon and Henry Shoemaker. Another unfortunate named D. B. Grant could not be found. A messenger was dispatched to town and preparations were ot once inaugarated by J. C. Kemp, Manager of the Great Sierra Con. Silver Co., to send out another expedition.

THE DREARY SEVENTEENTH.

A party of brave miners succeeded in climbing part way up the hill when they were met by the rescuers who had remained on the mountain over night and brought the information that three more slides, more destructive than the first, had scoured and had so thoroughly obliterated every old landmark, that it was simply impossible to recover the bodies or prosecute farther search. Hablitzel, the wounded man, was borne down the mountain on an impromptu sled made of snow-shoes, and properly cared for. He is seriously injured, and suffering from asphyxia. During the day Harry P. Medlicott, a Justice of the Peace, was aided into town from the Gorilla mine, where he had been buried. He only received a few unimportant scratches and bruises. Men in charge of the May Lundy mine were seen to move about their lofty perch, situated in the projecting rocks like an eagle's eyrie, about 12,000 feet elevation; but they are considered comparatively safe, as they are above where the slides originate.

TIOGA DISTRICT SUFFERS.

Friday has opened with sunshine, but bitterly cold and windy. Toward night two men came in from the Sierras Co.'s tunnel at Tioga District, nine miles distant, and report the commodious boarding house and office completely demolished. Twenty-one men were buried in the ruins; however, by dint of fine management and presence of mind they all escaped much injury except Robt. W. Woolard, clerk and home secretary of the company. He and F. Kemp had not retired, and were sitting a few feet from their bed in the office, when the slide struck the house, smashing the bed, as well as almost everything else in the room, into splinters. Woolard, when extricated, was found bound fast by timbers across his feet and legs, and also head and shoulders. The lamp had ignited the bed, and in five minutes time would have roasted him and his partner alive. He is reported not dangerously hurt. The other men were sleeping in the log house department and owing to the embankment of snow and ice, the lower tiers of logs saved them. The mouth of the tunnel at the mine was caved in for a short distance by other slides.

EIGHTEENTH.

The storm commenced 9th and it snowed continually to date except a little sunshine on 11th and 17th. Our town is no longer safe, and we are considering what to do with the women and children.

The Ancient Relic.

EDITOR "INYO:"—The facts concerning the finding of the so-called "Chinese lamp," are as follows:

The lamp, or whatever the curious thing is, was discovered by Louis Munzinger and J. D. Quinn, while digging a drain from the cellar of the Centennial Brewery. It was in wash granite gravel, four feet from the surface, in ground unbroken and which had never been filled in, to the knowledge of any white man familiar with the town from its earliest occupancy. Sam Lee, the best educated Chinaman in Lone Pine, failed to describe it, nor did he know of its intended use. The Indians disclaimed all knowledge of such a thing, for either use or ornament. While it is a fact, that in '66 or 67, there was a China house in the vicinity, no one knowing the circumstances and conditions of the find will suppose for a moment that any heathen, unable to explain what it was, ever took the trouble to plant it four feet deep. The ground showed layers of gravel, quick-sand, streaks of charcoal, and some clay, showing unmistakable evidence of the article having been deposited hundreds of years ago.

J. H. Dodge, Louis Munzinger, and myself, agree now, as we did before, that the find is genuine, and of itself a sufficient curiosity to excite a careful examination and investigation by scientific men. We considered it worthy of place in a museum, as a curiosity, at least. Yours, etc.,

C. D. BEGOLE.

WATER.—From an INDEPENDENT representative who lately paid a brief visit to Lone Pine, we hear that the new water works have been generally pronounced a complete success. The streets are well supplied with hydrants and hose, the water pressure being all sufficient for purposes of sprinkling, irrigating and protection against fire. New connections are being made to the houses in the southern end of town. Charley Begole is said to have already tasted of the new liquid element. In fact, the enterprise has been most commendable and highly successful.

THE SICK LIST.—Dr. W. H. George, who was, a week or so ago, able to be out on crutches, has suffered a relapse and is having a most serious time of it with inflammatory rheumatism. Supervisor Meysan, of Lone Pine, is reported to have been quite ill for several days. J. Wal. Phillips, who, a week or two ago, fell and broke one of the bones of his right leg, is getting along favorably but slowly. Billy Staines has been having a rough deal of it with the rheumatism.

SCHOOL LIBRARIES.—On the 4th page this week we reprint the list of school library books authorized and adopted by the County Board of Education, with some slight typographical corrections. The list is comprehensive enough for Trustees to make any sort of selections, to the extent of money on hand; it runs through history, biography, poetry, prose and fiction—Munchausen and Gulliver's travels.

MINING TRANSFER.—Yesterday there was placed upon the County records a deed from Antonio Moreno to Nieves Moralis, "to her heirs, assigns, etc., forever," 150 feet in each of the following well-known Beveridge District mines: The Keynot, True Business, Tamarack, Ibex, Alturas, Avo, Mexican, Eclipse, Justice, and the Hidalgo. Consideration, in the deed, $3,000.

HERE.—Among the mining operators lately visiting our quiet burg there were Mr. Geo. T. Hawley, of the Owens Lake M. & M. Co.; Supt. M. A. Wheeler, of the Palma; W. A. Greenly, of—a whole lot of properties at Deep Springs; Judge J. S. Jamison of Esmeralda Co., and R. R. Hawkins, of San Francisco.

LONE PINE HOTEL.—In the advertising columns this week will be noticed an advertisement of the well-known Lone Pine Hotel, Mr. John Barnes, proprietor. It is one of the best managed and most popular institutions in the valley.

FOR CALICO.—During the past week Phil. Cartier and Geo. Desalier set out with a good prospectors' outfit for the Calico country in San Benardino. G. W. Brady and Billy Lake are preparing for striking out in the same direction.

JUSTICE COURT.—In Justice Thomas Parker's Court, on the 29th instant, Supervisor E. Robinson plead guilty to a charge of battery upon H. Levy, and paid a fine of $7 50.

THE LAST.—Our late senior announces, privately, that the lengthy letter given elsewhere is probably the last from that section, as he proposes to "be home in two weeks."

REMOVED.—B. Saccocia, of the Lone Pine Fruit store, has removed his establishment to the Begole building. His new advertisement will appear next week.

PAINTING.—See the card of S. C. Hillman, elsewhere, and consult him about getting some painting done.

WARM.—The last three or four days of warm weather has brought the fruit trees into full blossom.

NO GO.—The town is too dull to experience much excitement even over the usual pastimes of All-Fools Day.

John Loomiller, who was furnished money by the county authorities of Jackson County, Or., a few years ago to enable him to reach his friends in Jacksonville, Ill., has returned the sum with interest. He says that he has become religious since arriving East and believes that he obtained the money under false pretenses, therefore desires to return it.

THERE are 500 Land Leaguers in jail in Ireland.

DEEP SPRINGS SIFTINGS.

This well known mining district is not in its last throes of death, but is steadily coming to the front with its vast mineral resources. Mr. James Cross, a mining man of vast experience throughout the Pacific Coast, accompanied by a wealthy capitalist from San Francisco, paid the district a visit last week, examining properties. "Basalt" is satisfied that Jim means business. The Half Dollar owners are sinking their shaft at a lightning speed, and winding up the Company's business at the present depth is no easy task; Sam Chalmers is busy collecting machinery catalogues and price lists, to ascertain the cost of hoisting works. In appraising the merits of this mine, pen and ink can not do it justice.

M. J. Byrnes is making extensive preparations to resume work on the Trade Dollar. A Mrs. Flaherty, formerly of Candelaria, has taken possession of Antelope Springs. Whether she bought the property from A. Jaqueth, or McSweeny, the writer knoweth not. However, she proposes to raise vegetables on a large scale. Mr. Elisé, of the Mayrock, has struck a fine bunch of highgrade metal. The Oriental mine, engineered by Messrs. Jordan and Black, is looming into prominence. Mr. O. K. Berry, who holds the archives of this district from a modern date to the present is in excellent spirits. Messrs. Greenly & Broder are at present building a new and shorter trail to their diggings.

Mail facilities are none the best, since our worthy P. M. General at the city of magnificent distances has discontinued the Post office at Gilbert's. The inconsistency of the thing—keeping an office at Piper's for the benefit of one family only, and passing by a large number of prospectors and miners in the White Mountain range.

The prospects for a general boom in this section are favorable. You have had your Pioche, Bodie, Tombstone, and snide stock booms on the Comstock, but ours will assume a different shape. It will be bullion constantly booming out of the district.

BASALT.

Some Pertinent Remarks from Judge T. H. Wells.

Editor Herald:—I have read with careful attention and much pleasure the communication of P. W. Bennett, Esq., to the INYO INDEPENDENT, copied into your issue of the 18th inst., on the subject of the cession by California to Nevada of the territory comprising Inyo, Mono and Alpine counties. On the general proposition I fully concur in all Mr. Bennett says, and do not believe the annexation of that portion of our sister State to this would encounter any opposition from the people of Nevada. But, as this is a matter I felt deeply interested in and paid some attention to for more than fifteen years, I deem it not improper to make some suggestions pertinent thereto, inasmuch as I have heard some discussion as to how the cession and annexation can be made complete. On this point, I undertake to say that no action on the part of Nevada, or of Congress, is necessary in order to consummate this object, but simply an act of cession on the part of California; that is if the cession be not extended to any part of California lying south of the 37th degree of north latitude. Reference to the 14th Article of the Constitution of Nevada shows that as bounded by that instrument, this State did not extend further south than the above mentioned degree; and then in a proviso, says: "That all such territory lying west of and adjoining the boundry line herein prescribed, which the State of California may relinquish to the Territory or State of Nevada, shall thereupon be embraced within and constitute a part of this State." This provision of the fundamental law of Nevada has been acceded to, by its adoption, so far as this State is concerned, and by Congress by admitting Nevada into the Union, her Constitution containing that provision; and so it is very plain that whatever territory—little or much—California may cede to Nevada lying west of and adjoining that portion of this State, north of the 37th degree of latitude aforesaid, will, eo instanti, be a part of Nevada, and thus without Congressional action, or Legislative acceptance by this State, for the same has been provided for in advance, in anticipation of such cession, which I hope will be made, changing the boundary to the main summit of the Sierras. But were California to cede to Nevada any of her adjoining territory lying south of said 37th degree, Nevada, by her Legislature, would have to accept the same formally, and Congress in like manner consent thereto 'ere it would be a part of this State, because all of Nevada which lies south of said degree was taken by Congress from Arizona and given to this State, by Act of May 4th, 1866, which addition was formally accepted by Nevada by Joint Resolution during the Legislative session of 1867, (see Nev. statutes 1867). It is, therefore, plainly seen that the proviso to article 14 of the Nevada Constitution does not apply to that part of California lying south of the 37th degree and adjoining the territory added by Congress to Nevada.

T. F. A. CONNELLY, who has been Superintendent of the State Line mill at Gold Mountain, while on a recent visit to Death Valley found a relic of the Brier party which perished in that desolate region thirty-three years ago. The relic is a bone-handled pocket knife with one broken blade. It laid flat in the sand for thirty-three years, and upon being resurrected was found to be in a fair state of preservation. The bone on the side which lay uppermost was eroded and worn off by the elements, but that on the lower side appears nearly perfect, except that it crumbled at the slightest touch. Mr. Connelly proposes presenting the knife to the California Pioneer Society.

EMPRESS, the female elephant at the Zoological Garden, has just passed through one of the interesting changes looked for in her species at about her age, in the shedding of her back, or, as they are called, "milk" teeth. Some days ago Empress seemed a little dull and seemed to have lost her appetite. Secretary Kalb had her watched closely, but could not determine what was the matter until yesterday, when there appeared the crowns of several teeth. These crowns were about three inches long and one half wide, and an inch thick, and made the cause of her indisposition clear. An examination of her mouth corroborated the same thing, the "milkers" having disappeared. Within an hour Empress began to regain her wonted good health, and soon made known that she was longing for something to eat. The loss of her early molars is said to occur at the age of 10 years, and proves the number of her days as given when she was bought as correct. Empress was purchased in Hamburg, Germany, last Summer, arriving at the garden in September, costing, delivered, $3,000.—[St. Louis Globe Democrat.

THE process of embalming is as follows, and is called the "Brunelli process:" 1. The circulatory system is cleansed by washing with cold water till it issues quite clear from the body. This may occupy from two to five hours. 2. Alcohol is injected so as to abstract as much water as possible. This occupies about a quarter of an hour. 3. Ether is then injected to abstract the fatty matter. This occupies from two to ten hours. 4. A strong solution of tannin is then injected. This occupies for imbibition two to ten hours. 5. The body is then dried in a current of warm air passed over heated chloride of calcium. This may occupy two to five hours. The body is then perfectly preserved, and resists decay. The Italians exhibit specimens which are as hard as stone, retain the shape perfectly, and are equal to the best wax models. It will be observed in this process that those substances most prone to decay are removed, and the remaining portions are converted by the tannin into a substance resembling leather.

THE President of the Panama Board of Health writes to the "Star and Herald," of that place, as follows, concerning the terrible mortality among the officers of the Canal Company, making, however, no mention of the laborers on the Canal:

From the data in our possession, the death rate among canal officers, in this city only, to date, has been something over one hundred. Of these, seventy-eight died in the Foreign Hospital, their expenses being paid for by the Canal Company. The others, also classe employes, also died in the same institution. Of the seventy-eight, fifty-five died of Panama, yellow and other fevers. This refers to the city of Panama alone. A considerable number have died on the line and in Colon. Fuller information will be given you later, when our Committee on vital Statistics have completed their labors.

ONE of the most convenient articles to be used in a sick room is a sand bag. Get some clean, fine sand, dry it thoroughly in a kettle on the stove; make a bag about eight inches square of flannel, fill it with dry sand, sew the opening carefully together, and cover the bag with cotton or linen cloth. This will prevent the sand from sifting out, and will also enable you to heat the bag quickly by placing it in the oven, or even on top of the stove. After once using this you will never again attempt to warm the feet or hands of a sick person with a bottle of hot water or a brick. The sand holds the heat for a long time, and the bag can be tucked up to the back without hurting the invalid. It is a good plan to make two or three of the bags and have them ready for use.

FOUR military reservations in Arizona are to be restored to the public domain, viz: Old Camp Crittenden, Camp Goodwin, old Camp Grant, and the Camp Verde Garden. The whole number of acres covered by these reservations is about 13,000—nearly all good tillable land.

Memories of a Pioneer.

A SKETCH.

He sat by the fire on a wintry night and smoked his pipe in silence. It was plain that the memories of the past were passing by like a panorama of dissolving views. Exciting scenes were enacted over again. The storm howls around his little cabin but he does not hear it. His thoughts go wandering back to the time when an aged father and a sorrowing mother clasp for the last time the hand of the only boy. How different were the boyish hopes of that hour, from the realities of the present. Then, he was on the way to fortune, to the golden land far towards the setting sun. The same old story of making a fortune and returning home to provide for the aged parents. His companions hurry him away, and with a sorrowful heart he bids farewell to the old familiar homestead, and rides up the long lane. At the brow of the hill he stops and looks back. The aged father still peers under his hand. His mother presses a kerchief to her eyes. A little sister leans over the gate, with both hands on the pickets. He gives a farewell glance and with his heart in his throat hurries out of sight of the old home. For a few days the changing scenes rob him of his sorrow.

* * * * *

The sun is sinking in the west. The huge canvass-covered wagons come to a standstill. Night comes on and the huge camp fires crackle in their wildest mirth. The weary mules are busy with the meadow grass. Huge piles of rough harness here and there, cast their long shadows, as if retreating from the rising moon. The motley group of men are scattered here and there at various occupations. With a strange pride, the tales of mishaps through the day are related to each willing listener. A younger member of the group silently steals away, as if the silence were a welcome. He finds a fallen tree, and sitting down, gives relief to the pent-up grief. All through the day he had kept his feeling smothered down. Uselessly had he reasoned with himself how childish it was to grieve. Now the tears flowed unrestrained. With bowed head the petted boy gave vent to all his sorrow. No coarse companions now were near to chaff. Home! Home! Were ever the thoughts of that blesseed place more dear to any one before? What would he not give to be back again? Why had that gold fever breathed into his being and tempted him to come? Too late! Too late! He listens to the chirping of a cricket. Yes, even that brings up the recollection of the cricket that chirped beneath the hearthstone at home, when round the blazing fire they cracked the hickory nuts and ate the choice apples. A timid frog, too, taking advantage of the silence croaks out in his gutteral voice. Even this brings up its link in the chain of fond recollections. Every thing seems to point in the same direction, and associate itself with the same thought. He rises from the log and gazes on the old familiar moon as if to her he would relate his troubles. Now crushing out his grief with manly pride, he joins the group of weary faces around the camp fire.

* * * * *

Scenes like these arise and vanish to give place to others. The scorching sun, the toilsome marches that have left their mark upon a manly brow, are viewed again. A smile lights up his face. He pictures to himself a young and suntanned youth, standing on a flume of rushing water, making the sluice fork ring against the pebbles, as he sends them with the glittering fork rattling down the huge bank of tailings. The merry birds warble in the trees overhead. The bright dew sparkles on the grass. The thoughts of home are almost crowded out by the varying incidents of the new life. When at sunset he wanders slowly to a rude camp in the neighboring bushes. Although his feet are wet and his frame chilled, the bright gold is a recompense for all. He jests with his companions, and often on the cool evening air the merry laugh resounds. The rude evening meal is sweetened by the labors of the day. And then the miner casts himself down upon the home-like blankets, stained wfth dust, and travel-worn. The pleasant murmur of the running water bears away his thoughts to dream-land.

* * * * *

The old pioneer rouses from his reverie, and lays another stick on the neglected fire. The storm still roars around his little cabin. The changing wind sends a puff of smoke down the chimney. A dog rouses from his sound nap before the fire, stretches his limbs, then looks up in his master's face, as if wondering if that puff of smoke sent those tear-drops rolling down the bronzed cheeks.

WADE.

On the Estimation of Small Traces of Gold.

It is of considerable interest to geologists, as well as prospectors, to note the rocks containing mere traces of gold; and as they are very abundant even in New York, we often meet with them. There is a porous gneiss at Inwood, New York City, containing appreciable amounts of gold, sintered down from elevations in the north as placer deposits of very weak intensity, and become fixed in the rock. This origin is clearly shown, as there was a very gentle slope through the State, and the amount of gold, probably limited to commence with, was thus widely disseminated over this incline and there fixed by deposits above it, and came into intimate contact with the rock by infiltrating waters taking it into solution and depositing it through the mass. Fissures and basins ocurring in several of the counties in northern central New York intercepted and concentrated parts of the richer portion of ore in its downward movement, and thus gave, in places, the rich indications and yields. But to return to the subject.

There have been a number of of methods proposed to detect the minute quantities of gold occurring in the rocks mentioned above, and in ore tailings, etc.; and having examined and tested every method I have known to be suggested, I have come to the conclusion that the one noticed below yields by far the most satisfactory results if the details are well carried out, and is the most practicable in the field or in the laboratory. I know of no compound which would be formed from natural products by the method which would mislead by staining the ash a color at all similar to the distinctive purple of finely divided gold.

Small parts are chipped from all the sides of a mass of rock amounting in all to about a quarter of an ounce. This is finely powdered in a steel mortar, and well mixed. About half of it is placed in a capacious test tube, and then partly filled with a solution made by dissolving twenty grains of iodine and thirty grains of iodide of potassium in about an ounce and a half of water. The mixture thus formed is thoroughly agitated by shaking and warming, and then after all particles have subsided, dip a piece of pure white filter paper in it, allow it to remain for a moment, then let it drain, and dry it over the spirit lamp. It is then placed upon a piece of platina foil held in a pincers, and this heated to redness over the flame; the paper is speedily consumed; and after heating further to burn off all carbon, it is allowed to cool, and then examined. If at all purple, gold is present in the ore, and the relative amount approximately deduced as much, fair, little, or none. This method takes but little time, and is very trustworthy.—[Nelson H. Darton.

The Eads Interoceanic Ship Railway.

The Senate Committee on Commerce reported favorably, March 4, a bill to incorporate the Interoceanic Ship Railway Company. The bill provides for a guarantee by the United States of a dividend of 6 per cent per annum for fifteen years on $50,000,000 of the capital stock of this company—the total capital stock being $75,000,000—and stipulates that, in return for this assistance, the company shall transport gratis for ninety-nine years the mails, war vessels, and all other property of the United States, and shall transport American merchant vessels for one half the rates charged by the company on all other commerce except that of Mexico. It is further provided that for any advances made by our government under its guarantee the company is to give its bonds, payable in fifteen years, without interest, which bonds, in the event of their non-payment at maturity, are to be receivable for tolls on any American vessel, with ten per cent added to their face value.

The guarantee is to attach to the extent of $5,000,000, when ten miles of the ship railway, and the terminal works connected therewith, shall have been completed and tested in the presence of government engineers, by the safe transportation of a loaded ship, weighing 2,500 tons, from the harbor to the terminus of the said ten mile section and back again, at an average speed of six miles per hour.

Another $5,000,000 is to be guaranteed when another ten-mile section, with the necessary terminal works, shall have been completed and tested in the same manner as the other end of the railway. A commission of engineers, appointed by the President of the United States, is then to examine the intermediate portion of the route, and report whether or not the completion of the ship railway over it is entirely practicable at a cost not exceeding $60,000,000. If the commission reports in the affirmative, the government guarantee is to attach for the remaining $40,000,000 of the $50,000,000 of stock to be guaranteed in accordance with the successive completion of the intermediate sections of the line. If the commission, however, reports in the negative, the bill provides that no further guarantee shall attach until a loaded ship, weighing 4,000 tons, shall have been safely transported over the entire line from ocean to ocean.

E. W. Sinclair writes the Nevada "Transcript" from Tombstone, Arizona: "I would like to correspond with some one who has a mine of rich ores that no one has been able to work with success. I do not believe that there is any gold ore so base that I cannot work it to a fair percentage by a mill process, not a mere assay. I have had a promise for several months of some Meadow Lake ore, from a person here who said he would have it sent him from home, but it has not come, and I would like to try some."

The French Government is seriously considering the colossal project of a ship canal from Bordeaux across the south of France to Narbonne, connecting the Atlantic Ocean with the Mediterranean Sea. The dominant idea is to have another outlet besides the Straits of Gibraltar, which might be blockaded by a hostile armado in case of war.

UNCLE RUFUS HATCH has sailed for Bermuda. As he was stepping on board he dropped the dismal prophecy: "The levees of the Mississippi have given away, but the damage is nothing compared to what will follow when the levees of Wall street are swept away. Look out for the freshet!"

MISERABLE is the life of him who wishes rather to be feared than to be loved.

SATURDAY, APRIL 8.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

EVERY two years the United States mails are weighed while en route through the country for the purpose of gathering statistics relative to the amount of mail matter annually carried, etc., the chief object being to determine the amount of salary of the different railway mail officials of the Government. A railroad weight circular is issued by the Postoffice Department at Washington, under Acts of Congress commencing in the year 1873, the object being: "To ascertain the weight of the mails, the frequency and speed with which they are conveyed, and the dimensions, fixtures and furniture of the car or apartment provided for railway postoffice clerks, or route agents to accompany and distribute the mails on railway routes." This work, says the S. F. Call, was begun on the different railroads on Saturday, April 1st, and will be continued thirty days. Naturally, a large amount of extra service is required by the Postoffice Department, and as the hours are short and the pay good, the General Superintendent of the Pacific Coast Division has received hundreds of applications for positions. From forty to fifty men are reqtired on the Pacific Coast—one extra man in every mail car on each division of the various railroads.

THE telegraph reports that Sitting Bull is willing to have peace, and anxious to see his squaws tilling the soil. The country is also willing to have peace, and anxious to see Sitting Bull and the other bucks, as well as squaws, tilling the soil. What the American Indian needs more than anything else, in this world or the next, is to be put to work and made to earn his own living. The present Government plan of keeping him idle, and paying him an annuity for being a loafer and a vagabond, is mainly responsible for his devilry. It is time to change the method.

AN Ohio paper says the German carp is making its way to all parts of that country. Mr. Abel Wright, who began with two or three dozen carp three years ago, thinks he now has at least a million in his pond at Griffin, Ga. He has sold more than 5,000 at $20 per 100, and cannot keep up with his orders. Mr. Seth Green asserts that an acre of water can be made as profitable as an acre of land, and it does not cost much to make the experiment.

BOSTON recently saw a peculiar sight, the masculine advocates of woman suffrage presenting a petition in its favor and the female opponents of the measure banding in a protest against it. The women declare that they don't care to be burdened with the responsibility of voting, but they say, fairly enough, that all conscientious women would feel bound to do so, because they know that the bad women would turn out in full force at the poll.

A STATION on an Arizona stage route is named Bumble Bee, and the other day, while Gen. Wilcox and Col. Chaffee were dining there, the residents got up an impromptu fight at the dinner table. Plates, coffee cups, sugar bowls, chairs and three-legged stools were used as missiles of warfare, followed by grappling of the contestants, a lively wrestling match, a fall, drag-out and wash-up.

IT is now rumored that Conkling is to write the life of Salmon P. Chase, at which two men have already tried their hands and failed to please his exacting daughter. The lordly Roscoe as a literary man would be as great a sensation as the pugnacious Blaine in a conservative Congregational pulpit. The two canards fit together very well.

IT is said that Mrs. Senator Jones, of Nevada, at Washinton, invites twenty pretty young ladies to afternoon lunch. Ten little tea-boys are arranged for their convenience; no servants are visible, each cavalier waiting upon the damsel of his choice. Solos, duets and and readings furnish the rest of the entertainments.

THE piers for the Northern Pacific Railroad bridge across Lewis Fork (or Snake River), near its mouth, will be eight in number and will cost $250,000. The entire superstructure will be of the best quality of iron, and constructed in the most substantial manner. It will cost not far from $500,000.

THE Carson and Colorado track is about six miles beyond Junction, at Candelaria. There is some heavy grading ahead and the advance will be slow for some time. The next station will be about ten miles from where the track now is, at a point near the White Mountain water pipe.

THE CHINESE CAN COME.

Of course the all absorbing topic of the day is the Presidential veto of the Miller bill to restrict Chinese immigration. It was not unexpected by many, since the systematic and arrogant defiance of the wishes and welfare of the people of this Coast by the banded, Eastern political snobs has come to be considered as a matter of course. What with such actions as that of Hays, the imbecile, and Arthur, the assassin's President, facing our people, all idea of any future Republican success in the State of California, Oregon, Nevada and Colorado may be abandoned as hopeless. This one fact, above all others, indicates the intense feeling of sorrow and disgust which pervades all classes. In this, were THE INDEPENDENT hitherto a radical Republican paper, it would now rejoice in the opportunity of just such a political retaliation for the outrages of Eastern sentimentalists. Nevertheless, Senators Miller and Jones, through their noble efforts and powerful individuality in this matter, have placed themselves above party and have now such personal prominence as needs no organized party strength to secure re-elections.

In the veto message, in discussing the meaning of the word "laborers," as used in the treaty, the President concedes it is intended to include artisans or skilled laborers. In regard to the terms of suspension he says: "The examination which I have made of the treaty and of the declarations which its negotiators have left on record of the meaning of its language, leaves no doubt in my mind that neither of the contracting parties, in concluding the contract of 1880, contemplated the passage of an Act prohibiting immigration for twenty years, which is nearly a generation, or thought that such a period would be a 'reasonable' suspension, or limitation, or intended to change the provisions of the Burlingame Treaty to that effect. I regard this provision of the Act as a breach of our national faith, and being unable to bring myself in harmony with the views of Congress on this vital point, the honor of the country restrains me to return the Act with my objections to its passage, adding, that good policy, as well as good faith, require a modification of the twenty years suspension." The President further says: "Our treaty with China is not yet forty years old. It is only since we acquired California and established a great seat of commerce on the Pacific that may be said to have broken down barriers which fenced in that ancient monarchy. Under the spirit which inspired the Burlingame Treaty many thousand Chinese laborers came here. These people have been instrumental in building railroads, and the country has prospered by their industry. There may be other sections of the country where this species of labor may be advantageously employed without interfering with the laborers of our own race." The passport system he says is falling into disuse in Europe and, besides, he maintains that experience has shown that passports are easily borrowed, or even forged. The message speaks of opening China to the world's commerce as having enormously benefitted the Pacific Slope, and depreciates a policy which would drive Oriental trade and commerce from the United States. It concludes, "While the protection of our labor from Asiatic competition may justify this policy, it is wiser now to make a shorter experiment with a view to maintaining permanently only such features as time and experience commend."

Could it have been possible for Garfield, the people's chosen President, to thus defy the people and insult the greatest minds of Congress by such twaddle as this of Arthur's?

It is as well to take things philosophically, however. It can be passed over the veto if Senators Jones and Miller see fit to threaten to revolutionize the politics of the Senate if it is not done. John P. Jones is just about the man to do it, too. And it is generally conceded that the bill can be passed with the twenty year limit reduced to ten. John F. Swift, the spirit and brains of the American Commissioners to China to negotiate the treaty upon which this legislation is based, says the Chinese government expected a restriction of immigration of at least thirty years, and that the twenty year limitation is "unreasonably small."

The failure of legislation to regulate the scourge will set people to earnestly thinking about it, and go far to bring about the one, practical, peaceable solution of the question—i. e., to "Boycott' the Chinese—refuse to patronize them or any one who does.

IF the same kind of government prevailed on the Pacific Coast which Ireland now enjoys, every man who hints that violence may be expected if the President vetoes the Chinese bill would be sent to jail (to stay there at the President's pleasure), on "reasonable suspicion."—Virginia Chronicle.

THE time would appear to be coming when Gould and Vanderbilt, like Alexander the Great, will sigh because no worlds remain for them to conquer. It is understood that these mighty monopoly magnates have come to an understanding, and propose to parcel out between themselves the greater portion of the transportation traffic of the country, if such an enterprise can be accomplished by the aid of boundless energy and untold wealth. New York advices state that negotiations have been begun for the consolidation of the Vanderbilt trunk lines, including the Chicago and Northwestern with the Union and Central Pacific, thus giving a single route, under one management, between the Atlantic and the Pacific. A second step is to be the consolidation of all the Gould properties, making a great southeastern route to the Pacific. A money part of the coal roads and a consolidation of the telegraphic and cable companies is also mentioned. When these plans are consummated it will be in order for the people of the United States to turn over the entire Government to these worthy gentlemen on condition that they will assume all its liabilities and permit its people to exist as best they can under the monopoly monarchy.

THE New York World's London cable special says public feeling in England is increasingly hostile to the Channel Tunnel project. The Government is severely censured in many quarters for allowing the project to proceed so far as it has already gone. The protest in the Nineteenth Century has been signed by men of all shades of opinion, and the opposition to the scheme is daily developing enormous strength. In the opinion of many eminent geologists, moreover, the construction of the tunnel is impossible. Parliament is likely to put an end to the work at any moment.

THE Territorial Enterprise says quite a number of miners will this spring leave to prospect in the region of country into which the Carson and Colorado Railroad is being advanced. There are vast areas that have never been explored since the early days, and then most of the prospecting was done by men who rode through the country on horseback, breaking off a piece of rock here and there, and picking up a bit of float quartz occasionally in a flat, cañon or other place where it was good traveling.

THE feelings of Uncle Bob Folger, of the Bridgeport Chronicle, have been hurt some way or another, through the annexation to Nevada proposition. He exclaims, "California and Nevada—Heaven and Hades." Nevada may not be a Heaven, but this part of California is just about the other place so far as political recognition is concerned.

BRO. J. W. FERGUSON, of the Fresno Expositor, has launched out with a fine daily edition, to keep apace with the flourishing times of that go-ahead locality. The people of Fresno should support the enterprise to the fullest extent.

IT is estimated that from 27,000 to 28,000 acres are planted in wheat in San Diego county the present season, and a yield is expected of 500,000 or 600,000 centals. The outlook for crops of all kinds was never brighter.

THE notorious murderer and robber Jesse James has been comfortably killed by a boy named Ford, who wants the reward of $50,000 for the assassination.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

The race between Brown Abbey and Black Harry took place at the Horton track this afternoon and resulted in the defeat of the latter, Abbey winning the race by at least twenty open feet. The animals were in very good condition, and every one prophecied that the race would be a much closer one than it proved to be. Harry has been a very fast horse, but age and numerous hard contests on the track has now placed him within the reach of horses which a few years ago were entirely beneath his notice. Furthermore, while Harry has been degenerating, Brown Abbey has been improving, and is to-day a better animal than ever before, being in excellent condition and just in her prime. A great amount of property and money changed hands on the race, each horse having about an equal number of friends who were ready to back up their judgment with the "squiv."

J. Rowan has sold eight of his work horses, together with harness and a wagon, to a party of mining men from San Francisco. The team has been sent to San Bernardino county, where it will be employed in transporting ore at Resting Springs.

The farmers of this valley are now busily engaged in planting cereals. The near approach of the railroad has encouraged our ranchers to plant a a much greater acreage than has ever before been cultivated in this valley.

Mr. Braunstein, owner of the New Year mine, located about two miles north of Piute canyon, was in town this week. He has sunk a shaft twenty-five feet, and the ore assays from $100 to $800 in silver.

J. J. Hervey has erected an arastra in Piute canyon, to be run by water power. He will crush rock from a claim of his own, which gives large assays.

Dr. Middleton is going to move to Bishop, where he will practice in the future.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Washington dispatches, of the 2d, are to the following effect:

The House Committee on Railways has agreed to report favorably the bill for the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, which has been pending before the Committee for some weeks.

Majority and minority reports in the McGarrahan case were presented in the House yesterday. Both are lengthy, and go into the full history of this remarkable case. The majority report favors McGarrahan, and recommends that he be allowed to go into the courts to have the case adjudicated. The minority report, which is signed by Pacheco alone, though it is understood that Hazelton would have signed it had he been in the House yesterday, takes an opposite view.

Pacheco tried to pass the bill yesterday donating certain military lands in Inyo county, Cal., known as Camp Independence, for school purposes, but a unanimous consent having been refused, he failed. He gave notice, however, that he would try it again next week.

The water was drawn off the carp ponds yesterday afternoon, preparatory to distributing the fish to different parts of the country.

Congressman Berry declares that should he be nominated by his party to uphold their ticket as Governor, he will make a vigorous campaign for election. He states that he believes that the declarations made to the effect that he was not a candidate for Governor emanated from persons who prefer that he should not run.

Big Pine Letter.

BIG PINE, April 4.

The question of annexation and anti-annexation is beginning to be discussed by a number of our citizens. Whether we are to tear off a strip of the old "bear flag" and pass it over to the Silver State, or retain the pleasant associations of the old pioneers, the "'49ers" of the Golden State, is a question of vital importance. No doubt exists but that Nevada would not object to the acquisition—free gratis. On the other hand it is equally true that California would emphatically object to having her anticipated "strong box" wrested from her grasp. The question is of more importance than many may suppose, and before long, it is evident that it will become the vital issue of the day. Ambitious demagogues, will, no doubt, take advantage of the situation to use their influence. "Might makes right," and there is more probability than possibility that California will "hold the top hand."

DEATH.

The friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, of this place, will be grieved to learn of the death of their little son. The little fellow seemed hale and hearty a few days ago. He was suddenly taken with profuse bleeding at the ear and nose, occasioned by a slight jar. Dr. Middleton was summoned, but pronounced the case hopeless; however, he gave the closest attention, but in vain. It was a peculiar case of an abcess of the brain.

AROUND TOWN.

Many join with me in expressing their regret, that we are about to lose one of our worthy citizens, Dr. Middleton. In his profession he has excelled any other M. D. we have had in our community. He is to take up his future residence in Bishop Creek. "He is best who serves best his fellow men." C. F. Fuller, of Deep Springs, is in town to-day, and reports very favorably of that district....The Sunday law is observed by all our business men.....Dan. Ashley should have paid Big Pine a visit....Denny Hessian and Henry Grover are preparing wagons which they are to use soon in conveying coal in the vicinity of Lookout.....Messrs. Riddle and Saylor have returned from Waucoba. They have some very fine specimens from their mine at that place.

A STRANGE STORY.—A very singular discovery is reported to have been made by a party of six Spaniards while on a shooting expedition in the Island of Formentera, which is part of the Balearic group. They came upon a large cavern, entrance to which seemed almost impossible, owing to the thick growth of brambles. Their curiosity, however, was excited by the evidence that the cavern had been made by human hands, and they cleared away the obstacles in their path, arriving after several hours' hard work in a spacious chamber of Arab architecture in an excellent state of preservation. In the center of this chamber stood two splendid tombs of very peculiar shape and of great external beauty. They lifted without much difficulty the lids of these two tombs, and were greatly astonished to find that they contained the mummies of a young woman and an elderly man of colossal stature. Upon the head of the woman was a diadem which, if the stones are real, is of priceless value. There was a large pearl necklace around her throat, carbuncles in her ears, and her fingers were covered with rings. The male figure had an imperial crown upon its head, and a scepter in its right hand.

SINCE May 1, 1881, as the result of a convention between the French Minister of Posts and Telegraphs and the administrations of the various railways in France, parcels not exceeding three kilogrammes (6½ pounds) in weight, and subject to certain limits of dimensions, are conveyed between any two points of French territory for 60 centimes (6d.), if called for at the station, and for 85 centimes (8½d.) if delivered. These rates include the duty of 10 centimes (1d.) levied by the Government.

CORNELIUS J. VANDERBILT, brother of Wm. H. Vanderbilt, shot himself at the Glenham Hotel, Fifth Avenue, New York, April 2, and soon after died from the effects of the wound. Cause—mental derangement.

A LONDON dispatch, of April 2, says: Mr. Froude's "Life of Carlyle," now issued, contains abundance of matter of offense for a great many persons. All the foibles of Carlyle are brought out in it most vividly, but it is certainly a most striking book. Carlyle, in the course of it, attacks all the publishers with great virulence. He speaks of Fraser, for example, his own particular publisher, as the 'Infatuated Fraser, with his cat's meat tart of a magazine." The book will cause a great shaking up of the dry bones in the valleys of literature.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 8.....1882

FUNNY, ISN'T IT?—The movements of men and capital are inexplicable. It is a dead shot that if several of the best mining districts of Inyo county were situated in Mexico or Alaska, for instance, that a rush would set in pell mell for any one of them. But even Beveridge, with its hundreds of rich, free gold ledges, is allowed to languish. About the only mine worked so far has yielded $150,000. On the other side of the Sierras mining operators jump at claims yielding from $3 to $5 per ton, while here mines of ore running from $100 to $2,000 and more per ton are shunned, which fact illustrates the overpowering sagacity of the average San Francisco and New York investor. But the plucky prospector plods right along and makes new discoveries and important developments every day. The era is near at hand when a railroad connection will make them independent of so-called "outside capital."

SHOOTING.—After a little preliminary unpleasantness during a mutual drunk in town on Sunday evening last, on the following morning there occurred a shooting episode at the French Ranch, just north of Camp Independence, in which a man known as Charley Lawrence received a bullet wound in the left shoulder, from a pistol in the hands of Thibault, the proprietor. There were no witnesses present, and no particulars are attainable; it is barely possible, also, that the parties themselves were not in condition to know much about it. Lawrence was able to reach Benigno's ranch, from where he was hauled to town and then back to the County Hospital. His wound is not so serious as first reported. Thibault presented himself at the Sheriff's office for surrender, but there being no complaint against him he was allowed to return to his home.

THE KEYNOT.—From Wm. Ritchie, who has been working in the Keynot mine, we obtain a good report of the present condition of that solid and reliable gold producer. He says that Supt. Miranda is working 28 or 30 men in all, including packers, surface men, etc. About 350 feet of the face of the ledge has been opened for taking out ore or tunneling. Stoping is going on in a four-foot body of fine ore. The winze in the lower level is all in rich ore. In short, Mr. Ritchie—whose mining experience is equal to the best of them—says that there is now more gold ore in sight than sufficient to pay the amount asked for the mine some months ago.

PROPOSED NEW MILLS.—Mr. Dan. Lightner, mill-owner and mining man of Kernville, has been looking over things at Beveridge District, especially with a view of putting up a mill for the Keynot Company. It was reported that he had finally arranged to do so, but we have good authority for saying that such is not the case. Messrs. McKnight and Coldren have been inspecting the various gold properties south of the Keynot, and have returned to Bodie to report favorably for the construction of a mill. Mr. McKnight expects to return in about ten days.

TO START. — The Keeler City mill, it is reported, will start up in three or four days, on Palma ore, under the general management of the lessee, Supt. Wheeler. Capt. Keeler is engaged in repairing the Cottonwood flume, and is making extensive preparations for getting out timbers, wood and coal. He intends fitting up a steamer, probably the old Bessie Brady, for transporting such supplies across the lake.

THE FREEBORN CAÑON MILL.—Taylor, McEvoy & Co.'s five-stamp mill in Beveridge district made a clean-up during the past week. In 20 running days it crushed 192 tons of Keynot ore, which yielded close on to $11,000 in gold. In some four or five days Supt. McEvoy will start up the mill again on a lot of about 100 tons from the Losano mine, which is situated about one mile south of the Keynot.

MODOCK.—Frank Fitzgerald has gone to San Francisco to renew, if possible, his lease on the Modock property. After an individual has made a success of it, when Company management could not, they manifest a strong disposition to try it again themselves—to profit by the skill and experience of the one man who deserves credit and the utmost consideration of the Company managers.

MAKE NOTE OF IT.—Parties receiving bills from this office during the coming two weeks, or those who may happen to see the proprietor coming in person, may as well prepare to go into their pockets for whatever coin there may be due. He will be fixed with a Gatling gun and two breech-loading cannon.

PANAMINT.—The Inyo Con. Company at Panamint is reported to have out some 500 tons of ore, assaying from $250 to $500 per ton. The work of extracting ore is constantly going on, but the mill will probably not steam up before the first of June.

CONCERT.—We are requested to announce that a concert will be given at the M. E. Church, Bishop Creek, on Saturday evening, April 29. The proceeds are to be devoted to paying taxes making a payment on the new Parsonage.

A NEW ONE.—Mr. Melinda, one of the Mexicans prospecting in Beveridge, last week found a rich gold ledge at a point north of the Keynot near Taylor's Cañon. The specimens are beautiful, being covered with coarse gold.

ASSESSMENT.—As appears by notice, the New Coso has levied another assessment of ten cents per share, delinquent May 1st.

COURT. — The case of Hoover vs. Horton is set for hearing in the Superior Court next Monday.

RETURNED — PERSONAL MENTION. P. A. Chalfant arrived home, Wednesday evening, from his Arizona search for treasures—found the treasures, but all so closely guarded it was useless to try to get away with any. He threatens to soon submit through these columns some supplementary Arizona observations. Among other ex-Inyoites met with, Mr. C. mentions the following: A. H. Griswold, late of the Montezuma mine opposite Big Pine, was examining mining properties in the vicinity of Tucson, but had found nothing obtainable that he could safely recommend for purchase. He was quite hopeful, however....The late C. G. Freighting Co.'s teams, since their removal from this county to Arizona, have all passed into new hands, the total consideration, according to report, being not less than $108,000. Nadeau, of that company, is giving his whole attention to his magnificent orange and eucalyptus groves, vineyard and orchard near Los Angeles—probably the most extensive and valuable property of the kind on the coast....Theo. A. Gardner is well established in the manufacture and sale of candies, etc., at 16½ Main street, Los Angeles, whence he forwards to the little INDEPENDENTS and their intimates, several packages of his goods and goodies.... Dr. F. T. Bicknell, in the same city, is rapidly acquiring a remunerative practice, and is well pleased with his new field in every way....H. D. Gelatt has just become a partner in the lease of an extensive livery business in that city, but, as yet, thinks it less profitable than sitting under the shade trees up here at the Post....Geo. McGovern, now the happiest of fathers, is teaming in Arizona, but Mrs. McG., nee Mrs. John Martin, formerly of this place, resides in Los Angeles....Mr. Woolsey, who, a few years since, was engaged in mining operations in this vicinity, is still in the same line of business, with headquarters in Los Angeles, and, though not rich, has prospered...."Aunt Billy" Noter, who needs no introduction to our local readers, is wandering about Los Angeles and adjacent towns.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Mrs. E. M. Willis, writing from Bishop Creek under date of April 5, gives the following interesting religious notes: "Thinking my old friends and helpers in the Sunday School work at Independence would like to know how that work goes on at Bishop Creek, I submit the following report of our School, for the 13 weeks ending with Sunday, March 26: The greatest number present, Feb. 12, 56; lowest number present, March 5, 37; average number present for each Sunday, 48. This school meets at the M. E. Church at 2:30 P. M., each Sabbath. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit our school and see what we are doing. We have a faithful corps of efficient teachers. Our Baptist friends are carrying on a flourishing school at the Baptist Church at 10 A. M. Many of the children attend both schools."

ASSURED.—We are informed that vegetation of all kinds due at this season appears to be quite as forward in this section as it is at the present time in counties south, in which, ordinarily, things reach a full bloom before like kinds have fairly sprouted at this altitude. Nevertheless, an abundance of rain has at last fallen in that region, and very fair crops are now deemed as assured all through that section, even upon many broad fields where but a few days since not a spear was to be seen. Among other fields to which this remark is applicable is one of wheat, near San Fernando, and comprising no less than 18,000 acres in one body.

AT HOME.—Now that Mr. Chalfant, our former senior, has got home, as mentioned elsewhere, and been duly welcomed and interviewed by all interested—most everybody—we propose to press him into editorial supervision of THE INDEPENDENT for a couple of weeks for reasons that will appear hereafter. Mr. C. expects, after a few weeks stay at home, to again take his chances for a time with the Arizona cow-boys, tarantula bugs and other of the peculiar attractions of that region, some account of which will probably in the meantime be given in these columns.

PERSONAL. — Isaac Harris got home last Tuesday, after a pleasant visit to the city....Horace Bellows and Wm. Walker, of Olancha, were in town for two or three days....George Phillips has gone to the Ygnacio at Cerro Gordo....W. S. Woodhull set out this morning for Keeler City....Jerome Hoover and Jack Horton are in town from Bishop to-day....Billy Lake and G. W. Brady left last Monday, labelled "Calico or bust"....S. G. Gregg, of Big Pine, has been here several days attending Dr. George. Dr. Colleau was up from Lone Pine on the same mission.

TO WORK TAILINGS. — A company consisting of Messrs. Ward, Thorpe, Clinton and Todd has taken hold of an enterprise on Kearsarge mountain, for which the best results is to be hoped. They will refit the old Pioneer mill, in the old town of Kearsarge, for the purpose of working the tailings at the reservoirs of the Kearsarge mill. In pay for them, the enterprising workers have contracted to sink a 50-foot shaft in the lower tunnel of the Kearsarge mine.

SHEEP.—Immense bands of sheep are reported on the roads from the lower counties, en route for Montana and other northern pasture lands. In due course, these bands will pass through this valley, but add nothing to its riches, not even a migratory tax or any portion thereof.

DARWIN.—The Defiance furnace is still in full blast, but will soon shut down for a short time. There are but few miners at work in that camp now, consequently times are dull and will continue so till brightened by new developments.

CITIZENS. — Monday last Alexander Clark, a native of England, and Juan Divis, a Portugese, were admitted to citizenship by the Superior Court.

SALINE.—As appears by the county records, W. T. Coleman & Co. of San Francisco have been acquiring a few more salt and soda claims in Saline Valley.

THE Scientific American says good report is given of the great fan lately constructed for the ventilation of the railroad tunnel between the St. Louis bridge and the Union Depot. It is said that the tunnel can be cleared of the smoke of the heaviest freight train in three minutes, and that when no trains are passing the air is as fresh and clear as that outside.

THE cattle on the Owyhee river, Idaho, are in bad condition, and are dying off. It is thought at least 20 per cent. will perish if the Spring holds cold and stormy.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 8.....1882

WE quote the following most excellent recipe for making tattlers and slanderers: "Take a handful of vine root called Roundabout, the same quantity of root called Nimbletongue, a sprig of the herb Backbite, a spoonful of Dont-you-tell-it, six ounces of Malice, a few drops of Envy—which can be bought of Miss Tabitha Teatable. Stir them well together and simmer them half an hour over the fire of Discontent, kindled with a spark of Jealousy, then strain it through a rag of Misconception; hang it upon a skein of Street-yarn, shake it occasionally for a few days and it is fit for use. Let a few drops be taken before walking out, and the subject will be enabled to speak all manner of evil continually."

WHILE a freight train was going up the mountain between Caliente and Tehachipa, last week, the train broke and a number of the cars started back toward Caliente. Of course there was no way of catching them, and with full force they ran into the engine of another train that was ascending the mountain. The train hands saw the portion of the other train coming, and saved themselves by jumping off. The result of the collision was sixteen sixteen cars demolished. Railroad men take a short method of doing things, and burned the wreck to get it out of the way.

AT Tombstone, Arizona, on the 18th, Morgan Earp, one of the principals in the shooting that occurred last November, in which Frank and Tom McLowry and Billy Clanton were killed, was shot and killed at 11 o'clock at night while playing billiards. The friends of McLowry and Clanton are the supposed assassins, but there is no clue to their identity.

THE crossing of the Texas border by Gen. W. T. Sherman into Mexico, at Loredo, the other day, was made the occasion of a demonstration that may be regarded as significant. The bands on the Mexican side played "See, the Conquering Hero Comes," and "Hail Columbia," and the Mexicans shouted and cheered like wild men when the General took the hands of the Mexican officers.

CLEAVELAND is now illuminated by electric lights on two tall masts, one of them 250 feet and the other 200 feet high, and it is demonstrated that at half a mile distant ordinary newspaper print can be clearly read. It seems also settled that the higher the electric light the more distinct, the more penetrating and the more valuable will be its effect.

THE Mississippi river is now falling rapidly, and in a short time the inundated districts will be free from water. But crops cannot be planted on the low lands this season, as the soil will not dry out sufficiently. Now the inhabitants of that section will have to suffer from buffalo gnats, a terrible pest which swarm there after a flood.

A TENNESSEE woman obtained a divorce from her husband, married another man and had a daughter. The first husband, enraged, sought revenge and married the daughter. The neighbors are now trying to figure out the various kinds of relationship that he holds toward himself and the rest of the family.

THE Melbourne "Argus" says that the bill restricting Chinese immigration to Australia has become a law in the form insisted upon by the Upper House of Victoria. No vessel can land in Victoria more than one Chinese to every 400 tons and each immigrant must pay a tax of £10 on arrival.

IT is thought that a town will spring up at Beale's Spring, on the line of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad. There is plenty of living water at that point, and it will be a center for all the mining districts of northern Arizona.

THE Masons throughout the State of Kansas are experiencing an immense revival of work in the Chapters and Commandaries. This is probably owing to anticipations of the pilgrimage to San Francisco in 1883.

THE Southern Pacific is now completed 240 miles east of El Paso, which is more than half way to San Antonio, as over 100 miles of the railroad have been completed on that end of the line.

MONACO, whose 10,000 inhabitants live entirely on the profits of the gambling tables, has 164 priests to look after its spiritual welfare.

THE origin of the word "newspaper" is not, as many suppose, from the fact of its containing new things; but in a former time (from 1795 to 1830) it was customary to put over the periodical publications of the day the initial letters of the compass, N. E. W. S., to show that the journal had information from all quarters of the globe, North, East, West and South. Hence the word news before all papers as general Information.

ADVICES from Rio Janeiro of the 2d instant state that rain has been falling in torrents for six weeks, doing great damage to the railways in the provinces of Rio Janeiro, Cao Paulo, and Minas Geras, and the towns of Sao Joao Mache. Paraty and Perahy are almost destroyed, and many persons are drowned.

FROM all parts of Utah Territory comes the same story of polygamists making haste to get out of office before they are kicked out.

IT is estimated that the expenses of the Union Pacific road and the branches are about $24,000 per day.

A "DAISY" BRACELET."

The facts were these: Snakes, lizards' etc., being very popular designs for jewelry, young Symonds, desiring to present Miss Daisy with a beautiful present, gave her a bracelet, enameled to look like a snake coiled about her arm. It was a very life-like contrivance, and to add to its realism, was so constructed that the heat of the arm would cause it to quiver and squirm considerably. Young Symonds neglected to explain this to Miss Daisy, and the first time she put it on she had hysterics and run up a doctor's bill. But after she came to understand the contrivance she was mightily pleased with it. Being invited to a swell party, she wore the bracelet, and it did look beautiful on her round, white arm, and she took no pains to conceal it. She was introduced to DeLacy Smith, a New York swell, and took his arm for a promenade. The heat of the room was calculated to make one's blood warm and the bracelet was wriggling considerably. Mr. Smith looked down on Miss Daisy in order to say something sweet, but he didn't. He seemed to forget, and in a nervous way, asked to be excused. And he went outside and tried to count the stars and walk a crack, and see if he was himself. He concluded he was, but avoided champagne the rest of the evening.

As he didn't return, Daisy accepted the escort of St. Clair Jones, and presently he followed the example of DeLacy Smith. Daisy didn't understand it, and was angry. The dancing began. She walked into the ball-room and took a seat. She did look lovely as she sat there fanning herself. Four gentlemen made a rush toward her to claim her for a waltz. But as they drew near they paused, and then bolted out of the room. Daisy was horrified. She went to the dressing-room and looked at herself in the mirror. She was perfection. More mystified, she returned to the ball-room. Meantime, the four gentlemen, having assured each other that they had seen nothing "off" in each other, had plucked up courage to return. But they all steered clear of the wines, to the great amazement of the host.

Finally, young Symonds asked her to dance. They joined a quadrille. It came to "ladies' chain." Daisy extended her hand to old Judge Reygate, who was her vis-a-vis. The snake was squirming beautifully. His eyes rested on the bracelet. With a howl that made the hall ring, he grasped his head and gazed wildly at the bracelet.

"Got 'em again!" he cried.

"What does this mean?" asked Daisy.

"Ah!" cried the Judge, "see 'em squirm! I've got 'em bad! Take me away!"

Symonds caught the idea. He explained. There was a great sigh of relief from the gentlemen. Then came a laugh at the Judge, and, though he was frightfully embarrassed and mad as a hatter, he stood it. But he was gloomy all the rest of the evening, and so were several other gentlemen, who privately said that a woman ought to know better than to wear such an infernal thing as that.—[Boston Post.

SURVEY FOR THE TUCSON, GUNSIGHT, PORT LOBOS RAILROAD.

[The following, from the Tucson (A. T.) "Star," April 4, refers to an enterprise and a region of country described in part in our late Arizona correspondence, in some respects, a little more than corroborating the same.—ED. INDEPENDENT.]

Col. Chambers Scott and Prof. C. H. Van Buren reached this city yesterday, having just returned from making a preliminary survey from Tucson to Port Lobos of the proposed branch line of the Southern Pacific Railroad. These gentlemen seem to be in excellent health and spirits, but are decidedly non-communicative as to their recent movements in Southern Arizona and Sonora. We were, therefore, only able to gather a few points of interest to our readers. As soon as the report is made at headquarters the public will then be immediately informed as to the result of these gentlemen's movements. This survey has been regarded by some as only one of the many features in the bluff game that has been going on for some time past among the railway magnates on this coast. But we are inclined to believe that it means business this time, as the preliminary survey has led to discoveries that show the country through which it has been made to be one of

IMMENSE RESOURCES.

Prof. Van Buren, who is an able scientist, and accompanied the surveying party in the interest of the Pacific Improvement Company, reports the territory along the line of the proposed road as being wonderfully rich in minerals, soil, wood and water. As we have said, not much information can be given as yet in regard to the discoveries made. This much, however, may be said: Many rich claims have been located and other finds partly secured in Sonora. Among these are rich deposits of nitrate of potash in Sonoita; nitrate of soda near Quito-Vac; specimens of good flint coal at Sassaba, which is astonishing in its immensity. The Professor showed us a twenty-pound specimen of tin ore which runs eighty-five per cent. This find was made in Arizona. Immense strata of fire clay, equal to Cheltenham-fire, were discovered; also rich gold and silver deposits, claims upon which were located and registered; besmerite (from which Bessemer steel is manufactured) in large quantities; and cinnabar at Zapadas.

THE COUNTRY AND THE PEOPLE.

Prof. Van Buren says that there is not a foot of barren soil from Tucson to Point Lobos. Good water can be had all the way, at a depth of from ten to two hundred feet below the surface.

The Professor not only speaks in the most glowing terms of Sonora, but also of its people. He found the residents kind, intelligent and in many instances industrious. He says he has never before seen so many handsome young ladies and fine looking young men in any town of its size as he noticed at Caborca.

THE FUTURE.

Everything seems to betoken a wonderful advancement on the part of our sister republic. The Mexican Central Railroad is pushing towards the capital city; the Sonora road from Guaymas to connect with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, will soon be completed; the Southern Pacific will rapidly build the line from Tucson to Port Lobos on the Gulf; many rich mines have already been discovered in Sonora, Lower California and other States, and prospectors are now in large numbers in all parts of the land; colonization schemes are being encouraged; all of which means rapid development and great richness.

The people of Los Angeles can look with special pleasure upon those movements, as this county will find an enlarged market for her products, and this city is in a position to form commercial relations that will redound to her permanent advantage.

THERE is every indication that the price of lead will keep up, and there will be great demand for lead ores in the Salt Lake market.

GUITEAU hangs on June 30th.

Diphtheria.

Dr. Franklin Staples, of Winona, Minn., after an extended correspondence with physicians in most of the counties of his State, has published a report on diphtheria, in which he classes it as contagious and infectious, and demonstrates that it is on the increase; a fact due, in his opinion, to failure on the part of physicians in recognizing its self-propagating properties; to want of systematic nursing of patients suffering from the disease; to incomplete disinfection of premises attacked; and last, but not least, to the frequent intercourse of convalescents with healthy persons. He maintains that strict regulations, rigidly enforced, are the only means adequate to cut short its career, and since individual power is unable to cope with it, urges that every city and town should devise efficient sanitary laws, and let them be enforced by intelligent medical officers who shall also make it their duty to instruct the people in sanitary rules. To guard against contamination, he believes that filth, whether from dirty rooms, soiled clothing, defective drains and cesspools, ill-ventilated rooms, poisonous inodorous gases, etc., should be regarded as conditions which invite the disease; that the room for the patient should be divested of all furniture, carpets, curtains, and fabrics of any kind not absolutely required; that discharges from the nose, mouth, and bowels should be carefully collected and destroyed, and that all personal clothing, bed linen, etc., should be thoroughly disinfected before being sent to the general wash. In case of death, all clothing and unimportant articles should be burnt, the body should be immediately disinfected, and put into its coffin, which should be kept permanently closed. There should be no public funeral. He prefers disinfection by chlorine gas, which is to be set free in the room. Ventilation for a number of hours should then be insisted upon. Precautions falling short of these Dr. Staples considers to be useless in preventing the spread of the infection.

A Flattering Prospect.

Though matters are not looking particulary bright as regards the Comstock, there are strong indications that the State of California will enjoy a prosperous mining season this year. Mining will be carried on more extensively than ever before in the counties of Placer, El Dorado, Amador, Nevada, Mono, Inyo and Shasta, and recent developments in nearly all these counties give promise of a largely increased yield of the precious metals for 1882. There is a renewed inquiry for small gold quartz mines situated in this State and a large additional amount of capital will be invested in mining in this State this year. Our exchanges from the mining counties speak in jubilant terms of the outlook, and visitors from those counties state that the prospect was never better than at present.

Exclusive of the Comstock—and for that Lode we have not given up hope—the outlook is also good for Nevada mines. Candelaria is destined to be a busy district this Summer, and throughout all of Esmeralda there are good prospects. Eureka district also holds forth good promise and many of the smaller districts are looking well. It is, however, in this State that we look for the greatest activity in mining matters, and the largest increase in the product.—[Stock Report.

THE richest silver mine in the world is at Potosi. It is situated on an elevation 16,000 feet above the level of the sea, in a region of perpetual snow. It has always been worked in a very rude manner, yet it has already produced $250,000,000 and shows no signs of exaustion. The annual product of the silver mines of South America at the present time is estimated to be $13,000,000, and their total product to the present time has amounted to $2,386,000,000.

INFORMATION of the whereabouts of James Flanagan, formerly of Oldbury, England, is anxiously desired by his parents. During the last ten years he has been in different mining camps in Nevada, California and Utah. Any information concerning him will be thankfully received by Thomas Flanagan, Junction City, Kansas.

THE ELECTORAL COUNT BILL.

The Presidential count bill, which passed the Senate without amendment, provides that the Presidential electors of each State shall meet and give their votes on the second day of January next following their appointment, at such places as the legislatures may state; that each State, pursuant to its laws existing on the day fixed by the appointment of its electors, may determine, prior to getting its electors, any controversy concerning the appointment of all or any of them; that such determination shall be conclusive evidence of their lawful title and shall govern in the count by Congress; that no electoral vote or votes from a State from which but one return has been received shall be rejected except by the affirmative votes of the two Houses; that if more than one return is received from a State, the votes of those electors appointed by a lawful tribunal of the State shall be counted, and in the event of the question as to which of the two or more from such State are the lawful electors apppointed by that tribunal, the two Houses, acting separately, shall decide which is authorized, and that shall be counted; that in case of an undetermined case between two or more sets of electors of a State, those States shall be counted which the two Houses, acting separately, shall decide to be the lawful electoral votes. The bill also provides that if the counting of votes shall not be completed before the fifth calendar day next after the first joint meeting of the two Houses, no recess shall afterwards be taken by either House until the counting is finished.

NEARLY every newspaper that comes to hand bemoans itself immensely at the manner of Jesse James' taking off. These truly chivalrous scribblers seem to think Bob Ford should have announced his mission somewhat after this fashion: "Here, Mr. James, I am here to kill you, if you won't lay down your guns and things and trust to the law like the brave man we all know you to be. For twenty years your only business and recreation has been to kill people who never harmed you—unarmed, helpless men, scores of them, whom you murdered in mere wantonness; just for fun. Even now you are skulking around, you and your sweet scented brother, trying to shoot Dick Little in the back, or any way you can. You have a great many admirers in the country ready to help any cutthroat that will give them a plug of tobacco, so no officer of the law can ever come near you. You are a human hyena, but it won't look well to kill you like one, else these newspaper milksops won't like it. So please don't shoot me, but came along and you'll be made a great hero." That is substantially the way these newspaper law and order gentry say it should have been done. Chivalrous souls, that's the way they have always done such things themselves—they would't kill a mad dog without giving him a fair show. Decent people think quite differently; think it commendable to kill a mad dog whatever way it can be done, and don't think such wholesale murderers and midnight robbers—living only to rob and slay—like these notorious James outlaws, are entitled to any higher consideration than so many veritable mad dogs.

MRS. FRANCES SCOVILLE has filed a long petition in a Chicago Court, praying that her brother, Charles J. Guiteau, be brought before said Court and declared insane, and that she herself be appointed conservator of the estate and person of the said Charles J. Guiteau; that he is incapable of taking care of his estate, which now amounts to quite a sum through the sale of his photographs and autographs, from which he nets from $10 to $15 per day; that he was insane and irresponsible at the time of the shooting of the President. The petition was taken under advisement, but is likely to be denied on the ground that the alleged insane person is not a resident within the jurisdiction of the Court. Guiteau, when he heard of his sister's petition, became furious, declaring that her only object was to get possession of his money; that he was not, nor never had been insane; that the "Scovilles were nuisances," and he wanted nothing more to do with them.

A CITY election took place in San Jose on the 10th, in which the Democrats elected their entire ticket except Street Commisioner, all because scores of Republicans "flung up" and fell to scratching or voting with the other fellows on account of the veto.

THE Mormons now have six preaching places in London, and are sending out bodies of English girls to Utah.

THE GRANDEST YET.

Congressmen have loaned their distinguished aid to many magnificent swindles in times past, and, no doubt, those who took it upon themselves to engineer such got paid somewhat in in proportion to the cheekiness of the swindle in hand, making due allowance for the amount involved, of course. It does not follow as a matter of course that every member who votes aye on the passage of a bill providing for a big steal receives so much in coin for so doing; on the contrary, but a comparative few are paid that way; generally, it is only the chief engineers, especially in committees, who get stock or solid coin for their trouble. A favorable report of a committee is good enough for many honest old souls who can't find time to investigate for themselves, even if they dared vote their convictions should they do so and find things a little tainted. Besides these, comes a fair proportion of complacent souls who save trouble and worriment by doing what the stronger brained tell them to do. And there is still another set, each a leader in a small way in his own sphere, who have little jobs of their own to get through, and so are always ready "to swap work" with colaborers of their own kind. And thus it often happens that the really honest, conscientious members are out generaled and out voted, and that bills rascally enough in intent to shame a lot of penitentiary convicts are voted laws. And this explains why the biggest steal of the century, to wit, the McGarrahan Claim, is still pending, and stands a fair chance to become an accomplished fact since the amount involved will permit the purchase of more "talent" than any like job that was ever before Congress.

This "McGarrahan Claim"—which took on a peculiarly bad smell many years ago—may, originally, have been no more of a steal than scores of other alleged Mexican grants that, through tall swearing, were confirmed in those days when it was the fashion of our Land Commissions and Courts to confirm about everything of the kind that came up. But it must have been a tough case indeed when it showed up too strong of fraud for the constitutional grant confirmers of those days when "everything went;" tough, indeed, when it has been denied by every Commission, Court and Department officer having jurisdiction in such cases, including the U. S. Supreme Court and even one previous Congress, every one of which and whom has had to hear it in turn and as regularly deny it in turn. Though at last laid away by the Court of last appeal as entirely dead, it won't stay dead—at least this present Congress is now to consider that matter. Should a majority of that learned body be brought to see how wrong it was to kill a thing worth such a vast sum, it will be voted not dead at all in its legal rights and possibilities. These possibilities are estimated to be worth one hundred and seventy millions of dollars.

This is the way it was: One Gomez claimed 17,000 acres of land under a manufactured Mexican "floating" grant. This grant was floated so as to cover the New Idria quicksilver mines in Fresno county. McGarrahan bought Gomez out, went to law, and though beaten time and again and every time, is at it yet. All he asks now, feeling old age creeping on, is that Congress shall give him all of the lands yet unsold of his original claim, and scrip locatable on Government land wherever found in amount to cover as many acres as have already been sold out of the said original location, in all to make up the 17,000 acres; that is all the land and scrip he wants. But, in addition, he would like to be allowed the present value of the mines and all the profits realized in working the same during the twenty years or more since they were opened; he would also like to have back rents on the 13,000 acres sold to other parties. That is, all Mac. wants this time; say $170,000,000 in all.

It is a fair presumption that any member of Congress who now votes to sustain this grandest of all swindles so votes for a cash consideration; that and nothing less, since, in so doing, he sets himself above every tribunal in the United States that has pronounced in the case, for all from the lowest to the highest have pronounced it a fraud. Such a vote is to declare in effect that there can be no finality in a suit at law, and that our courts are not to be trusted. That is what these Congressmen say in effect when sustaining this iniquitous claim.

Yet every member of the Committee to which it was referred, Mr. Pacheco alone excepted, signed a report to sustain the steal! Undoubtedly those fellows hope in due time to become capitalists.

AT Bodie, last Sunday morning, Deputy Consiable Frank Viles shot E. C. Loose during a row about a woman. The wound is not considered dangerous.

How about organizing Inyo County anti-Chinese Leagues, to "Boycot" the heathen?

ON the 30th of March, Sheriff William Estes, of Stokes County, N. C. was shot, while robbing his own office. He left home to be absent some days, and directed his wife not to allow any one to stay all night in the house, at the same time giving her the safe key. About dark one of the neighbors came to the house, and went to a room to spend the night. After he had retired, two men came to the house, and asked leave to stay. Mrs. Estes objected. They, however, passed in and demanded the safe key, threatening to kill her if she refused it. She ran up stairs and informed her guest, and was told by him to go down, deliver the key, and say nothing of his presence. The men proceeded to rob the safe, and while they were thus engaged, Mrs. Estes' lodger came down and killed both of them. Upon examination, it was found that one of the men was the Sheriff, who had disguised himself, and the other was one of his neighbors.

THE following explains how it is in San Francisco: "The effect of the veto continues to be the principal topic of conversation in political circles. The Democrats expect to capture many votes among Republicans of the dissatisfied class, but their leaders propose to take no chances of a walkover on that account, and are making every effort to effect a solid organization. The first feeling of despondency among Republicans is giving place to a belief that the disposition shown by the Democratic Congress to obstruct further consideration of the Chinese question will react against them. It is reported that active steps are being taken in the city to organize an anti-coolie club, having in view local action against the Chinese, and some indiscreet persons are reviving the talk of violent measures, and it is questionable how much backing there may be to such talk."

A PROMINENT physician of Los Angeles, after a long investigation, concludes that venereal and syphilitic poisons and contagious and ulcerous diseases, may be and are actually communicated by Chinese laundrymen through the saliva, by sprinkling with the mouth, being ironed into the clothing and introduced by perspiration into the body. A member of the New York Medico-Legal Society reported in like manner to that organization recently, and included in the category of mediums for transmission of foul diseases, hotel towels, bath-room brushes, washroom combs, the kiss of a lover, the clasp of the hand, the embrace of a child by one affected, and so on through a long list.

THE Ohio Senate has passed, by a vote of 19 to 8, a bill forbidding the use of railroad passes by State officials, members of the Legislature, editors, printers, and publishers. The fine for violating the law is to be not more than $100 or not less than $50. Proceedings can be instituted in the courts in any county where a pass is issued, given, received or used, and one-half of the fines recovered are to go to the common school fund.

FROM time immemorial hairpins have been accused of various idiosyncrasies bnt never, until lately, of actual crime. This mediocre record has recently been varied in Manchester, England, where a hairpin has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. A woman lay down upon her bed to sleep, and presently awoke a corpse to all intents and purposes, for she lived only a few moments. An examination that a hairpin had been driven more than two inches into her brain.

THE Judge in the proceedings recently brought in Philadelphia to compel Mr. Keely to tell the secret of his renowned "motor," has ordered the defendant to speak out. Keely's counsel took the ground that under some circumstances no one can be compelled to divulge a secret; they ought to have held that under no circumstances can he be compelled to tell what he does not know. They would have had the Judge there.

THE young men have a way in Texas of rating the girls as they do cotton. If only moderate in style and appearance she is a good ordinary, if more than usually attractive she is a good middling, but if superior in all graces and charms, then she is the highest grade—middling fair. Further west in the cattle region, she is a long horn if only of moderate, but a short horn if of superior attraction.

THE dispatches say that public meetings are being held throughout the Union by workingmen and the resolutions passed condemn Arthur in the strongest terms. It is now admitted on all sides that he has not the ghost of a show for the Presidency in '84. The veto of the Chinese bill is the most unpopular act of his life.

THE Gold Hill (Nev.) News, established October 12, 1863, has ceased to exist, owing to hard times on the Comstock, both present and prospective.

The Czar of Russia is displaying a quality not natural to the Romanoffs—that of mercy. He has commuted the sentences of the convicted Nihilists, with one exception, to an indefinite period at hard labor in the mines. Simultaneous with this exhibition of clemency, the Nihilists assassinated General Strecinkoff at Odessa, where he had gone to conduct some trials for political offenses. The Czar is not likely to show much mercy to the next batch of Nihilists convicted of assassination or attempts to assassinate.

CONGRESSMAN CASSIDY has introduced a bill in Congress providing for the issuing of silver certificates on the deposit of silver in the Treasury, as now authorized by law, except that forty per cent of such silver certificates shall be issued in denominations less than $10 of which 25 per cent. shall be of the denomination of $1, and 25 per cent. of the denomination of $2, and the remaining 50 per cent. of $5.

Do we want another monstrous new question added to our present tremendous social problems? We do not. It isn't a question whether the Chinaman can wash dishes cheaper than Bridget, and do not let us deceive ourselves with any such moonshine. It is the question whether he can make a citizen, and we say we beg to be excused from solving that problem in this century. Try it, says "G. S. M." No, thank you, for the simple reason that trying it is the vital thing as the man found who tried keeping his horse on sawdust. It would have worked if the horse had not died. To wait till the Chinese in the country number millions in order to try if they can make Americans is the height of absurdity. Here in Massachusetts, with no local race problems, with Anglo-Saxon blood uppermost and ever likely to be, we can be complacent and hopeful, and talk magnificently; but how should we feel if in Louisiana, or South Carolina, or Indian Territory, or California? We are sure we should regard these problems with more caution.—Springfield Republican.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Dayton Times avers that Luning is one of the "liveliest stations on the line of the Carson and Colorado. Prospectors are flocking in daily, leaving for the hills as soon as possible after their arrival. As soon as the weather is settled a great influx of people, prospectors, etc., is anticipated. A pretty good circumstance of Luning's prosperity is that the paste-board manipulators are flocking here. Poker games are running all the time. Mr. Sargent, a long time resident of Dayton, but lately of Gillis Mountain, is building quite a substantial lodging house here. Judging from the number this is a paradise for old bums and dead beats. They have a glorious time, nothing to do, and whisky galore. Luning at present boasts of one meat market, one blacksmith shop, one assay office, two saloons, two restaurants, one lodging-house, one grocery store, and the post-office, express and railroad office."

THERE is said to be a serious drawback to the sale of California flour in New Orleans because of the prevailing custom of shipping it in bags. The people down there, and all through the Eastern States, have become accustomed to receiving and handling flour in barrels, and do not take kindly to the California style. A Sacramento flour merchant states that the barreled article is worth about fifty cents more per 100 pounds, and that the storekeepers down there don't care to handle flour in any other way. His house expects to withdraw its trade from New Orleans, for this reason, and to pay more attention to the Texas trade, which now amounts to about 200 bags per day. If other firms here are doing equally as as well, our home mills have certainly struck what the miners would call "a good pay streak."—Sac. Bee.

A GENTLEMAN tells the Reno Gazette that Washington Territory is overrun with emigrants, many of whom are without money, and that the inducements for poor men are few and far between. Over one thousand passengers were on the steamer on which he sailed, the majority of whom seemed to be on a wild goose chase, with no definite purpose in view except to reach the new El Dorado. It is proper to add that more favorable reports have been received from others who lately settled in that Territory. Like most new fields, Washington Territory is likely to be overdone, and many doubtless go there with exaggerated ideas, and failing to make an immediate success, retire disheartened. Those, however, who contemplate going there, should weigh the matter well, instead of rushing in blindly.

WE have reliable information from Guaymas that the Sonora Railroad will tap Arizona ere many weeks. Work is proceeding with all the rapidity possible, a force of men being employed at both ends. The management expects the road to reach Calabasas about the 1st of May, and then some of the force will be sent south, both roads now being under the same management. Four vessels are discharging railroad ties at Guaymas, and two or three more due are daily expected. The completion of the railroad in the near future is gradually increasing business at this port, and merchants of every class are looking for a strong business boom when the two republics become wedded with the iron bands.—Tucson Star

The Senate Democratic Campaign Committee is in favor of leaving the management of the Congressional canvass to the House Committee, inasmuch as the election is for members of the House only.

The Senate Committee on Territories, by a party vote of four Republicans against two Democrats decided to report back the bill for the admission of Dakota, with a renewed recommendation for its passage.

THE bullion output of the Columbus Mining District averages from $25,000 to $33,000 per week.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 15 1882

DARWIN.—Mr. J. S. Gorman, accompanied by Mrs. G., paid Independence a visit yesterday. From him we learned the following items concerning mining operations in southern Inyo: In the last run of forty-eight days the Defiance furnace put out 188 tons of high grade bullion, mostly from Defiance and Custer ore. About 200 tons of screenings were run through from the old waste dump, or slag-pile. It is the intention to smelt over all of the dump as soon as sufficient lead ore ore can be obtained to work with it. The work of developing the Defiance mine is going on from the 300-level, from which an incline is to be sunk to a depth of 500 feet. In the north drift, 300-level, a new body of ore, which assays 101 ounces per ton in silver and 60 per cent. lead, has been struck. It is intended to start the furnace again about the last of next month. Work on the Phœnix mine—the old Promontory, now owned by Messrs. Reddy, Gorman, Eddy and Mee—has been pushed ahead. The main incline has been sunk 60 feet, making a total depth of 240 feet, at which point the ledge has been crosscut and north and south drifts started. In the former horn-silver ore was struck the day before Mr. Gorman left. During the last run a lot of ore from the Wibbetts mines, in Slate Range, was smelted, which assayed 277 ounce per ton silver. At this place they have an enormous amount of 60-ounce ore, but the cost of transporting it to Darwin—$25 per ton—precludes its being worked there. Somebody hunting a location for a quartz mill should look this thing up.

ROBBED.—Friend John Bourland, of Bishop, has seen numbers of extraordinarily big men and big guns in his many years of pioneer experiences on this coast, especially during several terms of official life as Sheriff of "old Tuolumne" in its flush days, but it seems that the real giants with guns to match never appeared to him till just the other day. It was this way: On the forenoon of the 16th instant, Mr. Bourland and a teamster, whose name we are unable to give, while on their way home from Candelaria, were met by two men at a point about two miles from the end of the C. & C. railroad track in course of construction to Benton, and only half a mile from Pat Foley's toll house. With drawn guns the two men ordered Mr. B. to hand over $800 they declared he had. It was at this stage that Mr. B. first observed that the men were giants, likewise, the immensity of their guns; but for this last he wouldn't have believed his own eyes in regard to the other. As it was, he showed the giants Wells-Fargo's receipt for the money, and informed them that it had been sent from Bellville. Thereupon, they demanded what he and his companion had left over. As this appeared reasonable under the circumstances, Mr. B. forked over $40 and the other man in like manner donated all he had, about $14. They were then allowed to proceed, which they did, and soon after reached Foley's, and related their experience. The giants are believed to reside in Bellville, and to be easy of identification.

RATHER HANDSOME.—Monday morning last opened in this locality with a snow storm, such as would have done credit to the "High Sierras." It continued uninterruptedly till about 8 o'clock, when this rare picture was presented: The sun shining brightly upon an inch or two of snow clinging to every leaf, twig, flower and branch of fruit trees in full bloom! The artist who could color that picture in all its beauties and realities might well believe his fortune assured. Equally remarkable, not a bud or flower was injured in the slightest.

SINGULAR FATALITY.—A leading farmer in this vicinity states that he recently lost a number—seven or eight—of his graded Berkshire sows, all dying while bringing forth their young, in which effort they would continue two or three days, some dying before it was fully accomplished, others soon after. This singular fatality is the more difficult to account for, since the animals were in fair condition and used to different kinds of food—grain, vegetables, slops, dry and green alfalfa, etc.

NEW ARRANGEMENT.—The well-known Dexter Saloon, at Lone Pine, has come under the management of Messrs. Montano & Dornalech, and renamed the "Keynot," as appears by the advertisement elsewhere. The new proprietors propose keeping first-class articles, and will doubtless enjoy a good run of patronage.

TIME.—It looks now, but only since yesterday morning, that we are to have some Summer weather. It is high time Winter should close up business for a time, for it has held on later, after being the driest, yet most disagreeable, we have had for many years.

PREACHING.—Rev. Mr. Willis called on us yesterday, on his way to Lone Pine, where he will remain till Monday, holding services in the meantime. He will preach in this place on Monday evening on his return to Bishop.

PATENTS.—United States patents to the Independence, Ida, and Eureka mines, Panamint, have been placed upon the County records by Geo. M. Pinney, of New York.

LAST YEAR'S CROPS.—There appears to be plenty of last year's hay yet on hands in this part of the valley, but there is or will be no surplus at all of other farm productions to carry over.

FRUIT.—See the advertisement elsewhere of Mr. Saccocia, the fruit and vegetable caterer of Lone Pine. His establishment is justly popular.

A SHAKE.—There was a barely perceptible shake of an earthquake here, about 5 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

BORAX.—The Amargosa desert and Death Valley country seems to have suddenly sprung into importance. Locations of borax or saline lands to the number of twenty-one, from "A" to "U," have been made in Eagle Mountain District, on the Amargosa, and Nos. "1" to "27," inclusive, in Death Valley Borax and Salt Mining District. The claims will average 140 acres each, and amount to 48 in all, making nearly 7,000 acres thus appropriated. It is understood that this is a continuation of the wholesale enterprise of W. T. Coleman & Co., of San Francisco, who lately acquired some sixteen or more 160-acre claims in Saline Valley. The locators of the claims run on Ranges 1 and 7 East, from Townships 1 to 27 North, San Bernardino Meridian. A large portion of a new record book has been filled with the notices, plats and maps by County Recorder Crough. Each claim has the names of eight locators appended, and among about 150 of them we note such as Jas. Gamble, A. N. Towne, T. H. Goodman, Egbert Judson, Horace Davis, J. J. Valentine, Marcus C. Hawley, J. Lusk, W. E. Dean, C. F. Fargo, W. T. Coleman, W. D. English and a host of others of equal prominence, financially.

JUDAS AND ARTHUR.—The reception at Lone Pine of the news of President Arthur's veto of the anti-Chinese bill occurred on Saturday last—a day observed as Holy Saturday by the Mexican-Catholic population. It is the day following Good Friday and preceding Easter Sunday, the main feature of its peculiar ceremonials being the hanging and burning in effigy of Judas Iscariot. In this instance the figure was carefully prepared, paraded through the town astride of a jack, placarded with the arch-traitor's name coupled with that of the President. In due time the effigy was hanged by the neck and fired at the heels. As the flames progressed the legs, body and head were successively blown to atoms by concealed Chinese bombs. And the spectators applauded.

GOING FOR IT.—J. F. Hutchison and Judge Calef, escorted by Johnny Williams, started out for the the Death Valley borax region last Monday. Sheriff Smith and Omie Mairs left Tuesday for Saline, to look at the Laura mine and mill, but were also armed with lots of mineral land location blanks.

PERSONAL.—Jos. Harris, eldest son of Isaac Harris, arrived yesterday from San Francisco, were he has passed a number of years at school and college, graduating with honors. He goes to work for a time with his father in the store.

Bishop Creek Items.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

M. L. Cook, who has been East representing our mines, returned Wednesday night with the encouraging news that he had obtained capital with which to work the Valley Queen mine. This location joins the Mountain Chief on the south, and is on the same ledge. Mr. Cook will begin operations by starting a shaft 300 feet south and 80 feet east of the Mountain Chief shaft. This new shaft will be sunk 180 or 200 feet deep before any drifting will be done. Three shifts of three men each are to be put at work immediately, which will probably put the shaft to the desired depth in ninety days, when two drifts, one east and the other west, will be started from the bottom of the shaft. Mr. Cook states that it is his intention to push the work ahead as fast as possible without wasting money, and that he will increase his force as rapidly as working room will permit. We are pleased to learn that some one has enterprise enough to work our mines, and hope their efforts will be crowned with success.

The framework of the new mill to be erected at the Laura mine, in Saline Valley, was loaded and shipped from here yesterday. Harry Stenhouse and Eddie Welch have it in charge.

W. J. C. Gill has given up the saloon business, and has been superseded by J. B. Swearingen, who will continue the business as heretofore.

A GENTLEMAN from Candelaria informs the Carson Appeal that the smallest baby in the world was born in that camp at noon on the 3d instant. The father is a miner in the employ of the Northern Bell mine and weighs one hundred and ninety pounds. The mother is a stout healthy woman weighing perhaps one hundred and sixty pounds. The child is a male, as perfectly formed as any human being can be, but upon its birth it only weighed eight ounces. Its face is about the size of a horse chesnut, and the size of its limbs can be imagined when we say that a ring worn on the little finger of its mother was easily slipped over its foot nearly up to its knee. Our informant states that it was the opinion of the attending physician that the child would live and prosper in good health, notwithstanding its diminutive proportions. The midget is so small that three of its size could play hide and seek in a cigar box. This is believed to be the smallest baby ever born.

The dispatches assert that Minister Lowell is to be recalled from England. This news is not unexpected. It has been apparent for some time that Mr. Lowell's official course was not meeting the expectations of the Administration. His popularity in England is great and his scholarly abilities undoubted, but as a diplomatist he is found to be too forbearing and undemonstrative. He is thought to have fallen short with reference to his demands upon the British Government in favor of the imprisoned American "suspects," and whether he can justify himself or not, in this matter, the suspicion of neglect attaches to him so strongly that it would be better for some other person to take his place.—S. F. Call.

GEN. POPE writes from Fort Leavenworth that "the Indians cannot live on the reduced beef rations. Rather than starve they will take by force what cattle are needed. No game here."

A DESPERATE and exciting race for life was made across a part of San Francisco Bay, on March 23, by the steamship Columbia. In approaching the city in a dense fog the ship grounded in the stern, but in a few moments glided off into deep water. Suddenly it was discovered the vessel was leaking badly, and the captain determined to steer for a safe beaching ground. Under a full head of steam, and followed by a fleet of tugs, which endeavored to keep near her, to render help if it were needed, the ship rushed toward the mud flats. Her fireman stood waist-deep in water, and she was slowly sinking, but there was just time to save her, and amid a chorus of shrieks from a hundred steam whistles she ran high up on the shore near her wharf.

THE New Orleans Times-Democrat insists that "so long as the North sends its surplus waters down the Mississippi Valley, causing devastating overflows, the South has a right to ask that the North shall bear a share of the expense attendant upon a system of levee protection." To this the New York Herald replies: "If it were not for the evaporation of the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, sent North by southern air currents, there would be no devastating overflows." The two papers should appeal to a college of savants to decide the question in dispute.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company refuses to sell tickets to inebriated men, on the ground that they endanger the safety of sober passengers, to say nothing of their comfort. That rule would work well everywhere, and the sooner it is adopted by all passenger carriers, either by rail, water or stage, the better.

THE great telescope for the Lick Observatory will, it is expected, be ready before the stipulated time. The contract calls for the glass to be finished and delivered by November 1st, 1883, and it is thought that the lens will be constructed in that time. The price, as agreed upon, is $50 000, $12,000 of which was paid in advance on signing the contract. Two of the buildings at the summit of Mount Hamilton, the site of the Lick Observatory, have been completed—the first dome and the transit house. Within the first or small dome stands the twelve-inch telescope of Clark's and a four-inch comet-seeker, while the transit house, which stands a few feet east of the small dome, is furnished with time instruments, all in complete working order. The six-inch meridian circle is to stand a short distance east of the transit house. The purity of the air on Mount Hamilton will, it is believed, enable the new observatory to surpass in results the work expected from the observatory just completed on Mount Etna.

THE Hollister Advance calls attention to a recent Supreme Court decision which is of importance to business men. The decision in question sustained the validity of an Act requiring that any person forming or dissolving a copartnership shall publish notice of such copartnership or of dissolution, once a week for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper published within the county, and file such notice with the County Clerk, otherwise the copartnership or dissolution, as the case may be, is illegal, and the firm cannot sue for bad accounts, and each member of a firm dissolved without complying with the law is liable for debts contracted by any other member of such firm.

SATURDAY, APRIL 15.....1882

More about the New Comet.

A communication to the "Herald", dated Albany, March 22, says that the new comet is now in the constellation of the Lyre, near Vega. It will pass to the westward of that star, and about the 1st of April will stand within four or five degrees from it; will continue on its journey up into Cephus, when in May, it will make an abrupt turn and go plunging in toward the sun.

The elements of the orbit of the new comet are: Perihelion passage, June 15; perihelion place, 49 deg. 35 min.; longitude of node, 206 deg. 40 min.; inclination, 74 deg. 47 min.; perihelion distance, 10,000,000 miles; motion direct.

This comet appears to have no analogue in the past, as no comet is known with elements sufficiently resembling these to constitute reasonable belief in identity. The elements of the comet of 1097 somewhat resemble those of the present comet, but the perihelion distance of the former is computed to be seven times as great as that of the latter.

At present the comet is about 160,000,000 miles from the earth, and its distance from us will probably not be less than 80,000,000 at any time, though further calculations will be necessary to settle that point. It may be expected to make a fine display for a few days in the early part of June. The present extraordinary intensity of its light, which comes to us from the enormous distance of 160,000,000 miles, proves that it has plenty of material for future display, and it will probably show a long and nearly straight tail of enormous dimensions to our antipodes. How much it will give us is still problematical.

It is said that owing to the prevalent hard times on the Comstock, scarcely a day passes but what one or more miners who by reason of having been out of employment, surreptitiously flee from Virginia, leaving swarms of mourning creditors behind. In the more prosperous days on the Comstock the majority of this class of men were among those who were most prompt in the matter of settling their bills of every description. There is hardly one in twenty of these men who would not rather pay his debts, if it laid in his power to do so, than leave the camp between two days, in disgrace. But what are the poor wretches to do? They have reached the limit of their credit; they can get no more trust for a meal or a bed, and the only thing left for them is to clear out.

The dense fogs of London seriously affect the health of that city, and are especially fatal to persons of advanced years. The mortality rate for the week ending February 20 was 2,632, or 35.3 per 1000. The annual death rate from all causes for the three preceding weeks was 22.8, 26.4 and 27.1 per 1,000. The city had been enveloped in a dense fog during the greater part of the third week in February and the deaths caused by diseases of the repiratory organs rose to 994, of which 796 were attributed to bronchitis and 187 to pneumonia. The quality of the Thames water supplied by the water companies was considerably below the standard, and the same was the case with all the other sources of water supply.

A DISPATCH, of the 8th instant, from Benson, A. T., says: The New Mexico and Arizona Railroad was opened for freight and passengers this morning. The fare from Benson to Comtention is $1.50; general merchandise, 11 cents per 100 pounds. The trains connect with all Southern Pacific trains at Contention, and stages connect for Tombstone, which is nine miles from Contention.

The search for De Long and his men along the Lena, in the opinion of the Louisville "Courier-Journal," is merely a search for dead bodies. Since Ootober 9th no trace of them has been found, save a few records left in abandoned native huts. As for Lieutenant Chipp, there is a bare possibility that he may be found somewhere on the inhospitable north coast, at a fishing station.

There are six million miles of fencing in the United States, the total cost of which has been more than two thousand millions. The census reports show that during the census year, there were expended $78,629,000 alone. Of this amount the largest contribution was from Illinois; the second from Pennsylvania.

The Baltimore "News," in writing about the practice of advertising on ornamental cards, says: "But what of the advertising, the principal object of the outlay for such fancies? In many instances the collectors either erased the business part of the card, or it was stuck in the book in such a manner as to hide that part of it, if it could not be cut off. Upon the majority of men and women, too, such trifling manner of advertising was entirely lost. Thus the real object, the main intent of the shopkeeper's expense was defeated, and we doubt if one house is convinced that its immense outlay for fancy cards has yielded anything like a commensurate return. Certainly every observant person must see by this time that one week's advertisement in a daily paper will cost far less, reach a greater number of people, impress more customers with the dignity and quality of your business, will bring your goods to the serious attention of more persons likely to buy them, than one hundred times as much expended in such tricks and trifles."

Somebody heard a Boston girl say: "I think he looked like a perfect raving angel in his uniform! He was awful heavenly."

The Secretary of War has ordered 25,000 more rations delivered to the State Commisioners of Louisiana.

Rich or Average Ores!

What becomes of all the "$1,000 a ton" mines that are being discovered every year? At what mills are the ores worked, that carry these high percentages of metal? Scarcely a day passes that we do not see in some journal that the lucky prospectors, So and So, have found a claim, the ore of which is very rich, and goes way up into the hundreds or the thousands.

The strange thing is, we never hear of these mines again. When a mill begins to experiment on the rock, it tells a different story from what the assayer's scales did. If $500 rock pays $50, it pays first-rate as a general thing, but that percentage even is seldom maintained.

The truth of the matter is, it is not the "rich" mines, but those with plenty of ore that pay. If the ore will pay a fair profit, over and above expenses, the mine is apt to be very much more profitable than when a few tons figure up high in the thousands. Mines with many tons of rich ore are all phenomenal. They occur so seldom that they are scarcely worth taking into account in prospecting. Of course, we naturally, when hunting for a prize, want the biggest one there is to be had; but we ought not to pass by a small one in looking for a large one.

These claims, with ore which assays way up in the thousands, very seldom produce much of it. After one discounts the selected specimen for what an average would be, and discount the assay value from what it will mill we find we have brought it down considerably.

It is not best, therefore, for men to be too sanguine when they hear of high assaying rock. It is true, a long array of figures on an assayer's certificate has a charm for many, and produces an excitement it is difficult to overcome. But even the most self-deceiving prospector will acknowledge to himself that the figures are safer on the paper than if brought to the test. He will trot around and try to sell a mine for a price that a dozen or two tons of the presumed rich ore would yield. If miners would but consider the subject, they will remember that the most famous mines which have paid their millions, are those which yield abundantly of an average ore; and that these mines last longest also. The thousand dollar a ton claim doesn't last very long.—[Scientific Press.

THE engineer in charge of the construction of Washington Monument, in Washington, reports that the addition to the hight of the structure since the work was renewed, Aug. 7, 1880, is 100 feet. The monument is now 250 feet high above the base. Seventy-four feet were added last year. The balance of appropriation available December 1st was enough to carry the obelisk to the hight of 286 feet.

THE Union Pacific Railroad Co. employs about 25 traveling agents, besides an army of general agents, to give information about transportation and facts regarding the great West.

European Exodus.

During the year which ended with last June, 677,431 immigrants arrived in the United States—a greater number than the whole population of the State of Maine or of Connecticut, and more than two hundred thousand greater than that of any year since the formation of the government. The next highest number of immigrants which ever came to our shores in one year was in 1873, when 459,803 arrived. Yet even the unparalled number of arrivals the past year is likely to be eclipsed by the immigration of the coming year. Since the beginning of July the arrivals each month have exceeded those for the corresponding months of the past fiscal year. It is estimated that for the two years ending July 1st, 1882, there will have arrived a million and a half of emigrants. One-third of this immigration comes from Germany; between one-fourth and one-fifth from Great Britain and Ireland; and a ninth from Scandinavia. They are filling up the great West, and the prospect is that in 1890 the population west of the Mississipi will be double what it was in 1880. California should have a million and a half population in 1890, on the basis of the above calculation.—[Oakland Tribune.

Tin Mines.

There has lately been made an important discovery near Riverside which is neither more nor less than a body of tin ore. The discovery was made by Mr. David Meacham, who has traced up the the ledge, and prospected it, until he has got something definite.

The ledge shows 1100 feet in length, and from 10 to 75 feet in width, and there is ore enough in sight to enrich half the town of Riverside.

Mr. Meacham has never had the ore assayed for tin, but I should judge, by what I have tried, that it will give at least 50 per cent. tin. I tried a piece about as large as a walnut, and it left a coating of tin on my shovel, as large as the palm of my hand.

There are several parties interested in the ledge, all of whom say that their claims are not for sale. —[Cor. San Bernardino Times.

SOME little time ago Miss Frances Power Cobbe, who has so identified herself with the cause of anti-vivisection, called on a distinguished man of science in London to endeavor by persuasive speech and viva voce argument to gain him over to her cause. Three points were observable in Miss Cobbe's outward presentment, namely, she had an ostrich feather in her bonnet, a bird of paradise on or near her muff, and she carried an ivory-handled umbrella. Consequently the distinguished man of science replied as follows: "Madam, charity begins at home. When you have given up wearing ostrich feathers, which are plucked from the living bird, causing the most exquisite pain; and birds of paradise, which, in order to enhance their beauty and luster, are skinned alive; when you have abjured the use of ivory, because you know that the tusks are cut out of the dying elephant's jaw—then, and then only, come and upbraid me with the cruelty of my operations. The difference between us is, madam, that I inflict pain in the pursuit of knowledge and for the ultimate benefit of my fellow creatures; you cause cruelty to be inflicted merely for your personal adornment."

THE Candelaria "True Fissure" truthfully remarks: "Purchasers of mining property have become so suspicious of titles not bearing the guarantee of a United States patent, that is next to impossible to sell a mine unless a Government patent is held for it. No matter how perfect the title may be, aside from this, capitalists will take no chances, and miners will do well to procure Uncle Sam's deed to their ground if they have any idea of disposing of it. The cost of procuring a patent is not large, and when secured the guarantee of title is perfect."

A NUGGET, weighing thirteen pounds, at $3,075, was fonnd recently, by G. A. Richardson, in the Cumberland placer claim, Nevada county.

THE Contention mine, at Tombstone, yielded over $170,000 in March, the average yield per ton being $82.84.

What is Wine Made of?

As wine merchants are petitioning the French government to put a stop to the manufacture of artificial wines, the petitioners asserting that not one-third of the wine used in Paris is made of grapes, the many Americans who turn up their noses at the juice of our own grapes will naturally wonder what the spurious French wines are made of. An exchange says that there are a number of large factories near Paris in which wines are made from rotten apples, damaged dried fruits of all kinds, beets, and spoiled molasses. But there are not enough of those materials to make as much wine as is required by foreign trade. Turnip juice has been worked over into wine, and American cider is the basis of millions of bottles of champagne, but good apples and turnips are too costly to be wasted on cheap wines such as most Americans buy. Some of the temperance societies might find the returns they are after by satisfying public curiosity about what wines are made of.—[N. Y. Herald

A REMEDY FOR TOOTHACHE.—Dr. F. P. Atkinson describes, in the "Practitioner," an English medical work, a novel form of treatment for toothache, to which he was led by Dr. Murrell's results with nitro-glycerine in angina pectoris. Being afflicted with severe toothache, and proceeding on the similarity in effect following the employing of nitro-glycerine and nitrate of amyl, he applied to the aching tooth cotton wool, saturated with Richardson's compound anæsthetic ether, which contains the nitrate. Instant relief ensued, which was maintained for four hours by a pledget of wool previously soaked in laudanum. Dr. Atkinson adds that a 1 percent. solution of nitro-glycerine has the same effect in stopping pains as nitrate of amyl; and thus a means of relieving a most distressing complaint is opened up.

IT is reported that an important strike has been made in the Eberhardt tunnel, White Pine, Nevada.

THE NEW BILL PASSES.

Monday last Page's new anti-Chinese bill passed the House, under suspension of the rules, by a vote of 201 ayes to 37 noes—as nearly unanimous as often happens in that body. The only material point of difference between this and the vetoed bill is in now reducing the term of exclusion from twenty to ten years, which is done that the President may not have the former as an excuse for another veto. What the Senate will do about it remains to be seen. There is no doubt but that it will pass by a big majority on a square vote, but the trouble is, there are Senators there who would not permit even the Decalogue to pass without offering numerous amendments or an entire substitute of their own construction. Among others who are afflicted in that way is Senator Edmunds, of Vermont. He feels that he knows a good deal more than almost anybody else, and so wants to amend the new bill in several particulars, merely, he says, to render its phraseology less ambigious, not to change its substance. But probabilities are that every amendment will be voted down in turn, and that the bill will pass the Senate and go to the President as it came from the House. It is generally believed that functionary will sign this bill, even though it still retains some features to which he, in his great wisdom, objected to in the vetoed bill. He might as well make a virtue of necessity, for it can be passed over his head this time.

SECRETARY HUNT has received a dispatch from Hoffman, Charge d'Affaires at St. Petersburg, under date of March 21st, inclosing a letter from Chief Engineer Melville, dated January 31st, and written at a point on his way to the mouth of the Lena, 353 miles beyond Yakutsk. Hoffman states that the Governor appears to have shown much good will in sending the orders of January 15th to Melville, as a steamer has already been ordered and paid for. The speed with with which the last advices went through is quite remarkable. Chief Engineer Melville, in the letter referred to, says that he has every reason to hope to find De Long and his people. Lieutenant Danenhower telegraphs, under date January 28th, from Krasmojarok, about 4,600 versts from St. Petersburg, that he may be expected there about April 20th.

THE Senate confirmed W. E. Chandler of New Hampshire as Secretary of the Navy, W. H. Hunt of Louisiana as Minister to Russia, J. B. Partidge of Maryland as Minister to Peru, John H. Smith of North Carolina Minister to Liberia, Wm. Williams of Indiana as Charge d'Affaires to Paraguay and Uruguay, J. J. Knox Controller of the Currecy; United States Marshals—A. C. Botkins for Montana and A. E. Ireland for Utah. Chandler's nomination was confirmed by 28 ayes—24 Republicans and 4 Democrats—against 16 noes—all Democrats. Only two formal speeches were delivered—Bayard in opposition and Rollins in advocacy.

A ST. PETERSBURG dispatch announces that a boat has been discovered at Herald Island in the Arctic Sea containing several dead bodies and loose objects with the name of "Jeannette" upon them. This is doubtless the last traces of the lost crew of the second boat which, under Lieutenant Chipps, separated from De Long and Melville when some hundred miles distant from the main land. De Long and his party no doubt perished miserably six months ago in the desert waste between the mouths of the Lena.

SOME weeks ago it was published that the North American Poultry Association would send instructions how to make a $5 incubator, or egg hatcher. The Secretary of that North American alleged Association is named J. M. Bain, and his place of business is at New Concord, Ohio. The Country Gentleman of April 6th denounces Bain as a fraud. He is, it says, only after stamps, and there is no such association as the one of which he pretends to be secretary. It advises that no one send Bain any letters for instruction.

AMONG its "Railroad Notes," the New York Engineering and Mining Journal, of April 1, gives this: "The Carson and Colorado will be extended during the year 1882 in a southwesterly direction into Mono, Inyo, and Kern counties, California, following the line of Owens river through Owens Valley, to a connecting point with the Southern Pacific Railroad, near Mohave Station, Kern county."

PACHECO'S BILL.

The particular bill referred to in the above caption is the one to give the old settlers on the Camp Independence Reserve the preferred right to the lands they live on when the military claim to the same is withdrawn, and at the same time to donate the buildings and lands immediately pertaining, for high school purposes. In an item given two weeks since it was stated that Mr. Pacheco, having then been denied a vote upon his bill, gave notice that he would renew his effort the week following—last week. It is not likely that he did do so, for chances for a hearing so far have been hopelessly slim, inasmuch as the McGarrahan swindle and the new anti-Chinese bill together have, so to speak, kept Congress standing on its head, and it has been impossible for members to even think of anything else under such distressing circumstances. But now that their dazed condition is somewhat relieved, some of the common affairs may receive a moment's attention, and Mr. Pacheco secure some action on his bill.

It is not likely the bill wtll ever become a law, simply because it is not likely it can ever be brought to a vote. If it could be brought to a vote there is hardly a doubt but it would pass. But it is only one among several thousand pending bills. To reach it in its regular order on the calendar would require something like a century of usual Congressional progress, seeing that there is neither money nor political capital to be made out of it. The present Congress won't last a century, perhaps not later than next June. Then the whole business will again revert to the hands of the Secretary of War, and disposed of soon thereafter.

Meantime, Mr. Pacheco will again ask leave to have the bill taken up out of its regular order. If no member objects, the vote will be taken, but a single objection will be its ruin. An objector is quite sure to arise. In every legislative body are to be found a dozen or so of members whose only mission is to obstruct, to "object." Their talents run in that way only, and in that way only could they ever be heard of, and they know it. In very important cases their bosses manage sometimes to keep them quiet, but except in such, they never miss a chance to "object." Hence, Mr. Pacheco's chances to obtain the coveted unanimous consent to take up his bill are slim indeed, and the prospects of its ever becoming a law are slim in the same ratio.

AT latest dates there were six sailing vessels and three steamers secured at Hongkong to take Chinese laborers from that port to Victoria, Portland and ports in Puget Sound. The number of coolies these vessels will carry is about 4,000, and they will all work on railroads now building in the Northwestern States and Territories. Most of the expected Chinamen are under contract to Mills & Onderdonk, who have secured one contract of $9,000,000 and another of $11,000,000, from the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company to build that road from the Pacific side eastward. The agents of that firm cannot get all the Chinese they want at Hongkong. They offer $26 a month, with passage and food across the Pacific free, for unskilled coolies, and laborers to find themselves after landing. This price will be paid for three months, after which they will be paid $1 25 a day.

GOV. CRITTENDEN, of Missouri, is a Governor of the right sort. He "takes the responsibility" both before and after the fact in the matter of the killing of the murderer, Jesse James, in a manner that must meet the approval of everybody, those milksops excepted who "take on" so because his slayer did not inform the desperado of what he proposed to do before doing it. The Governor says:

I have no excuses to make, no apologies to render to any living man for the part I have played in this bloody drama, nor has Craig nor has Timberlake. The life of one honest, law-abiding man, however humble, is worth more to society and a State than a legion of Jesse Jameses. One is a blessing, the other a living, breathing, putrid curse. I am no admirer of any of the acts of the outlaw. He may have occasionally done a good deed; if so, like the corsair, it was "one virtue marked with a thousand crimes." I am not regretful of his death, and have no words of censure for the boys who removed him. They deserve credit, is my solemn, candid opinion.

A WASHINGTON dispatch of the 15th says: The escape of Capt. Howgate is the principal topic of conversation today. It is not probable that Howgate will be seen in this country again. Nellie Burnell, the woman in the case, is still missing, and has probably either joined him or preceded him to a place agreed upon. She has been in the habit of visiting the jail and spending hours in consultatiun with him. She was there Wednesday, and had a two hours' consultation with him in the Warden's office. Great indignation is felt here at the loose manner in which so notorious a criminal and violator of social decency has been handled.

ITEMS.

The work of repairing the levees in Mississippi is to be vigorously pushed.

All but three of the American citizens who have been under arrest in Ireland have been released.

Hugh Keagen, who last Fall attacked and robbed a Chinaman in Clinton, Iowa, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for three years.

A new sportman's organization, known as the Pacific Gun Club, has been organized at the Bay.

A man named John Myers was cut to pieces and instantly killed by falling against a circular saw in the Chase mill on Bowlder creek, 15 miles from Santa Cruz.

Five thousand Jews were expelled from Moscow during the Easter holidays. The streets of Odessa are patroled by troops. Seven hundred persons, mostly without passports, have been arrested in the past few days.

The product of lead in the United States for 1881 is estimated at 110,000 tons, worth 4½ cents per pound in the Eastern markets, and having a total value of $10,500,000. The value of the lead product of Nevada, Colorado, and Arizona was $6,264,000.

Sergeant Mason ought not to hasten his case too much. "Betty and the Baby" received $734 from Chicago on the 3d, and the flow of contributions will doubtless continue as long as Mason is kept in prison.

It will take at least a year to plaster all the walls in the State Capitol building at Des Moines, Iowa. This is to be done by day's works, as the Board of Commissioners did not deem it best to have the work done by contract.

The contract for carrying the mails between Eureka and Pioche, from July 1st, is at the rate of $10,000 per year, the lowest figure ever put in for that route.

The Humboldt river is reported higher than it has been before for some time, and the carcasses of stock which perished near its head during the severe weather during the Winter are floating down stream daily.

President Arthur is said to be wooing for his second wife the beautiful widow of Craig Wadsworth, of Geneseo, N. Y. Mrs. Wadsworth was in her youth a Miss Lena Peters of Philadelphia.

The Woodland Mail states that an English capitalist, Sir John Lester Kaye, Bart., of Yorkshire, England, has invested $75,000 in Yolo county tule lands.

The St. Louis printers went on a strike; stuck it out for five weeks; cost them about $30,000 one way and another; had to go to work at last at the old wages.

Chinese laborers in the Stockton woolen mills have been discharged and white girls put on in their places.

A. T. Stewart & Co., of New York, are closing out the entire business of that celebrated establishment.

Vanderbilt is to erect a $200,000 mausoleum on Staten Island, wherein the Vanderbilts generally may be laid away as occasions require.

Among the effects of the dead outlaw, Jesse James, were found a gold watch and a $700 diamond pin belonging to ex-Governor Burbank, of Dakota, which were taken from him during a stage robbery by the James gang in Texas eight years ago.

The President declines to interfere in the Fitz John Porter case, so there appears to be no relief for that General.

By the provisions of the Crow treaty the Indians cede to the United States a large tract of valuable mineral and agricultural lands lying south of the Yellowstone, and near the line of the Northern Pacific, which tract includes the rich and well known Clark's Fork mines.

JUMBO is not a handsome beast. Like all African elephants, he has a coarse hide, and two humps on his back, one above his fore and another over his hind quarters. The pangs of homesickness had reduced him to an attenuated state, but his very emaciation increased the impression of his great size. Protuberances and hillocks gave a pleasing relief to the outlines of his frame, and his curved backbone stood out like the sagging ridge pole of a country barn against a wintry sky. His eyes, of a yellowish color, fringed by long lashes, were set in a head like the irregularly sloping side of a rocky hill. The stumps of his tusks, which had been broken short off in his youth, just appeared beneath folds of leathery skin. So far as could be judged, with allowance for Jumbo's lack of proper toilet facilities, his color was lighter than the usual hue of elephants. He swayed to and fro in his cage, restlessly thrusting out his trunk twelve feet long in every direction, scorning hay and begging for sweets and buns. Across the upper part of his trunk were three broad, smooth bands, where he had rubbed against the plank before him. Between these were deep wrinkles. He drew in and shot out his trunk like the joints of a telescope. When he curled it up, it appeared composed of wrinkles, but when he reached for a bun it looked like a huge piece of hose.—N. Y. Tribune.

ABOUT 9 o'clock Wednesday night an immense cave occurred at the Manzanita hydraulic mining claim, burying all their pipes, tools, etc., and causing considerable damage. All through the day the ground had been caving, to a more or less extent, but no apprehensions were entertained of such an avalanche of gravel being precipitated upon the miners, who had to flee for their lives. The only thing they managed to save was the large headlight, used by night, and they had to run with it 700 or 800 feet before it was far enough away from the moving mountain of earth to be safe. It will take several days before the pipes can be uncovered and washing resumed.—Nevada Transcript, Apr. 13.

GRADERS on the California Southern are now as far as the south bank of the Santa Ana river. Hundreds of Chinamen are engaged between there and Box Springs. The road-bed will be in condition for the rails as fast as they can be laid.

THE great northern light with which we were favored here on Sunday night, was by no means a local affair, as some seemed to think. Accounts of its appearance are telegraphed from all parts of the continent north of the 34th parallel from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We do not hear, though, of any scientist having caught and analyzed any of the mysterious light so as to tell what it is made of, or what causes it, concerning which the scientist is as yet as much in the dark as the common herd. True, he can theorize in a learned sort of a way as to its origin or cause, but his most plausible theory is but little if any more thought of than that of the practical kind of a man who said it was "because the north gudgeon of the earth had got hot." While the aurora borealis was at its hight in the Eastern States, the electrical disturbance was so great telegraphs were useless, which indicates that electricity is an important factor in the great display.

A DISPATCH from Parsons, Kansas, April 15, says the Indians in the Indian Territory are dissatisfied because Jay Gould has secured the St. Louis and San Francisco line running through their country, and have vowed vengeance. On Monday, March 27, a brakeman, who was on top of a car, was shot while the train was going through a ravine near Muskegan. A few days later another brakeman shared the same fate. Sheriff Williams, who went to hunt the offenders, has not been heard from since the 5th instant, and he is believed to have been murdered. On the 14th the engineer on the train from Muskegan reported an attempt to wreck his train. Several shots were fired into the engine. The ruffians escaped. Such experiences are reported almost weekly from that section.

THE Principal of the Irving school Missouri, has broken loose on the phonetic system of spelling, and in his phonetic newspaper, which he does not weary of publishing, he says, speaking of his efforts to upset the existing style of spelling: "Meni periodiculz have sins purchast tips and uz them, whil thi number that emploi revizd spelling is lejun. Dhus thi gud work goz on, and a grajual reform haz begun, never to ses until fuli accomplisht." It iz a grate piti the lauz of Mizuri ar not mor strikt in regard tu such ejukatd ijiots being allowd at thi hed of skules tu dhus misteech the yung Mizurins.

THE Rev. Dr. Scarrett, of St. Louis, has formulated a proposition for bringing together the Methodist Churches of the North and the South. The separation took place in 1844, on the slavery question. The plan contemplates the division of the country into three general jurisdictions—one west of the Mississipi and two east of it—each with a general conference of its own and the separate power to amend its discipline. Action is expected by the Conference of the Methodist Church South, which meets in Nashville next month.

THE Bodie Free Press asserts that the Eureka & Palisade Railroad keeps Alf. Chartz in the penitentiary. The Eureka Leader says this is an error under which many people labor. Supt. Everts, while he opposed pardoning Chartz immediately after his conviction, has taken no part of late, and is indifferent as to whether he is pardoned or not. Nothing keeps him there but the pure unadulterated cussedness of the Board of Pardons. It is the Jack McTague sort of felons that distinguished Board loves to pardon.

THE manner in which the Southern Pacific railroad regulates freights is illustrated by a conversation said to have occurred between a Los Angeles farmer and an agent of the road. The farmer inquired the charge of carrying a carload of potatoes from Los Angeles to Tucson: "What are potatoes selling here for?" the agent asked. "Fifty cents per 100 pounds." "What are they selling for in Tucson?" "Two dollars and a half." "Then," said the agent, "the charge for carrying your potatoes there will be $2 a hundred."

PRIVATE letters, dated Sokulsk, February 12, received at Salem, Massachussets, by the family of the taxidermist, Raymond Newman, one of the survivors of the Jeannette, now on their way near Augsterg, on the Siberian frontier, state that, barring unavoidable delay, the party will reach St. Petersburg by the 15th of May. Lieutenant Danenhower, of the party, is improving rapidly.

A SACRAMENTO dispatch of the 12th says: "Hon. W. B. C. Brown, ex-State Controller, was stricken with apoplexy to-day, at 10 o'clock, and died this evening at 6:10. The death was so sudden and unexpected that the community is much shocked and saddened."

THERE is clamor in Los Angeles for the organization for a building society. In Sacramento like associations have proved successful, good investments, and desirable aids to the man who wishes to secure a home but cannot command the ready means in one sum.

IT was announced in the Sentinel several days ago, that an important strike had been made in the Eberhardt Tunnel; that the strike had been talked of for more than a month past, but that no definite information had been obtained as to the location and extent. From Robert M. Beatty, who came in from Hamilton yesterday, we learn that the Eberhardt and Aurora Tunnel is in about a mile, it having been pushed that far by Superintendent Frank Drake, so that a cross-cut west at right angles with the tunnel would bring him under the works of the Aurora. On this cross-cut he went 1,000 feet, or thereabouts, where a four-foot ledge of black sulphuret milling ore, assaying $1,500 per ton, was struck under the North Aurora works. This is at a depth of 1,600 feet. The first formation encountered was a horizontal strata of manganese, which changed into black sulphurets. This is grand news. If it indicates all that is claimed for it, it means the revival of mining in that district; it means the flush times of the early days of White Pine.—Eureka Sentinel.

AMONG other Congressional proceedings on the 17th was the following, given in the words of the dispatch:

By Van Voorhies (R.) of New York—A report from the Committee on Mines and Mining upon various bills providing for the establishment of a Bureau of Mines and Mining. The committee are of opinion that the Geological Survey is, to all intents and purposes, practically a Bureau of Mines and Mines and Mining, and that all the legislation needed is to enlarge its jurisdiction. The committee therefore report a resolution, and ask its passage, to appropriate $50,000 for the expenses of the United States Geological Survey, the examination of the geological structure of mineral sources and products of the States and Territories, and the preparing of statistics in relation thereto, for making a chemical analysis of the iron, coal, and oil found therein, to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

R. W. WOOLARD, local secretary of the Great Sierra Consolidated Silver Company, who was hurt in a snow-slide last month at Tioga District, and who about a week ago was brought to town, left Friday by private conveyance for Hawthorne and thence to San Francisco. It will be recollected that he was crushed down on a hot stove, and his head was badly bruised and burned. H. L. Childs will take Mr. Woolard's place during his absence as secretary at the mine. Charley Jarboe will take Mr. Child's place as operator at the Lundy office. Both the latter named gentlemen and J. C. Kemp, left for Lundy on Friday.—Bodie Free Press.

THE Contra Costa Gazette, Los Angeles Times and some other papers urge the Governor to call an extra session of the Legislature to redistrict the State. They hold that without it there will be doubt as to the next Legislature being a constitutional body, and as to the validity of all it may pass, and that the action they advise is demanded by Section —, Article IV, of the Constitution. We are in a position to inform those journals that the Governor has emphatically stated he will not call an extra session, and hence whatever they fear may happen without an extra session will happen, if their views are correct.—Record-Union.

WHERE has the doctrine of Senatorial prerogative gone? That is what Senators Hoar and Dawes, of Massachusets, are puzzling about. The nomination of Worthington to the Boston Collectorship was made by the President in the face of most earnest protests by the two Senators, and all but two of the Massachusetts Congressional delegation. It begins to look as if sauce for the Half-breed goose was not gravy for the Stalwart gander.—Eureka Leader.

NOTWITHSTANDING the frequent warnings given to keep away from Wood River for the present, the stampede is growing. The Salt Lake Tribune says the stage company are putting their line in order to meet the great rush. A gentleman down from Blackfoot says the stampeders are going in on foot, in many instances, while others have their own conveyances, pack animals, etc.

SATURDAY, APRIL 22.....1882

SOUTHERN STAGE MATTERS.—Yesterday Independence received a visit from Mr. John Lloyd, of Messrs. Belknap & Lloyd, the Independence and Caliente mail contractors, who will take Hamilton's Kern and Inyo stage line in July next. Mr. Lloyd generally makes Visalia his headquarters, though his family reside at his home near Porterville. He wintered with stock in '65 at Bishop Creek, so that this is not his first visit to Inyo. Mr. Lloyd's conversation indicates his thorough disgust at the postal regulations requiring the mails to be carried over the present roundabout way and desert, sandy roads. As scheduled it is 226½ miles to the railraid at Caliente from here. It is only 140 miles to Mojave direct, over a vastly better road, passing good stations and with no mountains to cross. A change would effect a saving of eighty miles of desert travel, and to the mails and through passengers about twelve hours' time. We hope that the efforts of the new company to correct this matter may prove successful, when they will put on side lines to accommodate Keraville, Weldon and Darwin.

"TIMES" ITEMS.—We quote the following local notes from the Bishop Creek Times of Saturday last: The Round Valley farmers are busily engaged in putting in their crops, and indications are favorable for a large yield. Much new machinery has been added to the Cambrian Mills, including new bolts and a purifier, which enables the proprietor to turn out as good flour as manufactured in the State. Mr. Jones claims to have planted the first wheat raised in this valley, and lived on taboose while waiting for harvest time. ....Bill Gill left for Candelaria last Tuesday, to make a race between Brown Abbey and Red Oaks for $1,000 or more aside, to be run at Candelaria.... Dr. Middleton has removed his family from Big Pine, and will reside permanently with us....The mortar for the Laura mill, in Saline Valley, has reached this place and will be shipped to the mill immediately. It weighs 1950 lbs....Bill Hutchings is about to convert his large hall into a lodging-house.

A SAD CASE.—Constable Geo. Drake arrived from Bishop Creek last evening, having in charge Mrs. Ann Plumley, who was accompanied by her husband. The unfortunate woman was committed for action by the Superior Court by Justice Brooks, on a charge of insanity, on complaint of her husband. It was found that she is the mother of six children, the oldest being about twelve years of age, and that the woman was most apparently in a very delicate condition at present. Judge Hannah declined to hold an inquiry for the time being, and she will be taken back to Bishop. It is stated that her mental malady was superinduced by losses in stocks in Virginia City, and that about a year ago—while she was under commitment to an insane asylum—she fled from that place to Bodie.

KEARSARGE.—Mr. Ward and his coworkers who are rebuilding the old Pioneer mill in Kearsarge District, will have entirely completed the road by the middle of next week. The Kearsarge grade has been put in good order. Considerable parts of the mill are in place, and the new 20-foot water wheel will be finished within two weeks after the arrival of the necessary lumber, so that Mr. Sullivan intends having the works ready for operation about the middle of May. Several lots of ore will be worked, besides the Kearsarge tailings. Todd and Clinton have added 18 feet to the depth of the winze in the Kearsarge tunnel, making it about 120 in all. It is all in ore, and should the same body continue to the full depth of 50 feet more there will yet be lively work on the big mountain.

TEAMING.—Jos. Le Cyr has bought a fine eight-mule team from the Summers outfit at Big Pine. Denny Hessian is reported to have had bad luck in getting his teams and load around to Panamint Valley, through Shepherd's Cañon, on his trip to haul wood and coal for the Modock. Charley Mates, who made many friends during his stay hereabouts, has gone north with his animals to the Indian Queen and to Bodie. Al. Robinson has a train packing in Snow's Cañon.

DEEP SPRINGS.—Messrs. Greenly and Broder are at work again sinking the shaft on the Indian Scout, with the most encouraging results. They have built a trail directly across to the mines from McMurry's ranch. The Half Dollar boys have developed a splendid body of ore in their shaft. Mr. Elisee is getting out a lot of rich ore for shipment to the reduction works at Dayton.

AURORA BOREALIS.—Probably the finest auroral display ever witnessed in in this latitude was seen on Tuesday evening last, it appearing the most brilliant about 11 o'clock. Had this phenomenon anything to do with the cold and blustery weather of the week?

HERE.—Jack Wilson and Mat McDonald arrived last evening. They gave the most flattering reports of the general mining developments and good prospects of Southern Inyo, the particulars of which can not be given this week.

DULL.—Times, official business and matters and things in general are excessively dull around the Court House. This is not reported as a matter of news, but as a simple fact—it has been that way for some time.

AT HOME.—Sheriff Smith and Omie Mairs returned from their Saline visit on last Monday. They "took in" the Laura mill and about 2,700 acres of saline lands.

SOCIAL.—A very pleasant and largely-attended dance and supper was given last night by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. P. Laird, at their residence.

ARRESTED.—On complaint of John Baxter, in Justice Parker's court last night, a warrant was issued for the arrest of John Doe, on the grounds of "horsestealing." It appears the young man—whose name we do not know—was found in Baxter's stable about 9 o'clock P. M., talking to a fine stallion and was taken in as a would-be thief. This morning in the Superior Court, the case was ordered dismissed on the ground of informality. It is generally conceded that the young man had no intent or object in committing grand larceny, since he would not wish to leave the country with more money due him than the animal was worth, and that such action as he was engaged in seems to be his controlling idiosyncrasy.

"BAD BOY FROM BISHOP."—Under the foregoing caption, the Bodie Free Press, of the 16th, has the following: A Candelaria dispatch of April 13, says, "A young man named Edward Crawford, recently from Bishop Creek, and who has been working as a waiter in Tommy Coulter's chop house, jumped the town this morning with $60 of his employer's money. He bought a ticket for San Francisco and left on the morning train, but was overhauled at Hawthorne by a telegram, and brought back on this evening's train. Crawford is hardly 19 years of age, and does not look like a hardened criminal."

THE MODOCK.—Up to the 13th inst. the amount of ore delivered at the Modock furnace was 309 tons. Ore chutes at mine are all full. The 300-level of the East Lookout, north drift, is all ore of high grade. The old Confidence stopes are yielding the usual amount of ore. The prospect drift from the blacksmith shop is in 78 feet, and shows a little carbonate in the face. The furnace will be fired up at 6 o'clock A. M. May 1st. Frank Fitzgeaald, the lessee, left for San Francisco on the 20th, to get a renewal of his lease or to find out what the company intends to do.

SNOW'S CAÑON.—Joe Le Cyr's big team was in town yesterday, loading with grain for Darwin and Snow's Cañon. We learn that mining operations are being very considerably revived in the latter district. John Eddy, who has the mill and mines under lease, has about 15 men working the different claims. He reports a strike, in the St. Louis mine, of an ore vein two to four inches in width of immense richness—from $12,000 to $14,000 per ton in gold.

SHOOTING.—On Wednesday last Pedro Madril, a Mexican, came up on the Lone Pine stage and was sent to the County Hospital. Although able to stand and move around, he had been shot four times—in the leg, shoulder, arm and foot. The affair occurred in Hughes' Cañon, Beveridge District, in a little sociable time amongst the Mexicans. No one seems to know who did the shooting nor any particulars about the matter.

A BUSINESS CHANCE.—The Whitney House property, at Lone Pine, is offered for sale by the proprietress, Mrs. A. Stewart. We believe this institution to be one of the best business concerns in the county, for any one who "knows how to run a hotel." See the notice elsewhere.

PIC-NIC.—The young folk of Big Pine do not appear to be discouraged at the backwardness of the season. Leastwise the school is already making ample preparations for a grand Mayday picnic, to be followed by a ball and supper wind-up. The notice elsewhere gives everybody a cordial invitation to attend.

HUGE.—Reports reach us of the discovery of an immense mineral ledge in Wild Rose District, eighty-one feet wide and assaying 60 ounces per ton in silver. Fitzgerald intends putting a mill there as soon as his present Modock run is completed.

GOOD.—Whether mining business in this part of the county amounts to much or not this season, it is evident that there will be an immensely increased output of bullion from Beveridge, Darwin, Lookout and Panamint—probably more than ever before in any one year.

LUMBER.—We understand that the Black Rock Sawmill boys have resumed active operations. The company is prepared to fill all orders for lumber, timber, etc., at short notice.

GONE.—Charley Lawrence, the man who was shot by A. Thibault, has left the County Hospital, and has probably been furnished with an outfit to leave the county on.

LEFT OVER.—An interesting paper on "Food Adulteration Before Congress" is necessarily laid over until next week, also, a poetical favor.

ENOUGH.—Billy Grant and Ed Walker are reported to have had enough of Calico, as both have returned to Olancha.

IT HAS.—It has the appearance, now, of being about to thaw out some.

A DISPATCH from Morgan City, Louisiana, says: Three negroes were drowned by the upsetting of a boat on the Lagona plantation. Eight houses on the plantation were destroyed by the storm on Wednesday night. The prayers of negroes quartered in stable lofts could be heard above the roar of the storm. The panic among them was fearful.

AN inexpensive and good dessert is made of one quart of sweet milk, two-thirds of a cup of uncooked rice, and a little salt. Put this in tea or coffee cups, set them in the steamer over a kettle of boiling water. Let it cook until the rice is almost like jelly. When cold turn it out of the cup. Serve with sugar and cream, or with pudding sauce.

IT costs John Bull $634,372,000 a year for drink and but $425,000,000 for government.

Bishop Creek Billets from "Bill."

BISHOP CREEK, April 20.

I have no apology to offer for my long silence except the old threadbare excuse—too busy, have not had time, etc. Have been so busy of late doing nothing that I havn't had time to do anything else. There is nothing like variety, however, and after adorning one street-corner for an hour or so my uneasy, roving disposition compels me to seek a change, so I go whithersoever my footsteps may lead. and generally take up a similar position at some other prominent point in our quiet little town.

HORSE-RACING

Has subsided, at least for the time being, and as a consequence, "yaller money" is not seen in "copious fusions"—probably because Big Pine has retired from the turf, and Black Harry is expected soon to depart for other scenes.

TOO UTTERLY AWFUL.

A report is being circulated that R. Fred Brooks, whose resignation as Justice of the Peace was filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors recently, has been pursuaded by friends to withdraw the same. Too bad. The greater portion of our neighborhood will, I dare say, feel grief-stricken when the news is fully announced; not at the prospect of again having Mr. Brooks to preside over our Court of Justice, but because it confirms the fancied supposition that we have no material out of which to make a Court, or at least none whose clear-headedness, broadness of comprehension, intellect and honesty, equals that of R. Fred Brooks. Is it not discouraging?

DEPARTED.

Johnny Irwin, the inimitable Assessor has "gone from our dream like a beautiful gaze," and we're all glad of it. Not but that Johnny is a first-class fellow in some respects, but we are decidedly opposed to a man whose generosity is only excelled by his inquisitiveness. He wants to know too much about everybodys business, and especially their financial standing. We must credit him however, with the faculty of trying to make everybody feel rich.... Deacon Giles, one of our estimable mixologists, accompanied by his wife, has gone to Candelaria on a lookout for better times; but W. J. C. and George M. Gill who have just returned from that place, seem to think that Bishop Creek is not the dullest town in this section. They seem also confirmed in the belief that "man wants but little here below."....Kit Johnson has also gone to Candelaria where he expects to be installed as a fixture behind Joe Barrett's bar in the Capital Hotel.

THE VETO

Of the Chinese Bill did not excite much open comment, but our people's appreciation of it is evidenced by a deep feeling of disgust. A great many seem to think that while Arthur (Ah Thur) has immortalized himself as an advocate of coolie suffrage, he has been none the less successful in establishing for himself a name to be hated and despised by those at whose heads he has hurled the traitorous missile. A snake without a head whose prototype was Judas Iscariot. BILL.

THE Yankton Indians at Poplar river have been drawing farming implements and seed from the agent, who also paid them 50 cents per day and rations for cultivating the soil for ther own profit. Now they have struck for higher wages.

THE Virginia Chronicle strikes at the root of the evil when it says: "Let the Chinese be Boycotted, and all, also, who will not agree to join in Boycotting."

THE Yuma Indians have a young man in their ranks who will run a race with the fastest horse in California, for a purse of $1,000.

JACK MCTAGUE, who tried to murder Henry Savage at Candelaria, has been captured, and held to answer under a $5,000 bond.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, APRIL 22 1882

THE nutritive value of beans is very great—greater than almost any other article of food in common use. Considering their richness, they are probably the cheapest food we have, but somewhat difficult of digestion, probably owing to the fact that we rarely cook them enough and masticate insufficiently. In preparing beans for the table, they should first be well soaked in cold water and then thrown into boiling water and cooked until of a medium consistency, between a fluid and a solid, neither too thick nor too thin. They require some acid on them when eaten, and sufficient amount of salt to render them palatable. They may be eaten with potatoes or other vegetables which contain more starch and less albumen, rather than with too much bread or meat. In Germany there is a process patented by which beans and all leguminous seeds are reduced to a fine flower, and rendered capable of being used as food by the most delicate persons. We have samples of this flour, which equals in fineness the best wheat flour, and it is used extensively for making soups for invalids. These soups are worth a hundred times as much as beef tea. There is a fortune awaiting any one who will prepare a flour as perfect as this flour from Germany. Bean soup, rightly made, is exceedingly delicious and wholesome, and ought to be used more extensively than it is. —[Sanitarian.

DR. BOCK, of Leipsic, a famous German physician, writes as follows on the moral effect of different articles of food and drink: "The nervousness and peevishness of our times are chiefly attributable to tea and coffee; the digestive organs of confirmed coffee drinkers are in a state of chronic derangement, which reacts on the brain, producing fretful and crying moods. Fine ladies addicted to strong coffee have a characteristic temper, which I might describe as a mania for acting the persecuted saint. The snappish, petulant humor of the Chinese can certainly be ascribed to their immoderate fondness for tea. Beer is brutalizing, wine impassions, whisky infuriates, but eventually unmans. The alcoholic drinks combined with a flesh and fat diet, totally subjugate the moral man, unless their influence be counteracted by violent exercise; but with sedentary habits they produce those unhappy flesh sponges which may be studied in metropolitan bachelor halls but better yet in wealthy convents. The soul that may still linger in a fat Austrian abbot is functional to his body only as salt is to pork—in preventing imminent putrefaction."—[Herald of Health.

COLUSA has a citizen who doesn't believe in any foolishness. He intends that the United States shall not be sat down upon with impunity. In a communication to the "Sun" of last Saturday, he says, referring to the imprisonment of American citizens in Ireland: "I, for one, am not going to let this British insult pass and be forgotten. Frelinghuysen and Arthur are afraid to rupture diplomatic relations with a 'friendly power.' (?) I, for one, will raise the cry of war, war, war! and millions of liberty-loving Americans echo the sound. To arms! for American honor is at stake." The gentleman's heart is evidently in the right place, but we fear his zeal is a little too intense for his head.—[Sac. Bee.

THE ancient temples of Egypt are believed to contain the oldest timber in the world, in the shape of dowel pins, which are incorporated with stone work known to be not less than 4,000 years otd. These dowel pins, according to the appearance they present, are thought to have been made from the tamarisk or shittim wood—in ancient times a sacred tree in Egypt.

THE smallest circular saw in practical use is a tiny disc about the size of a five-cent nickel, which is employed in cutting the slits in gold pens. They are about as thick as ordinary paper and revolve some 4,000 times per minute. Their high velocity keeps them rigid, notwithstanding their extreme thinness.

THE Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company proposes to bring people from the East free, in order that they may examine the lands which the company has for sale.

THE Danish Chamber voted, March 17, an appropriation to help pay the expenses of an Arctic expedition, which is to start from Copenhagen in July next.

THE Carson "Appeal" says that on Monday night, April 10, Henry Savage, a very peaceable and respectable man in the employ of the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company, was sitting in a saloon at Candelaria when an entire stranger entered the place violently swinging a revolver about his head. Mr. Savage asked the man what he was doing that for. The bully, who was not under the influence of liquor, as some might have supposed from his actions, remarked: "I'll show you in a second, you ——— ———!" and then, without the least provocation, shot Mr. Savage through the shoulder. The wounded man was brought here last night and put in charge of Dr. F. J. White, the railroad surgeon. Mr. Savage informed the "Appeal" reporter that when he left Candelaria the would-be assassin had not been arrested. The shooter's name is Jack McTague. This fellow was within the last few years sent to the State Prison from Esmeralda county for a similar offense, and it is only a few months since he was pardoned out. At that time the "Appeal" commented somewhat unfavorably upon the action of the Board in this particular case. McTague, who saw the article, came to this office whining that "the papers would not give a feller a chance." He begged that nothing more should be said about him, promising to do what was right in the future. And in this way he has kept his word. He belongs to that class who are at all times dangerous outside of State Prison walls. McTague is well known in Bodie as a "bad lot."—[Free Press.

"MY son," said a venerable merchant to his 16-year old boy, "when you grow up into business take mighty fine care that you never steal anything. Pull your gun and shoot two or three men if you want to; kill your wife if you think it will conduce to your happines, but never, never lay a felonious hand upon a copper belonging to another man. Look at Jack Best's case—ten years in San Quentin, and then run your eye over the sentences given homicides and murderers, and see for yourself how easily you will be let down if you only kill somebody, and how severe your sentence will be if you should steal even a five-cent piece with a hole in it." The father retired, and the boy rolled another cigarette, and ruminated upon the old gentleman's remarks.—[S. F. Exchange.

"A WOMAN living in the suberbs of Leadville, Col., gave birth to a monstrosity with a head resembling a lizard and hands like fins. It gave out an articulate sound. The father had to be held to prevent him from killing the child. It bids fair to live."—[Ex.] But the fellow that got up that story—after having "snakes" bad enough to picture them in that way, he certainly isn't long for this world.

A LADY was singing last week at a private entertainment in Eureka, and the company insisted upon hearing her sing the second time. Her daughter, a little child, was present, and on being asked afterward how her mamma had sung, replied: "Very badly, for they made her do it all over again." —[Sentinel.

MISS NELLIE EWING, a niece of Gen. Thos. Ewing and Gen. Wm. T. Sherman, and two years ago a leading belle in Washington society, has taken the veil as a Sister of Mercy in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

JOHN SQUIRES, one of the Verdi train robbers, sent to the Nevada State Prison twelve years ago, was pardoned on the 10th; also George Roth, sent from Washoe county in 1870 for thirty-five years for murder.

IT is stated that Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express lines stretch over 27,000 miles, over which are scattered 10,000 agents—an agent and seven-tenths of an agent for every two miles.

Roman Occupation of England.

The Roman occupation affected chiefly the lowlands of England and Scotland, where the more recent geological formations extend in broad plains or plateaus. Numerous towns were built there, between which splendid roads extended across the country. The British inhabitants of these lowlands were not extirpated, but continued to live on the lands which they had tilled of old, more or less affected by the Roman civilization, with which, for some four centuries or more, they were brought in contact. But the regions occupied by the more ancient rocks, risin into rugged forest covered mountains, offered an effective barrier to the Roman legions, and afforded a shelter within which the natives could preserve their ancient manners and language with but little change. The Romans occupied the broad central lowland region of Scotland, which is formed by the old red sandstone and carboniferous strata, extending up to the base of the highlands. But though they inflicted severe defeats upon the wild barbarians who issued from the dark glens, and though they seem to have been led by Severus around by the Aberdeenshire low grounds to the Moray Frith, and to have returned through the heart of the highlands, they were never able permanently to bring any part of the mountainous area of crystalline rocks under their rule. The same geological influences which guided the progress of the Roman armies may be traced in the subsequent Teutonic invasions of Angles, Saxons, Jutes and Norwegians.

No wonder that people who live in a section which is visited by storms that whip up two-story brick houses like straws and dash them in pieces, want to change their base. One of these playful zephyrs visited Brownsville, Mo., last week. It went through the town in about two minutes, but in that time it demolished the entire business portion of the place, killed seven persons and seriously injured between twenty and thirty. One ought to be satisfied to put up with the drawbacks of an occasional dry season in California in view of the terrible calamities to which the people of other portions of the Union are so frequently subjected. What with terrible freshets, destructive tornadoes, and intolerable extremes of heat and cold, a residence east of the Rocky Mountains is surrounded by perils and beset with discomforts.

SHEEP.—Mr. Miller, one of the purchasers of sheep for a drive to Montana, drew about $5,000 in coin from the bank Tuesday for expenses on the road, as he said, and left with his flocks, part of preceded him some days. He expects to be four months on the road.

About 14,000 head of sheep have been bought the past week at the corral East of town, for Idaho and Montana, making about $60,000 for the season. The average price paid, after shearing, was $1.50 per head.—[Kern Co. Record.

Why He Let Go.

"Yes," he sighed, as he pocketed the nickel, "I've had hard luck. You've heard of the famous Yellow King mine, I presume?"

"Yes."

"Well, I owned that mine once."

"You did! Did you make anything out of it?"

"Not a dollar. I had my choice between that mine and a mule and I let go of the mine. Presume you have heard of the Royal Jack mine?"

"Yes."

"They've taken $10,000,000 out of that hole, and I owned it once."

"Is that so?"

"True as gospel. I held four kings and the other man held four aces, and that's the reason I let go. Ever hear of the Comstock lode?"

"Of course."

"Well, I owned that whole business twenty years ago."

"What made you let go then?"

"Couldn't help it—couldn't possibly help it, stranger. Jist at that pint I was waited on by a vigilance committee, and the way I let go of that richness and retired to far-off fields of struggling poverty killed my ambition, but saved my neck. I calkerlate I've opened up $300,000,000 of wealth in my time, and now all I can show for it is ten cents in cash and the consolation that I'm booked for the better land whenever my liver takes me off."

A PENNY SAVED.—An English paper says: "A penny saved is a penny gained" has long been one of England's standing proverbs. The problem of late years has been how to save the penny. The Postoffice Savings Bank would not take less than a shilling, and other banks that would take the smaller coins were distrusted since the failure of so many banks during the English hard times. So the penny was very apt to drift into the dram shop. Mr. Fawcett saw—although physically a blind man—the need that existed of giving the above proverb practical value, so he is now testing a plan for saving the penny. By application to the postoffice an oblong card can be obtained containing twelve spaces the size of a penny stamp. The stamps are bought, one by one, and stuck on this card until there is a shilling's worth on the card, then the stamped card is taken at the postoffice, and the holder credited with the shilling. Six rural counties were selected as the place of trial and 14,000 accounts were opened at once. The plan was recently extended to all England and now 70,000 persons have taken cards.

THE Carson and Colorado railroad is progressing southward rapidly, and in a few months will tap the great base metal belt in Inyo county where large quantities of argentiferous ores await transportation to some point where they may be reduced. Miners have been in that region for years holding on to their claims and doing assessment work, strong in the belief that some day cheap transportation would enable them to realize returns from their mines. The new southern road will pass along this belt at a distance of from three to ten miles off, and if a business is made of shipping ores for reduction it may be that Reno will be benefited by it. Fuel can be obtained here in endless quantity and at low prices, while water power here is unlimited. With these requisites Reno ought to be able to bid for the trade and traffic that will undoubtedly follow the development of Inyo county mines.—[Reno Gazette.

THE Reagan bill for the regulation of inter-State Commerce—or in other words, for the regulation of of freights and fares on railroads—which has been knocking about in the House of Representatives since 1879—is about to be put out of its misery. The Committee on Commerce will report adversely on the measure, and report in its stead a bill creating a commission which shall have power to determine all questions concerning fares and freights. This latter measure is said to meet the approval of the railroad companies. Did it not meet their approval it would have no more chance than the Reagan bill has had all along.

A VENETIAN glass manufacturer is making a great success of ladies' glass bonnets.

THE Stockton Woolen Mills have discharged all their Chinamen.

THE Chicago "Tribune," which is a staunch friend of the Pacific Coast and a bitter enemy of Chinese immigration makes an excellent suggestion in connection with the Chinese question. It is that, as the Atlantic States, through their Congressional representatives, have expressed a desire for a Mongolian influx, the State of California foster such an influx by a system of bounties. It thinks the California Legislature should appropriate at least $500,000 for the transportation of Chinese to the Atlantic States. If the State would appropriate such a sum for the purpose, individual subscriptions could be obtained to an equal amount, which would make a fund of one million dollars to be devoted to the purpose, of shipping coolies to New York, Boston and other Eastern cities. Contracts could be made with the railroad company by which the Chinese could be transported at a small cost per capita, by the carload—not much above the regular rates for other live stock—and by paying a small bounty to the Chinamen to leave, we could pour in on those cities a large consignment of thieves, paupers, opium smokers, highbinders, gamblers, and prostitutes. The "Stock Report" will recommend this suggestion to the next Legislature and we hope our contemporaries throughout the State will join us in urging the necessary legislation.—[Stock Report.

IN the eastern States there seems to be a rage just now among people who are afflicted with dyspepsia to drink a glass of hot water before breakfast. Astonishing cures are reported; but, on the whole, it seems that the dyspeptics who are loudest in their praises of the hot-water cocktail are the ones who have not yet tried it. They are about equally divided with the people who praise the juice of two oranges in the morning. The man who praises the juice of apples in the morning before breakfast, and all the time, lives numerously in New Jersey.

ARIZONA'S TROUBLES.

Arizona is not yet through with her "baptism of fire." But a little while ago, the cruel Apache was finally and effectually subdued—so the authorities said—and was again safely in the hands of the Government agent, never more to redden the ground with the white man's blood. Then the venturesome citizen for the first time upon Arizona soil went to sleep in fancied security, but wakened in the hands of the cow-boy—as great a terror as the Apache. Then came the Earp-Cow-boy war, and blood and disorder, made worse by the fool efforts of the civil authorities to capture both these gangs instead of encouraging them to go for each other. Now, before that matter is settled, the "effectually subdued" Apache is again on the war-path, and, if possible, with more vindictiveness than ever before. And now Gen. Wilcox is hourly expecting to achieve a great victory over him by telegraph, as on the previous occasion, and in due time, again have him back on the reservation, where there are peace commissioners and fat agents and contractors, together with soldiers at command, to protect him while recuperating for another outbreak. That is the review in brief.

A mass meeting of several thousand citizens was held in Tucson on the night of the 25th, which meeting unanimously adopted the subjoined, and ordered it telegraphed at once to the President, his Cabinet and both Houses of Congress:

During the rejoicing incident to the grand military display announced to take place at Fortress Monroe, we beg to offer you as a skeleton to sit at your banquet, the fact that nearly one hundred of our pioneers have, within a few days, been wantonly murdered in cold blood by the devilish Apaches, whom a cruel and mistaken policy permits to survive their crimes. If some small portion of the expenditure incurred in your grand display could be devoted to such measures as would preclude the probability of an increase in the list of the murdered dead we could send you a greeting of gratitude and cheer in place of this message of our sorrow and helplessness, and our desolation.

JOHN H. TOOLE, Chairman.
L. C. HUGHES, Secretary.

IT is said the promenade over the East River bridge promises to be the most attractive of any in the world. The walk for foot passengers is in the center of the bridge, nine feet above roadway for carriages and railway cars, and the view, taking in the bay, the river, a glimpse of the Sound, and the area of the two densely populated cities, will be such as thousands will linger over. The distance between the towers is 1595 feet and five inches, and including the approaches, the total length of the great structure is one mile.

IT is reported that John G. Curtis, 17 years old, son of the former big clothier, and Mrs. James Dixon, wife of a traveler for the Lorillards, of New York, have eloped. She left three small children behind and shocked and mortified a lot of relatives. Her husbend is in New Mexico or Colorado. The truants are supposed to have gone to Chicago.

THERE was a strong effort to get the Missouri grand jury that indicted the Ford boys to indict Gov. Crittenden also. But the influences of the bandits fell short by this much, and the Governor was left to pardon the Fords. But if Gov. Crittenden should have been indicted and convicted, who would or could have pardoned him?

THE consumption of horse meat in Paris is growing steadily, and has already reached what would be considered as rather huge proportions in this country. The report of last year shows that 9,000 horses were served up in different styles in that city. There are forty shops where nothing but horse meat is sold.

VICTOR HUGO is real modest. When told of the death of Emile de Girardin, he said: "All the men of that strong generation of 1830 are passing away, one after another. My turn will, perhaps, come soon. I am ready. We must make room for others. It is time for me to cease to fill the world."

NED REDDY, well known all over Mono, Inyo, and Esmeralda counties, has purchased one-half the property known as the Parole saloon, and hereafter the firm name will be Morales & Reddy. Mr. Reddy has been in the saloon business before, and knows what is needed to run a saloon in first-class style. The affable and amiable Si. Ryan will continue on the night shift, and make it interesting for the boys occasionally. Joe Marshal, a very popular young gentleman, will manage things behind the bar during the day. These are two good men for their respective positions. The Parole has always been a popular resort, and it no doubt will continue to prosper under the new management.—Bodie Free Press.

LEGAL TECHNICALITIES.

Guiteau has been sentenced to be hanged on the last day of June next, but, according to a paper in the International Review, if his case should get to the United States Supreme Court before that time it is very questionable whether he will ever make the acquaintance of the hangman. The writer demonstrates that Guiteau could not have been legally tried in New Jersey, despite the New Jersey law, which expressly provides for such cases as his, because he had done nothing whatever against the peace and dignity of New Jersey, the only thing connected with his crime occurring within its jurisdiction being the President's death, which could not be reckoned an offense in itself.

Having demolished the plea for New Jersey jurisdiction he does the same thing for that of the District of Columbia. The fatal blow was struck in the last named place, and that the courts of the District can punish, but his victim did not die within the District, and therefore he did not commit murder within the jurisdiction of the District. The conclusion then is that Guiteau did nothing whatever that the New Jersey authorities can punish, and what he did in the District of Columbia was merely an assault with intent to kill. The position of some lawyers, that the case should have been tried in the United States Courts as an offense against the United States, he disposes of with equal facility, the rulings having uniformly been the same as in other Courts—that a crime must be completed in one district in order to be within the jurisdiction of that district.

As the matter stands now, Guiteau having been tried in a court which had no jurisdiction to try him for anything that happened outside of the District of Columbia—the question having been decided some years ago, when a man struck down in Washington shortly after died in Maryland—has been illegally convicted and must be tried over again for the minor crime of attempt to kill. The only chance of getting Guiteau hanged, therefore, seems to be this, that his case may not get before the highest Federal tribunal until he is beyond its result, unless there is a possibility that this tribunal deciding against all previous precedents, that when a man strikes a murderous blow and his victim dies within the limits of a year and a day, then the place of death is immaterial. It would evidently have been better to hang him under her very clear if questionable statute, than to run the risks of his escape. Had he been delivered over to the New Jersey authorities he would now be where all the stays and appeals that the sharpest and most conscienceless lawyer in these United States would not even get him a drink of water.

CONSUMPTION.

The following remarks, by the Record-Union, will renew hope in many a despondent heart: Professor Tyndall announces that a German scientist, Dr. Koch, has at length succeeded in tracing the cause of consumption to a parasitic insect, and in proving that the disease is communicated by infection. Tyndall at the same intimates that with this important discovery a cure for the disease has been found, and certainly it would be difficult to exaggerate the consequences of this intelligence. Professor Tyndall occupies so high a position in the scientific world that he cannot be supposed capable of making a premature or ill considered representation upon a question of such universal interest and importance, and therefore his statement may be accepted as a guarantee for the genuineness of the discovery, though it does not seem as clear that he in any way pledges himself to the efficiency of the remedial measures devised by Dr. Koch. The possibility that consumption may be cured, however, is a thought which contains greater hope and comfort for hundreds of thausands of human beings than perhaps any other anncouncement that could be made. For no disease has made such awful ravages, or has resisted the efforts of science so successfully, nor is there any part of the world in which the victims of consumption do not constitute a very large percentage in the regular bills of mortality. The man who has conferred such a boon upon mankind will be remembered even before Jenner, and if, as Professor Tyndall claims, this great discovery has been made possible only through vivisection, the opponents of that practice are likely to be overwhelmned by the tremendous argument thus suddenly brought against them.

The next issue of gold coinage from the English mint is to be stamped with a new die—only the second taken since the accession of Queen Victoria. It represents her Majesty with an imperial crown upon her head, and the likeness is that of the Queen to-day, and not the young face which has so long looked out from British coins.

The Mayor of Long Island City, N. Y., has been arrested for the robbery of $114,000, alleged to have been misappropriated from the proceeds of sales of bonds. Bail is fixed at $50,000.

MINES AND MINING—NEW YORK, MEXICO, INYO AND MONO.

Wasson's Interesting Correspondence.

NEW YORK, April 17.

DEAR P——: * * * * I wrote you the other day that I expected to see you during the Summer. Since then one of my Mexican schemes terminated in a way to leave me free to return to Mexico or elsewhere, and I have concluded to return there soon and take chances awhile. Am all ready to start to-morrow morning, via. El Paso, stopping off at one or two points for a few days only. If I had means enough I would return to Mexico, for I believe from what little I have seen and a great deal I have read and heard, that that country is the grand chimney of the continent, and will be to this country what '49 was, except that California was a poor man's diggings, whereas none but heavy capital can utilize the mines of Mexico. A poor man has no business there without a strong backing at home, or somewhere. It is a hard place for a prospector, as a general thing, on account of the dense vegetation. A large proportion of the old mines, many of great value as yet no doubt, are almost obliterated throughout the States adjacent to the Pacific ocean, where the moisture is greatest. The language and the laws of the country are the least of the drawbacks to getting started—a thousand and one annoyances pertaining to habits and customs confront one everywhere, and render progress slow, vexatious and costly as compared with our side of the line. The greatest hindrance to rapid reconstruction will be found in the general absence of wagon roads, to say nothing of railroads. Still, it is one of the richest countries naturally in the world, and from this time on the Americanization of it will be comparatively rapid and sustained. Whether there will be a sensational "boom" in regard to its mines remains to be seen; I have my doubts, for our system of "whooping up" districts—new or old—will not apply. Every mine or district will have to stand or fall on its own merit, and not through sympathy or lack of it. These are a very few of the conclusions I have come to regarding our most interesting neighbor as a country and people. I am very glad I went down there, and I may have to return again before a certain transaction is finally disposed of.

Ever since that accursed extra (quinine) session of the Legislature less than a year ago my health has been wretched enough, and since in this noisy jostling place, with a climate as changeable as a modern civil service reformer, life has been almost intolerable. An old Latin proverb says a great city is a great desert, and from what I have seen of this one off and on for years past, Death Valley were a paradise alongside. There is plenty of money here for good mining property, but I see that most people succeed or fail in effecting out and out sales according as they have time to go and come upon. I should never think of coming to any of these Eastern cities with a mine to sell, unless it possessed a substantial development, on less than one year; and two years if a trip to London were involved. It is a curious fact, however, that owners of mines, prospectors, etc., almost universally want to realize ten fold on their property in one tenth of the time that they do or would with regard to any other calling in life. There is but a small percentage of the people here who know or care anything about mining for the precious meeals, and when you expect such people to turn from a business they know all about to one they know nothing of, just because you ask them to, is the essence of human folly. And yet it is those very people who have the money of the country, and not the speculators. The former are the game of the latter. But I did not intend to bore you you with a sermon on mining, or anything else. It is in order for all hands and the cook (especially if the latter be a Chinaman) to discuss

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO

Of the anti-Chinese immigration bill, at which I was not in the least surprised, after hearing the people talk and reading the papers of all colors the past Winter. The case of Arthur is about this: He never was anything but a big ward politician, and without the brains of Bill Higgins of San Francisco. The bullet of Guiteau turned his head, and he began to manifest a desire to get into "goody-goody society" and out of the low tone corner-grocery association of his whole life—that of an office-hunter no better than Geo. C. Gorham. He is old Andy Johnson over again. The latter was a "poor white" and would-be negro Moses, but no sooner did he see a chance to get into the good graces of what remained after the war of the slave-holder's aristocracy he flipped his tail up and went back on platform, principle and all. It is a just retribution in any party to trifle and trade in the national conventions with respect to the very important office of Vice President. He was an eleventh-hour sop to the so-called stalwarts, who find anything but a stalwart friend at court. He is as timid as old Grant was resolute. His course toward Sargent was trifling and treacherous; he was scared off the track by Charley de Young's ghost. He has treated the entire Pacific coast delegation as a lot of nonentities for the purpose of courting favor with the Barrio-boola Gha philanthropists on Beacon Hill, Boston, and the moneyed power that prevails everywhere throughout the land. I am not sure, however, but that old Bill Stewart could have handled the matter in Congress and with the President better, single-handed, than our entire delegation, so distracted and jealous are they of each other. How easy it was for Arthur to have signed the bill and followed it with a message suggestive of modifications, which could have been soon passed, instead of vetoing it and adding insult to injury. But like Andy Johnson, he was "too-too" anxious to get into "good society" that he forgot that the negro and workingman lived and might have a vote. It is a bad business everyway. Here was a splendid opportunity for removing a pestiferous issue entirely from politics. But now it is all to do over again, or else let the Chinaman and railroad king rule the country. So far as California is concerned, the Chinese built the railroads, the railroads own the State, and perhaps it were according to the fitness of things to let them make the most of it. The

COMING CAMPAIGN

Promises to be disagreeable enough, the next Legislature proving less satisfactory than the two last past put together. Notwithstanding, I expect to see you or Judge Conklin or both represent Inyo and Mono at Sacramento next session. What I would like to see would be a State Senator from somewhere who would not as soon as sworn in imagine that the whole State rested on his shoulders. Also, a Congressman from some place who could influence the Postmaster General to give Panamint a one-horse mail to Darwin. This last is the great question, and I doubt whether the whole delegation from California in both houses are able to effect it.

I was pleased to see you only took a mildly sympathetic stand in favor of seceding over to Nevada—from the frying pan into the fire. If everyway desirable, nothing of the kind could be done at Sacramento, where they go for everything in sight and give up nothing. And now that you will soon have a railroad connecting around to tidewater it would be little less than born idiocy to cast your lot with the salt-marshes, alkali flats and the sucked-orange bonanzas of the Sage-brush State. Besides, the best part of Inyo county is cut off from Nevada by a range of mountains almost as surely as the Sierra Nevada cuts you off from the better part of California. No, coax the railroads into the country and tax them in proportion as they tax you, and you may be happy yet. The situation of Mono and Alpine counties—altitude and distance north, might make a difference with them. * * *

If there is any portion of this letter you care to publish let it go for what it is worth. When I meet Bill Higgins I will do the apologizing myself.

Yours, etc., JOS. WASSON.

SATURDAY, APRIL 29 1882

KEARSARGE DISTRICT—The prospects in this district for the present season look very flattering. The strike lately made in the Kearsarge mine has infused new life into this and other properties situated on Kearsarge Mountain. The fifty feet contracted to be sunk from the tunnel in the Kearsarge had not reached ten feet in depth when a fine vein of ore was exposed. Samples assayed by Mr. Woodhull prove the ore to be first class milling, carrying both gold and silver. Samples supposed to be waste, yielded by assay $60 per ton. The figures for the high grades we cannot obtain, but they are supposed to be up in the hundreds. The work will be prosecuted right along, and we expect to be able in a short time to record the development of large bodies of ore. The refitting and necessary repairs to the Kearsarge Mill will follow as a natural consequence. The building of the four stamp mill by Ward and Sullivan is progressing favorably. At the Rex Montis Mill, Mr. Holt is working tailings. It is understood that work will soon be commenced on the Independence Tunnel by the Rex Montis Co., for the development of that Company's group of mines. The Virginia Co.'s fine property is still lying idle, as it has been for several years, but Mr. Chenot, the Superintendent, says that work will probably be begun on the mine in a short time. Pat Clinton's fine prospect will also receive attention shortly, and the work of prospecting that mine will be commenced. Altogether, the outlook for the future of the district is very promising. Kearsarge Mountain is covered with a network of mineral veins and ledges, and some of them show ore of extraordinary richness. The Kearsarge mine has produced small masses of pure argentile, or sulphuret of silver. Ag. 2, S. Sulphur 12.9, Silver 87.1. The general character of the ores of the district are sulphides of silver contained in a gangue of quartz and porphyry. These ores are also comparatively rich in gold, assays showing from $5 to $40 per ton. Mr. Woodhull has kindly furnished us with the results of fifty assays, covering a period of two years past: Average value of gold per ton, $19.58; average value of silver per ton, $72.25; total, $91.83. With the splendid natural facilities for mining and milling ores in the Kearsarge district, $30 ores can be worked with a large profit. With wood and timber in abundance, and a fine stream of water furnishing power, this district certainly possesses great advantages over many others that we know of.

COPPER MINES.—Frank Hutchison, Judge Calef and Johnny Williams have returned from their explorations in the Armagoza country. They went out via Cerro Gordo, to a point across Death Valley, in the Armagoza range, about 170 miles southeast of this place, and probably in Nevada. The nearest inhabited place to their new mines is Furnace Creek, on the east side of Death Valley, where the new borax company has some four or five men in possession. Death Valley Mining District was organized, with Judge Calef as Recorder. According to Mr. Hutchison the mines are simply immense—enormous ledges of ore which assays from 50 to 60 per cent. copper. The specimens they brought back, a couple of which may be seen at the Independence assay office, are red oxide of copper, being the best class of such ores. The country is accessible, and has plenty of wood and water within a four or five miles of the mines. The new railroad from Mohave to the Needles will open up the whole region. The party intend going back within a short time.

SUPERIOR COURT.—At a session held yesterday, Judge Hannah, in the case of Walker vs. Campbell, on demurrer to plaintiff's complaint, which had been submitted on briefs filed by Murphy & Wells, and S. P. Moffatt for plaintiff, and A. R. Conklin for defendant, the Court, by a lengthy written opinion sustained the demurrer, and allowed the plaintiff until May 13th to file amended complaint. In the matter of Bellows vs. Thompson, (Administrator Estate of H. C. Badger), judgment entered in favor of plaintiff for an undivided one-half interest in the property known as Haiwai Meadows, and an order was directed to the administrator to execute a deed therefor.

SUICIDE.—We are indebted to Mr. N. T. Piper for the following, dated Piper's Ranch, Esmeralda county, Nevada, April 25: "Mr. Charles Schappa, a teamster by occupation, came to my house on the 18th, on his way to Gold Mountain. Owing to the storm, he stayed one day; that night he went to bed apparently in usual good health. About 4 o'clock in the morning, while lying in bed, he shot himself through the head with his pistol, dying in an hour and a half after. Deceased was about 28 years of ago, of German descent, and a native of Jefferson county, Iowa."

RECOVERING.—It is a genuine pleasure to note the fact that Dr. W. H. George, after his long and terrible siege with the rheumatism, is again able to attend to professional work. Patients anywhere, upon summoning him, can depend upon his attendance now. As yet, however, he is not prepared to accept any and all challenges for a foot-race.

PIC-NIC.—A grand union school picnic is on the tapis, to transpire at Camp Independence on Saturday, May 13th. It is to be a big affair, gotten up jointly by the schools of Independence, Milton and George's Creek districts. Some particulars will be announced next week.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—The Democratic County Central Committee will meet at the Court House on Wednesday next, instead of on the following Wednesday as at first advertised.

Letter from Bishop Creek.

BISHOP CREEK, April 28.

What is to become of us? Times dull, money scarce, and everybody despondent. Now is the time for the husband to patronize the "bit house" and the wife to study the principles of domestic economy more carefully than ever. Only one step between the people's present condition and absolute poverty; but withal our community is moderately happy. You may wonder what makes them so, but if you could experience the elegant whisky; the balls and parties; the church festivals and grass widows for a brief season, as abundantly as we do, the doubt as to the true cause of our domestic felicity would be forever dispelled. Take all these comforts, luxuries, and blessings from us, and we would be like Beecher in his famous dream—in hell while yet in heaven.

ENTERTAINMENT.

Last Friday evening quite a number of Bishop Creekers attended the exhibition at Round Valley, given by Mr. Hagerman, teacher of the public school of that place. Upon the whole, the affair was not a success. Not more than three of the performers acquitted themselves with any degree of credit, and to particularize those would be invidious. An attempt seems to have been made by the management to make the affair a variety performance, consisting of school recitations, legitimate drama, burlesque and burnt-corkisms, the result being an incongruous conglomeration. A picnic for the first of May is on the tapis, to be followed by a party in the evening at the residence of Mrs. Rilla Gerrish. It is useless for me to add that the event is looked forward to with a great deal of—etc., etc. The advent of W. H. Hanford, the anti-hell lecturer, has caused considerable feeling in this community, and particularly among the church going people—not to say Christians. Hitherto our people have beheld pictures of that unholy place, drawn by the prejudiced hand of the orthodox. Since the delivery of Hanford's discourses, the lashing flames have been somewhat smothered, the volumes of blue smoke slightly dissipated, and the yawning chasm partially closed. We are not yet safe, however, and an eruption may be expected at almost any time.

RETURNED.

Deacon Giles returned last Tuesday from his tour of inspection, having "taken in" the towns of Candelaria, New Boston, Belleville, and Luning. He declares his intention of returning to the last named place with a view to opening a business. The Deacon thinks it fully as possible for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, as for a man to beat three fives, by "standing pat" in Luning. He says for the first time in his life his sincerity was doubted.

Since the re-installment of R. Fred Brooks as Justice of the Peace the people have concluded to eschew litigation, and fight "the rub" over all financial difficulties. BILL.

MINERAL PARK, A. T.—Some seven or eight years ago Mineral Park, Cerbat and Wallapai, adjacent camps in Mohave county, just across the Colorado not far from the southeastern corner of our county, attracted a great deal of attention from mining men, especially those in search of smelting ores, which kind was reported obtainable there in great abundance, also milling ores. Furnaces, likewise a mill or two, were erected, and for a time the section flourished. Then came a set-back. The ores proved refractory, or played out at the water line. Greatly subdued and toned down generally, as is quite common in such cases, the mining men, and all concerned moved out as best they could. The centipedes were given undisturbed occupancy of the cabins, the traditional owls and bats took control in mill and furnaces. "Wallapai" was dead. Some Inyo citizens were prominently identified in its rise and fall. In that way, that region became, as it were, a portion of our own bailliwick. When the Inyo furnace froze up, and persisted in freezing to the last its owners froze out, as did all their colaborers for similar and divers other reasons. Quietness quietly reigned in "Wallapai," which name means the several camps combined. At least, for several years until recently it has rarely been heard of. But later developments go to show that it was pronounced dead and played out a little prematurely. Numbers of heavy bars of fine bullion are being steamboated from there down the rivery monthly. Quite a populrtion exists there. Mineral Park is the county seat of Mohave county. It supports an excellent little paper, the Alta Arizona. Very many years ago W. H. Cureton, its worthy editor and proprietor, was, in company with the writer hereof, a half-starved but respectable prospector in the Oregon Blue Mountains. Now he turns up a newspaper editor, even, also, a lawyer, and a resurrectionst of a dead mining camp in Arizona. His columns of court proceedings prove that this once dead and abandoned camp has risen again, and is full of litigious persons, therefore is a live camp. Though yet in the heart of the wilderness, the A. & P. railroad, cutting through it, will soon make it a suberb of the "big metropolis"—that is, bring it within the pales of civilization and accessibility. This little story of a once defunct but now a live mining camp points a moral that may help uplift other camps prematurely pronounced dead and worthless.

SHORT.—By reason of the non-arrival of an expected printer THE INDEPENDENT appears to-day somewhat short of reading matter, several interesting contributions being necessarily laid over until next week.

TO-NIGHT.—Inyo Lodge No. 231, F. & A. M., will hold a stated meeting at the hall to-night. Work in the second degree.

ASSESSMENT.—The stock of the Lone Pine Water Company has been assessed fifteen cents per share.

THE BOARD.—The Board of Supervisors will meet in regular session next Monday.

THE HAWLEY MILL, ETC.—The Hawley mill, at Keeler, was started up on Sunday night last for permanent work, on ore from the Palma mine, of which there is a large amount on the dump. Arrangements for hauling a daily supply, sufficient to keep the mill constantly running, have been completed. The work of further developing the mine is being pushed energetically, and the output of first class ore is said to be very encouraging. While it can hardly be expected that the first ores extracted in merely opening the mine should all prove high grade, yet it appears near enough so to inspire great faith in a good yield. Surely, if good wishes generally could make the entire enterprise a success it would be a brilliant one. Capt. Keeler is engaged in raising and re-caulking the hull of the steamer Bessie Brady. He reports her timbers and planking all as sound as a nut. She is to be launched in regular style, including the bottle (of lake water or other liquid) ceremony usual in such events. Due notice will be given of the launch, and a welcome extended to all who may attend. The vessel is to be used in transporting wood, etc., across the lake from the company's flume at Cottonwood to the mill. Owing to the low stage of the lake, the old wharves will have to be extended much further out, which is now being done.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 29 1882

THE Carson "Tribune" gives the following particulars of the stabbing of Sheriff Williams in Genoa last Sunday night: "It appears that Jerry Raycraft had an altercation with his brother Tom in Livingston's saloon last evening about five o'clock, and that when the bar-keeper attempted to separate the brothers Jerry beat him unmercifully. Jerry then went home and in a short time returned to the saloon, vowing vengeance against everything and everybody. Meantime Sheriff Williams had been sent for, and repairing to the scene of the disturbance told Jerry, in his usual quiet way, that if he did not behave himself he would be compelled to arrest him. Jerry replied that no one could do that thing, when the Sheriff grabbed him, saying: 'I'm the man who can do it;' whereupon the infuriated man drew something from his pocket which in the dusk of the evening the Sheriff thought to be a revolver, and he caught Raycraft by the wrist, when with a jerk the latter drew his arm away, drawing the blade of a large bowie knife through the Sheriff's hand, nearly severing the index finger, and immediately plunged the murderous blade into the Sheriff's side, cutting a fearful gash below the twelfth rib at its junction with the spine. Dr. Lee probed the wound four inches downward toward the spine. It is a dangerous wound, and the Doctor says it will be a miracle if the poor man recovers. Jack Raycraft, Deputy Sheriff, arrested his brother and locked him up. The people of Genoa are terribly excited over the dastardly act and there is no telling what will be the result."

H. C. NUTT, President of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, just returned from an inspection of the line in New Mexico and Arizona, and of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, says: "Track laying is completed to the Canyon Diabolo, 311 miles west of the Rio Grand. A viaduct is being built over the canyon 520 feet long, and 254 feet high, to be completed by May 25th, at a cost of $250,000. The track will be pushed west to the Colorado river, 250 miles, at the rate of two miles a day. One hundred miles of that distance are graded, and steel rails for 200 miles have been delivered. Plans are just completed for a bridge over the Colorado river at a cost of $250,000. The company will also extend the central division 100 miles west from Vinita, I. T. The President says the road will expend this year $6,600,000 in construction."

Chinese laborers were recently engaged by the contractors on the grade of the southern branch of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, near Crittenden, A. T. The white laborers objected but with no success. They then went in a body to the Chinese camp and ordered the heathen to leave. Their command not being immediately obeyed they attacked the coolies with picks and shovels, and drove them like sheep to a siding, where they were kept till a train came and took them to Benson. The indignant laborers then went to the Superintendent of construction, and, putting a rope around his neck, threatened to hang him if he would not promise to employ no more Chinese. He made the promise and was released. The laborers then returned quietly to their work.

ON the 18th inst. there was a rumor in Los Angeles, says the "Herald" of that place, that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company were tearing up the the track that had been laid from Mohave eastward, with the intention of giving up the further construction of the road. But it was learned on investigation that the track had been laid with English rails. In taking them up the company merely complied with the provisions of the contract between the Federal Government and the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, of which the franchise is now owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which provides that only rails of American manufacture shall be made use of. These have been substituted for the English "metals," and the track is lengthening out towards the Needles.

ONE of the ways in which money can be made in mining is to avoid the districts where public excitement and sudden increase of population have produced extravagant expectations and prices, seeking, on the other hand, districts which have entered upon the period of reaction and have become temporarily neglected.

Close Call of a Niner.

The "Eureka Sentinel" of the 14th says: A man by the name of Wm. Bennetts was at work in the K. K. mine, on the fifth level, at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon. He is a tributor, and was working in a raise. He was approaching an old cave. He did not know how far off he was, but thought he was a considerable distance from it, when all at once, without any warning whatever, the roof of the cave cracked and a mass of old ground was precipitated upon him. There was no chance for him to get out. His only means of escape was to climb as the dirt was falling, which he did. The manner in which he struggled to save his life is something remarkable. Some of the debris which fell about him was in the shape of large bowlders, many of them weighing at least 400 lbs. His candle had been knocked out of his hand and extinguished. Luckily he was not struck by the masses of falling rock, and kept on climbing upon them as they fell and settled about him and above him. He fought in this way against a seemingly inevitable death for a distance of twenty feet upwards, perpendicularly, when the caving ceased. Then he struck a match and waited where he was for about an hour, inclosed between the roofing that had fallen off in an arched wall above him and the loose dirt below. He was literally buried alive for this time; but fortunately a little air came through the rubbish crevices—sufficient to sustain life. By this time his partner, who was working at a short distance from him, went to look for him, and discovered the cave. He, John C. Harris, communicated at once with the foreman, Joe Bice, who, with a crowd of men, repaired to the scene of the accident, for the purpose of removing the dirt and exhuming the buried miner, and having barely a hope to dig him out alive. They were on the spot sounding and calling for some time, when they heard a faint and smothered sound, as of a voice proceeding from a distance. They finally selected the point nearest him. He spoke to them and told them that he would throw himself across the "gunnis," and that they should let the dirt drop three or four feet, and he would give way and fall on it. This operation was repeated several times, until he finally emerged from his tomb and stood once more on the level among his fellow-workmen, somewhat scratched and bruised, but with no bones broken. The report had gone abroad that he was buried alive in the cave, and a large crowd had gathered about the K. K. shaft, expecting to see his dead body brought to the surface. The agony that his wife endured in the time of suspense, while such news as could be had from the mine was brought to her by a kind friend from time to time, can better be imagined than described. The joy that prevailed on the hill when he was restored to life and his distressed wife was universal and unbounded. Bennetts is a good, cool-headed miner, otherwise he could not have survived. His presence of mind and mastery of the difficult situation alone saved him.

Prospecting as an Art.

The work of Prof. Clarence King, entitled "Statistics of the Production of the Precious Metals in the United States," compiled in connection with the tenth census, came to our hands a few days ago; and after scanning its elaborate tables and illustrative plates, various questions suggested themselves of interest to the entire civilized world. The first was: How much of gold and silver will Idaho contribute in the future to supply the falling off of production in other quarters, notably in Nevada? Another presented itself in this form: Is not the time approaching when the national Government must do something to sustain this industry, by rewards and bounties to those who devote their lives to the trying and perilous pursuit of hunting for and developing lode mines? The latter question will at some day, not very distant, claim attention from the publicist and statesman. The two questions bring to mind the subject of the ways by which the deep mines, or quartz rock in place, are primarily taken; that is, discovered, made known and opened up.

Since the search for the precious metals commenced on the coast of the Pacific, now a full generation past, multitudes of sturdy workers have been opening the hard leaves in the surface of the earth, and the eye of the scientist has followed their labors, in the attempt to decipher some general laws or principles which nature may have pursued in the formation of ledges and the deposition of her mineral treasures. Mining has been sufficiently successful and profitable to stimulate the mightiest endeavors of American genius, and has given birth to mechanical devices for penetrating to great depths, and raising the solids and liquids therefrom, far beyond anything ever before contrived by the skill of man. It is equally a fact that the processes for reducing ores have, during the same period, been carried forward to a surprising excellence. But while the business has marched from one improvment to another, in the perfecting of machinery for working mines, and in ascertaining better methods for extracting the metals from ores, all attempts to formulate rules or to reduce general laws to direct the prospector in his explorations have proved almost wholly valueless.

The experience of every man who has been concerned in this pursuit has furnished him with some ideas, such as, that gold and silver have an affinity for porphyry and granite, and that the base metals, such as lead, have a partiality for limestone and shale. Even when adopting these general facts for what they are worth, he is compelled to let in such liberal qualifications that, at last, he is compelled to say that there is no maxim allowable as to the strain of rock formation in which the precious or base metals are to be found, or from which they are excluded. Silver quartz he knows to be impartially distributed in porphyry and lime, and that argentiferous lead may spring from almost any "country rock." Of one thing he can be quite certain, and that is, that the precious metals are not cosmopolitan, but are confined and local to certain districts of the world; and that these metal-bearing regions are marked by features, in respect to the characteristics of which the ordinary practical geologist and observer of strata can rarely be mistaken.—[Wood River Times.

A Dangerous Practice.

It is the most natural thing in the world when you have gone to bed, to get up, run to the window, hoist it and look out in case of an alarm of fire or any unusual noise or clamor going on outside. A lady was roused from her sleep by a cry of fire. Her chamber was almost as bright as day when she opened her eyes. She went to the window, and soon saw that it was her husband's cotton factory. She felt on the instant a shock at the pit of the stomach; the result was a painful disease which troubled her for the remainder of her life.

A young lady, just budding into womanhood, was called by the sound of midnight music to the window, and in her undress, leaned her arm on the cold sill; the next day she had an attack of inflamation of the lungs which nearly killed her. She eventually recovered, only to be the victim of a life-long asthma, the horrible suffering from the oft-repeated attacks of which, during these twenty years, is the painful penalty, to be paid over and over again as long as life lasts.

A letter just received from a successful banker, who has been an invalid for five years, every now and then spitting blood by the pint, with a harassing cough which makes every night and morning a purgatory, states that the immediate cause of all his sufferings and the final blasting of life's prospects, was his getting up on a cool night to look out of the window, his body being in a perspiration at the time.

That sturdy old Trojan, Dr. Johnson, used to say that "mankind did not so much require instructing as reminding." Hence the present reminder that it is dangerous for people to be poking their nightcaps out of windows after night-fall. Another mischievous habit in the same direction may have pertinent mention here: Standing in the doorway in cold weather, while the door itself is open, taking leave of visitors. The cold air from without rushes into the dwelling, causing a draft, which chills the whole body almost instantly. It is a hundred times safer to close the door and stand without, bare headed. Many a tedious case of sickness and suffering has been occasioned, and even life itself has been lost, by an exposure apparently so trifling. May our readers remember these things, and teach them to their children on the instant.—[Ex.

POWER drilling is rapidly becoming general in the mines of Lake Superior, and the results there attained clearly indicate the necessity of introducing rock drills more extensively in our Western mines. There, gradually, one by one, the large producers are getting to a point where the directors and managers should carefully consider a matter to which they give too little attention. It is a discouraging state of affairs to any great industry when those in charge persistently refuse to make improvements because they fear the bad effect a suppression of dividends for a few months may have on the stock market. On Lake Superior, there is more than one instance where the saving of machine drilling over hand labor has paid for the entire plant in one or two years. With the aid of rock-drills, the cost of driving can be so much reduced in many cases that prospecting-work can be more extensively and more vigorously prosecuted. One great trouble is, that we possess so comparatively little accurate information on the actual cost of sinking and driving in various kinds of rock and in different districts. Of course, it is impossible to figure down to cents what the saving in a new field would be; but quite generally engineers and managers are hardly in a position to make even approximate estimates, a fact which considerably weakens the force of any recommendations they may feel it their duty to make.

THE Gridley "Herald" tells a wondrous tale of an attack made by a dozen beavers upon a wood chopper. One assailed him first and he had killed it, then the crowd pitched in and he had to run for dear life. The beavers had dammed the slough and overflowed good wheat land, and Mr. Morrison had the dam destroyed. The beavers rebuilt at once. Then to prevent that, he was having all the brush cleared away, hence the row. The helve of the axe, left after the fight, was gnawed in three parts.

A EUREKA, (Nev.) parson has been obliged to seek a milder climate for relief from liver complaint. His physician told him he must go to San Francisco and try a different quality of beer.

THE "Eureka Leader" has come down to a sensible form and size. It was a good enough paper before, but scattered like a "Sentinel" editorial on Plato's address to the Apaches.—[Stock Report.

THE "Journal of Mental Science," London, says that "criminal responsibility is the psychological possibility of the efficaciousness of the penal code."

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 6 1882

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE Philadelphia Press, a very critical but well-informed paper, says that William E. Chandler promises to be one of the most closely watched men who ever went into the Navy Department. He has been associated the past few years with the plans and projects of John Roach, and the circumstance will make the new Secretary's connection with ship-building contracts a matter for close scrutiny. His political methods have given him a most inconvenient reputation for sharpness, and every move he makes in appointments of navy-yard patronage will be watched. Fortunately for Chandler's future and the public service, he has reached a stage in his political career where he is ambitious of higher things than a talent for making deals and the ability to bargain in politics. He has administrative ability of the first order, if not of the greatest breadth, and the opportunity to control the early steps in constructing our new navy, and to shape the policy of a great branch of the public defense, which he is to have, is one few men ever enjoy.

THE attempt to import the methods of the nihilists into New York proved a ludicrous failure. The explosive letters sent to Vanderbilt and Field would have done little harm had they reached their destination, as these wily financiers are too old to be caught with such devices. The most idiotic feature of the fiasco was the conduct of Postmaster Pearson, who jumped into a cab and in hot haste carried the news of the failure of the plot to the two millionaires. They cooled the ardor of this flunky by making light of the affair, and he probably returned without any reward for his trouble. It is to be hoped that the police may be able to get a clue to the socialists who are indulging in this practice, as nothing could be more dangerous than to let the Russian method of assassination get a foothold in this country.

ARIZONA dispatches are replete with accounts of the new Apache war now raging in the Territory. One account states that "at Fort Huachuca, on a direct line between the Dragoon Mountains, it is known that the Indians are in force in the Dragoons, and much apprehension is felt for the safety of the families at Huachuca. The families of Major Tupper, Captain Dove, Captain Haskell and four others are at Huachuca, with only a few men to guard the post. On the receipt of the above news Capt. Hurst sent couriers to the different army detachments, warning them of the danger. A large puplic meetiug was held here to-day to devise measures of protection. Several companies of volunteers will be in the field in a few days."

THE Pacific Coast League of Deliverance is the name of the anti-Chinese organization in San Francisco. It has been in session all week and seems to be approaching a solution, within the law, of the pagan curse on this coast. Members of the league are required to pledge their honor that they will neither buy nor sell to any person of Chinese birth or parentage; that they will not employ them, nor cause them to be employed by others in any capacity whatever; that they will not hold social intercourse with any person who in any manner employs, sells or buys from them, or rents or leases to, or has any dealings with Chinese.

THE Bishop Creek Times last Saturday closed its first six months and commences on Vol. II. Though the publishes state that the venture has been unsuccessful, from a financial standpoint, they feel confident that with some assistance the troubles and worriment of getting a country newspaper established will be overcome finally. Bishop Creek ought to stand in with the Times, and help it along until the advent of the railroad, when natural increase of business will enable it to take care of itself.

OF course a Territorial government is needed for Alaska. The population of that country, which is 99 per cent. Esquimaux, who live on blubber and seal, are dying for a constitutional government. A Governor, Secretary of State, and a full quota of courts ought immediately to be secured. This would help out immensely the needs of a few hungry office seekers in Washington who would go the North Pole if assured of a fat salary and a return ticket.

THE bill compelling railroads in the State of Texas to carry passengers at a uniform rate of three cents a mile passed the Legislature and was signed by Governor Roberts fifteen minutes after it was presented to him. It goes into operation ninety days after the close of the present session.

BREAD AND MEAT.

In Chicago, it is said, the price of meats has lately reached higher figures than ever before known, and with a continued upward tendency. In consequence of this, restaurant keepers are wrestling with the very serious question of advancing their charges for meats served to correspond. Some of them have already done so, and the rest must follow suit unless a drop comes soon. House-wives have become alarmed, not alone at the higher rates for butcher's meats, but, likewise, at the constantly increasing cost of food of all kinds. Some families, in the lower walks especially, are already compelled to forego meat entirely. People who considered themselves in fair living circumstances now find it a necessity to economise on every turn in order to keep even at all.

There appears to be no advance in prices of the mere luxuries, but only on the actual necessaries—meat, flour, meal, vegetables, etc. Such being the case, one would think the producers of these articles, the farmers, ought to be doing unusually well. But it does not seem that they are. We have another anamoly in this: The country generally is prospering, yet there are labor strikes everywhere. The cost of living is constantly increasing, yet employers are as constantly endeavoring to cut down the wages of labor—and laborers are as constantly confronted with the unpleasant problem of meeting increasing living expenses with decreasing wages.

It is hard to account for these anamolies. Some blame the Boards of Trade for manipulating the markets. That explanation would seem more plausible if conditions were reversed, and the market for bread and meat held at the lowest notch. Others, again, say it is because Congress does not revise the tariff. Our country does not import bread and meat, for obvious reasons, and luxuries and manufactured articles of trade are not held as the cause of the trouble, so we are yet in the dark.

The real explanation is covered in one word—Monopolies. But it would take a whole chapter to fully explain the explanation, and then it might not be made quite clear yet on every point, unless the whole thing can be made to rest primarily upon transportation monopolies. That may account for enhanced values of meat and flour in cities like Chicago and New York, the bulk of whose supplies of such having to be transported over hundreds and thousands of miles at rates subject to the absolute dictation of the merest handful of men who, in business matters, acknowledge no God but the almighty dollar. These monopolists can, in that way, hold the consumers as also the country producers at their mercy. To make matters worse, manufacturing interests of nearly every kind are day by day passing from the hands of individual operators, such as have been wont to add to the business life of every town and village, into the hands of the wealthy few in the larger cities, and the once independent individual operators scattered through the towns and villages find their occupations gone, and with this loss, their independence; they have naught to do but to crowd into the cities, and become dependents upon monopoly wages and control. And every day witnesses a disproportionate increase in the numbers of the employed to the employers and masters, consequently, every day adds difficulties in the way of the dependent masses in securing even bread and meat for themselves, and this, too, in a country capable of supplying the world with those very articles. The conditions are bad now, and likely to grow worse and worse as regards this contest between labor and capital—a problem for which, as yet, there appears to be no solution.

THE Chinese bill has passed both Houses, and now only awaits the President's signature to become a law. It is the same as the original bill in every essential particular, save that the period of restriction is now ten, instead of twenty years. Whether Arthur will sign it or not is a mooted question. The general feeling is that he can use his own pleasure in regard to it, since it is quite certain that there are votes enough assured to pass it over his head, should the latter prove as weak and out of level as on the former occasion.

THE value of a single ballot is shown in the case of Mr. Chapman, just elected Justice of the Peace in Jersey City. There was no other candidate for the place, apparently through some inadvertency, so he went into office on his own vote. He has a chance now to be a perfectly independent officer, to comply with the most exacting demands of his constituency and still satisfy himself perfectly.

GEORGE ROBINSON, a Past Grand Master of the Nevada Masons, died at Gold Hill last week. He was formerly a Commissioner of Washoe county in that State, and for several years in business in Washoe City.

NEWS of the President's action in the Chinese bill may be expected to-morrow.

IT is now several weeks since the Apaches went upon the war-path. In the meantime we have had news by way of Tucson that their course has been marked by fire, robbery and bloodshed. Altogether they have slain nearly a hundred people, while but two or three Indians are reported to have been killed. What are the troops doing? So far their operations seem to have amounted to little or nothing, and yet we hear of cavalry and infantry companies moving upon the enemy from different points. It is very strange that a mere handful of savages should carry death and destruction before them, in the midst of a country populated by whites and with military stations at convenient distances. The fact seems inexplicable. If this state of affairs continues, it would be well for the Government to withdraw its troops and call upon a half dozen regiments of volunteers to take the field. A class of hardy adventurers could be procured who would make short work of the Apache war.

THERE were many upon this side of the Atlantic who believed that Dr. Lamson was indeed innocent of the murder of his brother-in-law, and that the American doctor was about to fall an innocent victim to stern English justice. But one of the last acts of Dr. Lamson himself served to set this opinion forever at rest. His confession of the crime of which he was convicted is clear and explicit, having been reduced by himself to writing. It was an exceptionally cold-blooded transaction of which he was convicted. A sickly youth was treated by his sister's husband, acting as his physician, and unsuspicious of any criminal purpose swallowed the deadly drug prescribed by the doctor. The small patrimony that had descended to Herbert John must then become the inheritance of Mrs. Lamson. Such was the crime and its inducement.

AN Omaha dispatch of the 2d says the Third Regiment of Cavalry has been ordered by General Crook to proceed by rail immediately to Deming, N. M., to participate in the campaign against the hostile Apaches. The Fourth Infantry Regiment is under arms, and will follow in a day or two. Four companies of the Third Cavalry, at Cheyenne, two at Fort Steele, and one at Fort Sanders, will take the Union Pacific train to Denver to-morrow, and from there proceed by rail to their destination. Two companies from Fort McKenney and two companies from Fort Washakie will march to the railroad as soon as possible, and follow them in a few days. The Seventh Infantry at Fort Snelling, Minn., and the First Infantry, now in Texas, are also under orders to proceed to the scene of the Apache troubles.

ONE of the editors of the Chicago Tribune, in an editorial telegraphed to his paper, says, in regard to the Chinese bill which passed the Senate: The debate of the new bill in the Senate has been sufficiently astonishing. It may be said that not a single Northwestern Senator, except Cameron, of Wisconsin, has exhibited the least intelligence in regard to the bill or the sentiment of the country which they represent. Cameron has voted against degraded labor from first to last, and he deserves honor and credit for the position he has taken. The bill now goes to the House, and that body will hardly refuse to concur in the amendments, as they are all unimportant. This bill has passed by a vote of considerably more than two-thirds in both branches, and a second veto need not reasonably be anticipated.

FROM the report of the Committee of Mines and Mining of the House of Representatives, it is evident that those who have attempted to create a Bureau of Mines and Mining will not carry their point. Starting with the opinion that, practically, the Geological Survey is now a bureau of mines and mining, the committee asks that a resolution be passed to appropriate $50,000, to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior "for the examination of the geological structures, mineral resources, and products of the States and Territories, and the procuring of statistics relating thereto, and making chemical analyses of the iron, coal and oil found therein."

MR. John F. Slater, who recently gave $1,000,000 for educating negroes in the Southern States, is referred to by the Malden, (Mass.,) Era, as one of the hardest task masters and most exacting of employers that the factory hands of Massachusetts and Connecticut ever encountered. The workingmen say that they made the donation, while Slater gets the credit for it.

OHIO has no member of the Cabinet for the first time in twenty years. Iowa has none for the first time almost since the beginning of the war. So Iowa and Ohio are something like two orphans.

SUGAR cane cultivation has been developed larvely in Northern Utah recently, because the sirups which have been brought from the East are often inferior to the home product.

The Indian War.

Following is the sum of dispatches dated at Tucson, May 1st:

From Lieutenant Tupper, this morning, signed Perry: "Camp on the east side of the Animas mountains, April 28th, via Fort Bowie, 7:55 A. M.: Col. Perry to Wilcox: We jumped a large force of Indians at daybreak this morning, about 35 miles east of Cloverdale, killed twelve or fifteen, among them Loco's son, and captured seventy or seventy-five head of stock. The engagement lasted until 12 M. We were unable to drive them from a very strong natural position. The stock was cut out by the cavalry in the first charge and under fire. They withdrew quietly without loss or apparent encouragement to the hostiles. During the fight Loco endeavored to induce the scouts to turn against us. Our casualties were: M troop, one man killed and one wounded; G troop, one man wounded slightly and two horses killed. Lieut. Taney received a close call by a bullet through the lining of his coat. We did our best and all behaved handsomely. It appeared to be our last chance at the hostiles. It seemed somewhat desperate, as their force was at least four times greater than estimated by me. Miles and Darr, with their scouts, took up a position in the rocks above the hostiles during the night, while the rest of us endeavored to get into position in the valley near camp. We proceed with General Forsythe by his directions in further pursuit to-morrow."

There is great excitement in Tombstone over the report of Indian depredations. A special courier of the Epitaph from Helm's ranch, in the Dragoon mountains, eighteen miles from town, reports being fired on by Indians one mile from Helm's this morning. He killed one Indian and drove rapidly to town. He heard rapid firing at the ranch and supposed an attack was being made by Indians. Three men were at the ranch, named Helm, Schultz and Brown. It is feared in town that the men are murdered.

Several Indians appeared in the vicinity of Contention this evening, and fired several shots at Dr. Gerber, about one half mile from town. The Doctor returned the fire killing one Indian. He telegraphed to Tombstone for arms, ammunition and men.

THE Salt Lake Tribune says that some facts have come to light in Piute county which indicate that a new sect has sprung up in the Mormon Church. Last week a man named Morrell, who used to be pretty well off, was noticed by his neighbors hauling fence posts for so much a load, and when asked why he was working so hard, said that he had lost all of his property. Morrell is the victim of a Millerite sell perpetrated by Bishop John Young of Junction City. In September, Young was preaching at the meeting house, and said that if a few good people would dress in robes of shining white and go up on the East Mount they could see God in the flesh and talk with him. Furthermore, if they wished they could be translated to Heaven. About a dozen persons, men and women, gave up their property, put on their robes, and staid all night in the snow on the mountain. Next Sunday the Bishop told them that he supposed they were pure enough to meet God, but he had been deceived. He furthermore put it, on the ground that they had hidden their wickedness from him. He actually lectured them on their hypocrisy until, instead of breaking his neck for the heartless hoax, they humbled themselves in sackcloth and ashes.

THE members of the late Chinese Convention in San Francisco meant business, and if their plan of action is carried out the Chinese will disappear from California like chaff before the wind. It was decided to divide the coast into districts. Each district is to be notified to remove the Celestials beyond its borders. A failure to perform the duty will result in having the district characterized as "dangerous," and respectable citizens will be warned to leave it. This is what might be called business. It is taking the bull by the horns. Practice is always better than theory.

A YOUNG man at Elkhart, Ind., has started a six-column weekly paper with the avowed object of "restoring to the Republic its wonted grandeur and prosperity." You can't do it, young fellow, says Peck's Sun. We tried for six years to restore the Republic to its wonted grandeur by publishing the ablest paper in this county and taking turnips and slabwood on subscription, and we never had money enough to buy a dog; but of late years we have let the wonted grandeur of the Republic shirk for itself, and the first of January we had over six dollars.

SENATOR Mahone seems to be exceedingly "seldom" just now. He got his name up and is probably satisfied with himself. He is about as small a man physically as Alexander Stephens, but he does not come up to him in intellect. The Georgia Congressman is one of the most remarkable men of this generation.

THE Ogden Pilot says: There is one good thing that can be said about the Chinese: None of them are Mormons.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Last Monday evening the town was somewhat startled by the report that "Larry" Dugan was dead, which statement was generally disbelieved at first, because he had been about town all day looking unusually well and straight. Such was the case however. At an inquest held by Coroner Thompson on the following day the testimony taken was brief, and set forth simply that deceased arose from his supper at Levy's restaurant and went to the back door, where he sat down, and where he was found dead a few minutes afterwards. The jury rendered a verdict that the "cause of his death was alcoholism." The jury failed to particularly designate his name, age or nativity, but we may supply the omission by stating that the deceased's true name was Charles E. Dugal, a native of Greece and 53 years of age. He came to Inyo from Benicia as a private in Col. Sumner's regiment—Company B, 2d U. S. Cavalry. He had probably been a soldier for twenty years, and was discharged at Fort Lapway, Idaho. He leaves an aged widow and a daughter, Mrs. J. N. Rose.

RETURNED.—Quite a number of strangers and many old-timers arrived in town during the week. Amongst the rest were W. T. Grant, from the Calico region, of which he has had enough; Mr. A. Wingard, from San Francisco, who will operate the Green Monster and some Deep Spring properties, and intends to bring his family here; and T. F. A. Connelly is back from Gold Mountain. Several other parties prefer no newspaper mention of their return, and as the matter is all the same to us it shall go that way.

ABOUT A SPOT.—We read that there is a spot on the sun "covering a space of about 50,000 square miles." That is quite a large space as applied to terrestial areas, but it would be but the merest fly speck on old Sol's shining physiognomy, and it may be the space should read 50,000,000 square miles instead of 50,000. Anyway, this new spot is the largest since 1859. The question arises whether its effect will be to give us a summer cooler than common? It would seem so from the present cold weather.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—The Democratic County Central Committee convened at the Court House last Wednesday, pursuant to call. Quite a delegation of the unterrified old war-horses were present, including Chas. Meysan, David Olds, E. Robinson, J. W. P. Laird, J. H. Holt, J. A. Lank, S. P. Moffat, chairman, and J. E. Farker, secretary. The Committee unanimously elected Superior Judge John A. Hannah and County Clerk John Crough as Delegates to the Democratic State Convention, to be held at San Jose, June 20th, it being understood that both would attend "that gathering of the clans" in person. They were also fixed out with proper credentials authorizing them to act as representatives in the Democratic Convention for the nomination of a Congressional candidate for this District, and for a candidate for State Senator from this District. The Committee ordered primary elections to be held September 9th, 1882, to elect delegates to a County Nominating Convention, to be held at the Court House on Saturday, the 23d day of September. The Convention will consist of thirty-three delegates, appointed as follows; on the basis of one delegate for each precinct and one for each fifteen votes or fraction over cast at the last general election for the Hancock and English Electors: Fish Springs, 1; Independence, 5; Lone Pine, 3; Cerro Gordo, 1, Bishop Creek, 8; Round Valley, 3; George's Creek, 1 Big Pine, 4; Darwin, 3, and Panamint, Deep Springs, Lookout and Olancha one each. The polling places, Inspectors and Judges for the primaries were selected for all the precincts, which will be duly advertised.

MAY PARTY AND PICNIC.—The united public schools of Union (George's Creek), Milton (Camp Independence) and Independence school districts will hold a May party and picnic at Camp Independence, on Friday, 12th inst. The principal features of the occasion will be the May-pole dance, crowning of the May Queen, grace-hoop games, dancing, singing, etc. The May-pole dance will probably take place at 11 o'clock A. M. and 2 o'clock P. M. It will be a novel spectacle for this section. The May Queen will be crowned at about 12:30, and the tables spread immediately after. The fun will conclude with a grand ball in the evening at Independence. Parents and the public generally are invited to attend, and bring their baskets and have an old-fashioned May-day gathering and plenty of fun.

A MEXICAN KILLED.—The San Francisco Chronicle of a recent date, says: A Mexican boy, 16 years old, was killed by some Americans at Granite Wells, San Bernardino county, and that the Deputy Sheriff had gone there to enquire into the matter. Now, perhaps, this has reference to a little affair we gather by grapevine telegraph: A couple of our citizens missed three head of their mules, and followed them some distance in the direction of San Bernardino county and overtook them. The Mexicans made fight and there was some firing done. The parties recovered their mules. The boy killed was 26 years old and known in Lone Pine as a hard case.

A SKELETON FOUND.—During a late prospecting trip south of Old Coso, Chris. Crohn and Nat. Randall discovered the remains of a man lying in the rocks, or lava bed. A saddle, carefully placed away, and a carpet bag was found near the remains, in which were papers clearly establishing the deceased's identity. A discharge paper, dated 1866, and voucher for pay showed his name to have been Antonio Masia, a citizen lieutenant in the Mexican army. The party concluded that the man must have perished there for want of water, and at least ten years ago.

FROM NEW YORK.—Hon. Jos. Wasson arrived at Panamint from New York on the 3d instant. His intention is to thoroughly inspect and report upon that much reviled and immensely reviving district. Mr. Geo. M. Pinney will start from New York for the same destination next Monday. John H. Ely, accompanied by W. A. Chadsey, an expert in the employ of E. Reilly, of York, is visiting mines in the old Slate Range country.

OFF DUTY.—Postmaster and County Treasurer Hardy with his family, left this morning. Mr. Hardy goes for a short visit to his father's place at Downieville, while Mrs. H. will pay a visit to her father—ex-County Judge Matthews—at Leadville, Colorado. In the meanwhile Mr. John B. White has been installed as postmaster and clerk at the store.

BALL.—The ball to follow the May-day picnic proceedings will be held at Mairs' Hall; supper at the Blaney House. Splendid music has been engaged from Lone Pine. Tickets will be sold for the dance at $1, or for $2 50 per couple for those who wish to include the supper.

WILL WRITE.—Our readers may expect to hear from Wasson in our next.

EXTRAVAGANT statements continue to be made, by those who have not studied the question, that every dollar of gold or silver taken from the mines, has cost nine or ten dollars, while facts and figures readily show that the mining industry, even in its crude incipiency, has paid a better profit for time and money expended, than many other well established enterprises. It might be well to ask the source of all our currency and the mineral wealth of the world. Where did the money come from which was used to produce the gold and silver now in existence, if it costs ten dollars to produce one? The absurdity of such statements is readily apparent.—Chicago Mining Review.

A BOARD fifteen feet long and fifty-two inches wide has been produced by the Yellow Jacket mill in Tehama county.

THE House Commerce Committee is said to be committed to the Candler bill, which embodies the suggestions of Charles Francis Adams to the effect that the relief sought by the country will be found in a permanent Board of Railroad Commissioners, with power to advise, but without power to act. Such a bill is simply an insult to the intelligence of the country. Worse than that, it is a proposition to add to the already burdensome exactions of railroad corporations, a tax for maintaining a useless Board of Railroad Commissioners whose only function will be to draw from $5,000 to $10,000 a year each out of the National Treasury.—Eureka Leader.

Jefferson's Windmill.

An old timer says: Jefferson was not a practical man in many things. When he was in France he was very much struck with the utility of windmills. He thought they were wonderful institutions and cost so little to run. He owned a large body of timber on a mountain much higher than Montecello, about a mile off. He purchased in France a windmill and the machinery for a sawmill at a cost of $13,000, and had it taken to the top of his mountain. He had for a neighbor a bluff old fellow named Cole. One day Cole came to see him, and Jefferson took him up to where he was having the mill built. It was as much as they could do to climb the steep ascent. When Cole had recovered the breath he lost getting up the mountain, he said:

"Mr. Jefferson, you have a splendid sawmill, and it is a splendid place to catch the wind, but how are you going to get the logs up here to saw them?"

The author of the Declaration of Independence started like a man suddenly awakened from a delightful dream, and quickly said: "Hey, Cole, how? What?" and then relapsing into abstraction led the way down the mountain towards Monticello. The windmill was never completed, and years after the machinery was sold for old iron.

MALARIAL GERMS.—M. A. Laveran has found, in the blood of patients suffering from malarial poisoning, parasitic organizms, very definite in form and most remarkable in character; motionless, cylindrical curved bodies, transparent sperical forms provided with filaments in rapid movements, which he believes to be animalcules; and spherical or irregular bodies, which appearad to be the "cadaveric" stage of these, all marked with pigment granules. He also detected peculiar conditions in the blood itself. During the year that has passed since he first discovered these elements, M. Laveran has examined the blood in 192 patients affected with various symptoms of malarial disease, and has found the organisms in 180 of them, and he has convinced himself by numerous and repeated observations that they are not found in the blood of persons suffering from diseases that are not of malarial origin. In general, the parasitic blood was found in the blood only at certain times, a little before and at the moment of the accession of the fever, and they rapidly disappeaaed under the influence of a quinine treatment. The addition of a minute quantity of a dilute solution of sulphate of quinine to a drop of blood sufficed to destroy the organisms. M. Laveran believes that the absence of the organisms in most of the cases (only 12 in the whole 192) in which he failed to find them was due to the patients having undergone a course of treatment with quinine.

DR. HOLMES, the well-known dentist, has just returned from a two weeks' visit to Coloma, California, his old-time mining camp. Coloma is the spot where gold was first discovered in California, but its glory as a place of mines has long since departed. It is now a place of orchards and vineyards. Although surrounded by snowy mountains, snow seldom falls in Coloma. There grow the fig and the almond tree, and there flowers bloom every month in the year. The people live in vine-embowered cottages, till their gardens, train their vines, prune their trees and are happy, giving no thought to underground wealth that lies deeper than a hill of potatoes. The only miners now seen about Coloma are Chinese. Under the orchards and gardens is still a considerable amount of ground that the pick has never disturbed. The Chinese occasionally get upon leads of gravel that run into these, and the high prices they are willing to pay for a small strip off a garden or orchard shows that they find the ground productive. One man has year after year disposed of slices of his orchard, and only the other day sold for $800 the ground on which stood four apple trees.—[Virginia Enterprise.

THE Northern Pacific has now built through Oregon into Idaho, and nearly 300 miles west of Bismarck, leaving a gap of 600 miles to complete the road. The company has used up $20,000,000 and called another $1,000,000 from its subscribers, and unless a panic can be precipitated by artificial means during the present spring, this railroad—which was the point that yielded and made the panic in 1875—will be a reality between the two oceans.

AFTER expending several thousand dollars in experimenting on the one-track railroad in Tulare county, the enterprise has been abandoned. The track and rolling stock were sold under attachment, and the engine will be used in hoisting coal from a mine near Huron.

A DEAD Chinaman was recently found stuck fast in one of the Sacramento water mains. A peculiar taste had been detected in the drinking water, but consumers attributed it to an extra supply of slickens.

THE necessary expenditnres of the Government last year were $260,000,000. The estimated ordinary expenditures for the current fiscal year are $270,000,000. The Federal taxation this year will exceed $400,000,000.

FOOD ADULTERATION BEFORE CONGRESS.

Believing that the obtaining of pure food is of general and vital interest to everybody—man, woman and child, and particularly the latter, I send you the subjoined extracts from the American Bee Journal, which will explain themselves:

Our readers will rejoice with us in the fact that Congress is at last engaged in a work of reformation regarding food adulterations, and that a bill has been introduced having for its object the taxation of glucose and oleomargarine to such an extent as to greatly restrict their manufacture. The bill, after reference to the committee on ways and means, was by them submitted to Hon. Green B. Raum, Commissioner of Internal Revenue. His communication to the Secretary of the Treasury, accompanying the bill, will be found below, and will be read with deep interest, while his manly and undisguised condemnation of the glucose and oleomargarine traffic will command the admiration alike of all honest producers, consumers and dealers.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, Feb. 14, 1882.

Hon. Chas. J. Folger, Sec'y Treas'y—Sir:—I have received, by reference from the honorable Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, H. R. 920, being a bill to amend section 3328 of the revised statutes of the United States, in relation to tax on native wines; H. R. 142, being a bill to tax the manufacture of oleomargarine, and H. R. 3170, being a bill to tax and regulate the manufacture and sale of glucose, with a request that I furnish the Committee with the views of this office upon the merits of these respective bills.

The adulteration of food and drink is an evil which State and municipal laws and regulations appear unable to prevent under our multiform system of government, and it seems that if the people are to be protected against the frauds of manufacturers, who palm off wines charged artificially with carbonic acid gas as genuine champagne; prepared tallow, lard, or grease as genuine butter; and glucose produced from cornstarch by the use of sulphuric acid, and soda ash, flavored with a small percentage of Louisiana molasses as the best of golden sirup, it will be necessary for Congress, in the exercise of its undoubted power of taxation, to make provision that these spurious and adulterated articles shall be sold upon the market for what they really are, and shall not be palmed off on a trusting public for what they are not, to the great enrichment of those engaged in their manufacture. Oleomargarine and glucose are manufactured almost exclusively for purposes of fraud and adulteration. It is safe to say that few householders would buy for their own consumption butter which which they knew to be composed, wholly or in part, of oleomargarine; sirup which they knew to be nine-tenths glucose, and champagne which they knew to be spurious.

It is by deception only that such articles are sold, and it seems to me that Congress will perform a most acceptable service to the people of this country by passing the bill in question substantially as introduced. In connection with this subject the subjoined extracts from an article in Appleton's Annual Encyclopedia, for 1879, are deemed of interest. I enclose herewith the bills referred to me, suggesting some slight amendments thereto.

Very Respectfully,
GREEN B. RAUM, Com'r.

GLUCOSE.

The adulteration of sirups with glucose is a practice which has recently spread alarmingly. The extensive use of glucose, or the grape sugar of commerce, is held to be the main origin of Bright's disease of the kidneys, and the cause of the present prevalence of that fatal malady. The importations of glucose increased tenfold between 1875 and 1877, and at the same time extensive factories were established for its manufacture in the Western States. The article sold as grape sugar is manufactured by boiling cornstarch with sulphuric acid (oil of vitriol) and mixing the product with lime. A portion of the sulphuric acid and sometimes copperas, sulphate of lime, and other noxious principles remain in the glucose. In the analysis of seventeen samples of table sirups by Dr. Kedsie fifteen were found to be made of glucose, one of them containing 141 grains of oil of vitriol and 724 grains of lime to the gallon, and one from a lot which sickened a whole family contained 72 grains of vitriol, 28 of sulphate of iron (copperas) and 363 of lime to the gallon. The cheap sugars sold in Michigan are stated on the same authority to be adulterated with poisonous substances. Analyses of the sugar sold in New York reveal the presence, not only of glucose with its inherent poisons, but of muriate of tin, a formidable poison, which is employed in the bleaching process. Mr. Fuller, a retired importer of sugar, called the attention of the United States Board of Trade, in their meeting held in New York in November, 1878, to the dangerous adulterations practised with sugar, honey and molasses. Glucose is largely used to adulterate maple sugar, candies, jellies, honey and other sweet foods.

OLEOMARGARINE,

Which is now extensively manufactured from animal fat as a substitute for butter, is dreaded as a vehicle for infecting the human system with trichinæ and other internal parasites. The fat is not subjected to a higher temperature than 120° F. John Michels, a New York chemist, states that the refuse fat of one pork packing establishment is to his knowledge sent to the artificial butter factories, and Prof. Church found in oleomargarine horse fat, fat from bones, and waste fat, such as is ordinarily used in making candles.—American Bee Journal, Vol. XVIII, No. 10.

Dr. Nichols, in his lecture on sweets, delivered before the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture at Bridgewater, brought out some facts which are probably not generally known by the public at large. The sirups, sold in our stores, he said, are doubtless all made up of mixtures, in which glucose or grape sugar, made from western corn plays a prominent part. As from ten to twenty-five per cent. of grape sugar can be mixed with cane sugar, and seventy-five per cent of corn sirup can be added to sugar-house sirup without being detected by the taste, it is not to be wondered at that glucose is largely used in this age of adulteration.

It is undoubtedly true, as the Farmer says, that much of our glucose finds a ready sale in New Orleans and Cuba, where it is mixed with sugars and sirups and sent back to the North and West and sold as a pure cane product; and why this is done is because the deception would not be complete without the expensive transportation and southern brand.

A late number of the Chicago West End Advocate, says: "Recently, three prominent citizens of Atlanta, Ga., died of paralysis, caused by the ingredients used to adulterate fancy brands of sugars and sirups." It is insidiously working mischief all the time. If bee-keepers, or dairymen, or any other class of producers were alone the sufferers there would not be so much cause for alarm; but when a whole nation, supposed to be composed of intelligent, thinking, charitable people, can supinely and inertly allow dishonesty and fraud, in the guise of food adulterations, to usurp the channels of honest trade, poisoning our whole people and imposing upon foreign confidence, it is time to examine the crimidal code of foreign governments to find a remedy. We are almost persuaded that semi-barbarous China has taken a step in advance of the United States in civilization in making death the penalty of food adulteration. Here, if one person kills another with firearms or other violent means, it is "murder," but if whole communities are slowly poisoned with adulterated food, it is a matter of "business." Then, if a whole people be slowly poisoned or diseased, it is as much a crime and punishable as if a single victim suffers a speedy and comparatively happy death.—A. B. J., Vol. XIII, No. 4.

Heretofore we have felt tolerably safe in the selection of our table sugars, as the coffee A and granulated grades were regarded as quite pure, owing to the supposed impracticability of granulating the glucose products; but all this security has been removed by the reference made by Dr. Kellogg in the Michigan State Bee-Keeper's Convention, to the feasibility of granulating glucose as perfectly as cane sugar can be done, and which is confirmed (if confirmation was required) by the following startling publication in the Chicago Tribune, giving the meager details of a discovery to remove from us our only dependence in sugars and their purity.

After giving an account of the discovery by Dr. William Robinson, of Chicago, which is too lengthy to be repeated here, but in which it is, however, stated, that the product is only half as sweet as cane sugar, the editor continues: Thus it will be seen an almost illimitable field is opened up for the production of inferior sweets indistinguishable from the wholesome and genuine article, except as our sense of taste may prefer the better and reject the poorer. Without the intervention of legislative action on the part of Congress a sample of genuine cane sugar will become as rare in our grocery stores and on our breakfast tables as Guinea gold now is in the jewelers? As regards the detection of the inferior or artificial article by chemical means it is wholly impracticable, as every infallible means so far published requires an expert, and much experience and comparison to arrive at a correct and definite conclusion.—A. B. J., Vol. XVIII, No. 5.

The above I think, Mr. Editor, will suffice to show to what an extent the public health is endangered by the use of various sweets, for whose purity no guarantee is given. I dare say, that in this State no bee-keeper would think of adulterating honey for the simple reason that the cost of glucose, freight, handling and fancy packages would amount to more than the cost of producing and marketing pure honey. But in Eastern cities an immense amount of glucose is put up for the trade and shipped all over the country. The glucose, having no flavor of its own, is flavored with a very little honey, and when put up in glass a small piece of comb-honey is immersed in the liquid to completely pull the wool over the eyes of credulous customers. The package is then labelled "Orange Blossomed Honey," or some other fancy brand, and off it goes to seek whom it may devour; for whoever eats much of this abominable stuff will surely be devoured by the poisons contained in it. The fault lies largely with the public itself, which has a foolish prejudice against candied honey, caused no doubt by the unpleasant appearance of this article as formerly offered for sale by bee-hunters and careless farmers in contrast to the neat and cleanly way in which it is now handled and put up by those who make a specialty of the business. To pamper to the public preference for liquid honey a means was sought which would always keep the honey liquid. Glucose was the remedy. See the result: glucose became the principal, sickness and death the interest.

Mr. Charles Dadant, a prominent French bee-keeper in Illinois, says that in France not a pound of liquid honey can be sold in the stores, because the public know that candied honey is pure, while a suspicion always rests on the liquid. The American people is gradually becoming conversant with this fact. Although the honey from a few flowers, such as the white sage from California, is slow to granulate—the bulk of the honey product will do so on the first approach of cold weather in the Fall. Melting the candied honey in a water bath will return it to its liquid state, but it by no means prevents it from candying again when subjected to a sufficiently low temperature. The only guarantee the public has of the purity of honey is to buy it in the producers original packages. The producer who labels his goods with his name and address is responsible for the contents and must be willing to guarantee their purity. But after the article has been handled by other parties and transferred from the original package the guarantee of the producer is lost, and the purchaser takes his own risk for what he buys. WM. MUTH-RASMUSSEN.

A Proposed Mineral Exposition.

For the information of those Californians who are interested in mines and mining, we will state that a grand mineral exposition will be opened at Denver, Colorado, in August, and continue to the end of October. A company has been formed, under the laws of the State, with a capital of $200,000, to carry the enterprise to a successful conclusion. The details, as given, are to the effect that a main building will be erected, five hundred feet long and three hundred and sixteen feet wide, with large galleries and spacious windows, designed after the National Museum at Washington. It is to be constructed of stone, brick, iron and glass, and the estimated cost is $135,000. There will be on expedition specimens of all mineral products of this country, and especially the royal minerals, gold and silver, in connection with the machinery used in extracting and milling the ores, in such manner that visitors may secure at a glance an idea of the vast mineral resources of the continent. The project contemplates the collection of ores and specimens from every mine in the United States, and California will doubtless be expected to contribute her full quota to the display.—Call.

THE people of Georgia are determined Alex. H. Stephens shall have no respite from public service so long as he survives. For years the condition of the gentleman's health has been so precarious that he has himself hardly dared to hope for life from the end of one Congressional term to another; but his intellect flames up so brightly that his friends are willing to believe he will be spared for years of public usefulness to come, and they insist that he shall be their next candidate for Governor. He declines, yet it looks as if they would not let him off.

The question of an electric railway for Berlin is being considered. The railway would run from the west to the east of the city, and would establish direct communication with the metropolitan railway. It is to be constructed overhead, and supported on high columns. The trains are to lower themselves on arriving at each station to the level of the street for the passengers to get out and enter, and will then again be elevated to the level of the line overhead, all this being accomplished by power supplied by means of electricity.

New and Old.

Not only is the interest in the development of our mineral resources showing remarkable activity in new districts and territories, but the old mining camps of California and other States, where mining has been slumberingly prosecuted at intervals for years, are now stirring again with the excitement of new discoveries, and rich developments in old mines, as energetic work again opens up the treasures that have been so long waiting to reward determined energy and persistent activity. The continued productiveness of the old mines is one of the surest tokens of the reliable permanence of mining as a productive industry. The reputation of mining for precious metals must rest largely upon the substantial character and continued productiveness of mines, which have been tested by the investigations and thorough proof of years of patient and skillful development.

The best mines of the country are the oldest mines, which is a most encouraging indication to those who are toiling in the opening mines of the territories, in the endeavor to place them in the list of productive and profitable enterprises. This fact also proves that our new mines must have time to grow by the slow hand of development into the full statute of productiveness before they are condemned, because they do not bear fruit when it is time to look only for green leaves and blossoms.—Mining Review.

Dr. Mary Walker and Guiteau.

A Washington correspondent of the Boston Post says that Dr. Mary Walker recently made her way into Guiteau's cell under the kindly skirts of a Catholic priest. The interview that followed must have been worth seeing and hearing. Mary Walker and Guiteau act on each other like two currents of the same kind of electricity. They are both positive poles, and their combined egotism is probably greater than that of any other two beings on the planet. The first proposition that the Doctor made to Guiteau was an insult. She asked for $300 for her influence to free him. She told him he ought not to be confined in a dungeon, and that she could set him free. The impudence of the woman set him on fire. The idea that any human being should assume to be able to accomplish what he could not, was maddening to him. It enraged him that any one should try to secure part of his wealth. He shrieked out an order that she be removed at once. He cried out: "Take this thing away, fools ain't all dead yet." The woman egotist had to go out before the wrath of the man egotist.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, MAY 13.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

A FIENDISH AND BLOODY DEED.

It would be hard to conceive of a more devilish and wanton crime than the assassination in Phoenix Park, Dublin, on Saturday evening, of Lord Frederick Cavendish, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Thomas Burke, Under Secretary. Secretary Cavendish had been but a few hours in office. He came to Ireland as a messenger of peace from the British Government upon the heels of the release of the Irish popular leaders and the abandonment by Gladstone of the policy of force and repression. While Lord Cavendish— this gentleman innocent of any wrong done Ireland—was strolling with Mr. Burke in Dublin's famous public park, they were set upon by four bloody villains and stabbed to death. Parnell and Davitt may well say that their country seems to be attended by an evil destiny. While all the world is shocked at the dreadful crime of Saturday, Ireland has not only cause to share in the universal horror, but has peculiar reason on her own account to curse the murderous ruffians who have, at the moment of her rejoicing over the dawning of a brighter day for unhappy Ireland, disgraced its soil by a deed of blood, so cruel and dastardly as to horrify the civilized world. No wonder that Parnell and Davitt and every friend of their race and country are bowed down with grief and discouragement.

MONO county papers are discussing generally the question of who is to be the nominees of the respective parties for joint Assemblyman, or rather as to whether Inyo or Mono shall have the doubtful honor of placing the candidates in the field. The Bridgeport Chronicle and the Bodie Miner concede the nominations to this County as a political right under the unwritten law of rotation, but the Free Press expresses the idea that since Inyo at the last election, when it was her turn to name the Assembly candidates, forced the nomination of Mr. Wasson on the Republican side, it waived prestige, or something to that effect. Wm. Irwin, the prominent and popular Superintendent of the Standard, is put forward on the Democratic side, while there is little doubt but some willing Barkis can be found in the Republican ranks. While this County has the undoubted right to make the nominations this time, we have so far heard of no one willing to accept the thankless and costly job.

THE President having signed the bill restricting Chinese immigration for ten years, the great agony is over. Arthur has done wisely well. Whatever may be the thousand comments suggested in regard to his action in the matter, as it now stands, this finality of the movement is one upon which the people of this Coast and working Americans generally should congratulate themselves most sincerely. In the main, it has averted trouble of the most serious nature, and leaves the interests of this Coast to be opened up by Eastern capital and a white population.

SCOVILLE has impoverished himself by trying to save the neck of his brother-in-law, the assassin of President Garfield, and all that he has received in return from this ungrateful wretch has been the grossest sort of personal abuse. Now his wife, the assassin's sister, has turned against him and is about to sue for a divorce. He declares that she is insane. Her whole conduct since her brother's crime brought her before the public has indicated mental unsoundness.

THE fifteenth section of the Chinese bill effects no important change in the existing law upon the subject of naturalization, the construction of the statute having been moulded on a case reported in favor of the admission of Chinese to citizenship. In regard to section fifteen the words "Chinese labor," which were used in the treaty, have been construed to mean both skilled and unskilled labor.

THE sad news from Siberia that the bodies of Captain De Long of the Jeannette and his men have been found will not surprise the country. It but confirms the belief that even the most hopeful have been compelled to hold for months past. There is not a shadow of hope that Lieutenant Chipp and his party have escaped the fate which befell the brave De Long and his followers.

THE Bodie Evening Miner makes its appearance as a candidate for public newspaper favors. Its publishers are Messrs. J. J. Curry, formerly of the Homer Index, and Orlando E. Jones, formerly of about a thousand or more papers. It is substantially Democratic, spicy and got up editorially in Dan Jones' inimitable style. May it live long and prosper.

SHIRKING THEIR DUTY.

"At the regular quarterly session of the Board of Supervisors this week, the members thereof refuse to take action in accordance with law in regard to the matter of County printing, as the law says that the Board shall advertise for sealed proposals. Besides, Chairman Meysan and Supervisors Olds promised the publishers of this paper that they would bring the matter up before the Board and comply with the law.

"When he returned from Independence, Supervisor Olds informed us that the subject of County printing was discussed, but 'the Board concluded to let THE INDEPENDENT do the printing for the rest of the year.' This is very indefinite, for just when the 'rest of the year' will terminate, we are unable to learn.

"The last contract for County printing expired on the 4th of last October, and the Supervisors have shirked their duty and evaded the law by their failure to advertise for bids and award the contract to the lowest bidder. They seem to ignore the fact that there are two newspapers published in this County, and that the Times is the representative of the most populous portion of the County.

"The majority of the taxpayers and voters of Inyo County reside in and around Bishop, and it is but fair that their rights should be considered in this matter. If the members of the Board of Supervisors above referred to see fit to evade their duty, regardless of justice and right, and the wishes of their constituents, they had better retire to private life when their respective terms of office expire, for it will be impossible for them to be re-elected."

We quote the foregoing from the issue of the Bishop Creek Times of last week, in order to give its proprietors the fullest benefit of their say on the subject. Few comments are necessary on the part of THE INDEPENDENT, and the matter would not be noticed except for the reflection implied upon two members of the Board.

The fact is, Mr. Meysan did "bring the matter up," and brought out all the facts relative to the business. It was found that the Code [Title I, Chapter II, Article II, Section 4047] provides simply that the Board of Supervisors shall have the power to contract for the County printing, books, stationery, etc.; to advertise for proposals and to let contracts therefor to the lowest bidder. This statutory provision simply delegates such power to the Board, and is not mandatory. In the County Government Act, such proceeding said shall, as the Times states, but the Supreme Court annulled that and left the general law in force as before. The only "contract" ever entered into by the proprietors of THE INDEPENDENT was under the provisions of said act. In that arrangment, when there was no other printing concern of any description in the country, we made a voluntary reduction of twenty per cent. on all previous charges. Since then the work has been continued on the same basis. As the Times office has not a vestige of material for doing job work or book binding, and as the Board failed to find a shadow of a fault with the work done or the charges made by this office through twelve years of business—and no "opposition"—we opine that our readers and the people generally will not conclude to "retire" the present Board on account the Times' whine. But, except for their heavy interests as Inyo County property owners, we do not suppose they would care a continental who constituted the Board of Supervisors.

THE Atlantic and Pacific Railroad from the east is now within less than two hundred and fifty miles of the Colorado River: and the road to connect from Mojave is out some thirty miles, so that a little over two hundred more miles of construction will bring it to the river, and in junction with the road coming from the East. The connection will be made in a few months, and then the overland railroad situation will require revision again. It is believed that the Northern and Middle States business will go over the A. and P., while all the Southern States and Gulf business will go over the S. P. and its connections.

To the love of the ordinary Congressmen for an old-fashioned circus may be attributed the passage of the anti-Chinese bill. Nearly all the Congressmen who opposed the bill visited the circus during the afternoon of Wednesday, and when they returned found, too late, that the bill had been passed. It is an ill will that blows nowhere, and the wind that blew Jumbo and the circus into Washington was a good thing for the people of the Pacific Coast.

THE annual return of "Decoration Day," May 30th, is soon at hand. Is the old Camp Independence Cemetery, where lie the remains of departed soldier and citizen heroes, to be neglected this year as heretofore by a non-observance of the National holiday?

THE city of Racine, Wisconsin, was visited by a very devastating fire. The first reports gave the losses at $13,000,000; but there is reason to believe that this estimate is greatly exaggerated. It burnt nine blocks in the heart of the city.

IT is reported that there are 80,000 Chinese in Hongkong awaiting shipment to San Francisco.

The Railroad Situation.

Col. Chalmers Scott has again put in an appearance at Los Angeles, and the quidnuncs with open-mouthed (ora sotunda) expectancy are awaiting a revelation. He may be a walking encyclopedia of railroad information, but, as yet, "nobody don't know nothing" about it. He is a great strategist. He made a feint against the Boston crowd a short time since, when he ran a line from Yuma to Port Isabel. In a little while the Southern Pacific bought an interest in the Atlantic & Pacific, and started a branch road eastward from Mojave toward the Needles. The next strategic movement has been to run a line from Tucson to Port Lobos on the Gulf of California. In the meantime, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Company are gradually closing the gap that gives them a through line to Guaymas, and the Tucson Star of Thursday says that an effort is being made to secure a line from that city northward to Calabasas. If this line is constructed it will render the road to Port Lobos practically worthless, save as a carrier to the mines in the Gunsight country. Here we pause for further information. The reporter of this paper attempted to interview Col. Scott, but he was as noncommittal as a sphinx. There is some sort of "bushwhacking" going on between the railroad magnates, but just what it is, no one will know, until it is announced that the California company has gained some substantial advantage.—Los Angeles Express.

Bishop Creek Items.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

Munzinger, Phillippay & Co. are sinking a well on the artesian plan at their brewery. After attaining a depth of about forty feet, the pipe bursted in such manner as to necessitate the abandoning of the hole and the starting of a new one.

James P. Cummins—who resided for a number of years near Lone Pine, and at present conducting a ranch near Pioche, Nevada– is in Bishop purchasing horses to drive to Eastern Nevada. He meets many old friends here.

C. L. Van Epps, M. H. White, J. Springsted and Frank White departed for the Laura Mill, Saline Valley, on the 3d. They expect to have the mill running in about six weeks.

That our town is brightening up is evident from the number of new advertisements which appeared in the Times the last two weeks.

Under Sheriff Stevens is said to be a candidate for County Assessor. He is very popular among the voters of this county.

Mrs. J. H. Stoutenborough left for San Francisco, on the 2d, to visit her parents, who are quite ill at that place.

C. & C. RAILROAD ELECTION.—The annual meeting of the Carson & Colorado Railroad Company was held at Mound House Station Monday, at noon. The following Directors were elected for the ensuing year: S. P. Smith, H. M. Yerington, D. L. Bliss, B. C. Whitman, W. D. Tobey, H. L. Ticknor and D. A. Bender. The Board afterwards elected H. M. Yerington, President; D. L. Bliss, vice-President; S. P. Smith, Treasurer; D. A. Bender, Secretary and E. B. Yerington, Assistant Secretary. The following are the officials of the company: H. M. Yerington, General Superintendent; Robert J. Laws, Assistant Superintendent; James Oliver, Chief Engineer; D. A. Bender, General Freight and Passenger Agent; C. E. Laughton, Auditor and Paymaster; W. R. King, Train Dispatcher; A. M. Ardery, Superintendent of Telegraph; W. B. Bullions, Roadmaster.—Bodie Free Press.

THE geological fiend of the Carson Appeal makes the following statement: "A new boiling spring has broken out at Steamboat Springs. The water, at intervals of about two hours, spurts from the ground to a height of several feet. The increased celerity of the springs is probably owing to the great amount of snow that fell in the mountains last Winter and the consequent abundance and heavy pressure of water in the rock strata connecting with the springs. The water flows down the granite slopes of the east wall of the Sierras, beneath the overlaying beds of lava and sedimentary material, till at last it reaches the seat of that underground combustion which produces the springs."

FRED BIRDSALL, formerly President of the Lyon Mill & Mining Company, Dayton, is building a narrow-gauge railroad from Brack's Landing, San Joaquin County, Cal., to the Big Trees, Calaveras County, a distance of seventy miles. This road will be principally engaged in the lumber and grain carrying trade. John Scott, Superintendent of the Lyon Mill & Mining Company, who has been in the employ of Mr. Birdsall for the past thirteen years, will be the General Freight and Passenger Agent of the road.—Virginia Chronicle.

T. S. HARRIS, the plucky, indefatigable editor of the Santa Ana Standard, came up to the city last evening. Santa Ana is one of the finest towns in the State, and the Standard is doing good work for it.

MR. and Mrs. Victor Beaudry and their three children arrived in San Francisco from Montreal on Thursday, and after a week's rest in the former city they will come to Los Angeles to occupy their beautiful residence.—Los Angeles Express.

THE railroad company have paid in $5,890 96, being all the special school tax and sixty per cent of the regular school tax for the years of 1880–81 and 1881–82, the understanding being that in case the corporation wins the tax suits, the amount shall be a donation, but if the county wins, the amount paid shall be applied as part payment of the taxes.—Kern Co. Gazette.

THE nickel ore that is being extracted from the mine at Lovelock's station, near Reno, is to be shipped to San Francisco for reduction. Two car-loads are now ready. Ten car-loads are to be sent for working, and if the test is satisfactory a large quantity of this ore will be reduced.

A Severe Disaster—The "Bessie Brady' Burned.

The well-known steamer Bessie Brady, which was launched on Owens Lake in the Summer of 1872, caught fire and was totally destroyed at about 5:30 o'clock on last Wednesday evening, the 11th instant. A year or more ago the former principal owner, M. W. Belshaw removed her machinery, since which time she has been lying idle at the Lone Pine Landing, until purchased by the Owens Lake M. & M. Company. Capt. J. M. Keeler, the company's Superintendent, has of late had in immediate charge the work of refitting the steamer, to which was being transferred the engine and machinery of the Mollie Stevens. The vessel had been thoroughly overhauled, caulked, cemented and coated with coal tar paint. From Capt. Keeler's letter, which recounts all the details known of the burning, there is hardly a question but that the accident can only be explained upon the theory of spontaneous combustion—the combined oakum, oil, paint and tar being ignited by the steady heat of the sun's rays. The Captain says: "The boat was sound, and I had spared no pains to put her in nice trim; really, I was proud of her, as being just what we needed. But she has been launched in fire and not in water." Another account says that all of the company employes, who slept 'atween decks, lost such personal property as coin, watches, clothing, blankets, guns, etc. It seems that but one man had been at work directly at the boat during the afternoon after Capt. Keeler left it at 2 o'clock, and when the flames broke out this workman was some distance away while going for more material.

The Bessie Brady was the pioneer inland steamer of the Pacific Coast, being—as was claimed and undisputed at the time—the first one run on interior waters for strictly commercial purposes. The vessel was built originally for Jas. Brady and D. H. Ferguson, and cost about $10,000. For years she transported thousands of tons of bullion and freight all around the lake, and was just being refitted for similar service. Her length of keel over all was 85 feet; breadth of beam 16 feet, and depth of hold 6 feet; practical carrying capacity 100 tons, exclusive of the barges in tow.

The disaster is most unfortunate, as interfering with the operations of the Keeler mill and the Cottonwood flume, and throwing a large number of men out of employment.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—A select entertainment, under the capable direction of Mrs. Emma M. Willis, will be given at the school house in this place next Thursday evening, the 18th, by "Our Little Folks," assisted by the juvenile local talent of Independence. The programme will include some really fine music, vocal and instrumental, recitations, etc. Our Lone Pine neighbors will receive a treat of the same kind on the evening of the 20th. Children are invited, free of charge, but an admission fee will be asked of adults. An evening spent at such an entertainment is worth a thousand of the exhibitions of traveling troupes—such as many visit this country—and while the cost will never be missed the object in view is worthy in the highest degree.

D—— THE RATS!—The ghost of Horace Greeley could have obtained a contract to propound some professional profanity in this office, last Thursday evening, when it was found that some infernal rodents had destroyed the printing press roller. As it were, no amateur could do the subject justice—we gave it up, at least. The result was that Friday's especial work—that of getting out this highly moral and religious journal—was lost, so far as type-setting was concerned.

NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. J. V. Baker and Mr. Barnes, who have been prospecting in Beveridge for some time past, have discovered a fine ledge of gold quartz three feet in width, with croppings 300 feet in length. Average samples of the rock have been tested at the Independence Assay Office, which shows bright free gold, with a value of from $40 to $70 per ton. Mr. Baker and partner start for Beveridge to-day to commence prospecting their claim.

GRAPHITE.—Charley McEvoy has presented the Independence Mineral Cabinet with a fine specimen of graphite or plumbago, from the Beveridge District, where a vein of this mineral has been found. Mr. Woodhull pronounces the specimens to be 98 per cent. carbon. It has a brilliant metallic lustre, and a rich steel gray color, and looks like bright galena, except that it has a foliated structure.

BEVERIDGE.—The Taylor & McEvoy Mill has been running steadily for the past two months on Keynot ore with the usual good results. At present the mill is only running daytimes, as some dead work is being done in the mine, and only five tons of ore are being extracted per day. About twenty men are at work in the mine, which will soon be in shape to turn out enough ore to keep the mill running on full time.

THE FUN YESTERDAY.—A big crowd of delighted participants "took in" the grand union school picnic exercises yesterday, and a fine galaxy of "youth and beauty," from all parts of the valley, attended the most enjoyable party in the evening. Something of a detailed report of the festive proceedings, giving honor and credit where it is due, etc., will be attempted in our next issue.

RELIGIOUS.—The Rev. G. B. Hinkle, Presiding Elder of the Southern District, Nevada M. E. Conference, will hold quarterly meetings at Bishop Creek on Saturday and Sunday; May 27th and 28th. Services on Saturday evening, and on Sunday at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M.

Round Valley Letter.

Nothing of interest, worth relating, transpires in this quiet vale. Farmers, of course, are busy—plowing, seeding etc. Early Spring has been quite blustry, but just now we are having warm, growing weather. Fears are entertained of a fruit crop failure this season; wind and frost have played havoc, still there may be a "ghost of a chance" for some fruit yet. We have no reason to believe but what the grain crops will be as good as usual—abundance of snow in the mountains, which insures sufficient water for irrigation.

The Evans family have returned, much improved in health and strength, after a stay of nearly a year and a half at Los Angeles.

A "CRITIC" BROKE LOOSE

In your last issue we notice that your Bishop correspondent makes a charge, and, like a bull calf in a crockery shop, tries to play smash with the "performers" of the Round Valley school exhibition. Pity he didn't have larger game to shoot at—objects more worthy of the lance than a lot of school children! Thus he snarls: "Not more than three of the performers acquitted themselves with any degree of credit, and to particularize those would be invidious. The result being an incongruous conglomeration."

That's flippant! This would-be critic should be boxed up and shipped immediately to 'Frisco, where his discriminating wit could be profitably employed. Pard! seek broader fields for action. For you to be confined to a rural district, pelting little school children is rather small business for a man of your capacity. The facts, Mr. Editor, are as follows:

The young folks of this valley concluded, some time ago, to make an effort to raise a sum of money for the purchase of more books for the school library. In order to accomplish this they determined to give an entertainment the last day of Mr. Hagerman's school term—something, they thought, more varied and interesting than the hitherto school exhibitions. The excellent object they had in view of obtaining a fine lot of books incited most all the young people to action, and the result was a mammoth programme, sufficient for the evening's entertainment.

The following ladies and gents took part in the drama of "Borrowing Trouble," "Love by Proxy" and other pieces: Mrs. Badger, Ettie Horton, Lillie Olds, May Sherwin, Mary Swan, Mollie and Lottie Jones. Mrs. Horton rendered material assistance; also, A. B. Hagerman, Orson and Willie Vaughn, Oacar Hilton, Con. Hoffman and Charley Swan.

Considering that they were all amateurs, and also were acting under disadvantages, the room uncomfortably crowded, not hardly elbow room on the stage, with some considerable baby music interspersed, and no scenic paraphernalia they did remarkably well, and our earnest congratulations are due them, the remorseless would-be critic's opinion to the contrary. The other participants were school children—not less than 32, children and others—taking part. With few exceptions all these did well; some of them, considering their age, surpassing anything we ever heard before. This does not fully accord with Buffalo Bull's report, who tells you that "not more than three acquitted themselves with any degree of credit, and those would be invidious." Small percentage— three out of thirty-two—"and those would be invidious." What a remorseless critic, this literary Warwick—thus demolishing the ambition of our bright, promising little boys and fair, young damsels! Judge, you may "go" for the big fellows' scalp—Vaughn, Hagerman and others—who are sufficiently able to stand you off; would probably be pleased to give you a racket any time; but, sir, spare the little ones—no slaughtering of the innocents, if you please. Deal gently with the young. If you cannot extend to them a kind, encouraging word, after doing their "level best" to entertain an audience you could easily keep silent. Burn your quill rather than snub and sneer at our "young hopefuls" through the medium of a newspaper.

PARENT.

A SCENE.—Last Saturday evening, about the witching hour of hash, in plain view of the immense throng populating our busy streets, there occurred a curious little circus in which figured a gray horse, our worthy Under Sheriff, a well-known mining man and—a bar of bullion. It must have been funny, to all except the parties interested. It seems that, armed with a writ of attachment, Under Sheriff Stevens started out to capture a certain bar of bullion. Meeting his man coming to town on horseback, he presumed him to be in possession of the coveted metal, and accompanied him back to town. On the route, however, the officer could not exactly discover the fact or locate the whereabouts of the property. When they passed together in the livery stable, the Under Sheriff dismounted, the mining man turned his horse and set out on a gallop for the express office. The officer started for the same point after his man on foot. He made about 200 yards in something less than five seconds, getting there just an instant too late. Now Supt. J. H. Holt proposes to bet that his gray horse, with H. T. Walker as a rider, can beat Sher. Stevens on foot from Mair's stable to Harris & Rhine's, for a bar of bullion—expenses to be paid by the loser and gate-money to the winner.

FARM MACHINERY.—Attention is called to the advertisement of Mr. J. H. Smith, the Inyo agent of the noted Osborne harvesting machinery. Our farmers will do well to thoroughly investigate the merits of his machines before ordering others.

FORWARDING.—Mr. W. C. Wilson, at Mohave, has undertaken the necessary work of receiving and forwarding freight to Inyo, thereby compensating somewhat for the absence of the regular old freighting company. See his advertisement this week,

Big Pine Letter.

BIG PINE, May 4, 1882.

The public school picnic, which took place at Mrs. Bell's grove, was a decided success, although considerable inconvenience was experienced on account of the wind. The May pole exercises showed good judgment, but the wind spoilt the effect of the red, white and blue streamers. The May Queen was crowned with a beautiful crown of white and green at the hands of Mr. Walter Ober. That young gentleman distinguished himself as a rhetorician in a well-written and appropriate address. The May Queen, Miss Emma McMurry, responded with a lengthy speech in a manner that elicited well-merited applause. The Queen and her two maids were daintily and tastily attired in white, and the little group of royal personages formed a pleasing picture. The exercises closed with string music.

LUNCH.

This is a subject we do not like to write about, for it makes us wish that glorious hour would last till yet. Boxes, baskets, bottles could be counted by dozens, (excepting bottles). We all did justice to the feast, and then enough remained to feed a regiment of starved soldiers.

MISSING.

Considerable alarm was caused by the sudden disappearance of "Wade." This time he was found absorbed in entertaining a young lady from Bishop Creek. Is there a charm in a red jacket? Wade never slights the ladies.

DANCING.

The grounds were vacated in time to prepare for the dance at McMurry's Hotel. A large and lively crowd were in attendance. Many who were not at the picnic came to the dance. "Then flew the hours away"—another gorgeous feast—then live music and dancing till morning, and who says we didn't have a good time? Not I. These are occasions of the true sort.

THE SCHOOL.

We enjoyed the opportunity of visiting the Big Pine School a few days ago. There is a wonderful improvement since Mr. Hampton took the school. He seems to have the perfect confidence and respect of his pupils, which speaks very well for his mode of discipline and management.

H. B. A.

A DEPLORABLE AFFAIR.—Luther Olds, a brother of Supervisor David Olds, on the night of Tuesday last, the 9th inst., came to the end of his earthly career in a manner sad as it is almost unaccountable. He had been at Bishop and Fish Springs, lately, purchasing a band of horses. On the night named he left the town about 8 o'clock in the evening to go to Robt. Love's place, near the Bishop Creek crossing of Owen's River. He was alone in a light spring wagon, drawn by a pair of fine, spirited horses. Intoxicated as he was, the team passed Love's place, all the bridges and across the river to a point where the Benton road divides in two courses, one of which leads along the McNally irrigating ditch. On the morning following a teamster passing down found the deceased and his horses lying in the ditch—all drowned. He reported the fact as soon as possible; messages were sent to his brother at Round Valley, and the local authorities hastened to the scene. Olds was found with one of his feet so lodged in below the dead animals as to render his extrication impossible without first removing one of the horses. The vehicle was lying upon its side, in the shallow water, and the horses in their struggle had turned about and probably struck and stunned the unfortunate man. The inquest held subsequently by Justice Brooks substantially shows the foregoing facts so far as they could be ascertained. Luther Olds was 54 years of age last September, a native of New York. He was a resident of Carson Valley, near Genoa, where his wife and two or three children reside.

ON THE MOUNTAINS.—Mr. P. A. Chalfant is off across the Inyo's; will probably visit the Keynot and Laura properties, and other older ones this side of the summit, and also spy out some wagon road propositions.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has fired a ponderous proclamation at the Arizona cowboys. It will doubtless do them lots of good.

"LOVE'S PARADISE."

TO ——.

There is a place of golden light
Where the king of day eternal shines;
Where the sward of nature dissolves the night
And waves its wand o'er its emerald shrine.

Where the willows green in gladness sing;
Where the merry brooklets in bounding joy,
Submissive bow to the ethereal king,
Who is throned sublime in majesty.

Where the sphere of love o'erbounds all space,
And the blushing morn gilds its spacious main;
Where golden bands bind love's plighted faith
And guard it strong from insufferable pain.

Where the joyful ear drinks with silent joy
The melodious tones of aeolian strings;
And love-dittied airs sung by virgins coy,
That would spread love-madness amongst sceptred kings.

Such is the heavenly land which my dreams
Have carried me to in their winged flight;
But, alas! on descending to the earthly frame
My soul is oppressed at its unbeauteous sight.

ANTI-CHINESE IN CALIFORNIA.

Some of the Ins and Outs of the Situation—Hypocrisy and Humbug gone to Seed—The Railroad Bread and Butter Brigade.

SNOOZERS GULCH, May 17th.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:—In view of the bill pending before Congress and the President, to serve as a wall against China for ten years, Snoozers Gulch has risen to a man (there not even being a Chinawoman in 40 miles) like old Van Winkle. The great question is, should the bill become a law, how in h— are all the old Snoozers throughout the State going to get their little old clothes washed and grub cooked? Is our own single cook and bottle-washer to go and leave us in the lurch? I expect there is some reason for anti-Chinese sentiment and demonstration in San Francisco, where there are plenty of native-born boys and girls needing, but not too willing, to work; yet even there, in nine families out of ten, the housework has been and is being done so long as there is a heathen Chinee to be had. The same facts exist to a great extent throughout the State—honest grangers, miners and all hands having menial labor to perform, pleading as guilty as Stanford & Co. to the charge of encouraging emigration from China and fostering the like cheap labor when once here. Stanford & Co., with Government to back them, built the Central Pacific and its tributaries by aid of slave labor, and out of the enormous earnings of said corporation built the Southern Pacific, all the while increasing instead of decreasing the demand for Chinese slave labor, even starting a line of steamers of their own to China—with one or two exceptions the Press of the State is owned or influenced (out of all influence) by said firm. Both the leading parties, soul, body and breeches, are held in the iron hand of Stanford & Co. as firmly as the horses, mules, asses, etc., on the stock farms of the ex-Governor and railroad king. Not a single member in either house of Congress from this State, and probably from all the Pacific States and Territories, but is a willing tool of the big company. It is now given out that Page and W. W. Stow are "at the outs," but it remains to be seen. Bill Stow is Stanford's agent and caterer for the political circus and menagerie on wheels. It is now on the eve of exhibiting around the State, previous to the Fall election, the result of which will be a successor as to Jim Farley in the U. S. Senate. Jeems was an old-time Calaveras poker-player, getting into politics by riding on the brakes of Stanford's cattle cars until the boss concluded to give him a conductorship. Wm. Irwin stopped with the Governorship at Sacramento while Farley worked across to Washington. Page drove a jerk-water stage in El Dorado, and by dint of push and cheek worked his way up from switch-tender to stoker for Stanford & Co. He got lots of Government aid for the so-called "Oakland Harbor Improvement," which means the special improvement of the railroad property, the city of Oakland having given away her entire water front for the privilege of hearing Stanford's steam whistles call the voters together as occasions required. Pacheco is at Washington, a sort of dog under Page's stage-coach and on the look-out for the locomotive when the bell rings in front of the pay-car. Senator Miller, a millionaire, and as one million dollars is blood relation of fifty millions, it is easy to locate his sympathy with the workingman until after his successorship is disposed of. Rosecrans, a military hero with a record so delicate that he flies all to pieces like a joint-snake if the slightest newspaper reference is made to it of late days. Like all the rest of the delegation he is red-hot against John Chinaman, before the ink is hardly dry on the joint letter with Col. Hollister to Hayes, requesting the latter to veto the 15-passenger bill. We have looming up another military hero who is over anxious to piece out his record with some political experience. Stoneman, whose case of piles were so bad in Arizona at a time the Apaches were scarcely worse, that Government had to supercede him with an officer of less rank, and then retire him as of no further use, has improved his physical condition so rapidly that he was soon able to ride in Stanford's cushioned seats at Stanford's expense, at the same time drawing a big salary from the State, besides half pay from the U. S. Government. Barnum ought to have him—to draw along with Jumbo the elephant. Yes, this anti-Chinese howl is a big thing—a tearful subject. The head and front of the offending, Stanford & Co., are studiously overlooked, and the Six Companies are "stood off" by one. The leading newspaper press of the State, with one exception, of all creeds and conditions, are all howling anti-Chinese, but at the same time play the part of wiper for Stanford's engines. The Bulletin-Call concern do the finer polishing; the Record-Union, at Sacramento, is a regular wiper for all parts of the machinery, and doubtless does private jobs for the boss not mentioned in print. The Examiner, the creature and tool of all sorts of corporations and anti-Chinese until you can't rest, and so on through the list of public men and journals. The old blanket Alta—door-mat for everything mercenary and rotten. The Chinese counsel and attorney for the Six Companies—one "Col." Bee—graduated from said office. The Alta out-howls Kearney, whom it tried to have mobbed a short time since. Down with the Chinese, but up with fares and freights. The railroad advertisement is a panacea for all the ills the body-politic is heir to in California and while the "Chinese must go." The Gulch is on the qui vive, and at next anti-Chinese meeting some resolutions may be passed, when you will next hear from ANDY JOHN.

IN an interview with a St. Louis reporter concerning her late husband Mrs. Jesse James said: "Sometimes when reading the accounts of himself I have heard him laugh. He never seemed unhappy or worried, but was cheerful and happy." It is certainly very gratifying to the journalistic profession generally to learn that the recent Mr. James did not allow their criticisms concerning train robbery and murdering to warp his genial nature or dim his sunny smile. Mr. James, according to the calculations of two ministers who presided at his funeral, went straight to Heaven, and he had a $500 coffin. How many of the heartless editors who tried so hard to wound his feelings will be able to show a record like this?

MR. STEPHENS likes to tell of his visit to an uncle in Pennsylvania. Says he: "When my uncle stood up and was carving the chicken, Aunt Betsy asked: 'Alex, what business are you in?' 'I am a lawyer!' I replied. The uplifted knife fell from my uncle's hand, and he exclaimed in amazement: 'A lawyer! a lawyer!' 'Yes, a lawyer, uncle. Why?' 'Why, Alex, don't you have to tell lies?' I put in my defense of the profession as best I could, which somewhat satisfied my uncle's mind; but when I first said I was a lawyer, there was a look of astonishment on his face, much the same as if I had proclaimed myself a barglar. He could never really reconcile the profession of a lawyer with his strict presbyterianism."

THE Bodie Free Press says that Mr. Jesse Pearson, an old, well-known and prominent citizen of Aurora, Na., is on trial for stage robbery, and that the sympathies of the people of Bodie go out to him in his sad predicament. Jessie made it lively for the Bodie saloons when he was on the road, and kept the fourteen Bodie undertakers in a fever of expectant rivalry for the corpses he was expected to produce.

A Japanese idol of the first class will sell in London for $15,000. But of course the Japs won't sell 'em. So the museum sent out a missionary to convert the Japs to Christianity, and then they have no further use for the idol and give it to the missionary, and he sends it home and makes a good thing out of it.

LONDON workmen are leveling one of the last fragments of the Roman wall in that city. The mortar was so hard and strong that they with difficulty broke it up. This wall was built long before the Norman conquest, and its splendid strength after 1,000 years may be cited for the benefit of our "master" builders.

The Boston Tourist.

The Boston excursionists, who visited the city last Tuesday, were about the ugliest, stingiest, set we ever saw. It is stated that the whole party of 144 persons did not spend ten dollars in the town. The entire necessary expense of the party was embraced in the price each member paid for his ticket, which included hotel bills and carriages, all of which is paid for by the managers of the excursion. One of the party assured a merchant of this city that his own party embracing himself, wife and two daughters, had not spent to exceed two dollars since leaving Boston, the trip through Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico having occupied about three weeks. Another paid for a glass of lemonade at the hotel bar and carried half of it up stairs to his wife. A third gentleman was glad to avail himself of the kindness of one of the residents of the city to show him around town and across the river and then grumbled at paying him ten cents for a newspaper. The wife of a fourth berated her husband for extravagance because he paid a bootblack to give his boots a shine. Boston people, we have heard, are noted for their big feet and big intellects; and if this party is to be taken as a fair sample, little souls and ugly faces might be added to their notable characteristics. Any little Mexican village of five hundred population can turn out more pretty faces to a fandango than were to be seen in this party. We hope the next may be an improvement upon this one.—El Paso Lone Star.

LORD FREDERICK CHARLES CAVENDISH was the second surviving son of the seventh Duke of Devonshire. He was born at Compton Place, Sussex, the seat of the Cavendish family, November 30, 1836. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and was private secretary to Lord Granville from 1858 to 1864, while the latter was President of the Council. In June, 1864, he was married to Lucy Caroline, second daughter of Lord Littleton. He was a liberal in politics, and since 1865 he represented the Northwest Riding, of Yorkshire, in Parliament. Since the formation of the Gladstone Ministry he has been financial secretary to the Treasury. All the sons of the Duke of Devonshire are members of the British Parliament. The Duke has been in the House of Lords since 1834. His heir, the Marquis of Hartington, has been in the House of Commons most of the time since 1857, and a few years ago he was the leader of the Liberals during the temporary retirement of Gladstone. Lord Edward Cavendish, third son of the Duke, has been in the Commons most of the time since 1865.

FRANCE is a nation of rural proprietors. There are 5,000,000, of whom at least 4,000,000 actually cultivate the soil. Some of these owners also rent land other than their own, and M. de Lagergne estimates that more than 852,000 peasant owners are also tenants. One case is cited in which one farm of 50 acres was rented from 19 different proprietors. While this sub-division of land property secures the most thorough cultivation, it also somewhat increases the burdens which land has to bear, for the general expenses of inheritance, subdivision, transfer and leasing are high in proportion to the value of the property conveyed. The average amount of land owned by 3,000,000 of the rural proprietors is less than two and one-half acres apiece.

How to prevent the adulteration of food is engrossing the attention of the Massachusetts Legislature. A committee has reported a long bill designed to preserve the purity of both food and drugs, giving a broad definition to the term adulteration, and putting ample powers into the hands of the State Board of Health. That body is to make all necessary inquiries, fix the limits of "permissible variation" from the standard, and establish regulations for examining articles, in order to determine their quality. A quiet investigation is in progress in San Francisco: Edwin Booth, the well-known chemist, having been employed to analyze certain food materials offered for sale in the local market.

OF the twelve Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Bishop Bowman is believed to be fatally ill, Bishop Peck is too sick to work, Bishop Foss is laid up with a sprained ankle, Bishop Merrill is able to do only half work, Bishop Scott is on account of age and consequent infirmity, entirely incapacitated from labor, and Bishop Harris is out of the country on an Episcopal tour to South America and Africa. This throws the work that was expected to be done by the twelve upon the six of the Bishops.

THE case of the Tichborne claimant is not, it appears, dead yet. His friends are now engaged in an effort to raise $10,000 to pay the expenses of Charles Orton to New South Wales and return, in the belief that he will be able to identify his brother Arthur in an Englishman confined in the lunatic asylum at Paramath. The pertinacity of these people is remarkable, but as success means the acquirement of a large sum of money, it is perhaps not to be wondered at.

A GOOD deal of money is now being consumed in hunting for disabled Arctic search expeditions. One of the most foolhardy of explorers is Leigh Smith, who went yachting for the North Pole, and is supposed to be in the ice off the Siberian Coast. He had no special qualifications for the work, but probably undertook it as much for a spirit of adventure as from any other motive. Now Sir Allen Young has fitted out a steamer to go in search of a yachtman.

A Narrow Escape.

Thanks to the masterly strategy of the United States troops in Arizona, whereby the Indians were driven into a position where the Mexican troops could fight them, the salons of this city and its vicinity will not be denuded of gilt buttons and bullion cord, and the blue and scarlet will still remain undimmed by the wind and sun of the desolate south. No troops will be snatched from their snug cottages at the Presidio or their warm barracks at Benicia, and delighted National Guardsmen and awe-struck simple citizens will still see in the light-battery drill on the Presidio grass how fields are won and hostile Indians are driven over the border. It was a narrow escape. Purchases were being made, traps were being packed up, and the neglected bank clerk and the snubbed wholesale whisky-dealer already smiled as they thought of a social field free from the all-conquering but odious shoulder straps, when the news of the Mexican victory came, and Sherman, at the Palace, closed his telescope with a snap and said: "Let the whole line take a rest." Hence there is joy on Nob Hill, gnashing of teeth on Front street, and white-winged peace broods over "the Presidio and the forts in the harbor."—S. F. Stock Report.

DEWEY & Co.'s SCIENTIFIC PRESS patent Agency has official reports of the following U. S. patents, issued April 25, 1882: L. W. Andrews, Live Oak, Cal., steam engine governor; Wilfred L. Brown, Mare Island, Cal., camera attachment; Jesse H. Burks, Los Angeles, Cal., car brake; J. H. Burrows, Boise City, I. T., nut lock; Henry Castebolt, S. F., underground cable railway; A. A. Fisher and A. Hart, S. F., sewing machine attachment; C. I. Hull, S. F., steam boiler furnace; Robert Ross, Santa Rosa, Cal., two wheeled vehicle; Wm. Schroeder, S. F., imitation of marquetry by painting; Robert Skinner, S. F., artificial tiles; David W. Smith, Port Townsend, W. T., safe; Charles F. Youngberg, Salt Lake City, U. T., folding bedstead.

Whether nickel exists in paying quantities in Nevada will soon be demonstrated. Two car-loads of nickel ore were recently shipped East from a mine in Humboldt County, Nevada. If this thing is a success San Francisco may be able to control the yield and make the "nickel" a home production.

IN Trinity County there is a formation known as "false bed rock" and when struck with a pick magnetic particles fly up directly against the miner's forehead, causing concussion of the brain. It is a sort of geological ignus fatuus.
